Vol XIV

Sept 1902 to Sept 25, 1903.
MARK TWAIN'S

PERFORATED INTERLEAVED

SCRAP BOOK.

PATENT NUMBER 477,040

DIRECTIONS.

Use but little moisture, and only on gummed lines. Press the scrap on without wetting it. After filling the gummed pages, remove the interleaving leaf at the perforated line, allowing the short stub to remain, which will keep the book of uniform thickness.

DANIEL SLOTE & COMPANY.

NEW YORK.
<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>M</th>
<th>N</th>
</tr> </thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>NO</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>PQ</td>
<td></td>
</tr> </tbody>
</table>
Sketch of One of Yale's Celebrities, Head of Department of Zoology.

When Yale University opens for the fall term, Professor Addison Emory Verrill will begin his thirty-ninth year as head of the department of zoology. Professor Verrill was born in Greenwood, Me., February 9, 1839, graduated from Harvard in 1861 and was conferred the degree of a.m. upon him in 1867. A face and personality suggestive of Mark Twain and a keen sense of humor in marked contrast to the serious character of his studies make Professor Verrill most interesting to and popular with those students who enter his department. His has been a career of great activity, which is finding its climax in the important work for Yale which he is doing in relation to the Bermudas.

Professor Verrill has made valuable investigations in relation to the invertebrate of the entire Atlantic and Pacific coasts of North America, and especially of the deep sea fauna; he has written over 250 papers on zoological subjects. Regarding the Bermudas he has already contributed the following papers to the Transactions of the Connecticut Academy. Vol. XI.: "Additions to the Fauna of Bermuda;" "Notes on the Coral of the Genus Acropora;" "Variations and Nomenclature of Bermudian, West Indian and Brazilian Reef Corals;" "Comparisons of Bermudian, West Indian and Brazilian Coral Faunae;" "Report on the Bermuda Islands, Part I-General Description; Part II-Phylography, including Meteorology and Productions; Part III-Changes in the Flora and Fauna Due to Man; Including the Discovery and Early History, Slavery, Population, Botany, etc. Part IV-Geology; Part V-Zoology" (not yet printed).

From 1857 to 1870 Professor Verrill was a member of the faculty at the University of Wisconsin. From 1870 to 1894 he did excellent work as instructor in geology at Sheffield Scientific School. Since 1865 he has been a member of the National Academy of Sciences and he acted as assistant in the scientific explorations made by the United States fish commission from 1871 to 1888.

The summer home of the Verrill family is Outer Island, the outermost of the 290 Thimbles near Stony Creek. Thirteen years ago the professor built here a picturesque cottage, where he combines pleasure and work, and some important discoveries in color photography. Clarence E. Verrill, the youngest son, was born here February 9, 1877. He is a fellow who boards at a good boarding house and who "sticks his feet under the governor's mahogany" is far better off than he who has to support a family and is expected to pay the bills. In some parts of the country where natural gas is plentiful it is used for heating house furnaces and making steam, but the price of the manufactured fuel in this city will not warrant its consumption for any such purpose. It is among the probabilities that the New Englanders, like the Esquimaux, may be compelled to sleep in furs and eat whale blubber to keep warm this winter. According to the price, coal may now be called black diamonds.

John D. Rockefeller has given $500,000 to the Teachers' college of Columbia university. The gift is to go into the endowment fund of the institution, and Mr. Rockefeller does not dictate how the money is to be spent. It is the largest single gift he has made to any educational institution aside from Chicago university, and is contingent on the payment of all outstanding debts of the college, $190,000, and the raising of $250,000 for endowment from other sources.

When the gift was announced by Dean Russell at the meeting of the board of CASE-STONE.

Wedding in New Hartford of Bookkeeper in Norwich Bank.

(Special to The Courant.)

New Hartford, Sept. 17.

Lucy Bertha Stone, daughter of Mrs. Mary Seymour Stone, and James Luther Case, head bookkeeper in the Dime Savings Bank of Norwich, were married here to-day at the Congregational Church. Frederick H. Cranston of Norwich was best man and the maid of honor was Miss Harriet A. Stone. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Hall Brown Palmer of Norwich, and Elmer Rutherford Jacobs of New York. Miss Dorothy Louise Jones was flower girl. Miss Harriet May Friable of Norwich sang before and after the ceremony and Miss Edith M. Bacroft was organist.

E. F. G.
WALKER-PECK—At Fishers Island, September 17, 1902, by Rev. Beverly Warner of New Orleans, formerly of Chicago, Miss Anne Wright Peck, daughter of Mrs. William H. Peck, formerly of Hartford, Connecticut, and Albert H. Walker of New York, daughter of the late William H. Peck of this city, and was given away by her mother, Mrs. Frank Matthiessen of Chicago, a sister of the bride, was matron of honor. The best man was Philip Peck, a brother, and the ushers were: Dr. John E. Walker of New York, a brother of the bridegroom; Ira Peck, Hartford, brother of the bride; Frank Matthiessen, Chicago; Herbert J. Lyall and Alfred C. Jobling, New York. After the ceremony an informal reception was held at the summer cottage of Mrs. Matthiessen.

One of the prettiest of the many September weddings was that last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Tucker at 23 North Street, when their daughter, Miss Emily Scott Tucker, was united in marriage with Frederic Goodwin, both are well known in musical circles in the city, the groom being a member of the Springfield male quartet and choir director of the Second Congregational Church in Westfield, while the bride was formerly organist of a church in Hartford. She also has a reputation as a talented teacher of decorative art. The rooms of the spacious house were richly decorated for the wedding, and were separated from each other by a large parlor, which was simply treated, the bay window being concealed with laurel, from which fell a horseshoe of pinks.

The bridal party, consisting of the bride and groom, walked down the middle aisle to meet the ushers and bridesmaids, who took places in a semicircle about the party. While the ceremony was being performed, Organist Kellogg played softly Lecarre's "Prelude to Don Giovanni," changing to the "Prelude to Lohengrin," from Wagner, as the bridal party entered the church at 7:30. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary limner of Newburyport, Miss Lena Thayer of Holyoke, Miss Anna Kellogg of this city, and Albert H. Walker, brother of the bride. The bride and groom, with their father, followed in the procession. They were followed by the ushers, the bridesmaids and the bride, supported on the arm of her father, forming a half-circle as the ceremony was performed. As Rev. Bradley Gilman, the officiating clergyman, entered the parsonage, Organist Harry T. Bennett of the Second Congregational church of Westfield played softly Rameherger's "The stars are shining in heaven, breaking into the Mendelssohn wedding march as the bridal party came into the room. The single-ring ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. Gilman, Miss Helen Fuller Clarke, a friend of the bride and a soloist in a New York church, then sang two selections, "The song that my heart's a singing," by C. B. Hawley, and "Because I love you," by Dr. Bennett, then played "The bride's song" from Janssen.

The wedding of Miss Edith Gibbs of this City and Mr. Cockrell Carroll of Vandergrift, Pa., was celebrated at First Congregational Church, on September 19, 1902. One of the important Springfield society weddings took place in the First church at last evening, when Miss Edith, daughter of Mrs. Kate C. Gibbs, was married to Mr. Cockrell Carroll, whose home has been in Baltimore, Md., but who is now in the employ of the United States steel company and located at Vandergrift, Pa. There was a suggestion of rain in the air, following the showers of the day, but no more rain came until the wedding party and guests had left the church. The decorations for the occasion at the church were simple. A large bank of palms concealed the pulpit and organ left, and the front of the gallery was draped in laurel. The auditorium was well filled with guests, who were entertained by Organist Harry H. Kellogg, who played the "Intermezzo" by Mascagni, changing to the "Predile to Lohengrin," from Wagner, as the bridal party entered the church at 7:30.

The bridesmaids and ushers entered by the doors on either side of the pulpit and passed down the middle aisle to meet the bride, who was accompanied by her brother, Ralph B. Gibbs, who gave her away, and the maid of honor, Miss Grace Carroll, sister of the groom. The organist, who performed the ceremony, had, in the meantime, taken his place below the pulpit, and the groom, with his brother, Albert H. Carroll, entered from the right side of the pulpit, met the bride as she came up the aisle, preceded by the ushers and bridesmaids, who took places in a semicircle about the party. While the ceremony was being performed Organist Kellogg played softly Lecarre's "Rondell," and the organist sang church Wagner's "Overture to Tannhaeuser" and Volkman's "Serenade." The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Plumer of Newburyport, Miss Anna Holden, Miss Rebecca Carr and Miss Helen Graves, all of this city, and the ushers David A. Reed, Frank W. James and Thomas S. Schults of Potsburg, Pa., W. H. Moore of New York city, H. W. Waggaman of Washington, D.C., and John M. Bogland of Baltimore, Md. The gifts to the former were carried to the later stock-pins. The bride wore a pretty gown of white embroidered chiffon over white silk and carried white roses. The maid of honor wore white moonlight yellow silk and the bridesmaids white tucked muslin over white, with yellow sashes and lace collars. They carried California poppies.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, SEPT. 18, 1902.

TUCKER-GOODWIN WEDDING.

Pretty Ceremony at the Bride's Home on North Street.

One of the prettiest of the many September weddings was that last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Tucker at 23 North street, when their daughter, Miss Emily Scott Tucker, was united in marriage with Frederic Goodwin, both are well known in musical circles in the city, the groom being a member of the Springfield male quartet and choir director of the Second Congregational Church in Westfield, while the bride was formerly organist of a church in Hartford. She also has a reputation as a talented teacher of decorative art. The rooms of the spacious house were richly decorated for the wedding, and were separated from each other by a large parlor, which was simply treated, the bay window being concealed with laurel, from which fell a horseshoe of pinks. The mantel bore a heavy bank of pink and white dalias, while over the entrance of the parlor demanta was twined. The sitting-room was decorated almost entirely with goldenrod, relieved by a few purple asters. The studio was treated with laurel and wild flowers, and the dining-room was entirely in red asters and laurel. The large piazza was inclosed and used as a smoking and lounging room. This room was arranged with ferns, laurel and wild flowers.

The wedding party descended the stairs at 7:30, the groom and his best man leading the procession. They were followed by the ushers, the bridesmaids and the bride, supported on the arm of her father, forming a half-circle as the ceremony was performed. As Rev. Bradley Gilman, the officiating clergyman, entered the parsonage, Organist Harry T. Bennett of the Second Congregational church of Westfield played softly Rameherger's "The stars are shining in heaven, breaking into the Mendelssohn wedding march as the bridal party came into the room. The single-ring ceremony was impressively performed by Rev. Gilman, Miss Helen Fuller Clarke, a friend of the bride and a soloist in a New York church, then sang two selections, "The song that my heart's a singing," by C. B. Hawley, and "Because I love you," by Dr. Bennett, then played "The bride's song" from Janssen.

The wedding of Miss Edith Gibbs of this City and Mr. Cockrell Carroll of Vandergrift, Pa., was celebrated at First Congregational Church, on September 19, 1902. One of the important Springfield society weddings took place in the First church at last evening, when Miss Edith, daughter of Mrs. Kate C. Gibbs, was married to Mr. Cockrell Carroll, whose home has been in Baltimore, Md., but who is now in the employ of the United States steel company and located at Vandergrift, Pa. There was a suggestion of rain in the air, following the showers of the day, but no more rain came until the wedding party and guests had left the church. The decorations for the occasion at the church were simple. A large bank of palms concealed the pulpit and organ left, and the front of the gallery was draped in laurel. The auditorium was well filled with guests, who were entertained by Organist Harry H. Kellogg, who played the "Intermezzo" by Mascagni, changing to the "Predile to Lohengrin," from Wagner, as the bridal party entered the church at 7:30. The bridesmaids and ushers entered by the doors on either side of the pulpit and passed down the middle aisle to meet the bride, who was accompanied by her brother, Ralph B. Gibbs, who gave her away, and the maid of honor, Miss Grace Carroll, sister of the groom. The organist, who performed the ceremony, had, in the meantime, taken his place below the pulpit, and the groom, with his brother, Albert H. Carroll, entered from the right side of the pulpit, met the bride as she came up the aisle, preceded by the ushers and bridesmaids, who took places in a semicircle about the party. While the ceremony was being performed Organist Kellogg played softly Lecarre's "Rondell," and the organist sang church Wagner's "Overture to Tannhaeuser" and Volkman's "Serenade." The bridesmaids were Miss Mary Plumer of Newburyport, Miss Anna Holden, Miss Rebecca Carr and Miss Helen Graves, all of this city, and the ushers David A. Reed, Frank W. James and Thomas S. Schults of Potsburg, Pa., W. H. Moore of New York city, H. W. Waggaman of Washington, D.C., and John M. Bogland of Baltimore, Md. The gifts to the former were carried to the later stock-pins. The bride wore a pretty gown of white embroidered chiffon over white silk and carried white roses. The maid of honor wore white moonlight yellow silk and the bridesmaids white tucked muslin over white, with yellow sashes and lace collars. They carried California poppies.

The Republican.
The party left the church for the home of the bride, 56 Mulberry street, reaching there at 6:30. The house was prettily decorated for the "small reception" which followed. In each room there was a profusion of asparagus ferns of laurel heightened with sprays of roses; the stair-landings were quite hidden with sprays of laurel. At the rear of the house a refreshment-room was fitted up and a choice menu was served from a long table. Barr catering. The Philharmonic orchestra furnished music during the short pause, and also for the dancing which was enjoyed late in the evening. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Carroll left for New York, and will sail to-morrow for a long sea in the British trip abroad, after which they will be at home at Vandergrift, Pa.

The bride is a well-known young woman, popular in Springfield society. She has lived here all her life, and is the daughter of the late Howard A. Gibbs. The groom was prominent as a Princeton college student. He has been a member of the Exeter Society, Lebanon. They were married at the Madeleine after the definite announcement of the engagement. Soon after their marriage Mr. Hunt purchased the farm where he now lives and erected a commodious and for that time modern residence. From early life Mr. Hunt has been possessed of marked musical tendencies and the flute, violin and cornet are instruments which he has played with proficiency nearly all his adult life. He has been a member of the church choir nearly all the time for over sixty years and for much of the time he has sung solo. He sings deeply in the choir at the present time. For fifteen years Mr. Hunt was a successful teacher of singing in classes during the winter months in various towns in eastern Connecticut. Mr. Hunt has never tasted honor or smoked a pipe or cigar and he attributes his robust health at the present time to his lifelong abstemiousness. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have been members of the Columbia Congregational Church since early life.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt are Mrs. Lizzie A. Hall, wife of Robert H. Hall of East Hampton, Nellie L. Hunt, who resides with her parents, and Henry D. Hunt, a school teacher. The grandchildren are Mildred L. Hall and Alice L. Hall. All the children and grandchildren were present at the anniversary. Those present at the anniversary, who were present at the wedding fifty years ago, were Mrs. Mary A. Hitchcock of Charles K. Hitchcock of New Jersey, Mrs. Eliza Strong of Colchester and Mrs. Ann E. Holbrook of Columbia.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. Amasa A. Hunt of Columbia Celebrate Anniversary.

(Special to The Courant.)

Columbia, Sept. 22.

The fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Amasa A. Hunt was celebrated at their residence on Pine street from 3 to 11 p. m. to-day and it was one of the pleasantest and most notable occasions of the kind in the history of the town. The grounds surrounding the residence were decorated with Japanese lanterns, which very prettily ornamented the grounds by day and beautifully illuminating them in the evening.

Mr. Hunt is a native of Columbia and has always resided near his present home. His name was Eurinc H. Abell, was a native of Exeter Society, Lebanon. They were married at the Madeleine in the latter place by Rev. John Avery, who, had it not been for his death a few weeks ago, would have been one of the guests of the anniversary. Soon after their marriage Mr. Hunt purchased the farm where he now lives and erected a commodious and for that time modern residence. From early life Mr. Hunt has been possessed of marked musical tendencies and the flute, violin and cornet are instruments which he has played with proficiency nearly all his adult life. He has been a member of the church choir nearly all the time for over sixty years and for much of the time he has sung solo. He sings deeply in the choir at the present time. For fifteen years Mr. Hunt was a successful teacher of singing in classes during the winter months in various towns in eastern Connecticut. Mr. Hunt has never tasted honor or smoked a pipe or cigar and he attributes his robust health at the present time to his lifelong abstemiousness. Both Mr. and Mrs. Hunt have been members of the Columbia Congregational Church since early life. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Hunt are Mrs. Lizzie A. Hall, wife of Robert H. Hall of East Hampton, Nellie L. Hunt, who resides with her parents, and Henry D. Hunt, a school teacher. The grandchildren are Mildred L. Hall and Alice L. Hall. All the children and grandchildren were present at the anniversary. Those present at the anniversary, who were present at the wedding fifty years ago, were Mrs. Mary A. Hitchcock of Charles K. Hitchcock of New Jersey, Mrs. Eliza Strong of Colchester and Mrs. Ann E. Holbrook of Columbia.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1902.

Rev. Dr. Henry C. McCook resigned the pastorate of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church in Philadelphia, Sunday, after 33 years' service. He is 65 years old, and his health has been failing for the last three years; he desires to spend his coming years, few or many, in scientific and historical writing, for he has been a man of large interests and considerable authorship in both directions. Dr. McCook belongs to the famous family of "the fighting McCooks," Irish in origin, and known as fighters in Ireland before the first of the line in this country came over. He was of "the tribe of Dan," and Gen Anson G. McCook and Comdr R. S. McCook of the navy were brothers, and Gen Alexander Mc Dowell McCook of "the tribe of John" was his cousin. Altogether, there are 14 McCooks given space in the dictionary of national biography, and of those 12 were soldiers, including the naval commander,—an extraordinary record. Rev. Dr. Henry Christopher McCook served but a year in the navy, as lieutenant and chaplain, and then held one or two pastorates before he went to the Tabernacle, then the Seventh, Presbyterian church of Philadelphia, in 1869. He was very active in a St. Louis church in mission work, and Dwight L. Moody and Bishop Vincent of Chautauqua fame were among his associates. The service of his ministry has always been broad and human, and he has earned a period of rest. He will, it is believed, retire to private life at Devon and devote his time to scientific and historical writing. Dr. McCook served through the church with the 41st Illinois volunteers and acted as chaplain of the 2d Pennsylvania volunteers in the war with Spain.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1902.

Their Diamond Wedding.

(London Mail.)

At the Madeleine to-day M. and Mme. Nicholas celebrated their diamond wedding. The husband, who has charge of the lamps at the Hotel de Ville, is 58 years of age, and his venerable spouse is 54. Four sons and five daughters —in all nearly a hundred—clustered around them to-day to celebrate the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage. There were the first couple to be married at the Madeleine after the definite consecration of the historic church in 1842. Notwithstanding their advanced age, both the old people are active and cheery.

Miss Caroline Slaughter, whose home is on the site of the battlefield at Port Hudson, Louisiana, has been visiting General Thomas McManus and Mrs. McManus, the past few days. General McManus met Miss Slaughter on her father's plantation during one of his periodical visits to the battlefields of Louisiana. On a previous visit to his daughter, Mrs. M. F. Dooley, in Providence, General McManus met Miss Slaughter in that city, and she accepted the offer of a trip to England in the summer of the year. Miss Slaughter was engaged to be married to Commodore McManus, the son of Gen. McManus, and was about to set out for England in the company of her fiancé when, on the night of July 9, she was visited by a terrible electric shock, which caused her to lose consciousness and was brought to the hospital. She was brought back to life, but was unable to support herself. The shock was caused by a lightning bolt which struck the church tower, and the electricity, which had been accumulated in the tower, was discharged through the walls of the church. The shock was so severe that Miss Slaughter was nearly killed. She was taken to the hospital, where she was treated with great care and attention, and she gradually recovered. She was able to leave the hospital and return to her home, and she was able to continue her visit with General McManus and Mrs. McManus. She was very happy to be able to see them again, and she was very grateful to them for their kind treatment. She was very much pleased with the city of New York, and she was very much pleased with the people of New York. She was very much pleased with the people of New York, and she was very much pleased with the people of New York.
Announcement has been made of the marriage on Tuesday of Dr. Henry Tuck, of this city, and Mrs. Elenore E. Hammond, of Chestnut Hill, Mass. Dr. and Mrs. Tuck are now on their wedding tour, and will not return to this city for two or three weeks.

Dr. Henry Tuck is the vice-president and a trustee of the New-York Life Insurance Company. He is sixty years old and wealthy, and was for twenty years a widower. His residence in this city is at No. 33 East Fifty-third-st., and his summer home at Seabright. His bride is forty years old. Some time ago the marriage of Dr. Tuck's son, Sherry Richardson Tuck and Miss Susette Virginia Maynard, took place in midnight in "Little Church Around the Corner."

October 24—BOSTON. Trinity Chapel, September 24, 1902, by the Rev. William H. Tibbert, Helen daughter of John G. Bacon, to Alva Oatman, of New-York.

SMITH—KNOWLTON—Miss Maud Knowlton, daughter of Daniel W. Knowlton, of West Upton, Mass., to Mr. W. Schuyler Smith, son of A. Alexander Smith, of New York. Miss Knowlton was at the Unitarian Church, West Upton, Mass., on Wednesday, September 24, by the Rev. Horace G, Boston, rector of Grace Church, Jamaica, Long Island, and the Rev. Mr. Horst, of West Upton, officiating.

New York Daily Tribune

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1902.

The wedding of Miss Mary Elisdon Thayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Winfield Thayer, of this city, to James H. Lake, of Boston, was celebrated this evening at the home of the bride's parents, No. 327 West Seventy-ninth-st., and his summer home at Riverside, N. Y. The best man was Elmer E. Lockwood, brother of the bride, and the maid of honor was Miss Mabel E. Judson Pond, widow of DeWitt C. Pond, on Wednesday, September 24, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning at No. 19 Warren street, by Rev. James Balfour Connell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James Balfour Connell. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wiley left on a wedding trip of the bride, which will take place in Boston. Upon their return they will be at home at No. 49 Eimer street.

Charming Ceremony at Residence of George H. Warner.

The wedding of Miss Harriet Ward Foote and Herbert Addison W. Taylor at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Warner, No. 49 Forest street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was marked with charming and somewhat unique features. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Andrew W. Foote, of NutField, Guilford, and spent several winters at Mr. Warner's house for several years, latterly being inspector of needlework in the public schools and instriws Miss Foote has been assisting in in high school. The groom is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Addison Taylor of Beverly, N. J. He is a Cornell graduate, and is in the employ of the general solicitor of the Erie road in New York.

The house had been beautifully decorated with wild flowers, classic busts and autumnal foliage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Silser of the First Congregational (All Souls) Church of New York. The rings were exchanged, as was the custom, by the general solicitor of the Erie road of the order, assisted by Rev. Mr. Walte of Unity Church, this city. The rings used were of a ring gold which had been presented by J. D. Hyde, a Wall street expert and one of Wall street's capital of industries. The groom wore a white crepe de chine, with veil. She carried a reticule embroidered by Roxana Foote, who became the wife of Rev. Lyman Beecher and whose grand-niece she is. Among the wedding presents were several precious heirlooms and some wedding journey, which will take place on their wedding tour, and will not return to this city for two or three weeks. Dr. Henry Tuck is the vice-president and a trustee of the New-York Life Insurance Company. He is sixty years old and wealthy, and was for twenty years a widower. His residence in this city is at No. 33 East Fifty-third-st., and his summer home at Seabright. His bride is forty years old. Some time ago the marriage of Dr. Tuck's son, Sherry Richardson Tuck and Miss Susette Virginia Maynard, took place in midnight in "Little Church Around the Corner."

October 24—BOSTON. Trinity Chapel, September 24, 1902, by the Rev. William H. Tibbert, Helen daughter of John G. Bacon, to Alva Oatman, of New-York.

SMITH—KNOWLTON—Miss Maud Knowlton, daughter of Daniel W. Knowlton, of West Upton, Mass., to Mr. W. Schuyler Smith, son of A. Alexander Smith, of New York. Miss Knowlton was at the Unitarian Church, West Upton, Mass., on Wednesday, September 24, by the Rev. Horace G, Boston, rector of Grace Church, Jamaica, Long Island, and the Rev. Mr. Horst, of West Upton, officiating.

New York Daily Tribune

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1902.

The wedding of Miss Mary Elisdon Thayer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horatio Winfield Thayer, of this city, to James H. Lake, of Boston, was celebrated this evening at the home of the bride's parents, No. 327 West Seventy-ninth-st., and his summer home at Riverside, N. Y. The best man was Elmer E. Lockwood, brother of the bride, and the maid of honor was Miss Mabel E. Judson Pond, widow of DeWitt C. Pond, on Wednesday, September 24, at 4 o'clock yesterday morning at No. 19 Warren street, by Rev. James Balfour Connell. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James Balfour Connell. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Wiley left on a wedding trip of the bride, which will take place in Boston. Upon their return they will be at home at No. 49 Eimer street.

Charming Ceremony at Residence of George H. Warner.

The wedding of Miss Harriet Ward Foote and Herbert Addison W. Taylor at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Warner, No. 49 Forest street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, was marked with charming and somewhat unique features. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Andrew W. Foote, of NutField, Guilford, and spent several winters at Mr. Warner's house for several years, latterly being inspector of needlework in the public schools and instriws Miss Foote has been assisting in in high school. The groom is a son of Dr. and Mrs. Addison Taylor of Beverly, N. J. He is a Cornell graduate, and is in the employ of the general solicitor of the Erie road in New York.

The house had been beautifully decorated with wild flowers, classic busts and autumnal foliage. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Thomas R. Silser of the First Congregational (All Souls) Church of New York. The rings were exchanged, as was the custom, by the general solicitor of the Erie road of the order, assisted by Rev. Mr. Walte of Unity Church, this city. The rings used were of a ring gold which had been presented by J. D. Hyde, a Wall street expert and one of Wall street's capital of industries. The groom wore a white crepe de chine, with veil. She carried a reticule embroidered by Roxana Foote, who became the wife of Rev. Lyman Beecher and whose grand-niece she is. Among the wedding presents were several precious heirlooms and some wedding journey, which will take place on their wedding tour, and will not return to this city for two or three weeks. Dr. Henry Tuck is the vice-president and a trustee of the New-York Life Insurance Company. He is sixty years old and wealthy, and was for twenty years a widower. His residence in this city is at No. 33 East Fifty-third-st., and his summer home at Seabright. His bride is forty years old. Some time ago the marriage of Dr. Tuck's son, Sherry Richardson Tuck and Miss Susette Virginia Maynard, took place in midnight in "Little Church Around the Corner."

October 24—BOSTON. Trinity Chapel, September 24, 1902, by the Rev. William H. Tibbert, Helen daughter of John G. Bacon, to Alva Oatman, of New-York.

SMITH—KNOWLTON—Miss Maud Knowlton, daughter of Daniel W. Knowlton, of West Upton, Mass., to Mr. W. Schuyler Smith, son of A. Alexander Smith, of New York. Miss Knowlton was at the Unitarian Church, West Upton, Mass., on Wednesday, September 24, by the Rev. Horace G, Boston, rector of Grace Church, Jamaica, Long Island, and the Rev. Mr. Horst, of West Upton, officiating.
A Young Historian

Carleton S. Way of Hartford has just completed the first volume of a history of the United States. It seems proper to mention at the outset that he is the son of Charles L. Way, because the historian is not yet old enough to be promptly identified apart from his family connection. He has reached the age at which his book was almost entirely written, when he was still only 12.

But for all this no one must imagine that the book is not a real book and an interesting one. It is interesting in itself and was written for hard work and a genuine gift of arrangement and statement. Here it lies, a book of 155 closely typewritten pages. As to the matter, it exhibits a knowledge of the facts of history that is remarkable for a boy of his age.

This is worth emphasizing because the book is by no means a mere reproduction of the statements of one or two authorities. It bears the marks of assimilated and digested knowledge, that is, of comparison of such authorities as he has read, an effort in neatness of subject as a whole from the accumulation and classification the writer has made in his own mind. As to manner, while it is, as a matter of course, immature, it possesses some of the suggestive features of its subject. There is a feeling of relation and sequence that some older writers never attain. A short extract from the first chapter will illustrate more clearly just what is meant:

Before the discovery of America the civilized population of Europe knew nothing of the great continent across the ocean that extended for nearly 10,000 miles north and south and lay between the eastern shores of Asia, their long-sought destination. America, although called a new world, is as old and perhaps older than the old world. Ages and ages ago what is now the great central plain of North America was a vast sea extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic ocean, a small barrier of land where the Appalachian mountains now stand separated it from the broad Atlantic.

We submit that a good and suggestive outline is presented in these few sentences. The chapter goes on to mention the rise of the land, the coming on of the ice age, and the effects, touches on the origin of the red men and the length of time they have been in this country. It gives a brief account of the mound builders, describes the main groups of the Indians, and remarks that although the account is brief "it will greatly help us when we come to the association of the whites and Indians." It will be seen that the plan is logical and useful. It lays the foundations. Then we come to the discovery of the country, first by the Norsemen, and so on. Then the story of the country is carried on until we have had a review of each of the thirteen colonies and a closing chapter on them as a whole just prior to the war of the Revolution.

Each page has about as many words as are found on a page of an ordinary novel. The writer was also the typewriter, and as he has not yet learned to write with both hands and several fingers he wrote it all with his left.

The death of Carlton Shepherd Way, an American Board missionary, in China, has been announced to Miss Rose Merrill of New Haven, a young woman of some talent and taste for hard work and a genuine gift of arrangement and statement. Here it lies, a book of 155 closely typewritten pages. As to the matter, it exhibits a knowledge of the facts of history that is remarkable for a boy of his age.

This is worth emphasizing because the book is by no means a mere reproduction of the statements of one or two authorities. It bears the marks of assimilated and digested knowledge, that is, of comparison of such authorities as he has read, an effort in neatness of subject as a whole from the accumulation and classification the writer has made in his own mind. As to manner, while it is, as a matter of course, immature, it possesses some of the suggestive features of its subject. There is a feeling of relation and sequence that some older writers never attain. A short extract from the first chapter will illustrate more clearly just what is meant:

Before the discovery of America the civilized population of Europe knew nothing of the great continent across the ocean that extended for nearly 10,000 miles north and south and lay between the eastern shores of Asia, their long-sought destination. America, although called a new world, is as old and perhaps older than the old world. Ages and ages ago what is now the great central plain of North America was a vast sea extending from the Gulf of Mexico to the Arctic ocean, a small barrier of land where the Appalachian mountains now stand separated it from the broad Atlantic.

We submit that a good and suggestive outline is presented in these few sentences. The chapter goes on to mention the rise of the land, the coming on of the ice age, and the effects, touches on the origin of the red men and the length of time they have been in this country. It gives a brief account of the mound builders, describes the main groups of the Indians, and remarks that although the account is brief "it will greatly help us when we come to the association of the whites and Indians." It will be seen that the plan is logical and useful. It lays the foundations. Then we come to the discovery of the country, first by the Norsemen, and so on. Then the story of the country is carried on until we have had a review of each of the thirteen colonies and a closing chapter on them as a whole just prior to the war of the Revolution.

Each page has about as many words as are found on a page of an ordinary novel. The writer was also the typewriter, and as he has not yet learned to write with both hands and several fingers he wrote it all with his left.
Darius Drake, an actual "Son of the Revolution," celebrated to-day the 100th anniversary of his birth. He received the hearty congratulations of his neighbors and friends.

Probably for the first time in its history as a town, Hebron has the honor of being the home of a centenarian.

Mr. Drake was born in South Windsor, October 1, 1802. His father, Shubel Drake, son of Deacon Silas Drake, was also born in South Windsor and married Amy Burnham, the mother of the centenarian.

Their children were: Esther, Waitstill, Samuel Darius, and a daughter who died in infancy. Of these brothers and sisters, Waitstill lived to be over 90 years of age. Samuel fought in the Mexican war, and afterwards removed to Canada, where he died.

Darius was educated in the common schools of South Windsor. At the age of 14, he went to Manchester, where he served seven years of apprenticeship as a papermaker, with the John Butler company. Here, in 1822, he married Harriet T. Allen, a native of Gilead. For fifty years he worked at the Butler company’s manufactory, as papermaker.

Here were born his two children, Harriet (Mrs. Charles Chapman), now living at Brooklyn, Conn., and Corintha (Mrs. George Keeney), with whom he now makes his home in Hebron.

Mr. Drake has been a lifelong democrat and a constant reader of The Hartford Times. He cast his first ballot for Andrew Jackson, and relates with great enthusiasm seeing and shaking hands with "Old Hickory," at a public demonstration in the streets of Hartford.

"Son of the Revolution," as his father, Shubel Drake, fought seven years in the struggle for independence. His uncle, B. Rowe of Albany, was a captain in the Continental army. His brother-in-law of Captain Simeon Drake, also a Revolutionary soldier, and both fought in the battle of Bunker Hill. As the venerable centenarian recalled, during a personal interview with The Times representative, these heroes of America’s first great struggle, his eye flashed with enthusiasm, and, smiling. "We related an incident which occurred while the Continental army lay before Bunker Hill, as told him by his father. Half clad, poorly fed, the hungry men watched, with longing eyes, a pot of beans falling from the load he leaped forward, snatched at the coveted bean pot and held it fast. As he dodged a bullet grazed by the hungry men, to quote his own words, "he stuck his pot of beans."

Never, perhaps, did a mess of Boston baked beans meet with a more enthusiastic reception.

Mr. Drake also told the story of his conversion by the Rev. Ebenezer Blake, whom he calls his spiritual father, then pastor of the Manchester Methodist church. He was led forward by his early travels as a traveling evangelist, Father Moffitt, and since that time he has been a devout member of the Methodist church.
BIRTHDAY TO-DAY OF AGED RESIDENT OF TOWN OF HEBRON.

Darius Drake, a Native of Wapping—Was a Paper Maker in Manchester for Fifty Years.

1802

(Special to The Courant.)

Willimantic, Sept. 30.

To be a century old and still be mentally and physically healthy does not fall to the lot of more than one in 100,000 of the human family. But about one and one-half miles south from Hebron Green lives such a man with his daughter in the beautiful country home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Raymond. He is Darius Drake, a native of Wapping, was a paper maker in Manchester for fifty years, and has lived a century.

WAS 104 YEARS OLD.

Death of Darius Drake at Home of Mrs. Frank Raymond—Sketch of His Life.

Special to The Times.

Hebron, September 21.

Darius Drake died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Frank Raymond, Friday, September 21. He had lived till October 1, he would have been 104 years old. His parents were Shubal and Amy (Burnham) Drake, of South Windsor. His sisters, Miss Laura and Miss M. Jones, assisted in taking care of him.

The father of Darius Drake was the son of Deacon Silas Drake and his wife, who was born in South Windsor. The children of Mr. and Mrs. Shubal Drake were as follows: Esther W. Conser, manager, Manufacturers' Consolidated Weaving Company, at the time of his death, seven years of age. Samuel fought in the Mexican war, and afterwards removed to Canada, where he died.

Darius was educated in the common schools of South Windsor. At the age of 16, he went to Manchester, where he served, seven years of apprenticeship as a papermaker, with the John Butler company. Here, he married Harriet T. Allen, a native of Gilead. For fifty years he worked at the Butler company's manufacture, as papermaker. Here were born his two children, Harriet (Mrs. Charles Chapman), now living at Brooklyn, Conn., and Corintha (Mrs. George Keeney).

Mrs. William Strong Post.

Mrs. Julia Graham (Jones) Post, wife of William Strong Post, president of the William H. Post Carpet Company, of No. 219 Asylum street, died yesterday at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, short wedding pit in Baltimore, Md., where she had been undergoing treatment for a month. She was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Jones of Prospect avenue, and besides her husband and mother, she leaves three children, Helen Bostock, 8 years old, Russel Lee, 7, and Josephine Graham, 2. A sister, Mrs. Julia Graham, died 6 years ago, and a brother, Russell Lee Jones, and two widows, Miss Laura and Miss M. Jones, also survived. Mr. Post and the late home, No. 128, members of her family were with her at the time of her death.
OCTOBER 1, 1902.

Married in Baltimore.

The wedding of Miss Eleanor Tarleton Reynolds, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Reynolds of Baltimore, Md., and William Henry St. John of this city, took place at Grace church, Baltimore, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. The wedding was one of the society events of the season, and fashionable Baltimore witnessed the ceremony. The reception afterwards was for the relatives and a few intimate friends of the bride and groom only.

Miss Reynolds entered the church leaning on the arm of her father and preceded by the maid of honor, Miss Nora Reynolds. She was gowned in white satin and wore a veil. There were no bridesmaids.

Mr. St. John's best man was Charles Howland of New York, and the ushers from this city were John T. Robinson, John H. Buck, Arthur F. Day and Robert W. Huntington, Jr.

Among others who attended from this city were Mr. and Mrs. Howell W. St. John, parents of the groom, Dr. and Mrs. F. T. Simpson, and Mr. and Mrs. John Rose.

Mrs. St. John, the bride, is well known in Hartford society, having been the guest of Mrs. Roe on several occasions.

OCTOBER 2, 1902.

Heffernan-Reilly.

Patrick Joseph Heffernan and Miss Margaret Helen Reilly were married at St. Peter's Church, New Haven, this morning at 10 o'clock. Mrs. Joanna A. Rowe of Bangor, Maine, who is at present living with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. H. G. Rowe, in New York, observed the ceremony. The wedding was preceded by the maid of honor, Miss Margaret Helen Reilly, who was a lieutenant in the American army in the War of 1812, and Mrs. B. Smith, in New Milford. Miss Ruth married yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The wedding was simple, no bridesmaids or ushers being in attendance. The bride wore a gown of white satin and wore a veil. There were many guests, although the wedding was simple, no bridesmaids or ushers being in attendance. The bride wore a gown of white satin with diamond brooch ornament, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried bridal roses. After the ceremony there was a reception and luncheon served. There were many gifts to the young couple, the givers of the bride and groom being present among the guests.

Mrs. F. T. Simpson and Mrs. John Rose, of Gloucester, Mass.; B. S. Rowe of mother, Mrs. F. T. Simpson and Mrs. John Rose, of Northampton, Mass., observed the ceremony. The house was handsomely decorated with palms, ferns, and autumn flowers, and there were many guests.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter of Center Church in Springfield. After a short wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Conkey left last evening on a wedding trip, and on their return will be at home at No. 62 Willard street.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, THURSDAY, OCT. 2, 1902.

LARABEE-SEEBEINS WEDDING

Tock Place at Bride's Home in Dauers

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth P. Larabee, daughter of Thomas F. Larabee of Dauers, and Dr. George S. Seebiens of this city took place at the bride's home last evening at 6:30. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Bulkley of Dauers, only the immediate relatives being present. Mrs. Larabee left this morning by train for a two-weeks' southern trip. They will return to this city and will give a large reception at the Massasoit house Wednesday evening, May 7, for which about 500 invitations will be issued.

Louis W. Button of this city and Miss Edna Smith Blaisdell of Springfield were married at the home of the bride's uncle, E. T. Houghton, in Springfield. Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Bradley Gilman, pastor of the Unitarian Church in Springfield. After a short wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Button will reside at No. 118 Oak street, Mr. Button being a member of the clerical force of the Orient Fire Insurance Company and Mrs. Button formerly a teacher in the Smith School.
TIMOTHY A. WOOSTER.

MRS. TIMOTHY A. WOOSTER.

Bishop Potter is 67 years old. In 1857, Rev. Horace Harmon Potter and Mrs. Potter will leave their home at应用街, with their friends, for the Bowditch residence on Pond Street, Jamaica Plain. On the evening the Rev. Potter and Mrs. Potter will entertain friends and neighbors at the house of Mr. Potter, at the corner of the Bowditch residence. The house is known as one of the most successful jockey clubs in New York. The business was begun by the Rev. Potter, and has been continued by his wife, Miss Fannie Kimball of that city. The groom was a companion of Mrs. Potter.

TIMOTHY A. WOOSTER.

MRS. TIMOTHY A. WOOSTER.

and entertainment for hundreds of women and children on the East side. There are kindergartens, manual training classes, sewing and cooking schools, and boys' club. Mrs. Potter has also purchased for the Bishop's collection of American literature.

Bishop Potter is 67 years old. In 1857, Rev. Horace Harmon Potter and Mrs. Potter will leave their home at应用街, with their friends, for the Bowditch residence on Pond Street, Jamaica Plain. On the evening the Rev. Potter and Mrs. Potter will entertain friends and neighbors at the house of Mr. Potter, at the corner of the Bowditch residence. The house is known as one of the most successful jockey clubs in New York. The business was begun by the Rev. Potter, and has been continued by his wife, Miss Fannie Kimball of that city. The groom was a companion of Mrs. Potter.

TIMOTHY A. WOOSTER.

MRS. TIMOTHY A. WOOSTER.

and entertainment for hundreds of women and children on the East side. There are kindergartens, manual training classes, sewing and cooking schools, and boys' club. Mrs. Potter has also purchased for the Bishop's collection of American literature.

Bishop Potter is 67 years old. In 1857, Rev. Horace Harmon Potter and Mrs. Potter will leave their home at应用街, with their friends, for the Bowditch residence on Pond Street, Jamaica Plain. On the evening the Rev. Potter and Mrs. Potter will entertain friends and neighbors at the house of Mr. Potter, at the corner of the Bowditch residence. The house is known as one of the most successful jockey clubs in New York. The business was begun by the Rev. Potter, and has been continued by his wife, Miss Fannie Kimball of that city. The groom was a companion of Mrs. Potter.
BISHOP POTTER WEDDED TO-DAY
MARRIED TO MRS. CLARK AT COOPERSTOWN.

Ceremony in the Church Attended Only by Relatives and Intimate Friends of the Bride—After Wed-ing Breakfast the Bridal Couple Start on a Trip Through Canada.

Special Dispatch to The Mail and Express, Cooperstown, N. Y., Oct. 4.—Not twenty feet from where James Fenimore Cooper, the novelist, sleeps, in the historic Christ Episcopal Church, took place at noon to-day, the wedding of Elizaabeth Severin Clark, widow of Alfred Corning Clark, to Bishop Henry Codman Potter.

Fernleigh, the elegant Clark mansion, is directly opposite, and but a short distance from Christ Church. Mrs. Clark, Bishop Potter, the Rev. Dr. George F.
Nelson, and Mrs. Clark’s son, Lieut. Robert Sterling Clark, of the Ninth Infantry, United States Army, by whom she was given away, went in a carriage from the mansion to the church, where the other participants in the ceremony, and the invited guests were waiting.

FEW AT THE CEREMONY.

No one had been admitted without a card, and the only wedding guests were intimate friends of the Clarks and members of old Cooperstown families. There were not to exceed twenty-five in attendance at the ceremony. On account of the large number of friends of Bishop Potter’s, no formal announcements of the wedding were made.

The decorations were by Seabury, and included immense potted palms and terms arranged in the form of a semi-circle, with an arch of white orchids and lilies of the valley over the altar. The body of the church was decorated with running pine and smilax.

On the entrance of the bridal party
Ernest E. Leight, organist of Christ Church, played the Lohengrin wedding march, music of his own composition having accompanied the assembling of the guests.

THE BRIDAL PARTY.

When the procession had moved down the aisle with slow steps to the stately music the party made a brilliant picture before the altar. Mrs. Clark’s gown was made by Worth, and is of white satin with point applique lace. She wore no jewels except a brooch of diamonds.
A丰富 of lace draped on the head was worn instead of a bonnet, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

The bride was attended by Miss Mary Chafee, a niece and companion, and Mrs. D. F. Woods, of Philadelphia, an old friend. The Rev. George F. Nelson, formerly of Grace Church, New York, acted as Bishop Potter’s best man. The ushers were Mrs. Clark’s sons, Edward Severin, Frederick Ambrose and Stephen Carleton Clark; Waldy Cory Johnston and Southland Irving.

As the music died away, Rev. Dr.
William M. Grosvender, of the Church of the Incarnation, New York, began the reading of the ceremony. Dr. W. W.
Lord, an old friend and pastor of Mrs.
Clark, pronounced the benediction, and while the party marched out of the church the lively music of the Mendelssohn wedding piece followed them.

Upon the return to Fernleigh, a wed-ing breakfast was served for twenty-five, among whom, besides the wedding party and clergy, were all of Bishop Potter’s family, including his two daughters,
Mrs. Clark’s family, and Capt. and Mrs.
McKitrick. Capt. McKitrick was the first officer to raise the American flag over captured Santiago.

THE BRIDAL TRIP.

After the breakfast the bride and room took a private electric launch belonging to the Clarks to the head of Lake Otsego, and thence were driven to Richfield, where they took a train to Utica.

The bridal trip will include a visit to Montreal, Toronto and the principal cities of Canada. The plans for the winter have not been fully decided upon. It is evident that they will not return to Cooperstown until next summer.

Ambrose Clark, son of Mrs. Clark, who was recently married at Mamar-cook, gave a dinner and dance to his friends on Lake Otsego after the ceremony to-day.

The guests from out of town will leave by special train this afternoon.

Eliza R. Jacob of New York, to whom he was married in 1857, immediately after his graduation from college, the ceremony being performed by his father, Bishop Alonzo Potter. Mrs. Potter was for some years an invalid, and she died on June 29 of last year. There are six children of the marriage, five of whom are daughters. The son is Alonzo Potter, and the daughters are Mrs. Mason C. Davidge, Mrs. Charles H.
Russell, Mrs. Winthrop Cowdin, Mrs. William H. Hyde and Mrs. Sarah L. Potter.
Bishop Potter, Miss Potter and Alonzo Potter live in a large old-fashioned house at 10 Washington square, north.

Although 67 years old, the bishop is very active and looks a good deal younger.
He was slightly ill this spring from overwork, but he recovered his health soon after his arrival in Europe. He has not devoted himself Bishop Potter’s coming marriage to has been most the wealthiest woman in his diocese movements. He will be an event of importance in the building of the Divine, which represents years of His fiancee is described as a very keen will be one of business manager. Perhaps the buildning of the great cathedral on the Heights at One Hundred and Fifteenth keen sense of street will advance more rapidly by are told of his reason of this somewhat remarkable for epigrams, dinner speaker,
matriominal alliance.

quest at all the fashionable functions to which it is considered the correct thing to ask a clergyman. Nor should his genuine and most helpful interest in the work be 11

their friends on Mondays in November.
THE site of the present beautiful village of Cooperstown was once the favorite place of resort with the Indians and many a dispute has been settled at Council Rock, which is located at the foot of the lake. This is the rock mentioned by Cooper as the meeting place of Deerslayer and his friend, the Delaware, and is known as Osage Rock.

Osego Lake is almost as beautiful now as it was when James Fenimore Cooper made his home in what is now known as the Clark Y. M. C. A. Building, Green to Cooperstown.

Gravelly Point, where Deerslayer is buried, is called Cooper Point. The spot is marked by a marble post set in the sand. The remains of the beautiful Leatherstocking Falls and the Leatherstocking Falls, and the Indians and Cooper, who perished in the picture, are the remains of the.

The site of the present beautiful village of Cooperstown was once the favorite place of resort with the Indians and many a dispute has been settled at Council Rock, which is located at the foot of the lake. This is the rock mentioned by Cooper as the meeting place of Deerslayer and his friend, the Delaware, and is known as Osage Rock.

Osego Lake is almost as beautiful now as it was when James Fenimore Cooper made his home in what is now known as the Clark Y. M. C. A. Building, Green to Cooperstown.

Gravelly Point, where Deerslayer is buried, is called Cooper Point. The spot is marked by a marble post set in the sand. The remains of the beautiful Leatherstocking Falls and the Indians and Cooper, who perished in the picture, are the remains of the.
Ediza R. Jacob of New York, to whom he was married in 1857, immediately after his return from Europe, left France, and settled in New York, where he lived the rest of his life. He died in 1885, leaving a large number of friends and acquaintances who mourned his death with deep regret.
Mr. and Mrs. William M. Fowler of Berlin Will Quietly Observe Golden Wedding.

Special to THE HARTFORD TIMES.

BERLIN, October 4.

Sunday will be the fiftieth anniversary of the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Moore Fowler of this place, and they will quietly observe the day. They will be the recipients of the congratulations of many friends in this vicinity. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fowler are well known, having lived here many years, and have the confidence and esteem of the community.

Mrs. Fowler was Miss Harriet Hubbard Graham, a daughter of John and Mary Graham, and was born in East Berlin, on April 10, 1833. She was married to Mr. Fowler October 5, 1852. Five children were born to this union: William Moore, Jr., who now operates his father's farm at Berlin; Alfred Edward, died in 1881; Frederick Brown of Hartford; Charles Henry, who is in California, and Emma Jane Fowler, who lives with her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Fowler have lived in this place since this marriage.

William Moore Fowler was born in West Cromwell on August 17, 1828. He was a son of Anson and Sallie (Bonge) Fowler. His father was a farmer in moderate circumstances. Mr. Fowler was reared on the home farm and acquired his education in the schools of Cromwell. He learned the blacksmith's trade in East Berlin and at the age of 27 years entered the employ of the Roys & Wilcox company and continued with them until the consolidation of the Peck, Stow and Wilcox company. In 1863 he became a contractor for the latter company and retained the position until about two years ago, when he retired from active work. In all he worked for this company over forty years.

In early life Mr. Fowler was a democrat, but since 1838 he has been a stanch republican. At one time he served as tax collector. He is a member of Harmony lodge, No. 20, A. F. and A. M., of New Britain, and was elected a member of the board of managers of the Mechanic Savings Bank of New Britain. He is also a life member of the Temple Grove Seminary here. He has lived here since 1868. In 1865 he was ordained an evangelist by the Troy Presbytery, but never presented himself for a pastorate. He is the author of several works on standard time, and in 1869 he presented the subject to a railroad convention in New-York. The system adopted by the railroads in 1882, and now in general use, was originated and worked out by him.

The Rev. Edward S. Ferry, formerly pastor of the South Park Methodist Episcopal church, and family, who have been summering at their cottage at Tübingen, will sail October 7, on the steamer Blücher, for a year's sojourn in Germany. Mr. Ferry is much improved in health by his long rest.
The young Crown Prince of Siam, who is expected to arrive in New York the first of October, is now traveling incognito throughout Europe, but the disguise will be abandoned when he reaches this country, where he will make an extended tour remaining about two months. Mahah Vajiravudh is the prince’s name, or the easiest part of it, and his suite will consist of Col. Phya Rajovallobb, Capt. Luang Saraseddhi, second aid; Mon. R. Convatta, private secretary, and H. R. H. Prince Chakrabongse, brother of the Crown Prince, with an aid.

The prince is due to arrive in New York October 2, will spend three days in and about the city, and during that time will visit West Point. The party will be conducted by army officers designated by the department for the purpose. October 4 he will go to Newport, and on October 5 and 6 will be in and about Boston and will visit Harvard. October 7 the party will go to Washington and remain there until October 9. During the prince’s stay at the capital he will be the guest of the Siamese Minister, and will be received by the President. October 16 the party will start on a tour of the country.

OCTOBER 27, 1902.

MRS. KELLEY-HOLDEN WEDDING.

Kelley-Holden Wedding.

Solon Chester Kelley of this city was married to Miss Emily D’Oughty Holden in St. Luke’s Church, Toronto, Wednesday, October 8, the officiating clergyman being Rev. Canon Sutherland and Rev. Napier Burns of Hamilton. The bride is the daughter of the late John Rose Holden, Q. C., of Hamilton and was given away by William Laidlaw, K. C., from whose home she was married. Miss Holden wore a dainty gown of pale dove-gray silk crepe printed with white flowers and green leaves, and carried a white wreath of pink roses and foliage carried a bunch of white roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was Miss Marion Laidlaw, K. C., from whose home she was married. The best man was Mr. George F. May, and have as their home on St. Luke’s Church, Toronto, also the town, also the first Union block and the dwelling of the eldest man in town, Kelleher of that place is the oldest man being 96 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Case of West Simsbury are authority for the statement that John Kelleher of that place is the oldest man in town, being 96 years old.

Invitations are issued for the marriage of Harriet Augusta, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Wollcott Robbins of this town and New York city, and Robert Peabody Berry, Jr., for Wednesday, October 8, at 3 p.m., at the Brick Presbyterian Church, New York city.

Mr. and Mrs. William Chamberlain of Putnam celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage on Friday at their home on Walnut street, Putnam, when friends and relatives called. They were married in Killingly by the Rev. George F. May, and have resided in Putnam for fifty years. He has been a prominent builder in his day, having built the first Methodist church in this town, also the Powhatan mill, the first Union block and the dwelling houses in Wheelock’s village. Both he and his wife are in good health. He is 81 years old and she 82.

FEBRUARY 7, 1902.

SIAM’S KING POSTPONES VISIT.

Crown Prince to Come Here on His Return From the Coronation.

The state department at Washington is advised that, owing to a change in plans, the king of Siam will not visit the United States this year. The cause assigned is the unexpected return of the crown prince to Siam in the autumn. It is said that the crown prince will return to his country from the coronation of King Edward by way of the United States, and it is thought that the king desires to learn the impressions made upon the prince’s mind during his stay in this country, before determining whether or not to include the United States in his own itinerary.

THE CROWN PRINCE OF SIAM.

Greeted by the Mayor and Banqued by Gov. Crane.

The crown prince of Siam and his suite, accompanied by H. H. D. Peirce, third assistant secretary of state, representing the president, reached Boston from New York soon after 6 o’clock last night. The members of the party were met by representatives of Gov. Crane and Mayor Collis, and escorted to Hotel Somerset. There they were greeted by the mayor, and later were given a banquet by Gov. Crane. For their three-days’ stay in Boston an interesting program has been arranged, to be concluded on Saturday evening by a dinner given by Mr. Peirce.
Siam’s King to Visit the West

Brother of the Sun and Moon

Copyrighted in the United States and Great Britain by Curtis Brown.
Correspondence of The Republican.

London, April 18, 1897.

Jaded Londoners are eagerly looking forward to the approaching visit of Phra Paramindr Maha Chulalongkorn, the king of Siam—which is now timed for the middle of May. Eastern monarchs are always more interesting to the crowd than European royalties. It is the misfortune of most of these latter to look just like plain, everyday folk, especially when dressed, as they generally are when they

for the monarch to sleep at the top house, “nearest heaven,” and that only should occupy apartments nearest salons of the blessed than himself did accord with his notions of what was to his rank and dignity. So he was put to an attic room and though of course it was a far meaner apartment, was more than pleased to make the change.

During his absence from Bangkok the crown prince, Somdet Chulafa Vajiravon, will officiate as regent. He was educated in England and is supposed to be finely cultured young man. It may be added, perhaps, as proof of his possession of distinctly English tastes that

THE KING OF SIAM AND SOME OF HIS SONS

THE SPRINGFIELD SUNDAY RECORD
SPENCER-RANKIN.

Wedding of New Haven Man in Old Saybrook.
(Special to The Courant.)
Old Saybrook, Oct. 8.
Grace Episcopal Church was the scene of an unusually attractive wedding this afternoon, the event being the marriage of Miss Mary Helen Rankin, only daughter of Captain and Mrs. John Rankin of Saybrook Point, and Frederick Clarence Spencer. The interior of the church was handsomely decorated with dahlias and cosmos, pink and white being the predominating colors. A wedding bell filled with roses was arranged over the chancel, where the ceremony was performed. Alfred D. W. Chalker played the organ and a number of selections were given while the guests assembled, filling the church to its capacity. The ushers were Frederick S. Chapman of the United States Corps of Engineers of New London, Charles Pratt of Yale and John A. Ayer and Frank S. Pratt of this place.

At promptly 5 o'clock the wedding march began and the two bridesmaids, Miss Alice M. Curtis of Detroit, dressed in white with pink, and Miss Louise Johnson of Enfield, dressed in pink with white, entered from the vestry room and ascended the center aisle to the entrance, where the bridal party was in waiting. The bridesmaids reached the group they turned and the party stood up the aisle, the ushers and bridesmaids leading and the bride following alone. She was gowned in a handsome dress of white silk and walked the little distance behind the party. The groom with his best man, Dr. William D. Spencer, his brother, entered from the vestry room at the side and met the bride at the chancel steps, where the betrothal was performed by Rev. Herbert L. Mitchell, rector of the church, the bride being given away by her father. The couple then entered the chancel and knelt before the altar, where the marriage was completed and the benediction pronounced. A reception was given at the home of the bride's parents at Saybrook Point, about seventy-five being present. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer left on the 7:41 east-bound express for a short trip. The presents were numerous and very beautiful, being received from many parts of the state as well as the South and West.

Among those present at the reception from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. John Clayton Wood, Mr. and Mrs. S. Bryan Kneiss, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Dobbs, Miss C. Page, Miss R. Buell and Harry Dobson of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pratt and Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Chapman of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm S. Brooks of Charleston and Chicago.

EAST HARTFORD WEDDING.

MARRIAGE OF RAYMOND S. GAINES AND MISS BURNHAM.
Raymond S. Gaines, son of Howard C. Gaines of Hartford avenue, and Miss Ada H. Burnham, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Spencer H. Burnham, of King street, were married at home of the bride's parents in East Hartford at noon yesterday. Rev. William B. Tuthill of the First Congregational Church officiated. The wedding was very quiet and only immediate families were present. Upon their return from a trip they will live in Mr. Gaines's house on Burnside avenue.

BOOTH-TOLHURST.

Pretty Home Wedding on Allen Place Yesterday Afternoon.
Fred Northrop Booth and Miss Anna Isabelle Tolhurst, daughter of Norman J. Tolhurst and Mrs. Tolhurst, were married at the home of the bride, No. 85 Allen place, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed in the northeast parlor, which was attractively decorated with southern anilax, chrysanthemums and pink dahlias, making an exceedingly pretty effect in green, white and pink. The adjoining room was decorated in similar colors and the dining room, where a wedding luncheon was served, was decorated in red and green. Rev. H. M. Thompson of the Memorial Baptist Church performed the ceremony. The best man was Elbert E. Stowe of this city and the ushers were Bruce Hart Tolhurst and William C. Tolhurst, cousins of the bride. The maid of honor was Miss Alice E. Tolhurst, a sister of the bride. The bridal party entered the room to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin," played by Mrs. J. W. Marshland of New Britain.

The bride's gown was of mode satin, trimmed with escurial lace, liberty silk and white satin. She carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The gown of the maid of honor was of old blue amaranth over blue silk trimmed with applique lace and white satin, and she carried a shower bouquet of pink carnations. There were many presents, which included a pair of gold from the groom's friends in the Travelers Insurance Company, where Mr. Booth is employed, and a pair of fleece blankets from Sage, Allen & Co., where Miss Tolhurst has been employed in the art department. The friends of the bride employed the firm to make a cut glass berry dish. There were many presents of silverware, cut glass, pictures, lamps, etc. Mr. and Mrs. Tolhurst left on the 6:30 express for Boston. They will be absent a week and will be at home after November 1 at No. 7 Elm street.

There was a large number of guests from out of town, which included John W. Booth of New York, father of the groom, and relatives and friends from Boston, New Britain, Berlin, East Berlin, Middletown, Newtown, Rocky Hill and other places.

Coles-Heath.

There was a pretty home wedding yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at the home of the bride, No. 23 Adelaide street, where Miss Agnes Harriet Heath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther S. Heath, and Edgar Richard Coles, son of ex-Alderman and Mrs. Francis Coles, were married. Miss Ivy A. Heath, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and Frederick H. Williams was best man. Rev. George R. Warner of St. Thomas's Church performed the ceremony. The bride was dressed in white, with a veil caught with orange blossoms, and carried a white prayer book. After the ceremony a reception followed and during the evening Mr. and Mrs. Coles started on their wedding tour which will include New York, Old Point Comfort, Washington and Philadelphia, and on their return will reside at No. 27 Adelaide street. Among the many presents were handsome gifts from the Hartford Steam Boiler Inspection and Insurance Company, where the bride has been employed, and from the Phoenix Insurance Company, where the groom is employed.
THE CURTIS SCHOOL.

OCTOBER 11, 1902.

Reunion of Former Pupils with Mrs. Sears in Collinsville.

The reunion yesterday of former pupils of the Curtis School of this city, at the summer home in Collinsville of Mrs. E. H. Sears, was in all respects a success. There was a large attendance and the occasion was much enjoyed. The party consisting of about thirty, were out by special car on the noon train of the Central New England road and they were received by Mrs. Sears and her friend, Mrs. W. E. Simonds, both former pupils of the school, at Kenmott, the Sears residence. Mrs. Frances of Wethersfield, a graduate of the first class of the school, gave reminiscences of its formation and said that on the first day there were fourteen scholars to be welcomed by the teachers. Mrs. Simonds, Miss Pierson, Mrs. Hall, and Miss Belden also spoke interestingly.

A Letter from one of the Former Pupils.

To the Editor of The Courant:

A very creditable list of residents of the United States might be furnished to the persons who have almost forgotten the existence of Mr. T. W. C. Curtis's Select School of Hartford. The school opened in the spring of 1861; the close of the school was in June, 1867. The surviving pupils, with one accord, congratulate themselves. Mr. T. W. C. Curtis and Miss Virginia Hubbard were their teachers in the "sixties." Miss Hubbard, still greatly beloved as Mrs. Curtis, resides in New Haven, but was prevented from being present to-day by delicate health, but she sent a beautiful greeting to "The Girls of Yesterday," which Mrs. Sears read at her home by her request.

Mrs. Sears.

Collinsville, Oct. 10.
The Rev. Magee Pratt of this city has been appointed pastor of the Congregational church in Le Raysville, Penn. He has preached three Sundays to his new congregation, and has given complete satisfaction. Mr. Pratt is at present in Hartford arranging for the transfer of his household belongings to his new home in Pennsylvania.

Le Raysville is located about twenty miles from Wilkesbarre, and is a village a little larger than Berlin center is this state. Mr. Pratt's church has a membership of nearly two hundred. The members are prosperous farmers, all well to do, but none very wealthy. Quite a number of them are natives of Wales. There is a comfortable parsonage connected with the church, and the arrangements made by Mr. Pratt with the church committee insure for him satisfactory remuneration. Mr. Pratt is engaged in literary work at the present time, and intends to publish a volume soon.

Le Raysville is located in the middle of a farming district. The land is extremely fertile. In a number of the churches of the region the services are conducted in the Welsh language entirely, and in others there are two services on each Sunday, one in the English and the other in the Welsh language. Mr. Pratt is a preacher of new school Methodism.

Mr. Fenn Charges His Wife With Coldness and Sues for Divorce—Her Counter Suit.

There is interest at Northampton in the divorce suit in New York of Emory Fenn against his wife, as the Fens formerly lived in the Meadow city. Fenn, who is a son of the late Rev. Charles Fenn of Connecticut, is 22 years old. He was formerly in the clothing business in Boston and Northampton, but became financially embarrassed, and a member of a prominent family of Cuba. In 1896 Fenn espoused the cause of the Cuban insurgents for his wife's sake, he says, and had charge of the United States forces under Garcia. The Spaniards captured the young American, but Gen. Fitzhugh Lee obtained his release. At present Fenn is a foreman in the employ of the Ailing construction company.

Fenn and his wife were married in Massachusetts June 21, 1895. A few weeks ago Mrs. Fenn caused her husband's arrest on a charge of desertion. She says his suit for divorce is brought for revenge. Fenn in his complaint accuses his failure in business and his wife's extravagance. He says her misconduct drove him from home, and has turned him against his wife's application for alimony, he presented an affidavit in which he said: "She has turned so absolutely cold toward me in the last 5 or 7 years that it is impossible by words or language to describe to the court this woman's disposition. She is fatastizing and driving man to desperation by her coldness." Mrs. Fenn has brought a counter suit against her husband, in which she charges him with improper conduct, and with having deserted her and going to Cuba. Among the affidavits in her behalf is one sworn to by ex-Senator and Mrs. R. W. Irwin, who for a time boarded in the home of the Fens at Northampton. Both Fenn and his wife lived at Winsted, Ct., before their marriage. Mrs. Fenn having resided in the home of a aunt in that town for a number of years.

HUSKING BEE.

Given by Mr. and Mrs. George Watson Beach at Old Saybrook.

Old Saybrook, Oct. 19

Not in many years has Old Saybrook enjoyed such a social treat as was afforded Saturday evening at the old-fashioned husking bee given by Mr. and Mrs. George Watson Beach in the barn at the rear of their summer residence on Main street. The barn was most elaborately and handsomely decorated. Marigold, fias and Negro plants were used in profusion and from beans and ratters long strings of apples and red peppers were fastened. At the rear of the building large corn, wheat and rye were banked and at every vantage point a pumpkin was placed. The national colors in long streamers and large flags added to the attractiveness of the scene. There was a heavy downfall at 7:30, but few were prevented from attending and about eighty were present. The old saying "work before play" was followed and a goodly supply of corn for husking was produced. It soon became evident that there were an unusual number of red ears, for such a quantity of corn, and the old custom of our forefathers was strictly adhered to, few opportunities being lost, many of the large ears doing double and triple duty. After the husking was completed games and dancing occupied the time until refreshments were served. A long table stood at one end of the barn, and a large jellied plum pudding and a large apple pie were served for dessert. The last word is given by Mr. F. M. Godard.

WAREHOUSE POINT.

MOORE-HARRISON WEDDING.

A delightful home wedding was celebrated at 5:30 o'clock last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick W. Moore on Prospect hill, when their daughter, Annie Griswold, was married to Frank Holyfield Harrison, son of Mr and Mrs Charles G. Harrison. The house decorations in pink and white were elaborately finished. The couple stood under an arch of evergreen and smilax with a background of pink and white carnations. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. J. Brewe- ster of St. John's Episcopal church. The ushers were Charles Moore, Clifford A. Pease and Frank Pease of Warehouse Point, and Andrew Steele of Warehouse Point. The maid of honor was Miss Grace J. Moore and the best man Ernest J. Miller. The "Lohengrin" march was played by Mr. Frederick M. Godard. The bride wore a gown of white peau de suave with trimming of point lace and appliqué. She wore a tulle veil caught up with diamond pendant and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. The maid of honor wore a white Swiss with lace and ribbon trimmings and carried a bouquet of pink roses. The bride and groom were assisted in the services of the house by Rosso of Hartford. The table was decorated with white chrysanthemums and hydrangeas. The groom's gift to the bride was a tulle purse of pearls and diamonds. The ushers were given watches of rings by the groom. The bride's gift to the maid was a pearl brooch. The gifts to the bride were presented by her parents, her own parents, the parents of the groom and other relatives. The employes of the Atlantic life insurance company's office in Hartford were present, and a battle of the suit. The guests were present from New York city, Hartford, Worcester, Thompsonville, Wind- sor Locks, Windham, Windham Springs, Somers, Torrington, Florence, Middletown, Orange, Chicopee Falls and this city. Mr. and Mrs. Harrison left on an evening train for a 10-days' trip and on their return will reside at 30 Shattuck place, Hartford.

Teacher in the South School.
Wedding of Miss Grace Jenny Bird, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Asa F. Bird, and Frank Herbert Sage, took place at the bride's residence, No. 61 Blue Hills avenue, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Rev. Dr. C. A. McCormick of the First Methodist Church officiating. The bride was gowned in white chiffon over white taffeta, and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Her matron of honor was Miss Edith Florence Montague, a brother of the groom, and R. Eugene Sage, a brother of the bride. The room was very prettily decorated with cut flowers and palms, and the lawn was well lighted up with Japanese lanterns. The out-of-town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Willey of Providence, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Westcott of Boston, Mrs. Eugene Sage of New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks of Abington, this state. Mr. and Mrs. Sage left last night at 10 o'clock for a two weeks' wedding trip. They will make their residence at Plainfield, N. J., where they will be at home after December 1.

Carroll-Brassill.

At the Church of the Immaculate Conception yesterday morning William Carroll, in the service of the United States Navy, and Miss Mary E. Brassill were married by Rev. M. A. Sullivan, Nuptial High Mass being celebrated. The choir of the church, of which the bride is a member, rendered special music. The bride was gowned in gray crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Miss Annie Brassill, her sister, was bridesmaid. The best man was William Brassill. A wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride's mother after the ceremony.
Miss Gertrude Louise Kemp of Boston, the 14th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Burdick sailed yesterday for London on the American Line steamship St. Paul, where Mr. Burdick has business interests.

Frederic F. Warren and Miss Florence Johnson, daughter of Henry W. Johnson, were married at 7:30 o'clock last night at the bride's home No. 239 Sargent street, by Rev. E. F. Talmadge, the assistant pastor of the Center Church. The bride wore a dress of white silk, and the bridesmaids wore pink silk and white mull. The bride was given away by her father.

Miss Helen M. Warren, sister of the groom, was maid of honor and Miss Sadie M. Warren and Miss Martha Ronald were bridesmaids. The best man was Raymond D. Landon. The ushers were Harry Sloan and Charles D. Graft.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Griswold in Griswoldville last evening Mr. Griswold's daughter, Ida May Griswold, and Everett Cornelius Griswold of Rocky Hill were married. The house was beautifully decorated with asparagus greens and handsome potted plants and the living room in pink, beautiful pink dahlias being used. The bridal party entered the parlors at 6:30 o'clock, to the wedding march from "Lohengrin" as the bridal party left the church, both selections arranged for male voices. The bridesmaids were Miss Ethel Carvan and Miss Louise Case, who wore green silk muslin gowns and carried white chrysanthemums. The best man was Rev. Samuel A. Fliske of Avon and the ushers were Rev. A. P. Manwell of Northbridge, Mass., and Halley Spencer, brother of the groom. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, No. 217 Beacon street, for the relatives and immediate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer left on the 9:20 train for a short wedding trip and will be at home at No. 217 Beacon street after November 1. The bride was formerly a teacher at the North School.

Mr. and Mrs. Spencer-Higgins, George F. Spencer and Miss Grace Adele Higgins, daughter of Mrs. Mary Thomson Higgins, were married Wednesday evening at the Chaplet House on Prospect avenue. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. George M. Stone, pastor of the Asylum Avenue Baptist Church, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends of the contracting parties, who thronged the pretty edifice. It was the first wedding in the Chaplet House, with the work of which the bride has been closely identified. The chapel was effectively decorated with palms and evergreens. The bride was becomingly attired in white crepe de chine, with bridal veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white bride roses. She also wore a gold diamond ring, the gift of the groom. The bride was attended by Miss Martha Spencer, sister of the groom, as maid of honor, who wore a gown of pink silk muslin.

The bridal party, followed by little Katherine Broadhurst and Nellie Broadhurst as ribbon girls and Duane Andromeda, entered the chapel while the Tempo Male Quartet, accompanied by Mrs. Hattie Crane Pitcher, sang the "Soderman." The quartet sang the wedding chorus from "Lohengrin" as the bridal party left the church, both selections arranged for male voices. The bridesmaids were Miss Ethel Carvan and Miss Louise Case, who wore green silk muslin gowns and carried white chrysanthemums. The best man was Rev. Samuel A. Fliske of Avon and the ushers were Rev. A. P. Manwell of Northbridge, Mass., and Halley Spencer, brother of the groom. Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride, No. 217 Beacon street, for the relatives and immediate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Spencer left on the 9:20 train for a short wedding trip and will be at home at No. 217 Beacon street after November 1. The bride was formerly a teacher at the North School.

Miss Stanley-Dunlap. Miss Lucy Wilson Dunlap and Louis Howard Stanley of this city were married at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Nannie Dunlap, No. 1508 Broad street, on the day evening by Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker of the South Church. It was a quiet family wedding. The bride wore a gown of white satin and a bridal veil of jet. The Rev. James Hutchinson of Branford and Charles Ingersoll sang the "Hobensiel" of Hartford on the organ. The bride's gifts, to her maid of honor and bridesmaids were gold crescent brooches and the groom's gift to his best man and ushers were gold stick pins. Among the gifts the couple have received is a building lot, 99 by 100 feet, situated next to the bride's former home, given by her father, and the groom's gift to the bride is a handsome house built on this lot. The Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, where the groom is employed, presented them $60 in gold. Many gifts of silver, china, furniture, rugs, etc., were received. The couple left Hartford on a trip and on their return will occupy their new residence in Griswoldville. Guests were present from Hartford, Rocky Hill, New Britain, Meriden, and East Hartford.

James Freney and Miss Helen Josephine Carrigan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Carrigan of No. 53 Flower street, were married at St. Joseph's cathedral at 10 o'clock this morning, by the Rev. Walter J. Shanley, Miss Augusta Freney, sister of the bride, was the bridesmaid. Dr. John D. Freney of Waterbury, brother of the groom, was the best man. A reception was given the bride and groom's parents after the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Freney will visit Washington on their wedding tour. After November 1 they will be "at home" to their friends at No. 61 Atwood street.
BYXBE-FRENCH WEDDING.

Cashier of Internal Revenue Office Married in Meriden.

Special to THE HARTFORD TIMES.

MERIDEN, October 15.

The wedding of Miss Edith May French, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. French of this city, and Theodore M. Byxbe, son of ex-Clerk of the Pope Manufacturing Company of this city, took place at 3 o'clock this afternoon, at the home of the bride, on Putnam street. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present at the ceremony and the reception afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Byxbe left this afternoon for a two weeks' trip and will be "at home" at 244 Colonies street, after November 10.

The bride is one of the well known young women of this city, and five years has been a clerk at the Connecticut School for boys.

Mr. Byxbe is the cashier at the internal revenue office in Hartford, which position he has occupied for the past nine years. He has many friends both in this city and Hartford, who extend him the heartfelt congratulations.

MERRILL—WATSON.

The home wedding of Miss Phoebe Watson and Dwight H. Merrill of New York took place at the residence of the bride's mother, No. 109 Babcock street, at 3 o'clock this afternoon, the Rev. James A. Macmullan, pastor of the South Park Methodist Episcopal church, officiating. The bridal party entered the parlor’s to the strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march. The house was prettily decorated with flowers, and a wedding luncheon was served by Mazetti immediately after the ceremony. There were no attendants. Mr. Merrill is a graduate of Yale in the class of '97, and was formerly with the Pope Manufacturing Company of this city. The bride is well known in Hartford musical circles. After a short trip the couple will make their home in Meriden. They will be at home at No. 120 East Main street, this city, after November 4.

SAMSON—STEWART.

In St. John's church, Stamford, in the presence of a large and fashionable company, Miss Estelle Josephine Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hoyt, was married on Saturday to Mr. Daniel C. Ammidon of Baltimore.

Green and white and yellow were the predominating colors used in the decorations of the church. The church was nicely decorated for the occasion, and a large number of people were present at the ceremony.

The bride wore a dainty creation of white French lawn, a veil and carried white roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Maud L. Rowbotham, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids, Miss Evelyn V. Shoemaker, sister of the groom, and Eva I. Rowbotham, sister of the bride, were gowned in white lawn and carried pink carnations.

The best man was Eugene Denny of Baltimore, while the usher was a former classmate of the bride, Mr. Wendell Hubbard of Philadelphia.

After the ceremony a small reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, No. 45 Sisson avenue. The presents were many and beautiful.

A wedding breakfast followed at the home of the bride's parents, on Strawberry Hill. The guests included people prominent in society here, many from New York, Boston, Philadelphia and Baltimore.

A home wedding of interest to Hartford people occurred in New York on last Wednesday, when Miss Janet Addison Stewart of this city and George Whitefield Samson of Meriden were married at the residence of the brother-in-law of the bride, N. Brigham Hall, the Kenesaw, No. 292 West 102nd street. The ceremony, which was witnessed by a small party of relatives and friends, was performed by Rev. T. S. Samson of Germantown, Pa., father of the bridegroom. The bride wore a gown of pearl grey crepe de chine, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white flowers, and a wedding luncheon was served by Mazetti immediately after the ceremony. There were no attendants. Mr. Samson is a graduate of Yale in the class of '97, and was formerly with the Pope Manufacturing Company of this city.

The bride is well known in Hartford musical circles. After a short trip the couple will make their home in Meriden. They will be at home at No. 120 East Main street, this city, after November 4.

SAMSON—In New York city, January 14, 1901, at the residence of her sister, Mrs. N. Brigham Hall, Janet Stewart, daughter of George W. Samson of Meriden, Conn. Funeral services at Northam Memorial chapel, Cedar Hill cemetery, Wednesday at one o'clock.

The marriage of Miss Isabelle Lord Huntington, daughter of Mrs. Randolph Huntington of Oyster Bay, and the Rev. G. Whitney Bishop of the Kenesaw, Conn., was on Wednesday, January 3 of this year.

AMMIDON-HOYT.

In St. John's church, Stamford, in the presence of a large and fashionable company, Miss Estelle Josephine Hoyt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Hoyt, was married on Saturday to Mr. Daniel C. Ammidon of Baltimore.

Green and white and yellow were the predominating colors used in the decorations of the church. The church was nicely decorated for the occasion, and a large number of people were present at the ceremony.

The bride wore a dainty creation of white French lawn, a veil and carried white roses.

The maid of honor, Miss Maud L. Rowbotham, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids, Miss Evelyn V. Shoemaker, sister of the groom, and Eva I. Rowbotham, sister of the bride, were gowned in white lawn and carried pink carnations.

The best man was Eugene Denny of Albany, N. Y., and the ushers were J. B. Wynn, W. Senior, Lindsay Hall and Joseph Wilson, all of this city.

The bridal party entered the church while the choir sang the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin." The Rev. Burdette B. Brown, pastor of the church, performed the marriage service.

After the ceremony a small reception took place at the home of the bride's parents, No. 45 Sisson avenue. The presents were many and beautiful.

After the reception, Mr. and Mrs. Shoemaker left for a wedding trip, and will be "at home" after November 1, at No. 5 Chadbuck avenue.
FROST-RAYMOND.

Daughter of Wesleyan's President and New York State Man Married.
(Special to The Courant.)
Middletown, Oct. 16.

One of the prettiest and most largely attended weddings this fall was that this evening at 6 o'clock at the residence of President and Mrs. Bradford Paul Raymond on High street, when President Raymond married his only daughter, Alice Jeanette, and Luther Haywood Frost of Norwood, N. Y. The two were active workers in the Methodist church at East Longmeadow, and were many preachers in all. Mrs. Robert Chapman of Glastonbury acted as matron of honor. The marriage of Ormond D. Covel, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Christ Church. Rev. James Goodwin, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony. Miss Covel was gowned in gray crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. She entered the church with the charm of her mother, Frank B. Covel, to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin." Mrs. Robert Chapman of Glastonbury acted as matron of honor and was gowned in blue silk. She also carried chrysanthemums. Edward D. Sharpe and Miss Charlotte Emma Cross-Palmer. Edward D. Sharpe was married shortly afterwards on a brief wedding trip and will be at home after December 1 at No. 592 Main street, East Hartford.

HAMPDEN COUNTY.
WESTFIELD.

October 20, 1902.
Was 97 Years Old Yesterday.
Mrs. Levi Booth of South Maple street celebrated her 97th birthday yesterday in a quiet manner and received numerous calls and remembrances from neighbors and friends. Mrs. Booth is very appreciative of the attention shown her, and for one so old, her health is remarkably good. She does not now set out of doors, but is able to be about the house. Mrs. Booth has lived in Westfield many years, but West Springfield was her native town, and she resided there for some time. For over 60 years Mrs. Booth has been a member of the First Congregational church, she having united by letter from the old West Springfield church in 1839. Up to within a few years Mrs. Booth was remarkably well and attended church as often as possible. Mr. Booth lived to a great age, the couple having the distinction of being the oldest known. He died about five years ago, and was about 96 years old. Mrs. Booth has been ill for several times in the last few years, but her wonderful vitality has overcome diseases in a most remarkable manner, much to the surprise of the physicians. Mrs. Booth retains her interest in local events. She is still wonderfully well informed. Her memory is excellent along some lines, and she often recalls events of her childhood. She is the oldest woman in the town, and from the present condition of her health, bids fair to round out a full century.

FIRST HEAVY FROST.

OCTOBER 22, 1902.
From 17 to 30 Degrees Reported—

Ice as Thick as Window Glass.
The first heavy or "killing" frost of the season for this section occurred Tuesday night. This morning, before sunrise, the frost was thick on grass and roofs, and it could be seen in secluded places an hour after the sun came up.

The self-registering thermometer at The Times office registered 29 degrees above zero at 7 a.m., but the instrument is in a sheltered place and between high buildings. In other places about the city a lower mark was reported. The trolley men early out of the station reported 24 degrees. A Vernon man said the mercury went down 20 degrees the same, whereas the temperature of the banana was slightly frozen in places. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the mark was 50 degrees two higher than the same afternoon.

Sharpe-Covel Wedding.

The marriage of Ormond Venning Sharpe and Miss Charlotte Emma Covel, daughter of Mrs. Frederick T. Covel, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Christ Church. Rev. James Goodwin, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony. Miss Covel was gowned in gray crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. She entered the church with the charm of her mother, Frank B. Covel, to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin." Mrs. Robert Chapman of Glastonbury acted as matron of honor and was gowned in blue silk. She also carried chrysanthemums. Edward D. Sharpe was best man. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, No. 69 Belden street. Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe left shortly afterwards on a brief wedding trip and will be at home after December 1 at No. 592 Main street, East Hartford.

NINETIYE YEARS OLD.

Mrs. Fidelia S. Cooley has a Notable Celebration.

Oct. 20.

Mrs. Fidelia S. Cooley celebrated her 90th birthday anniversary at the residence of her son, Morris A. Cooley of Allen street, last Monday. Mrs. Cooley is one of the two surviving children of Capt. and Mrs. Orlando Kibbe, who is now a resident of Hampden, but was for years a deacon of the Baptist church there. He was deacon of the Baptist church for many years, was present to give his congratulations. Although 85 years of age, he is strong through the sun and shows the y to work in his garden. Mrs. Cooley is men- tually as a young woman and her physic is in the main. therefore she can knitting or even she has no record of illness in a day, a great reader of the Bible, she gets pleasure from reading favorite hymns, and reciting favorite verses of Scripture, often to the joy of her family. Mrs. Cooley often recalls events of her childhood.

Mrs. Cooley was married in East Longmeadow to George A. Cooley, and the couple celebrated their golden wedding 19 years ago. Mr. Cooley died seven years ago at the age of 84. He was for many years a prominent man in the firm of Carpenter & Cooley, on the hill. Both Mr. and Mrs. Cooley were active workers in the Methodists church, at East Longmeadow. Mr. Cooley gave much of his time and money to the building of the church. Their house was situated on the boundary line between Springfield and East Longmeadow. One corner projected over into East Longmeadow, in which was located the sleeping room, and as Grandma Cooley expresses it: "We lived in Springfield and slept in East Longmeadow." Mr. and Mrs. Cooley had six children, of whom four are living: Morris A. Cooley, of this city, Billings Cooley of East Longmeadow, Erwin Cooley of Ludlow and Mrs. Thomas Field. Two other children who died were Mrs. Anna Cross of Palmer and George E. Cooley. There are ten grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren. Mrs. Cooley's needs were many pre-

Mrs. Cooley was gowned in blue silk. She also wore many precious jewels. Mrs. Cooley was gowned in gray crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. She entered the church with the charm of her mother, Frank B. Covel, to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin." Mrs. Robert Chapman of Glastonbury acted as matron of honor and was gowned in blue silk. She also carried chrysanthemums. Edward D. Sharpe was best man. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, No. 59 Belden street. Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe left shortly afterwards on a brief wedding trip and will be at home after December 1 at No. 592 Main street, East Hartford.

Of Sharp-Covel Wedding. 21

The marriage of Ormond Venning Sharpe and Miss Charlotte Emma Covel, daughter of Mrs. Frederick T. Covel, took place at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Christ Church. Rev. James Goodwin, pastor of the church, officiated at the ceremony. Miss Covel was gowned in gray crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of chrysanthemums. She entered the church with the charm of her mother, Frank B. Covel, to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin." Mrs. Robert Chapman of Glastonbury acted as matron of honor and was gowned in blue silk. She also carried chrysanthemums. Edward D. Sharpe was best man. Immediately after the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's mother, No. 59 Belden street. Mr. and Mrs. Sharpe left shortly afterwards on a brief wedding trip and will be at home after December 1 at No. 592 Main street, East Hartford.
Brilliant Home Wedding in West Hartford Yesterday Afternoon.

The beautiful new home of ex-Representative Adolph C. Sternberg and Mrs. Sternberg on Park street, West Hartford, was the scene of a charming wedding last evening when their youngest daughter, Miss Margarethe Clara Sternberg, was married to Frank Listrait of New Britain.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. M. Hodgdon of West Hartford at 5:30 o'clock in the library, which was elaborately decorated for the occasion. The double ring service was used, and the bride was given away by her father.

The bride was dressed in white crepe de chine over taffeta, cut en traine with a veil trimmed with real duchesse lace, and wore a necklace of pearls and carried pink roses.

Mrs. Adolph C. Sternberg, the bride's mother, wore gray crepe de chine trimmed with chiffon and lace. The matron of honor was Mrs. George Washington Brandt, a sister of the bride, who was dressed in pink crepe de chine over pink taffeta, carried pink roses, wore a brooch set with pearls, the gift of the bride. The bride's attendants were Mrs. Ernest Hamilton Brandt of Riverside and Miss Victoria Helen Soeckel of West Hartford, who were dressed in pink silk voile accordion plaited; and nuns of the bride, Adolph Carl Sternberg, jr., Ernst Hamilton Brandt, jr., Adolph Sternberg Brandt, and Edward Carl Brandt, dressed in black velvet suits. They carried pink roses.

The best man was George Washington Traut of New Britain, brother of the bridegroom, and the ushers were Ernest Hamilton Brandt of Riverside, Adolph Carl Sternberg, jr., of West Hartford, Otto Burchhardt and Charles Merwin of New Britain.

The house was beautifully decorated by Simons & Fox, the color scheme being green and white. The white draped white draped

NAGLE-SHEEDY.

Wedding of Young Couple in St. Peter's Church.

The marriage of Miss Kathryne Florence Sheedy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sheedy, and John J. Nagle took place at 10 o'clock this morning, in St. Peter's church. A large number of friends and relatives of the young people witnessed the ceremony, performed by the Rev. James J. Smith of Elizabeth, N. J., a cousin of the groom, who celebrated nuptial high mass. He was assisted by his brother, the Rev. William Smith of Jersey City, who acted as deacon; the Rev. Dr. Gleason as sub-deacon, and the Rev. Thomas J. Laden as master of ceremonies.

Professor Hughes directed the music. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" greeted the bridal party on its entrance, and Mendelssohn's wedding march was rendered as it passed out of the church.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Margaret C. Sheedy, who acted as maid of honor. Miss Lena Stapleton of Pittsfield, Mass., was bridesmaid. The bride's gown was white embroidered crepe de chine silk. A veil was worn and she carried lilies of the valley and maidenhair fern. The maid of honor was gowned in blue crepe de chine and wore a picture hat of black chiffon and plumes and carried white chrysanthemums. Miss Stapleton was attired in white silk mull. Her hat was of white silk trimmed with white plumes. Ex-Councilman Philip J. Nagle, brother of the groom, was best man. The ushers were John J. Noonan of Pittsfield, Mass., and Robert Prendergas, D. J. Healey and James Mahon of this city.

A wedding breakfast was served to immediate relatives at the residence of the bride's parents, No. 75 Franklin avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Nagle received numerous beautiful gifts. The officers and clerks of the Travelers Insurance company, by which the groom has been employed since his graduation, were guests.

A delightful wedding took place at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel D. Alford, in Avon, when their daughter, Cora Brockett Alford, and Charles Geisswold Harvey of Windsor were united in marriage. The house was very prettily decorated with ferns, palms and yellow chrysanthemums and was crowded with the relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom. The Rev. Samuel A. Fiske performed the ceremony, the ring service being used.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white silk, trimmed with applique. She wore a veil and carried white chrysanthemums. Miss Eva Case of Simsbury, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor; she was attired in yellow silk and carried yellow chrysanthemums. The bride was also attended by little Miss Ruth Herriott, niece of the bridegroom, and by her cousin, Master Harold Humfrey.

After the ceremony a reception was held and the young people received the hearty congratulations of their many friends. They were also the recipients of many beautiful presents. The bride was formerly a teacher in the public schools of Windsor.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey left this afternoon for a brief wedding journey and will be at home to their friends after November 15 at station 254, Windsor.
Mrs. Ellis's Tea, 1902

A delightful tea was given, Wednesday, by Mrs. George William Ellis in her home on Prospect avenue. The house, built after an English model, was charming with its decorations of chrysanthemums, palms and delicate ferns, and was served to bring out the richness of the color scheme in the arrangement of the house. The piazza was enclosed, hung with rugs, and with masses of flowers made a quiet room, where the punch was served. The musicians were placed in the hall in a corner made charming by its big English window, now banked with ferns.

Mrs. Ellis was assisted by Mrs. James B. Cone, Miss Antoinette Phelps, Mrs. Pruyser of Albany, Mrs. Lunger, Mrs. Sanborn of Jamaica, Mrs. Charles M. Grazier, Miss Clara Cone, Miss Havemeyer, Miss Root, Miss Elsie St. John and Miss De Ette Samson.

Invitations have been received for the wedding of Mary Tudor Colton, daughter of Dr. Frederic H. Colton of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Frank Jenks of that city, which will take place at 4 o'clock on the 25th at Dr. Colton's residence in Brooklyn. The wedded pair has always been the summer home of Dr. Colton's family, and Miss Colton's fine taste and artistic manner have endeared her to her friends.

MRS. KIPP SECURES DIVORCE.

Made no Claim for Custody of Child—Split Not Contested.

Newport of Frances Cost, the city, but now of Lewis Quentin Kip, son of Bergh Kip of Rensselaer County, has been granted a decree of divorce by Judge Pike on the grounds of desertion at Reno, Nev. Mrs. Kip, who was granted no claim for the custody of the child and told the court that she considered that the child needed its father. The judge, after stating from the bench that he would not be able at any time. Kip was represented by his counsel, but did not contest the suit. The decree was granted at the Osborn apartment house in New York last night. Property rights were not involved, and Mrs. Kip said she did not desire to be under any obligations to her husband. They were married in New York City October 25, 1902.

DECEMBER 31, 1909

MRS. KIPP WEDS AGAIN.

Becomes Wife of J. M. Little on Day She Was Divorced.

Reno, Nov. 31.—Frances Koster Jones, who was divorced yesterday, was married here on the 25th by Dr. Lincoln Davis of Boston to Henry Spies Kip, son of the late Major William Bergh Kip of this city and Rhinebeck. There was a large gathering of people prominent in the social world of New York, many having come in for the occasion.

At the Church of the Incarnation yesterday at noon Miss Frances Koster Jones, daughter of Lewis Quentin Jones, of Rhinebeck, was married to Mr. Henry Spies Kip, son of the late Major William Bergh Kip of this city and Rhinebeck. There was a large gathering of people prominent in the social world of New York, many having come in for the occasion.

The bride entered the church with her stepfather, Mr. Lewis Quentin Jones, who gave her away. The ushers were Messrs. W. Rufolo Kip, a brother of the bridegroom, Andrew C. Sage, Alexander Cochrane, Murry Shoemaker of Cincinnati, James Darrah, Everett Colby, Gerard Herrick and William Shane. Mr. Rufolo Kip was his brother's best man.

The bride's gown was of liberty white satin, made in New York fashion and trimmed with chenille and pearl passementerie. Orange blossoms held in place the beautiful headdress, which were worn by her great-grandmother. The bouquet was of lilies of the valley. At her throat the bride wore a collier of diamonds, a gift from the bridegroom, and on her corsage were worn a cluster of diamonds and a crescent of the same jewels, presents from the bridegroom's two brothers.

The maid of honor was Miss Marie Antoinette Davis. The wedding reception was held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anthon, No. 31 West Forty-eighth street.

Among those invited were Mr. and Mrs. Edward Anthon, Miss Anthon; Miss Sidney Jones Colford, Mr. and Mrs. Woodbury G. Langdon, Mr. and Mrs. Anton W. Henry, Mrs. Lewis Cruger Hasell, Mr. and Mrs. C. O'Donnell Iselin, Mr. and Mrs. William Iselin, Miss Sophie Langdon, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Woodbury, Mr. and Mrs. C. Little, Mr. and Mrs. Henry S. Kip, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. K. Taylor, Miss W. E. Brown, Miss Leary, Mrs. F. Burrall Hoffman, Mr. and Mrs. William Coster, Mrs. Albert Schermerhorn, Mrs. Mason Renshaw Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Coster, Miss Julia Coster, Mrs. Reginald Anthon, Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Coster, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Van Rensselaer, Miss Van Rensselaer and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Peabody.

Mr. and Mrs. John Blake Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Walker, Mr. and Mrs. A. De Witt Cochrane, Mr. and Mrs. James M. B. Groves, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Quentin Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Van Rensselaer, Mr. and Mrs. Jose de Navarro, Mrs. Elisha Dyer, Mrs. John Pierpont, Swain, Mrs. James B. Townsend, Mrs. T. Chelsey Richardson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Stevens Ulman, Mr. Henry A. Schurman, Miss Consie O'Donnell Iselin, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur de Saulies. Cochran, William Coster, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Van Rensselaer, Miss Van Rensselaer and Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Peabody.

Mr. and Mrs. Kip are to spend their honeymoon at Anony, Mr. Kip's place at Rhinebeck on the Hudson, when they return to New York they will make their home in the Inverness apartment house, No. 210 West Fifty-seventh street.

DAVIS-CROWNE'SHIELD.—At Marblehead, on Tuesday, Oct. 21, by Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham, Lincoln Davis and Katharine Crowne'shield.

At the summer home of the Crowne'shields at Peach Point, Marblehead, Tuesday, Miss Katharine Crowne'shield was married to Dr. Lincoln Davis of Boston by Rev. Paul Revere Frothingham of the Arlington Street Church. Judge Frothingham was the presence of the immediate family and a few intimate friends who went from Boston by special train. The couple left the afternoon train for Boston, and after a short wedding tour they will reside here.
The Hartford Times.

WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 29, 1902.

Dr. Richard J. Gatling, the well-known inventor of the famous machine gun and now at work on a motor-velocipede, celebrated the 40th anniversary of his marriage to Miss Sanders of Indianapolis at St. Louis, Mo., last Friday evening, Mrs. Gatling's sister was Wallace, Dr. and children, all of whom, live in New York. She is agriculture on the West. The plow is the inventor's invention which is 12 inches. The but narrow, roll the same time, thus of planting.

SEPARATION OF THE KIPS.

ale Graduate and Wife, Leaders of the Young Social Set, Now Living Apart.

New York, December 9. — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spies Rip, who since their marriage, six years ago, have been adepts in the younger set in society, have separated. Mr. Rip has taken apartments in the Hotel Savoy Mr. Spies Rip has gone to live in the University club. The apartment in the sorine, Seventh avenue and Fifty-fourth street, in which Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Quentin Jones, returned to this city a few months ago from Paris, where he had come to study operas in grand opera. On her return she said Mr. Rip and she had given many unusual entertainments, has been closed. Mrs. Rip, who is a daughter of Mrs. Louis Quentin Jones, returned to this city a few months ago from Paris, where she had come to study several operas in grand opera. On her return she said Mr. Rip and she had given many unusual entertainments, has been closed.

New York, December 9. — Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spies Rip, who since their marriage, six years ago, have been adepts in the younger set in society, have separated. Mr. Rip has taken apartments in the Hotel Savoy Mr. Spies Rip has gone to live in the University club. The apartment in the sorine, Seventh avenue and Fifty-fourth street, in which Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Quentin Jones, returned to this city a few months ago from Paris, where he had come to study several operas in grand opera. On her return she said Mr. Rip and she had given many unusual entertainments, has been closed. Mrs. Rip, who is a daughter of Mrs. Louis Quentin Jones, returned to this city a few months ago from Paris, where she had come to study several operas in grand opera. On her return she said Mr. Rip and she had given many unusual entertainments, has been closed.

The administration of Comdr. Richard Wainwright as superintendent of the naval academy closed yesterday. He left Annapolis yesterday for Boston, where he will join the United States steamship Newark, which will be the flagship of the Atlantic squadron. Only a short ceremony attended the departure of the superintendent. Five battalions of marines were drawn up at the main entrance to the academy, and as the carriage containing the superintendent and Mrs. Wainwright drove by the naval academy the band played "Should auld acquaintance be forgot?" A number of naval officers and midshipmen assembled at the railroad station and cheered Comdr. Wainwright as he boarded his train. Comdr. C. E. Coulahan is acting superintendent until the return of Capt. William H. Bowers, the new superintendent, who is expected at Annapolis by Wednesday.

Y, OCT, 29, 1902.

By special announcement, Mrs. Henry Spies Rip's 12th birthday was spent here by the family, who have not been together since the transfer of the family to New York. The family consists of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Spies Rip, who have two children, and Mrs. Henry Spies Rip, who is a daughter of Mrs. Louis Quentin Jones, returned to this city a few months ago from Paris, where she had come to study several operas in grand opera. On her return she said Mr. Rip and she had given many unusual entertainments, has been closed.

Mrs. Rip, who is a daughter of Mrs. Louis Quentin Jones, returned to this city a few months ago from Paris, where she had come to study several operas in grand opera. On her return she said Mr. Rip and she had given many unusual entertainments, has been closed.

The ceremony was performed in the Church of the Messiah at 5 o'clock, in the presence of a large audience of fashionable people from Brooklyn and New York. The groom is a nephew of Professor Henry Ferguson of Trinity College and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin Howard of No. 525 Lincoln place, Brooklyn, prominent society people.

OCTOBER 28, 1902.

SECRETARY KING HONORED.

Forty Years' Service in the Aetna Insurance Company Remembered.

The officers and clerical force of the Aetna Insurance Company met yesterday noon and presented to William H. King, secretary of the company, a handsome cut-glass punchbowl and standard, with silver ladle and glasses, and gilt finished mirror tray, in honor of the fortieth anniversary of his beginning service with the company. Joseph W. Russell, a clerk of the company, called upon the president, William B. Clark, who made the presentation speech referring to Secretary King's long service in a happy vein. The secretary responded with evident feeling and appreciation of the testimonial. The ladle bears the following inscription:

Presented by Wm. H. King by the Officers and Clerks of the Aetna Insurance Company in honor of the Forty-First Anniversary of his Connection with the Company, 1862-1902.

The inside of the bowl bears the Aetna shield cut in the glass, Monticello, and the name, Ferguson-Howard, 29. A leading society event in Brooklyn, N. Y., yesterday was the wedding of Alfred C. Ludlow Ferguson and Miss Ruth Wadsworth Howard. The ceremony was performed in the Church of the Messiah at 5 o'clock, in the presence of a large audience of fashionable people from Brooklyn and New York. The groom is a nephew of Professor Henry Ferguson of Trinity College and the bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin Howard of No. 525 Lincoln place, Brooklyn, prominent society people.
Miss Anna Geraldine Hall and Walter S. Brown Married at Trinity Church. Oct 29, 1903.

One of the prettiest weddings of the season took place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Trinity Church, when Walter Spencer Brown and Miss Anna Geraldine Hall, daughter of James Philip Hall, were married. The church was beautifully decorated with palms and chrysanthemums and was crowded with friends and relatives of the couple. Rev. Ernest DeF. Mishl performed the ceremony. The bride entered leaning on the arm of her father, to the strains of the wedding march from “Lohengrin,” and was met at the chancel by the groom and Lieutenant Henry S. Hall, U. S. A., brother of the bride, who acted as best man. The bride was dressed in heavy white silk and wore a tiara which was the one worn by her mother at her wedding. She also wore a lace bertha which belonged to her great-grandmother, and carried a bouquet of roses.

Miss Helen Everlon Brown, a sister of the groom, acted as maid of honor to the bride. The bridesmaids were the Misses Phyllis Northam, Mary B. Hall, Mary B. Gray, Alice Tallman, Anna Dunning and Christine Belden. The ushers were John T. Robinson, Frank E. Ford, Theodore A. Coe of New York, Harry J. Wood, Russell B. Belden and Ralph H. Burdett. For an hour preceding the ceremony a concert was given by the organist of the church, under the direction of Organist Tilton of Trinity Church, consisting of many of the favorite selections of the bride. The gifts of the maid of honor, which were specially designed, were crescent-shaped pins set with pearls. The bride and groom received many handsome presents.

Among the relatives and friends present were Mr. and Mrs. W. Pinney, Andover, parents of the groom; Manley Lord, Hebron, grandfather of the groom; Mrs. James H. Francis, Pittsfield, father-in-law of the bride; Rev. Thomas E. Porter of New York, uncle of the bride; ex-Policeman Henry Osborn and Mrs. Hart- ford, aunts of the groom; the Misses Mary and Edna, Mr. and Mrs. Rion L. Dow and two daughters, the Misses Marian and Elizabeth Osborn, Hartford, and General Eberle of No. 150 Wethersfield avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. May E. Swift, Hartford, aunts of the bride, and Edward E. Dow and son, Hartford; Hon. James W. Cheney, and toasts were delivered on the occasion by the cousin of the bride; C. P. Stearns, J. P. Copley, Andover; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loomis, Miss Alta Loomis, the Misses Adelia and Mrs. Annie A. Alford, C. N. Loomis, Miss Adella Loomis and T. D. Daley, Boston; G. O. Southwick, Mansfield. The presents were numerous and costly. The bride is a great-granddaughter of Hamilton Grant of Revolutionary fame, who won a brilliant record at the battle of Bunker Hill.

SPRINGFIELD.

Sandford Dwight Foot, youngest son of the late Col. Homer Foot of this city, is to be married to Miss Carrie Kitchen von Bernuth, daughter of Frederick A. von Bernuth, at All Souls' church, New York, on the evening of the 30th. A reception will be held at the bride's home at Thirty-seventh street, later in the evening.

VON BERNUTH-FOOT WEDDING.

Special dispatch to the Republican.

New York, Thursday, October 30.

One of the finest weddings of the season took place this evening at All Souls' Unitarian church, on Fourth avenue and 20th street, in the presence of 1000 invited guests, the bride being Miss Carrie Kitchen von Bernuth, and the groom Sandford Dwight Foot. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Thomas R. Slicer, pastor of the church. The altar was tastefully decorated with palms, ferns and white and yellow chrysanthemums. The bridal party entered the church at 8:15 to the strains of “Lohengrin.” The ceremony was simple and short. The bride was given away by her father, Frederick Augustus von Bernuth, the only attendant upon the bride was Miss Louisa von Bernuth, sister of the bride.
Property—Secretary Ball's Home

The bride's costume was of white satin, trimmed with lace and flowers, beautifully rendered by Charles L. Saf- ford. The ushers were Charles Southworth of Springfield, Mr Cummings of Boston, R. S. Foot, Mr and Mrs Jonathan Dwight and Mrs Jonathan Dwight, Rev and Mrs Theodore C. Williams, Dr J. M. W. Kitchen and wife of Robert Day Hastings, 13 years old, a nephew of former President Cleveland.

The wedding will take place in October.

The Princess is the wife of a German nobleman, Prince Henry, whom she married in 1891. While as welcome at the court of the kaiser as at that of King Edward, she spends most of the year in England. Her younger sister married the Duke of Westminster, the greatest land owner in London, and one of the richest men in Great Britain. As is well known, her family did not regard with much favor the marriage of George Cornwallis West to Lady Randolph Churchill. Their objections, however, were made solely on account of the great disparity in years between the parties.

Although Princess Henry of Piess spends so little time in Germany, she is immensely popular with the German people who, on account of her delicate beauty, have called her the "fairly princess." It is said that the kaiser worships the ground on which she walks. When his yacht Meteor was at Cowes last autumn, the princess and her husband were invited by the kaiser to use it as if it were their own, and, as soon as the German emperor heard that the princess was to have a stall at the Coronation Bazaar, he sent her for sale a very choice lot of German chinaware. Both King Edward and the kaiser were very anxious to be godfather to the only son of the princess. The only way out of their dilemma was for the princess to refuse to marry, and Mr. Jepson to wed.

The many Hartford friends of Mr. Eugene Jepson, the actor, may be surprised to learn that he is contemplating marriage at a very early date. His engagement to Miss Adelaide Bishop Edelsten is announced, and the wedding will take place in October.

Mr. Jepson, who is now playing "Colonel Heitkiss," in "The Rogers Brothers in Harvard," at the Knickerbocker theater, New York, has always been regarded as a confirmed bachelor. About a year ago, however, Mr. William Edelsten, a lawyer, formerly of Elizabeth, N. J., brought his family including four daughters, to live at No. 723 West One Hundred and Thirty-first street. Mr. Jepson lives at No. 233, with his mother and brother. The two families soon became acquainted, and Mr. Jepson began to pay pronounced attentions to Miss Adelaide Edelsten. The engagement was the natural result.

Mr. Jepson was formerly a member of the Lyceum theater stock company, and was a popular Hartford newspaper reporter before he started on his successful stage career.

S. B. Bosworth Purchases Main Street Property—Secretary Ball's Home Sold.

Stanley B. Bosworth has made an investment in Main street real estate which it is expected will prove a good thing. He has purchased of John Seymour the premises No. 167 Main street, 51x150 feet, with the single brick house now occupied by the Misses Ellen M. and Sophia Seymour, and also a tract in the rear running south in the rear of these three houses to the grocery store, 146x111 feet. There is a mutual gangway running from the rear lot west through to John street, and the land fronting on the south the Seymour property on Park street, used as a vinegar and cider factory. Mr. Bosworth

SURGICAL OPERATIONS.

H. D. Hastings Has Appendicitis—Operations at Hartford Hospital.

Three operations for appendicitis were performed in this city yesterday and another, Dr Jepsonia. Dr. O. C. Smith, was called in Monday night to attend Robert Day Hastings, 13 years old, a son of Mrs. Charles R. Hansel and the late Harry E. Hastings, also a grandson of former President Cleveland. The boy was serving his and his trouble was diagnosed as appendicitis. Yesterday morning Dr. Smith removed the appendix, assisted by Dr. H. G. Howe, Dr. J. W. Blish and Dr. Walter R. Steiner. The case was an acute one and the patient was in a bad condition, but last evening he was resting comfortably with an unfavorable symptom.

Miss Hazel Moore, a popular member of the junior class of the high school, was taken to the Hartford Hospital Sunday morning for an operation for appendicitis. An operation was performed yesterday which was successful and last night her condition was considered favorable. Miss Moore is a daughter of C. Howard Moore of No. 6 Fales street, shipping clerk for the Plimpton Manufacturing Company. She enjoys the friendship of a large number of young people in this city, who will watch with interest her progress toward recovery, which is confidently hoped for.

THE MOST BEAUTIFUL WOMAN IN ENGLAND.

"Beauty can inspire miracles," says Disraeli. Without a dissenting voice Princess Henry of Piess has been called the belle of the past London season and the most beautiful of all the beautiful women in England. Her masses of light, golden hair, her blue eyes and her superb figure beggar description. She is the eldest daughter of Colonel Cornwallis West and his lovely wife and is the sister-in-law of Lady Randolph Churchill, and own sister of the handsome young Duchess of Westminster. As an intimate friend of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, as well as on account of her surpassing beauty, she was one of the most courted women at the many social functions held during the past season, and her presence was eagerly sought by London hostesses at balls and receptions.

Mr. Jepson to Wed.

The many Hartford friends of Mr. Eugene Jepson, the actor, may be surprised to learn that he is contemplating marriage at a very early date. His engagement to Miss Adelaide Bishop Edelsten is announced, and the wedding will take place in October.

Mr. Jepson is now playing "Colonel Heitkiss," in "The Rogers Brothers in Harvard," at the Knickerbocker theater, New York, has always been regarded as a confirmed bachelor. About a year ago, however, Mr. William Edelsten, a lawyer, formerly of Elizabeth, N. J., brought his family including four daughters, to live at No. 723 West One Hundred and Thirty-first street. Mr. Jepson lives at No. 233, with his mother and brother. The two families soon became acquainted, and Mr. Jepson began to pay pronounced attentions to Miss Adelaide Edelsten. The engagement was the natural result.

Mr. Jepson was formerly a member of the Lyceum theater stock company, and was a popular Hartford newspaper reporter before he started on his successful stage career.
Who is an “East-Sider” by Choice and for Unselfish Reasons. (The Outlook.)

When Dr. Robbins, formerly the head worker of the College Settlement in New York, went recently to Cleveland, Ohio, to take struggling settlers, her going brought out strikingly the institutionalized good of all sorts and was given by J. E. Robbins.

A Settlement Worker Well Known in Hartford.

The October number of the "Outlook" has an interesting article on "Settlement Workers and Their Work." It gives a number of illustrations, including one of Dr. Jane Robbins, which is reproduced herewith. Miss Robbins is a native of Wethersfield, daughter of the late Deacon Richard A. Robbins, and sister of Edward D. Robbins, the lawyer. The "Outlook" article says:

"Dr. Jane E. Robbins, in a sense the pioneer on the East Side, who went toFive Points because a medical student had said that teachers were wanted there, and before Christmas I had begun to assist Miss Jeanne Cassard, who for five years prior to going to Baltimore, was connected with the Whittier house in Jersey City. Dr. Robbins, who was formerly connected with the Normal College Alumnae House in Baltimore, will return to New York.

Dr. Jane E. Robbins, of New York, who, since last December, has been in charge of the Locust Point Social Settlement home in Baltimore, will retire from the head of the house April 15. Dr. Robbins's successor will be Miss Jeanne Cassard, who for five years prior to going to Baltimore, was connected with the Whittier house in Jersey City. Dr. Robbins, who was formerly connected with the Normal College Alumnae House and the Locust Point mission, will return to New York.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.

A. THOMAS RICKARD.
OCTOBER 25, 1902.

The engagement of Mrs. Alfred Roosevelt, whose husband, Mr. Roosevelt, was a second cousin of President Roosevelt, to the Rev. T. J. Bowker, professor of mathematics at Harvard college, Hertfordshire, England, was a decided surprise to Boston society. Mrs. Roosevelt's first husband, by whom she had three children, two daughters, and a son, all living, died at his then summer residence at Mamaroneck, N. Y., on July 4, 1891, from injuries received the previous day when trying to board a moving train for New York at the Mamaroneck railway station. He was a son of the late Mr. James A. Roosevelt and Mrs. Elizabeth L. L., and a brother of Mr. W. Emen Roosevelt and Mrs. Revere-Merritt. Mr. Roosevelt's marriage to Miss Catharine Lowell, daughter of the late Augustus Lowell of New York, took place in 1895.

In the presence of only the members of the immediate families and few intimate friends Mrs. Katherine Roosevelt was married to Rev. T. James Bowker of Hertfordshire, England, this morning in the little Church of the Redeemer at Chestnut Hill. The ceremony was performed by Bishop Lawrence, who is a cousin of Mrs. Roosevelt. After the brief Episcopal service the party took carriages to the home of Miss Amy Lowell, a sister of the bride, on Warren street, Brookline, where Mr. Bowker will live at 282 Beacon street, Boston. The wedding breakfast was served there.

On their return from a tour Mr. and Mrs. Bowker will live at 222 Beacon street, where Mr. Bowker will continue his work in the field of mathematics, of which branch he was professor in Haldenbury College, England.

Mrs. Bowker is the daughter of the late Augustus Lowell. Her first husband, a second cousin of President Roosevelt, was killed in an accident at Rye about ten years ago.

Mrs. Bowker was presented at the engagement of Mrs. Alfred Roosevelt. The engagement was announced by the Rev. T. J. Bowker, professor of mathematics at Harvard college, Hertfordshire, England. The engagement was announced by the Rev. T. J. Bowker, professor of mathematics at Harvard college, Hertfordshire, England.

CARRINGTON-DEPUE.—At the residence of Dr. E. P. Parker, November 22, 1902, Mr. Arthur Wilson Depue of Philadelphia and Mrs. Mary Eno Carrington of Hartford, Conn., were married by the Rev. E. P. Parker, pastor of the South Congregational church, on Wednesday, the 23rd. The wedding was a very quiet one, and was witnessed by only the nearest relatives of the Misses Mary Eno Carrington of this city, formerly Mrs. Thomas Carraswell, and Arthur Wilson Depue of Philadelphia were married by the Rev. E. P. Parker, pastor of the South Congregational church, on Wednesday, the 23rd. The wedding was a very quiet one, and was witnessed by only the nearest relatives of the Misses Mary Eno Carrington of this city, formerly Mrs. Thomas Carraswell, and Arthur Wilson Depue of Philadelphia.
She Was One of the Few Real Ones and Is Mourned in Verse.

[New York Commercial Advertiser.]

Annie Jones, who died on Wednesday in Brooklyn, was a real "bearded lady." In the world of the showman such freaks have always been rare and fakes plentiful. Annie Jones, known as "Jonsey" among the show people, was one of the best specimens of bearded womanhood that has ever been put on exhibition. She traveled all over this country and Europe on exhibition as a freak. She was on exhibition in this city about six years ago in a dime museum, and the "professor" who lectures there says he remembers her distinctly. The professor goes from one exhibit to another exploiting the wonders of each in doggerel verse. According to his own statement, he is something of a natural poet.

So Annie Jones is dead, is she? That surely is bad news to me, he said, when told that the bearded woman had passed away. "I remember her very well," he said, lapsing into verse. She was six years ago, and sat right there," pointing to a cage occupied by the human-faced hen. "There's her picture hanging there on the wall.

"To my knowledge," he went on, "there are only five real bearded ladies in this country, on earth, for now that Annie Jones is dead, there are only four. Bearded ladies are in great demand, much more so than the ordinary variety. I've really only two left, I'm smiling. "They two are one of the best attractions museums can obtain. There are more fake bearded ladies than all the other fake freaks put together, but they are never exhibited here, for I would scorn to introduce anything but legitimate features.

Annie Jones was the queen of bearded ladies. I knew her from a child, and the hirsute growth on her head and face was so wonderful that she was commonly known as the female Esau."

He broke off at this point, and after watching at his watch, blew a shrill whistle. The three-piece orchestra stopped suddenly and the professor raised his voice up to the other end, gentlemen, without delay.

"This mammoth show will begin right away."

He then returned to his subject. "When Miss Jones was born she had a growth of goosey hair which nearly covered her face." Here he received an inspiration and switched off into verse:

At sixteen she had a full beard that a man might treasure, And be his pride and wear with pleasure.

"As I remember," he went on, "she was an enthusiastic flirt, and I have forgotten the exact number of times she was arrested, but I was considering. As I said before, she was much of a flirt and used to compete successfully with the other ladies of the show. She was frequently arrested by police, and who took her for a man masquerading in woman's clothes. She would be taken to the police station in order of one

A recent important business change in this city is the purchase by Charles G. Lincoln of the interest of Robert N. Seyms in the wholesale grocery firm of Lincoln, Seyms & Co. The title of the new firm is Charles G. Lincoln & Company. Mr. Lincoln is a business man of much experience, and has been connected with this house for twenty years. In buying the business Mr. Lincoln secures the accounts, and all the copyrighted and private brands, such as Union Club Coffee, Russian Oolong tea, and many other brands of coffee, spices, tobacco and cigars. The goods of the company have a high standard of quality, which will of course be fully maintained by Mr. Lincoln. Besides being the largest handlers of teas and coffees in Southern New England, Mr. Lincoln has begun the manufacture of fine cigars, and this feature of the business promises to become very important. Cigars of all kinds and brands of cigars have caught the popular fancy.

The plant for conducting the various branches of the business is a large one, occupying a two large buildings on Market street of five floors, with a large mill building for roasting and manufacturing coffee. The growth of the Lincoln business during the past two years has been phenomenal. There are fifteen salers men on the road, and a large corp of employees.

November 21, 1902.

Robert N. Seyms, until recently a member of the wholesale grocery firm of Lincoln, Seyms & Co., on Market street, has bought out the old established wholesale grocery house of Foster & Co., has leased the building on the corner of Grove and Front streets and is conducting the business under the firm name of Seyms & Co., which was for many years the name of the old grocery house in the City Hotel block with which Mr. Seyms was associated.

The house of Foster & Co. is one of the oldest, if not the oldest, established businesses in the city. It was started in 1821, seventy years ago, by James P. Foster and Ralph H. Foster, brothers, who continued until 1853, when James P.'s sons, Frederick R. Foster, George B. Foster and James Phelps Foster, brothers, who continued until 1863, when James Phelps Foster, the firm has consisted of George B. Foster and James Phelps Foster, brothers, who have enjoyed a long and honorable career in the business.

Mr. Seyms was born into the grocery business and backed by abundant capital in the desire of developing the business adding to the established reputation the old firm has enjoyed, the advantages of energy and ambition to succeed. The Messrs. Foster take an office on State street, where they will liquidate accounts due to and from the old firm.
The Rev. Mr. Mar. Celebrates fifty year labor. MABELLE GILMAN.

Mr. and Mrs. Chandler at Home.

The company presenting "The Liberty Belle."
Threefold Celebration for Rev. Morgan Dix of Trinity

November 1, 1902.

In St. Paul’s Chapel this evening the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, of Trinity Parish, will be honored by a threefold celebration, marking the seventy-fifth year of his age, the fiftieth anniversary of his taking holy orders and the fortieth year of his rectorate of Trinity Parish. An elaborate and beautiful service of thanksgiving is to be held cele-

H. Brown, of St. John’s Chapel. The service will be sung by Rev. Robert Morris Kemp, and Rev. J. Nevett Steele, vicar of Trinity, will read congratulatory resolutions from the clergy of Trinity Parish. Col. William Jay, clerk of the vestry, will read an address from the church wardens and vestry men, and Rev. W. Montague Geer, vicar of St. Paul’s, will make an address of congratulation and present the loving cup to Dr. Dix, who will reply.

Around the rim of the loving cup is an appropriate inscription, and one panel bears the following: “A token of true appreciation by this church to honor and love.”
Some months ago the union of anniversaries celebrated to-day was discovered by Rev. Robert Morris Kemp, assistant minister of St. Paul's Chapel, and on account of Dr. Dix's early and long connection with St. Paul's it was planned to commemorate the occasion with appropriate observances. As soon as the idea became generally known, the preparations leaped beyond all intended bounds, and with the indorsement of Trinity Corporation it became a parish celebration. It was decided to hold the exercises in St. Paul's, as the idea originated here, and Dr. Kemp was appointed master of ceremonies.

The service will begin this evening at 8 o'clock, with the processional hymn, "Oh, 'twas a joyful sound to hear," then will follow the eighty-fourth Psalm, sung antiphonally by the chancel and the vested choir. The lesson, which will be the Holy Gospel for All Saints' Day, will be read by Rev. Philip A. of our rector from the clergy and congregation of St. Paul's Chapel, on the seventy-fifth anniversary of his birth, November 1, 1902, in commemoration of the jubilee year of his entrance into holy orders (September 19, 1852), and the fortieth anniversary of his rectorship of Trinity Parish (November 10, 1862)." At the base of the panel is this quotation: "Oh, ye holy and humble men of heart, bless ye the Lord; praise Him and magnify Him forever," selected from the Benedictine.
THE BEARDED LADY

NOW ON HER THIRD AMERICAN TOUR. SHE WILL PRESENT

NEXT TUESDAY EVENING

SENT "THE GIANT" AT THE VICTOria

ELYSIAN DISE.

...r. 0

WASHINGTON, D.C.
The jubilee of the Rev. Dr. Morgan Dix, celebrates fifty years of labor in the ministry by a man whose career finds few parallels. It began on Saturday, Dr. Dix’s seventy-fifth birthday, with services in Old Trinity and St. Paul’s, for which he has been the rector for forty years, and it closed Wednesday night with the presentation of a vaso and an address by a committee of the diocese. This latter tribute would be enough to warrant such an occasion. In that case, the addresses by the men who have worked with and around him would have been a tribute not only to a noble and an earnest man, but would have reviewed the church life of the city during his period through which Dr. Dix has been a strong, conservative force, standing always for the dignity and power of the church and contributing to the work of the church not only the inspiration of a notable example, but the activity and generalship of a broad and able mind. —Brooklyn Eagle.

November 5, 1902. Miss St. John’s Debut.

Large Reception Party at the Home of Mrs. S. B. St. John.

A large party was given yesterday afternoon at the home of Dr. Samuel B. St. John, No. 314 Washington street, when Mrs. St. John gave a tea as a debutante’s reception to her daughter, Miss Ella Morgan St. John, to introduce her to society. There were elaborate floral decorations in the house, the reception room being decorated with handsome bouquets of cut flowers, presents to Miss St. John from many of her young friends. Palms and ferns were used in other parts of the house and the entire effect of the decorations was due to the activity and generalship of a refreshments served. The table where the refreshments were served was set with old silver, heirlooms in the St. John family, and the coloring effect was produced by several classmates of Miss St. John, Mrs. Henry Ferguson, Mrs. Archibald A. Welch, Mrs. T. Belknap Beach, Mrs. Ralph W. Cutler, Mrs. Henry Pennington Toler, who, as a number from New York, Mrs. George Spencer Hart, wife of the New York broker and golf expert, and Mrs. George Spencer Hart of New York.

The bride, who was unattended, was escorted up the aisle by her brother-in-law, Mr. Train. Her gown was a beautiful combination of gray chiffon and gray taffeta, made with a train, the neck finished high and the bodice with long sleeves. Raised flowers of chiffon and embroidery gave a charming effect and distinguished the dress. The dress was a further trimmed with rich Byzantine lace. She wore a large gray hat with ostrich plumes of the same hue. Her only ornament was a beautiful diamond sunburst, the gift of the groom.

Arriving at the chancel, which was simply but effectively decorated with palms, chrysanthemums and other blooms, the bride was met by Mr. Bennett, who was accompanied by Mr. Henry W. Lamb of Boston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. William H. Lyon, D. D., minister of the church. During the sealing of the bands by the six ushers, Messrs. Henry Gardner Lord of Brookline, who had charge of the wedding arrangements, Harry K. White of Brookline, James Grant of Brookline, Charles F. Richardson of Wayland, Herbert Astin of Boston, and Stephen Howe Bennett of Boston, a brother of the groom, a choral miscellaneous music was played by Lewis Thompson, organist of the Arlington Street Church; and as the bridal party entered the Lohengrin march was played, the equally familiar Mendelssohn music being played as a recessional.

At the conclusion of the service the immediate wedding party and the members of the two families were driven to Mr. Train’s residence on Chestnut place, where a breakfast was served, followed by a small informal reception. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett will make their permanent home at 60 Davis avenue, Brookline. The guests invited to the church included many of the best-known families of Brookline, Boston, Jamaica Plain, Cambridge, and other near-by places, as well as a number from New York, where the bride has many friends and relatives, and even Philadelphia and Wash-
The marriage of Robert Austin Case and Miss Elizabeth Ruth Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles T. Jones, No. 84 Webster street, occurred yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Church of the Good Shepherd, Rev. E. T. Linesley, rector of the church, officiated at the ceremony, which was celebrated according to the English custom. Miss Mary L. San Souci of Providence was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Anna Bachmeyer and Miss Katherine Geraldine Oakley. The best man was Henry C. Gillette and the ushers were Dr. George H. Henry, John J. Mckone, P. J., Golden and H. S. Kinzie.

The bride was dressed in mousseline de soie over white taffeta, and carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Sadie Louise Pilkington, who wore a gown of white dotted Swiss muslin, trimmed with pink ribbons and carried pink roses. The best man was Royal T. Phillips of Kensington. Mrs. Arthur Moffat of Kensington played the wedding music from "Lohengrin" by Wagner.

A pretty wedding took place last evening at 8 o'clock, when Miss Clara Bell Blodgett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Blodgett of No. 90 Sargent street, and Frederic Eugene Anderson, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Ramney, Miss Frances E. Blodgett, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and William J. Rowland of Wakefield, Mass., was best man. The ushers were Edward Dower of Easthampton, Mass., Harold S. Spencer, Frank G. Campbell and William H. Blodgett, Jr., a brother of the bride. The flower girls were Miss Emma Hyde and Miss Isabel Humphrey, Miss Marion Norwood Echols, who is only 5 years of age, made a pretty picture as the ribbon girl. The bride was dressed in white crepe de chine over white taffeta and carried bride roses. The maid of honor was dressed in pink gauze de sole, carrying pink roses. The house was tastefully decorated with pink and green. Mr. and Mrs. Anderson left on the 10 o'clock train last night for a prolonged trip through the South. They will be at home after December 15, at No. 30 Ashley street.

Mrs. Daggs' Dance

The marriage of William James Phillips of this city was married to Miss Effie May Pilkington, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Pilkington, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the home of the bride's mother on Lincoln street, Thompsonville. The ceremony was performed by Rev. D. Russ Judd, with the Episcopal service. The bride's gown was of mousseline de soie, trimmed with lace and she carried a bouquet of white roses. She was attended by her sister, Miss Sadie Louise Pilkington, who wore a gown of white dotted Swiss muslin, trimmed with pink ribbons and carried pink roses. The best man was Royal T. Phillips of Kensington.

Mrs. Tallman's Second At Home

Mrs. Tallman's Second at Home, Thursday afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock at her home, No. 25 Niles street. It was held yesterday afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock at her home, No. 25 Niles street. It was held yesterday afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock at her home, No. 25 Niles street. It was held yesterday afternoon from 4:30 until 6 o'clock at her home, No. 25 Niles street.

Mrs. Tallman was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Wilbur F. Brainard of Bristol, Mrs. Charles H. Field and Mrs. M. M. Johnson. In the library Mrs. A. M. Williams had charge, while the frappe table was presided over by Miss Katherine Northam, Miss Margaretta Persis and Miss Anne Dunning. Those who presided in the dining room were Mrs. M. M. Johnson and Mr. F. C. Royce, assisted by Miss Mary Gray, Mrs. Florence Burdick, Mrs. Florence Smith and Miss Mary Hovey.
Mrs. Shepard's Reception.

Mrs. Charles Edmond Shepard gave a reception to her friends yesterday afternoon at her home, No. 456 Prospect avenue, from 4 until 6 o'clock. It was one of the social events of the season and a large number were present. The house was tastefully decorated throughout with chrysanthemums, roses and cut flowers. The mantels were banked with them and there were large bunches everywhere. In the dining room the colors were white, pink and blue and the fireplace was filled with chrysanthemums. Sedgwick's orchestra furnished some delightful music.

Those who assisted Mrs. Shepard in receiving were Mrs. George W. Johnston of New York, Miss Anna B. Geer, Mrs. Arthur D. Newton, Mrs. E. T. Hapgood, Mrs. L. D. Fleck, Miss E. H. Pease, Miss C. H. Barbour, and Miss Arline Brown. The ladies presiding at the tables were Mrs. Charles H. Smith, Mrs. John Andrews, Mrs. George W. John- son and Mrs. W. E. Baker. The frappe table was in charge of Miss Edith Russell, Miss DeEtte Samson and Miss Arline Brown.

MRS. GOODWIN’S TEA

November 8, 1902

Given in Honor of Her Youngest Daughter, Miss Janet

The tea given this afternoon by Mrs. Francis Goodwin to introduce her youngest daughter, Janet, is one of the prettiest of the season. The home of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. Goodwin on Woodland street, where the affair is in progress, is beautiful in its floral decorations. The debutante has received a great number of flowers, with best wishes, from her many friends.

Miss Goodwin is assisted in receiving by Mrs. Goodwin and several of her out-of-town and Hartford friends, including Miss Evelyn Jackson, Miss Maude aekson and Miss Ruth Jackson, of Middletown, and Miss Sara Cole of this city.

Husking Bee at Berlin

At the Northrup home, Berlin, Saturday afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Northrup, and the Misses Cora, Edith and Edna Northrup presided over a husking bee. A number of Hartford people were in attendance. As a result of the husking about sixty bushels of corn were made available for the market. The sport was held in the barn, which was lighted with lanterns, and the appearance of a red ear was the signal for applying the rules of the game. Refreshments were served, including cider, pumpkin pie and doughnuts.

The party from Hartford was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Wiley, Miss Emma Gillette, Miss Lou Seym, Miss Florence Frisbie, Miss Esther Owen, Miss Gertrude King, E. C. Frisbie, Hugh Archibald, Mrs. J. S. Peel, Edward W. Frisbie, Hollie Howe and Agar Bunce. Others present were: Miss Jennie Burnham of South Windsor, Miss Jessie Gladling of New Britain, Benjamin Jones, Wil- bur, Doane Bement and Garfield Gibeon of Berlin, H. N. Wood of Springfield, Mrs. F. S. Cadwell of New Britain, Mr. and Mrs. Chaffee of New Britain, and Miss Bertha Graves, Miss Jennie L. Cadwell, Miss Ida Toffif, Miss Florence Ainsworth, Miss Huntman, Miss Col- lins and Mr. and Mrs. William Taylor of all.

EVENING RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Cutler Pres- ent Their Daughter to Their Friends. Nov. 16, 1902.

A charming reception was given from 8 until 12 o'clock last evening by Mr. and Mrs. Ralph W. Cutler, at their home, No. 101 Washington street, to intro- duc their daughter, Miss Elisabeth Cutler, to their friends. The rooms were beautifully decorated with flowers—roses, chrysanthemums, carnations and violets predominating.

Those assisting Miss Cutler in receiving were Miss Helen Ferguson of Pitts- burg, Pa., Miss Florence Thacker of Kansas City, Mo., Miss Elizabeth Lau- der of Pittsburg, Miss Helen Luding- ton of New York, Miss Jean Sharon Work of Lawrence, L. I., Miss Henri- ette Sprague of flushing, L. I., Miss Ethel Howell of New York, Miss Elsa Morgan St. John and Miss Sallie Twitchell of this city.

Throughout the evening there was a throng of guests in hospitable rooms and halls particularly well adapted for such an occasion, itself most notable among coming-out functions in Hart- ford. The receiving party stood in the south reception room, almost embowered by chrysanthemums and roses. Large clusters, branches and sprays of these flowers, with Lawson pinks and violets, occupied every place of vantage throughout the house. The rooms were filled with their fragrance and the general effect was heightened by the softly shaded lights, especially in the very inviting dining room and frappe room.

Although the attendance was large, there was an atmosphere, not only of cordiality, but of warm acquaintance and hence heartfelt enjoyment. After 10 o'clock the younger people improved the opportunity to add to their delight with dancing.

While all was so brilliant within, the street without presented an almost fairy-like appearance. In the foreground were the flitting lights of the carriages and down at the end of the long vista of arching elms, with the moon struggling through the soft clouds above them, was the dome of the Capitol, its golden illumination contributing materially to the beauty of the scene.

Mrs. Andrews's Tea.

Mrs. James P. Andrews gave a tea to a number of her friends yesterday after-noon.

MRS. HART’S TEA.

Given in Honor of Her Daughters at Their Laurel Street Home.

A charming reception was given yester- day afternoon by Mrs. Joseph Clark Hart for her daughters, Miss Helen Hart and Miss Elizabeth Hart, at their home, No. 368 Laurel street, from 4 until 6 o'clock. The rooms were prettily decorated with cut flowers and ferns and the dining and reception rooms were especially attractive to their decorations of roses, chrysanthemums and pinks. Those who assisted Mrs. Hart in receiving, besides her daugh- ters, were Mrs. George W. Glisan, Mrs. Sylvester C. Dunham, Mrs. Charles H. Prentice, Mrs. Edward C. Terry, Mrs. Allen R. Newton, Mrs. A. Eliah Hart, Miss Brown, Miss Helen and Miss Hills. The young ladies presiding over the refreshment and frappe tables were Miss Helen Hubbard, Miss Helen Park- er, Miss Catherine Smith, Miss May Parker, Miss Nellie Robbins and Miss Edith Russell.
Miss Mary Cooley, one of the few hereabouts who has the gold spoon of a "real" daughter of the Revolution, lives in a little wood-colored cottage a quarter of a mile from the Westfield road. She is not only a daughter, but a grand-daughter as well, of the Revolution. Her father was Col. Roger Cooley, who enlisted as a private in the colonial army when 16 years old. He was then known as Roger, Jr., for his father, Lieut. Roger Cooley, also fought through the war. Roger, Jr., fought King George as a private, gaining his title of colonel later by long service in the state militia. He held this rank for many years, being one of the most prominent military figures hereabout. Miss Cooley remembers hearing her father tell his experiences of the war, but her recollection of names dates is not as clear as it once was. The fact that remains most vivid is that Cooley was present and on duty when Andre was hung as a spy at Tant.
Miss Cooley of West Springfield, for whom it was open.

The best card party given in Memorial hall yesterday afternoon from 2:30 to 5 by the Daughters of the American Revolution for their real daughter, Miss Mary Stinnett Cooley of West Springfield, was a success. There were 25 tables in all, and it was learned last evening that at least $50 would be cleared. There were five given prizes, which were won by the following Misses: Helen Lewis of Westfield, Mrs. Rose Ford, Mrs. E. A. Brown, Miss Smith and Mrs. Theodore H. Yoe. Receptions were served and a social afternoon enjoyed.

The real daughter of the Revolution, Miss Cooley, was born in West Springfield, May 18, 1816, and is the only one of the family now living. She is the daughter of Roger S. Cooley, Jr., and grand-daughter of Lieut. Roger Cooley. The queer little house on Rogers avenue in which she has lived for so many years alone is familiar to the residents of that section of the town. Notwithstanding her old age, Miss Cooley still retains most of her faculties, though she is bothered somewhat by lameness. She recalls her ancestors readily and tells many interesting stories concerning them.

Roger Cooley, Jr., Miss Cooley's father, entered the Revolutionary army at the age of 16, and was on duty at the execution of Mr. Ambrose. Miss Cooley recalls many of the stories he used to tell, illustrating the hardships and of the soldier's life. Once when the rations were scarce, it is said, Roger Cooley and a friend captured a sheep, which was immediately killed and dressed. One quarter of the sheep was sent to the officers, and when the colonel heard from whom it came he was heard to say, "Give Cooley a pass whenever he wants to go." After the war he served several years in the Massachusetts militia as a colonel. He lived until 1843, and was twice married. His second wife, Elecia Smith, was the mother of Miss Cooley.

SPRINGFIELD, MONDAY, NOV. 17, 1902.

The marriage of Charles Frederic Dow of this city and Miss Maude Lilian Melvin was solemnised at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. M. Melvin, in Hampton, this state, Monday afternoon, at 1 o'clock. Only immediate relatives were present. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. H. Woodwell. Mr. and Mrs. Dow are on a wedding trip and will return to their home at No. 1, 61 Windsor avenue. Mr. Dow is employed in the office of the Hartford Steam Boiler and Inspection company, and is a member of Company K, First regiment, C. N. G.
Janson-Owen Wedding in New York.

Miss Stetsie B. Owen, daughter of Dr. Henry E. Owen and Mrs. Owen of No. 40 West Fifty-sixth Street, New York, and Johan Janson of Christiansana, Norway, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the bride's home. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Thomas S. Hastings. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Edith H. Owen, and the best man was Henry E. Owen, jr., a brother of the bride. The ushers were David Taylor, J. S. Cockcroft, Cornelius N. Biles, jr., and George Moore. A reception, which was largely attended, followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Janson will sail for Norway next week. They will be in residence of Major Charles H. Owen of this city.

Dr. and Mrs. Henry E. Owen of New York, formerly of this city, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Edith Hunter Owen, and George Haydock Moore, on Wednesday, April 23. The ceremony will be performed by Rev. Dr. Evans of the Forty-second Street Presbyterian Church at the home of the bride, No. 40 West Fifty-sixth street, and will be followed by a large reception.

WATER COMMISSIONER.

In the board of aldermen last evening, Mayor Sullivan presented his nomination of Edward L. Smith as a member of the board of water commissioners for the unexpired portion of the term of the late Edward H. Judd, which expires next April. The mayor's communication was read by City Clerk Smith and Alderman Stone moved that the board go into executive session to act on the nomination.

The board went into closed session and Alderman Stone moved a ballot on the nomination under a suspension of the rules. Alderman Gunning moved that the vote be taken by a yea and nay, which was lost, only four aldermen voting for the proposition. It was decided to take the vote by ballot and Aldermen Bailey and Desmond were appointed tellers. The vote was: Yes, 11; no, 1; blank, 1. Announcement was made that Mr. Smith was confirmed and the executive session was then dissolved.

Edward L. Smith was born in Hartford January 22, 1875, the son of the late Andrew Smith of the printing firm of Clark & Smith, who represented Hartford in the General Assembly in 1868. Mr. Smith was graduated at the Hartford Public High School in the class of 1893 and was the valedictorian of his class, and graduated from Yale University with the degree of A. B. in 1897. He was a Phi Beta Kappa man. During his senior year he was one of the Yale representatives in the inter-collegiate debate with Princeton.

From Trinity College he graduated from the Yale Law School in 1899, and has been in the practice of his profession at the law school for many years.
VENERABLE CHICOPEE RESIDENTS Honored by a Gathering of Friends
From Up and Down the Valley

Friends all up and down the Connecticut valley came to Chicopee Falls yesterday to celebrate with Mr and Mrs Robert W. Bemis the 50th anniversary of their marriage. The Bemis residence, so pleasantly situated on a slight rise of ground, with a fine outlook on river valley and distant hills, lent itself gracefully inwardly to decoration, and with the constant coming and going of people at the reception held from 2 until 10, it easily took on a festive air.

Though many years of married life have passed, during which true six children have been born to the couple, the family circle still remains unbroken, and one of the pleasing features of the celebration was the gathering of the children and grandchildren. The sons and daughters are Benjamin, Robert and Edward Bemis, and Mrs Annie G. Stoddard, Mrs William M. Swan of this city, and Mrs E. R. Dickinson of Amherst. The grandchildren are Adelaide, Benjamin C., and R. B. Bemis, Douglas and Robert Swan, Richard and Jessica Dickinson, Mr and Mrs Bemis were ably assisted yesterday in receiving by their daughters, and the music for the afternoon was furnished by the oldest granddaughter, aided by Miss Mildred Fuller, and in the evening by George Hill of West Springfield.

The Hampden and Franklin harvest clubs were invited yesterday as clubs, and with a host of other guests, the day passed pleasantly, despite the rain.

Mr and Mrs Bemis were married November 26, 1852, by Rev William B. Sprague, at one time pastor of the First Congregational church in West Springfield. Mrs Bemis was Rachel Z. Smith, daughter of Mr and Mrs Jahlleel Smith of Smith Wilbraham, her father being a manufacturer at that place. Later the Smith family moved to this city and then to Chicopee. It also happened that the father of Mr Bemis was a manufacturer, as was also his grandfather, Joseph Bemis, the grandfather, lived at Watertown, and was a manufacturer of paper, and one of which was printed in Philadelphia an American edition of an English encyclopedia many years ago, a set of which was purchased by the old Newburyshire schools. The Bemis estate, being one of the most prominent and influential of the roads in Chicopee, yesterday would up and down the valley.

R. W. BEMIS,

Judge George M. Carrington of Winsted and Miss Laura M. Hine, a sister of Charles D. Hine, secretary of the state board of education, will be married on Tuesday. Miss Hine formerly of Hartford Utley, daughter of Albert and Laura of Carrington is education.

MRS R. W. BEMIS, daughter of the prominent express Company at Hartford and the couple will make this city their home.

Resignation of Ensign Northam.

The resignation of Ensign Edwin T. Northam, Second division, Naval battalion, C. N. G., has been accepted by the adjutant-general, and Ensign Northam is honorably discharged from the military service of the state, to date, May 13, 1902, Lieutenant Lyman Root, commanding the division, has been ordered to warn the members of the division to appear at their armory, to nominate by ballot an ensign.
THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

The President Designates Thursday, November 27.

President Roosevelt at Washington yesterday issued his proclamation designating Thursday, November 27, as a day of Thanksgiving. The proclamation is as follows:

According to the yearly custom of our people, it falls upon the president at this season to appoint a day of festival and thanksgiving.

Over a century and a quarter has passed since this country took its place among the nations of the earth, a period during which we have had on the whole more to be thankful for than has fallen to the lot of any other people. We have been favored with a government under the form of wise and equitable laws, enjoying the protection of the most powerful government in the world, the laws of the United States have spread from the early settlers of Massachusetts, has spread among the people of the United States the one hundred and two, and the blessings of liberty and peace and security have grown to be forever preserved.

Given under my hand and the seal of the state, at the capitol in Hartford, this 27th day of November, in the year of our Lord 1902 and of the independence of the United States the 127th.

GEORGE P. MCLEAN.

By His Excellency's command,

THANKSGIVING ANNIVERSARY AT SAVOY.

Mr and Mrs S. T. Cain of Savoy celebrated the 55th anniversary of their marriage Friday at the home in which they have lived since the time of their marriage. There were numerous friends present, among them being Mr and Mrs J. N. Burnett of Savannah and Mr and Mrs Leonard McConough of Adams, both of which couples have been married over 50 years. Mr and Mrs McCullough were present at the wedding of Mr and Mrs Cain. At the celebration Friday a good dinner was served and afterward there was speaking by Leonard McCullough of Adams, Dea. J. N. Burnett of Florida, who is the son-in-law of Mr and Mrs Cain, Rev L. B. Per- mont, pastor of the Baptist church, and L. L. Burnett of Adams. The remarks of the speakers were such as befitted the occasion, and were heard with great interest by the guests and the aged couple in whose honor they had assembled. Mr and Mrs Cain are in excellent health for people of their years, and are among the best known and respected of Savoy. They have two daughters and a son, Mrs J. N. Burnett of Florida, Mrs R. B. Tower of Adams and Mark E. Cain of Savoy.
Mr. Dooley to Marry.

Mr. Dooley" is to be married to Margaret Abbott, daughter of Mrs. Mary Abbott. Miss Abbott, who used to live in Chicago, of late years has made her home in Paris, and is expected in Chicago by December 1.

Mr. Dooley, a native of Chicago, a celebrated author, is an old acquaintance of Miss Abbott. He is well known as the author of the "Mr. Dooley" series of humorous stories, which have been published in newspapers all over the country.

Chicago, Ill., Nov. 27.—The engagement of Finley P. Dunne ("Mr. Dooley") and Margaret Abbott is announced. Mr. Dunne has leased a house in New York. Miss Abbott, a children's author, has recently achieved fame by winning a basement dandelion flower prize in the woman's handicap golf at Sixth avenue, the international golf matches.

Mr. Dooley was born in Chicago, of early years has made his home in Paris, and is expected to return to Chicago by December 1.
The venerable Gen Alexander S. Webb, long the head of the college of the city of New York, is to lay down his presidency December 1. Search has begun for his successor, and the alumni of the college ask for the election of an alumnus, if this be possible. Meanwhile Prof Alfred G. Compton, ’83, of the department of physics, has been made supervising professor, with the power of president until the permanent officer is chosen. He was the salutatorian of the first class graduated from the college, and the students like and respect him.

MRS. AGASSIZ’S BIRTHDAY.

Friends Give $125,000 for Student’s Building at Radcliffe College.

BOSTON, December 6.—The day of Mrs. Louis Agassiz’s birthday yesterday by the amusement to her that the fondest dream is realized. She recognized the power of president until the permanent officer is chosen. He was the first class graduated from the college, and the students like and respect him.

ELIZABETH CARY AGASSIZ HOUSE.

RADCLIFFE COLLEGE’S CLUB.

The Opening Last Evening—A Radcliffe Girl’s Play, “Marlowe,” Dedicated to Mrs. Agassiz Honored in This Original Woman’s College

Correspondence of The Republican, June 17.

There was opened for inspection for the first time last evening, at Radcliffe college, a building typical of the diversified interests of the 20th-century college girl. Inevitably, it is probably the finest student club-house in the world. Built and equipped at an expense of $100,000, Agassiz house, as it is called, is as perfectly appointed as the most exacting man would wish his favorite club to be, though its scope is quite different from that of the ordinary social organization. Agassiz house was erected as a token of appreciation of the distinguished work of Mrs. Elizabeth Cary Agassiz. For many years the leader of these years, in England, Mr. Davis said:

GERRIT PLAY, “MARLOWE.”

Mr. Davis was born in Hampstead, England, December 19, 1839. He came to this country and lived in this state. He returned to England, where he has been considered one of the oldest, persons in this country. He is in remarkable for his advanced age and enjoyment in life. Mr. Davis has lived in Boston, but he does not do any hard work. Last summer he was president of the college, and the students like and respect him.

Mrs. William H. Walker on his trade here. He has a large brick house, as it is quite different from that of the ordinary social organization. Agassiz house was erected as a token of appreciation of the distinguished work of Mrs. Elizabeth Cary Agassiz. For many years the leader of these years, in England, Mr. Davis said:

UNIQUE AMONG CLUB-HOUSES.

[Agassiz house, the new student building at Radcliffe college.]

THE INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY WHICH

Henry Davis of Burnside Will Observe To-morrow.

EAST HARTFORD, December 9.

Henry Davis, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. William H. Walker on Tolland street, Burnside, town of East Hartford, will celebrate, in a quiet manner, Wednesday, the 93d anniversary of his birthday.

Mr. Davis was born in Hampstead, England, December 19, 1839. He came to this country and lived in this state. He returned to England, where he has been considered one of the oldest, persons in this country. He is in remarkable for his advanced age and enjoyment in life. Mr. Davis has lived in Boston, but he does not do any hard work. Last summer he was president of the college, and the students like and respect him.

Mrs. William H. Walker on his trade here. He has a large brick house, as it is quite different from that of the ordinary social organization. Agassiz house was erected as a token of appreciation of the distinguished work of Mrs. Elizabeth Cary Agassiz. For many years the leader of these years, in England, Mr. Davis said:

UNIQUE AMONG CLUB-HOUSES.

[Agassiz house, the new student building at Radcliffe college.]

THE INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY WHICH

Henry Davis of Burnside Will Observe To-morrow.

EAST HARTFORD, December 9.

Henry Davis, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. William H. Walker on Tolland street, Burnside, town of East Hartford, will celebrate, in a quiet manner, Wednesday, the 93d anniversary of his birthday.

Mr. Davis was born in Hampstead, England, December 19, 1839. He came to this country and lived in this state. He returned to England, where he has been considered one of the oldest, persons in this country. He is in remarkable for his advanced age and enjoyment in life. Mr. Davis has lived in Boston, but he does not do any hard work. Last summer he was president of the college, and the students like and respect him.

Mrs. William H. Walker on his trade here. He has a large brick house, as it is quite different from that of the ordinary social organization. Agassiz house was erected as a token of appreciation of the distinguished work of Mrs. Elizabeth Cary Agassiz. For many years the leader of these years, in England, Mr. Davis said:

UNIQUE AMONG CLUB-HOUSES.

[Agassiz house, the new student building at Radcliffe college.]

THE INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY WHICH

Henry Davis of Burnside Will Observe To-morrow.

EAST HARTFORD, December 9.

Henry Davis, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. William H. Walker on Tolland street, Burnside, town of East Hartford, will celebrate, in a quiet manner, Wednesday, the 93d anniversary of his birthday.

Mr. Davis was born in Hampstead, England, December 19, 1839. He came to this country and lived in this state. He returned to England, where he has been considered one of the oldest, persons in this country. He is in remarkable for his advanced age and enjoyment in life. Mr. Davis has lived in Boston, but he does not do any hard work. Last summer he was president of the college, and the students like and respect him.

Mrs. William H. Walker on his trade here. He has a large brick house, as it is quite different from that of the ordinary social organization. Agassiz house was erected as a token of appreciation of the distinguished work of Mrs. Elizabeth Cary Agassiz. For many years the leader of these years, in England, Mr. Davis said:

UNIQUE AMONG CLUB-HOUSES.

[Agassiz house, the new student building at Radcliffe college.]

THE INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY WHICH

Henry Davis of Burnside Will Observe To-morrow.

EAST HARTFORD, December 9.

Henry Davis, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. William H. Walker on Tolland street, Burnside, town of East Hartford, will celebrate, in a quiet manner, Wednesday, the 93d anniversary of his birthday.

Mr. Davis was born in Hampstead, England, December 19, 1839. He came to this country and lived in this state. He returned to England, where he has been considered one of the oldest, persons in this country. He is in remarkable for his advanced age and enjoyment in life. Mr. Davis has lived in Boston, but he does not do any hard work. Last summer he was president of the college, and the students like and respect him.

Mrs. William H. Walker on his trade here. He has a large brick house, as it is quite different from that of the ordinary social organization. Agassiz house was erected as a token of appreciation of the distinguished work of Mrs. Elizabeth Cary Agassiz. For many years the leader of these years, in England, Mr. Davis said:

UNIQUE AMONG CLUB-HOUSES.

[Agassiz house, the new student building at Radcliffe college.]

THE INTERESTING ANNIVERSARY WHICH

Henry Davis of Burnside Will Observe To-morrow.

EAST HARTFORD, December 9.

Henry Davis, who resides with his daughter, Mrs. William H. Walker on Tolland street, Burnside, town of East Hartford, will celebrate, in a quiet manner, Wednesday, the 93d anniversary of his birthday.

Mr. Davis was born in Hampstead, England, December 19, 1839. He came to this country and lived in this state. He returned to England, where he has been considered one of the oldest, persons in this country. He is in remarkable for his advanced age and enjoyment in life. Mr. Davis has lived in Boston, but he does not do any hard work. Last summer he was president of the college, and the students like and respect him.

Mrs. William H. Walker on his trade here. He has a large brick house, as it is quite different from that of the ordinary social organization. Agassiz house was erected as a token of appreciation of the distinguished work of Mrs. Elizabeth Cary Agassiz. For many years the leader of these years, in England, Mr. Davis said:
LOOMIS–BRADLEY NUPTIALS.

Brilliant Wedding in St. Paul's Episcopal Church in New Haven.

NEW HAVEN, December 11.—In the presence of a brilliant assemblage of invited friends and relatives, at 4 o'clock, yesterday afternoon, were celebrated the nuptials of Miss Bertha Kimberly Bradley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Bradley of York street, and Edward Nathaniel Loomis of New York, a graduate of Yale '89. The ceremony was performed in St. Paul's Episcopal church by the rector, the Rev. Edward S. Lines, assisted by the Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes. The church was simply though very tastefully decorated for the event, green palms and smilax being used almost exclusively.

The bridal gown was of delicate white lace over white satin, which was in turn veiled in chiffon. The gown lacked the conventional stiff bridal effect, and was very dainty and beautiful. The skirt was trained. With this frock she was ultimately to become Mrs. Ingersoll.

The grooms's gift to his bride was a handsome enamelled chatelaine watch, while the bride's gift to him was an exquisite pair of cuff links. The groom presented his best man and ushers gold baroque scarf pins. The bride's gift to her maid of honor was a gold brooch. Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll received a large number of beautiful gifts. They will pass the present winter in Washington, D. C., returning in the spring to Westport, in the town of Avon, which will be their home.

A breach of promise suit, in which several thousand dollars were involved, has recently been settled by Charles Martin Ingersoll of Avon. The money was paid to Miss Esther Scramton of Haddam, who firmly believed she was ultimately to become Mrs. Ingersoll. After the settlement Mr. Ingersoll and Miss Cornelia Stanton Post of Westbrook were married in Grace church, New York.

A breach of promise suit, in which several thousand dollars were involved, has recently been settled by Charles Martin Ingersoll of Avon. The money was paid to Miss Esther Scramton of Haddam, who firmly believed she was ultimately to become Mrs. Ingersoll. After the settlement Mr. Ingersoll and Miss Cornelia Stanton Post of Westbrook were married in Grace church, New York.

One week ago Miss Scranton, who is said to be very attractive, saw a card announcing the coming marriage of Mr. Ingersoll and Miss Scranton. At this time Miss Scranton supposed she was engaged to the bridegroom-to-be, and she immediately consulted Prenite W. Chase, the well-known lawyer of New Haven, in regard to a breach of promise suit. After she had submitted to him some one or two hundred love letters, alleged to have been received from Mr. Ingersoll, a suit was instituted against the young man, the damages being fixed at $5,000. Deputy Sheriff Morris served the papers, and incidentally attached Mr. Ingersoll's house in Simsbury, a wealthy relative of the defendant, gave a bond for his appearance should the suit reach court.

In the meantime, Joseph Russell Jones of Hartford and Paul Ney of New Haven. They were followed by the maid of honor, Miss Ednah Post of New York, cousin of the bride. The bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, Harold E. Post of Westbrook, was the last to enter. The groom, with his best man, Richard Ely of Washington, D. C., entered from the vestry, meeting the bridal party at the chancel steps. At the chancel rail the Rev. William R. Huntington, the rector, was awaiting their coming. The beautiful marriage service of the Episcopal church was read and responded to, from the organ, meanwhile, coming the pianissimo notes of the bridal chorus. The ring ceremony was used, Harold E. Post giving the bride away.

The bride was attired in an imported afternoon reception gown of gray canvas cut on traine and trimmed with white chiffon and cream lace. She wore a hat of gray chiffon trimmed with white ostrich plumes and carried a bouquet of bride's roses. Miss Post, the maid of honor, wore a light blue canvas costume cut on traine and trimmed with white lace and black. She carried yellow roses. Her hat was of white chiffon and velvet.

The groom's gift to his bride was a handsome enamelled chatelaine watch, while the bride's gift to him was an exquisite pair of cuff links. The groom presented his best man and ushers gold baroque scarf pins. The bride's gift to her maid of honor was a gold brooch. Mr. and Mrs. Ingersoll received a large number of beautiful gifts. They will pass the present winter in Washington, D. C., returning in the spring to Westport, in the town of Avon, which will be their home.

Mr. Ingersoll is said to be 24 years of age. His bride is 30, and the daughter of Mrs. George D. Post of Westbrook. Miss Scranton is in her 25th year.
FOR OVER FORTY YEARS.

M. H. HEWINS HAS BEEN IDENTIFIED WITH BILLIARDS.

The announcement of the retirement of Matthew H. Hewins from the proprietorship of the billiard rooms at No. 734 Main street which he has conducted for so many years, marks an era in the beginning and the development of the attractive indoor game in New England. On July 19, 1856, Mr. Hewins, in partnership with the late E. B. Strong, opened the billiard rooms from which he will soon retire. The place was equipped with four tables and these were of the regulation size of that period, six feet by twelve, and with six pockets each. Four balls were used in the game at that time and the pocketing of the balls counted in the string as caroms did. Billiards at that time was classed with gambling under the state law, and a billiard table was considered as much of a gambling implement as a roulette wheel or a faro layout. It was lawful at that time, after condemnation, for the authorities to burn, break or otherwise destroy a billiard table.

It was not until 1882 that the law was repealed and billiards placed upon legal equality. With John A. Wallahan, Mr. Hewins's partnership with Mr. Strong continued for about a year and Mr. Strong then retired. In the meantime the late William L. Wood, who for many years had kept the Clinton Lunch, which was located in the west half of the building on Central Row now occupied by the Hotel Climax, bought the property where the billiard rooms are and went into partnership with Mr. Hewins. The rooms were enlarged and more tables were added. Of the ten tables at that time, nine were pocket tables and one for caroms simply. Of all the tables the corner table was the last to be taken when the rooms were filled with players. To-day, except the pool tables, there are no pocket tables in the establishment.

On March 2, 1889, the memorable fire in Wood's building took place and the billiard rooms were entirely ruined. The night of the fire was cold and bitter and the firemen suffered a great deal in getting control of the flames. The building was reconstructed and the billiard rooms refitted, and on October 6 following were thrown open to the public. Since then Wallahan and Hewins have been the proprietors. Of the experts at fifteen-ball pool, Frey, D'Oro, Manning, Clearwater and Malone and many others have exhibited their skill before awe-struck audiences in Hewins's rooms. Under the management of Mr. Hewins many tournaments and matches at billiards and pool have been given in the public halls of the city. Of exceptional note was the match between Vignaux, the French champion, and Jacob Schaeffer, the wizard, played in Allen Hall now the Auditorium, about fifteen years ago. The game was at the balk-line and the American defeated the Frenchman after a close and exciting contest. Another noteworthy contest was the game between Garnier and Cyrille Dion at the Opera House. In this the French player was the winner.

Mr. Hewins himself took part in many tournaments and matches previous to his retirement. He is the possessor of the diamond cue emblematic of the state championship. This cue was first won by the late Gershom Hubbell and then by Mr. Wallahan. Hewins, challenging Wallahan for the cue and won it. He successfully retained it for two years against all comers, when it became his personal property. In the rooms numerous amateur tournaments took place under the management of Mr. Hewins.

MR. SARGENT AN OCTOGENARIAN.

The New Haven Manufacturer Guest of Honor at a Dinner.

NEW HAVEN, December 15.—Joseph B. Sargent, former mayor of New Haven and head of the manufacturing firm of Sargent & Company, was given a dinner at the New Haven house Saturday evening. It was a complimentary dinner upon the eightieth anniversary of his birth. The affair was arranged by the heads of the departments of the firm, many of whom have known Mr. Sargent for more than a quarter of a century. In his formal invitation to them he said: "Upon the eightieth anniversary of your birth it is hoped that you have been speedily that your health and happiness may be your own, and that you may, as you have been for a long time, a great and good captain of industry." Eighty beautiful roses at the head of the table told the story of years in Mr. Sargent's life, and three-score of men—all heads of departments of the firm—sat at a table something of the magnitude of his labor as a manufacturer. Besides, there were a few invited guests, including members of Mr. Sargent's family. At the head of the table the guests were as follows: George H. Sargent, Thomas J. Atkins, William J. Ladd, George Munson, E. C. Baldwin, Henry B. Sargent, Edward R. Sargent, Joseph D. Sargent, G. Lewis Sargent, Bruce Sargent, Frank E. Sargent, William A. Rice, Ziegler, the and Toastmaster Charles Clark Adams.

When the party took places at the tables at 8 o'clock the heads of the departments found a surprise awaiting them. It came in the form of handsome silver tankards, one for each man with his name inscribed thereon, presented by the sons of Mr. Sargent.
A notable wedding in San Francisco last night was that of Miss Edith Huntington and John D. Spreckels, Jr., at the Palace hotel. Archbishop Riordan performed the ceremony, assisted by a number of local clergymen of the Roman Catholic church. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Huntington, and grand niece of the late Collis P. Huntington, the railway magnate. The groom is the only son of John D. Spreckels, the sugar king, owner of the San Francisco Call and one of California's richest men.

CHENEY-BELL—In San Francisco, California, December 16, 1902, Miss Katherine R. Bell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Bell of Los Alamos, Santa Barbara County, California, to Mr. Seth Leslie Cheney of South Manchester, Conn.

OCTOBER 26, 1903.

A son was born yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Seth Leslie Cheney.

FEBRUARY 20, 1904.

A daughter was born yesterday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cheney at South Manchester.

Card from Colonel Cheney.

Seth Leslie Cheney of South Manchester married in San Francisco, December 16, Miss Katherine R. Bell of Los Alamos, Cal., and his brother, Charles Cheney, married, December 22, in the same city, Miss Mary E. Bell, a sister of his brother's wife. So many stories of the two marriages have been published in the newspapers that Colonel Cheney, father of the two young men, asks the publication of the following card:—

To The Editor of The Courant:—

I wish to emphatically deny the truth of the false and malicious statements regarding my marriage of my two sons which appeared in the "New York Sunday Herald" of December 28, and in other papers of the same date. My son Leslie, Seth and his brother, Charles, went to California to be married, with my full consent and approval, and his brother, Charles Cheney, accompanied him to represent the family at his wedding. Both marriages were entered upon with my knowledge and consent. All the statements in regard to the matter are false, and are calculated to cause great annoyance to persons whose private affairs do not belong to the public.

South Manchester, Conn., Dec. 29, 1902.

Nellie-Ann's Treat Wedding in Bridgeport.

Bridgeport, Dec. 15.—George H. Nettleton, Yale '98, an instructor at Yale, and Miss Mary Clark Treat of this city were married here this afternoon by Rev. Dr. Charles Ray Palmer, and Miss Mary Treat was married to Mr. George M. Smith, an instructor at Yale College. The matron of honor was Mrs. Arthur E. Foot of New York, and the bridesmaids were Miss Nettleton of New Haven, state sister of the groom, Miss Hatch of Cleveland, O., Miss Hinch and Miss Patterson of this city. The best man was Arthur E. Foot of New York and the best men were Harry J. Fisher of New York, James B. Neale of Scranton, Pa., John M. Gaines and Lewis P. Sheldon of New York city.

DECEMBER 16, 1902.

Mr. and Mrs. John Bolton Simpson, of 988 Fifth avenue, this afternoon will give a large reception to introduce their daughter. The debutante will be assisted in receiving by the Misses McCurry, of Youngstown, O.; Miss Helen Halsey, of East Orange, Miss Florence Barbour, of Hartford, Conn.; Miss Ethel Jones, of Scanton, Pa., and the Misses Maude Crombie, Anne Katzenbach, Late Wagsstaff, Mabel Adams, Florence Kelley and Miss Grace Eaton, of this city.

Miss Simpson will wear a gown of white embroidered museline. Mrs. Simpson's gown will be of gray more, with duchesse lace. The drawing room decorations are in Southern suzani, palms and white roses, and pink roses will be used in the supper room. Mrs. Simpson entertains the receiving party at dinner. Among those who expect to be present are:

Justice and Mrs. Henry Bischoff, Justice and Mrs. Charles H. Trotz, and Mrs. J. W. Herbert, Rev. and Mrs. E. M. Stires, Col. and Mrs. W. D. Mann, Dr. and Mrs. A. Jacob, Hon. Carl Schurz, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dodson, Justice Mrs. Vernon M. Davis, Rev. and Mrs. J. E. Price, Mr. and Mrs. Ashbel P. Fitch, Hon. and Mrs. Charles W. Dayton, Mr. and Mrs. Carl H. De Silver, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Simpson.

Mrs. Edward A. Smith Entertains at Her Home on Elm Street.

The reception given by Mrs. Edward A. Smith at her home, No. 107 Elm street, yesterday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock, was a brilliant affair and was attended by a large number of her friends. During the afternoon Gogorza, the well known baritone soloist of New York, entertained the guests with a number of beautiful songs. The decorations were most artistic, roses and carnations abounding on all sides, and the light in the rooms came from myriads of small candles.

Mrs. Smith was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Appleton R. Hillyer, Mr. and Mrs. William DeLosa Burt, Mrs. Francis A. Crum, Mrs. Charles C. Cook, Mrs. William DeLoss Love, Mrs. Collin Stokes, Hon. Mrs. William S. Lines, Mrs. Everett Moree, Mrs. Mary E. Hovey and Mrs. Harry Kitson of Springfield. The young ladies presiding on the refreshment and frappe tables were Miss Florence Gay of Farmington, Miss Margaret Holcombe, Miss Mary Hillyer, Miss Ethel House and Miss Edna St. John. The caterer was Mrs. Newport.

Mrs. Henry Hovey's Tea.

Mrs. Henry Russell Hovey gave a charming tea in honor of her daughter, Miss Hovey, at her home, No. 71 Prospect avenue, yesterday afternoon from 4 until 6 o'clock. The rooms were prettily decorated with pink roses and scarlet carnations and they presented an extremely attractive appearance. Those who assisted Mrs. Hovey and her daughter in receiving were Mrs. George H. Burt, Mrs. Francis A. Crum, Mrs. Charles C. Cook, Mrs. William DeLoss Love, Mrs. Collin Stokes, Hon. Mrs. William S. Lines, Mrs. Everett Moree, Mrs. Mary E. Hovey and Mrs. Harry Kitson of Springfield. The young ladies presiding with Miss Hovey over the frappe and punch bowls were Miss Marion Tallman, Miss Margaret Persse, Miss Nan Dunning, Miss Edith Russell, Miss Ethel Comstock of Ivoryton, Miss Jesamine Rockwell, Miss Louise Case, Miss Katherine Northam and Miss Louise Robbins.
YEARS IN BUSINESS,
M. H. HEWINS RETIRES
OCTOBER 27, 1906.
DEAN OF BILLIARD ROOM PRO-PRIETORS RETIRES.

SAID TO BE THE OLDEST MANAGER
IN THE WORLD.

Billiard Tables Could be Burned According to Law Up to the Early 60's—Reminiscences of Early Billiard Rooms and Billiard Players.

Matt. H. Hewins, who has been in the billiard business at one stand longer than any one else in the world, has retired. He has been located in the business line in Hartford for 48 years. He still retains a financial interest in the Matt H. Hewins Billiard Room Company but he intends to sell the stock he holds before the annual meeting of the company is held and at that time Michael J. Lynch, the present secretary and manager of the billiard room and white hors made a match with Leland at Hay-Chinook to give Leland 15 points in 60.

George J. Batterson, who was a great lover of billiards, took an early train for Northampton and opened a room in the old Schuyler building in that city. He had six of S. D. Creigan's tables, with composition beds. The composition was made with linseed oil, spread on with a towel and leveled off with a steel straight edge.

While here, Mr. Creigan received an order from Colonel Samuel Colt for two white marble carved tables at $1,000 each, to be delivered in six months from date. At the end of six months the tables were not ready and Colonel Colt gave him three months more. They were not ready then and he gave an order to Phelan & Collender for two plain mahogany ones and I think they were in the Colt mansion now; they were there a short time ago. The two marble tables were completed and shipped to New York and delivered at the Colt mansion, I have seen them often in one of the public rooms kept by William Robin.

It was in Mellen's room that I served my first apprenticeship in the billiard business. Major J. B. Burbank taught me how to shoot, or what little he knew about the game, having only played it about a year.

Mr. Rothschild had three tables in a hall in the upper part of the building on Market street where he had a large beer saloon and eating house on the ground floor.

Frank Stratton, who kept a music store in the old Connecticut Street building and afterwards went to New York and made a fortune in the manufacture of musical instruments, opened a room with three tables under Union Hall in the house formerly occupied by Colonel Samuel Colt before his house on Washington Avenue was built.

In 1855, Michael Walahan opened a room in the Akins Hall building with three tables, and I worked in the pool room. He remained there up to the time of the fire. Then David J. Pilkington kept it for many years.

In 1865, Graham B. Hubbell opened a respectable billiard room in Town Hall, at the corner of Main and Centre streets, which is now occupied by a dress store.
York, he had come up to the opening of tr, was the rising young player in New of Leland. At this time Barney Chris would be beating at billiards by the narrr opinion the Springfield people had a as our amusement laws prohibited they had to go to Springfield to see it. and the Western railroad center. If they had the United States Armory time by people living in Springfield, they looked upon as a country town at that match for the first time. Hartford was "Here it was that I saw a billiard tion. Rubber, cork and leather were rating the height of the cushion was changed up to the present time, Low- shape of the rubber has hardly been could do was to play for safety unless was the first real improvement in bil- The Connecticut River Bank was on the corner, where the Red Stag is now located. This was the first public bil- room in Hartford. "About 1843, Rodney Shephard opened the third story of the old Connecticut House, in the Hills Hotel now stands, a room with four tables, fitted with Pathey's patented combination cushion. This was the first real improvement in billiard tables. Up to this time the cushion was so high that when your ball hit it, it shot so far away that you could do was to play for safety unless the other ball came close together. The shape of the rubber had hardly been changed up to the present time. Lowering the height of the cushion was the greatest part of the combination cushion. I made the rubber myself, using the ingredients used in the combin- Hubbell was the manager of the Western Union telegraph office, which was located in the same building. He never gave the billiard business his personal attention and closed the room in about two years. "Dwight Mitchell jr. opened a room with three tables in the rssess block at the corner of Main and Sheldon streets and it was run by James Flower about a year after Mr. Hubbell's in the City block." In March, 1850, the Wood building was burned. Mr. Hewins had leased the Clinton House property of Mr. Wood and he opened a room with six billiard tables in the store west of his property on Central Row. I do not know how long he owned this property. "In the forty-eight years since the t was the first billiard table to my knowl- "That was between 1840 and 1850. It blew over. posts, and kept there until the storm came out in billiards or in that line we many tables they had but there were two on the third floor. All the patronage was at this time the blue hotel. Before and people who had visited New and Boston found that the game was one of science and that business remained and formed a partnership with Mr. Wood, under the name of Matt H. Hewins & Co., this was in 1857. Mr. Wood went to Galveston, intending to remain there, and I bought his interest in the rooms and ran the after Mr. Hewins's record. "Colonel D. A. Rood had tables in the city in the last of the war. We then formed a new partnership under the old name of Clinton House and lasted until October, 1866, when I gave back Mr. Wood's interest in the room which he had purchased for my own name until June, 1860, when the business was bought by Mr. Hewins and it is now the Matt Hewins Hilliard Room Company." Mr. Hewins was in New York a few years ago and in talking with John Schaefer and George Bloomen about his early experiences Mr. Eroos told him he thought he was the oldest billiard room proprietor in one place in the United States. He experienced days back farther than any one else in the country. Mr. Schaefer was sure there was no one in the world who could match Mr. Hewins's record. When Mr. Hewins first obtained his knowledge of billiards the game was a good deal different than it is today. Until 1822 there was a law on the Connect- concept that proposed that every billiard table found in this state could be taken to the public square and burned. The lawmakers must have placed billiard tables in the same class with willock. Any one who placed billiards before 1822 was looked upon as a gambler and a billiard table was regarded the same as any gambling tool. To a reporter for "The Cour- and Mr. Hewins recounted his remin- ert in commanding the billiard department of the business. We were together about a year and then he withdrew from the billiard busi- ness to start a grocery store at the present location of the Connecticut Old South Hotel building on land that he bought of Captain Gore in 1857. He put up a room there and burned. The lawmakers must have regarded the game and the playing of the people in the room as bad as above all. To a reporter for "The Cour- was the manager of the Western Union telegraph office, which was located in the same building.
I (his best man his brother) living in London, was one of the most brilliant so far of the season. The ceremony was performed at noon to-day at Grace Church, which twenty-seven years ago was the scene of Mr. and Mrs. Kountze's wedding. The church was decorated with white flowers and Christmas green.

The ushers were Francis L. V. Hoppin, Allen Wallace, De Lancey Kountze, Charles De Looscy Oehlrichs, Robert L. Gerry and Ernest Iselin. Among the four bridesmaids: Miss Alice Ward, Miss Eleanor Jay, Miss Evelyn Parsons and Miss Lina Kountze, of Denver, a cousin of the bride. A younger sister, Miss Anna Ward Kountze, was the maid of honor and the bridesmaid for his best man his brother Mr. Robert L. Kountze.

Bishop Potter officiated at the ceremony, being assisted by the Rev. Dr. Huntington, rector of the church. An interesting feature was the fact that the bishop, then Dr. Potter, rector of Grace Church, performed the same service for Mr. and Mrs. Kountze. The gown worn by the bride was of satin, and had for trimming the same point lace worn on the wedding gown of her mother. Her veil was fastened with a half wreath of orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of lilacs of the valley.

The bridesmaids looked charming, being dressed alike in frocks of white chiffon and lace. All wore large picture hats and carried bouquets of roses. Several hundred guests were present at the church, but at the reception which followed at the Kountze home, 5 East Fifty-second street, only the relatives and intimate friends were present. A wedding breakfast was served, the guests being seated at small tables. The bridal party occupied one large one decorated with roses.

Mr. and Mrs. Livingston will leave this afternoon for a brief southern trip, and return the 1st. Wonders will never cease. The Marchioness of Donegal has had a son and heir. This arrival makes a record for the family.

William E. Butler and Miss McKee Married on Adelaide Street.

William E. Butler of Stamford, formerly of West Hartford, and Miss Florence T. McKee of Farmington, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McKee, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Christopher Robertson, No. 114 Adelaide street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George L. Clark of Wethersfield, formerly of Farmington, in the presence of about sixty relatives of the bride and groom and invited guests.

The bride was Miss Jennie C. McKee, a sister of the bride. The ushers were John Thomas McKee and Charles Moody McKee of Farmington, brothers of the bride.

The bridal couple stood under an arch of green and white and the bridal party took place last December in London, at St. George's, Hanover Square.—[M. A. P.]

The birth of a son and heir to the octogenarian marquis of Donegal reminds one of the very interesting fact that the famous Savage's novel of "The Coming Man," whose becoming a father at over 80 so overturned the expectations of Reuben Medillcott. The occurrence is rare, but there are some important historic instances. The old marquis's wife was Miss Twining of Halifax, N. S., and she is 22 years old.
Wedding of Hartford Lawyer at Columbus Green.
(Special To The Courant.)

Willimantic, Dec. 31.

There was a pretty home wedding at the residence of Mrs. Gertrude M. Hutchins on Columbus Green at 12:30 to-day, when Gertrude Ford Hutchins and Edward Myron Yeomans of An- dover were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Jasper P. Har- vey, pastor of the Columbus Congregational Church. The parlor of the residence were tastefully decorated with potted plants and ferns. The bridesmaid was Miss Maud H. Smith of Willimantic and the best man was Frank E. Healy of Hartford. The bride's dress was of white crepe de chine, trimmed with chiffon and embroidered chiffon. She carried white roses. The bridesmaid was dressed in white etamine over silk and carried pink carnations.

A wedding dinner and reception followed the ceremony. Mrs. Yeomans took an afternoon train for a wedding journey and on their return to home they will reside in Andover, where they will be at home after January 1st. The wedding was attended by guests from Hartford, Springfield, New Haven, Rockville, Norwich and Willimantic. Mr. Yeomans is a graduate of the Windham High School and Trinity College and a practicing lawyer with an office in Hartford. Mrs. Yeomans is also a graduate of the Windham High School.

Charles Goodman and Miss Augusta Street Williams, both of Oakland, Cal., were married in Sacramento in December 31. Mr. Goodman was formerly of this city and is a brother of Arthur NEW YEAR'S EVE WEDDING.

Marriage of E. Howard Geer and Mrs. Alice J. Wheaton.

In the presence of a large number of friends, E. Howard Geer, for many years adjutant of Robert O. Tyler Post, G. A. R., and Mrs. Alice A. Wheaton, were married Wednesday evening at the home of the groom, No. 131 Main street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. H. H. Kelsey, pastor of the Fourth Congregational Church. The bride is a cousin of Silas Chapman, Jr. The house was handsomely decorated for the occasion and during the cere- mony the bride and groom stood beneath a canopy formed of the national colors. After the marriage service a luncheon was served. The presents were many and handsome.

Among the guests were Mrs. Silas Chapman, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. George, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Geer, Hon. Lewis Sperry, Mr. and Mrs. B. W. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stannard, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. C. Bassett, Mrs. Elizabeth Webster, Principal Ames of the Brown School and Mrs. Ames, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Burrill, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian P. Sloan, Mr. and Mrs. S. N. Bartlett, Miss Bertha Gearing, Mrs. M. A. Frye, Mr. and Mrs. Judson Prouty, Mrs. Ruth Carpenter and Miss Mabel, Mark of Waterbury, Miss Eda E. Whipple of Colebrook River, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. A Conlan, Miss Nellie Farrell and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Kippen.

Mr. and Mrs. Geer will be at home on Wednesdays in January, from 8 until 9 0'clock. The home cards are printed on paper fifty years old and on them reproduces the devices of the times when they were made.

Wedding AT CANTON, O.

MISS MARY BARBER BECOMES THE WIFE OF MAJOR HARTZELL.

Canton, O., Dec. 30.—Miss Mary Barb- ber, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Barber and niece of Mrs. McKin- ley, this evening became the wife of Major Ralph Hartzell. The ceremony was performed at the Saxton home- stead, formerly the home of the Mc- Kinleys, and was witnessed by Mrs. McKinley, Capt. B. Milligan of the First Presbyterian Church, officiated. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Ida, and the groom by his brother, Fred S. Hartzoll, assistant secre- tary of the McKinley Memorial Associa- tion. Miss Barber was a favorite of the late President McKinley and spent much time at the White House, and was in several presidential parties, making extensive tours of the country as the companion of Mrs. McKinley. She became a great favorite in cabinet circles.

Mrs. McKinley was accompanied by Chief Counsel Brooks of the Pennsyl- vania company and Mrs. Brooks of Shields, Pa., who are guests at her home. Mrs. Brooks having been a friend of her childhood days. Mrs. McKin- ley's gift to the bride was a silver table service. The couple will live in Den- ver where Major Hartzoll is practicing law.

BARRER-DAY WEDDING AT CANTON.

Miss Ida Barber, daughter of Mr and Mrs. M. C. Barber and niece of Mrs. McKinley, and Luther, second son of Justice and Mrs. William R. Day, were married at Canton, O., at 7 o'clock last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. O. B. Milligan, pastor of the First Presbyte- rian church, in the presence of several hundred guests. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Kate Barber, and the groom by his brother, Stephen. For the wedding dinner the bride's table was set in the parlor of the home, and was surrounded by Mrs. McKinley and the members of the Day and Barber families. When the first piece of McKinley was married the late President said that all should have the same bridal gifts when their turns came, and ordered for Mabel McKinley, now Mrs. Geer, a massive silver service. That was duplicated by Mrs. McKinley for Miss Mary Barber last fall and again for one of the参谋 who was in command.
Wethersfield Couple Celebrate Golden Wedding—Whist Club Dance—Local Notes.

An interesting event in Wethersfield was the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. George Richardson Monday afternoon at their home on Broad Street. The inclemency of the weather prevented some from attending, but a large number of friends and relatives called during the afternoon and evening. Letters of congratulation were received. One which gave especial pleasure was from an old friend and schoolmate of Mr. Richard-son's, now living in Gilead, Maine. This gentleman had noticed in “The Courant” items that were to celebrate their fiftieth anniversary and sent this letter of hearty congratulation, recalling in its pleasant events. Another pleasant message of congratulation was signed by thirteen friends and neighbors. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson were married December 29, 1832, in Wethersfield by Rev. Mark Tucker, and have spent their married life in Wethersfield, with the exception of three years in Rocky Hill, Mr. Richardson’s birthplace. From boyhood until some years after his marriage Mr. Richardson was employed on the farm of the late George Wells, and at his death by Mr. Wells’s son, the late George Lewis Wells. He left there to take charge of the Wethersfield town farm, a position which he held faithfully for twenty-one years, giving it up a few years ago for a less active life. Mr. and Mrs. Richardson have three children living, Mrs. Eli Goodrich of Kensington, Mrs. Ralph Vibberts, who resides with her parents, and George Frank Richardson of Hartford. They have twelve grandchildren and fourteen great-grandchildren. Mrs. Richardson has one brother living, Henry Deming of New Britain, and Mr. Richardson has a sister, Mrs. Sarah Cowles of Hartford, and a brother, Henry Richardson, who has been a faithful and much respected employee of the Wells family for nearly sixty years. Both Mr. and Mrs. Richardson are in excellent health and bid fair to enjoy many more years of wooded life.

DECEMBER 31, 1902

PAUL REVERE HOUSE

Historic North End Estate Bought by John P. Reynolds, Jr.—Arrangements Being Made for Its Restoration and Preservation—Sketch of the Property

In these days, when so many of the ancient buildings in American cities are passing away before the expansion of trade, and because of change in environment, it is pleasant to note the intended preservation of one of the oldest houses in the city of Boston, one intimately connected with a Revolutionary hero. At numbers 19 and 21 North Square, stands a venerable wooden house, the stories high, the upper stories overhanging the lower and known as the "Paul Revere Homestead." This, with its lot of 1438 square feet, today passed into the control of John P. Reynolds, Jr., of this city.

When questioned as to his purpose in making this purchase, Mr. Reynolds said: "Being much interested in old Boston and obliterating so many of its historic buildings, it seemed to me, when an opportunity arose to secure Paul Revere’s house on North square, that advantage should be taken of it. It is hoped that others interested in a like way will join in preserving this venerable landmark and that satisfactory arrangements can be made with some of the historic or patriotic societies for its restoration and maintenance under conditions which will allow the public access to it, which it does not now have. The value of the Paul Revere House is comparatively small, but as the building is entirely unsuited to modern purposes, its destruction could not be long delayed unless a distinct effort for its preservation were made.

In his life of Colonel Paul Revere, E. H. Goss has this to say in regard to the old house:

"This old house, with its antique projecting upper stories, was built soon after the great fire of 1710. It is standing, one of the old landmarks, and is in a very fair condition. Its upper stories are occupied as a tenement, while its street door is utilized as a shop.

"It was from the chamber windows that Revere exhibited a unique series of transparents for the first anniversary exercises of the Boston Massacre, held on March 5, 1771. In the same house was the appearance of the ghost of Christopher Snider, ‘with one of his fingers in the wound, endeavoring to stop the blood issuing from him near his weeping; at a small distance, a monumental pyramid with his name on the top, and the names of those killed on the fifth of March from the base;’ underneath this inscription: Snider’s pale ghost, fresh bleeding stands, And vengeance for his death demands.’

"In the next window were represented the soldiers drawn up in front of the people assembled before them; the dead on the ground, the wounded falling, and blood streaming from their wounds; over this was written ‘Foul Play.’ In the third window was the figure of a woman, representing America, sitting on the stump of a tree, with a staff in her hand with the cap of liberty on its top, one foot on the head of a man who was yelling around him, a serpent, her finger pointing to the tragedy. The bells of the town tolled from twelve to one o’clock noon, and from nine to ten o’clock in the evening. Dr. Thomas Young delivered the anniversary oration in the Manufactury House."

Paul Revere bought the place from John Erving, by a deed dated Jan. 13, 1770, and it was from the door of this very building that he went forth to his famous ride on the nineteenth of April, 1775. Here he lived during thirty years of his life, and here his children were born.

The famous "Messenger of the Revolution" was born on Jan. 1, 1735, probably in North street, now Hanover street, opposite Clark street, and near the corner of what is now Tilton street. His father was Paul Revere, but was born Apollos Revolu, being of French Hugenot stock. He was a goldsmith, and after leaving the North Grammar School, Paul, the younger, entered his father’s shop. Here he learned his trade, which enabled him in later years to produce so many exquisite examples of the silversmith’s art now cherished by his descendants and by connoisseurs. Just where he lived after his marriage in 1757, is not known; but five years later his house was in Fish street (now North street), near the head of Clark’s Wharf, opposite Goss. Here he lived until he bought his North Square house, for which he paid 218 pounds, 6 shillings, 8 pence sterling, giving a mortgage on it for 189 pounds, 8 shillings, 6 pence, which later he paid.
Two Daughters of W. W. Bartholomew Married Last Evening.

An unusual event in marriages in this city this season was a double wedding at 6 o'clock last evening, when two daughters of William Wilson Bartholomew and Mrs. Bartholomew were married by Rev. Ernest DeF. Miel, rector of Trinity Church, at the family home, No. 78 Sigourney street. Miss Katharine Altechon Bartholomew, the oldest daughter, and Colin Campbell Wakefield of New York, a cousin of ex-Alderman Walter L. Wakefield of this city, were first married, and then followed another ceremony in which Wilson William Bartholomew of Unionville and Miss Jennette Benton Bartholomew, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bartholomew, were married. Each bridegroom acted as best man for the other and Miss Jennette B. Bartholomew acted as maid of honor for her sister. Afterwards, Mrs. Wakefield acted as matron of honor for her sister. Both brides were dressed alike and wore gowns of white silk crepe meline, trimmed with Duchess lace. They wore bridal veils and carried paper books. The ushers were Lewis M. Robotham of Meriden and George S. Robotham of Unionville, brothers of the second bridegroom, and William C. Bartholomew and Charles W. Bartholomew, of this city, brothers of the bride. The house was attractively decorated throughout with evergreens, palms, ferns and emilax and following the reception a wedding collation was served. There were about 300 guests present, including people from New York, Worcester, Boston, Cherryfield, Me., Meriden, New Haven, Florence, Mass., Tariffville and Unionville. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wakefield of Cherryfield, Me., parents of Groom Wakefield, and Frank Robotham and Mrs. Robotham of Meriden, parents of Groom Robotham, besides a large number of other relatives of each bride and the bridal couple. There was a large number of wedding gifts of silver, gold, china, pictures, furniture and money.

Mr. and Mrs. Wakefield will be at home to their friends after February 1 at Manhattan Terrace, Avenue K and East Eighteenth street, Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mr. and Mrs. Robotham will be at home at Unionville after February 1, where they will live.

ELECTED PRESIDENT.

H. C. Deming and the Mercantile Trust Company.

It was announced in the graphic columns of this paper yesterday that Henry C. Deming of New York had been elected successor to General Louis Fitzgerald as president of the Mercantile Trust Company of New York. Henry Champneys Deming, a native of Hartford, a graduate of the Hartford High School in 1868 and of Yale University in 1872, is the eldest son of the late Henry C. Deming, who in his time was one of the foremost citizens of Hartford, mayor of the city, colonel of the Twelfth Connecticut Volunteers in the Civil War, and an author and orator of note. The new president has been connected with the company since 1880. He is a director in a number of other large New York concerns. The Mercantile Trust Company has a capital of $2,000,000 and a surplus of $5,000,000.

NEW YEAR'S WEDDINGS.

Marriage in Plantsville of Reuben C. Twichell and Miss Stow.

(Special to The Courant.)

Southington, Jan. 1.

Miss Bessie Sarah Stow, daughter of Mrs. Mary Stow of Summer street, Plantsville, and Reuben Carter Twichell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward W. Twichell of New Britain, formerly of Plantsville, were married at the home of the bride this afternoon at 6 o'clock. Silas R. J. Twichell of Hartford, an uncle of the groom, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by four bridesmaids: The Misses Grace Ware of Hartford, Anita Brown of New York, Frances Cummings of Plantsville and Adella Bull of East Orange, N. J. Little Dorothy DeWolfe of Philadelphia, a niece of the bride, was flower girl. Roswell Patterson of New York was the best man and the ushers were Bruce Paddock of Pittsfield, Mass., Keys Winter of New York, Morgan B. Brainard of Hartford of Roswell Wessel of New Britain.

Miss Stow's gown was cream white crepe de chine, trimmed with Irish point lace. The bridesmaids were wool crepe de chine with lace trimmings. Holly comprised the floral decorations. A reception and luncheon followed the ceremony. Habenstein of Hartford catered. After a short Mrs. and Mrs. Twichell will reside at No. 1 Sherman court, New Britain, and will be at home after March 1.

Thompson-Chapman in Rockville.

(Rockville, Jan. 1.

Annis Louise, daughter of Mrs. Amanda Chapman of Elm street, and Harry William Thompson of Putnam were married this afternoon at the home of the bride by Rev. George D. Gould of the Baptist Church. The house was nicely decorated in red and green, the bride being given away by an arch of evergreen and holly. The bride was given away by her uncle, Henry Lewis of Hartford. Mrs. Palmer Southworth Willard of Hartford, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, and Miss Harriet May Chapman, another sister, was bridesmaid. Mrs. James A. Chapman of Palmer, Mass., was best man and the ushers were Palmer Southworth Willard of Hartford and Clarence Chapman of this city. The bridal procession entered the parlor while a quartet sang Mendelssohn's wedding song. The quartet comprised Miss Cora Harris, Mrs. John Ratea, F. C. F. Pookrey and A. W. Gyngeall. The bride was attired in a gown of white Persan lawn with chiffon and satin trimmings. She carried pink roses. The matron of honor was attired in green crepe de chine with pink rose applique trimmings. She carried pink carnations. The bridesmaids wore white organza over blue and carried red carnations. A reception followed. The couple left on the 4:35 train for New York for a week's trip. They will reside in Putnam.

COWLES-STARRETT—In this city, January 1, 1903, H. Leslie Cowles and Mrs. R. Hale J. Starrett. At home January 16, at No. 87 Ward street.

DALTON.

Miss Carolyn Weston returned to "Westonholm" yesterday, after an absence of six weeks spent at the Mount Vernon (N. Y.) hospital, where she had an operation successfully performed for appendicitis.
EISNER-ROSENTHAL.

Picture of the Rev. Mr. Love Presented at Church Meeting.

At 6 o'clock the annual church supper was served in the large dining room of the chapel, and a large number were present. At the close of

FAMOUS HOSTELRY
NOW PRIVATE HOUSE

Occupied by the Shipmans For Many Years Down at Rocky Hill.

FAMOUS FOR FISH AND GAME DINNERS.

Marriage of the Daughter of the Late Selectman Rosenthal.

Theodore R. Eisner, millinery buyer at Brown, Thomson & Co's, and Miss Sadie Rosenthal, daughter of the late.
THIRTY-THIRD DEGREE JEWEL FROM MASONIC FRIENDS.

Masons of high degree, members of Charter Oak Lodge of Perfection, called on Silas Chapman, Jr., at his home, No. 355 Windsor avenue yesterday afternoon, and gave him as a token of their esteem and regard, a thirty-third degree jewel which was filed for record in the city office of the town clerk yesterday forGS. John G. Brown, Thomson & Co. building by speech was transferred to the property on the George A. Root side of Temple street next east of, James H. Dumont and Miss Normandie, who removed to Silas Chapman, Jr. The high position of the property has a frontage of fifty-four feet and a depth of 150 feet, and over this F. D. May has an easement of 15 feet in width between the property and the Brown-Thomson building and as entirely over this F. D. May has an easement of 15 feet in width between the property and the Brown-Thomson building and as entirely over this temple building. There are three stories in the downtown portion of the building and over this F. D. May has an easement of 15 feet in width between the property and the Brown-Thomson building and as entirely over this temple building. There are three stories in the downtown portion of the building and over this temple building.

The jewel is suspended from a hand of gold, set with diamonds and rubies and inscribed on the reverse of the case as follows:

Silas Chapman, Jr. 33°

The Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite Masons; Valley of Hartford, Conn.

January 8, 1935.

The jewel is suspended from a hand of gold, set with diamonds and rubies and inscribed on the reverse of the case as follows:

NATIONAL EXCHANGE BANK.

Henry M. Sperry Elected Assistant Cashier Yesterday.

At the election of officers by the board of directors of the National Exchange Bank yesterday, the old officers were chosen, and Henry M. Sperry was elected assistant cashier. Mr. Sperry has been connected with the bank for nine years and has served as messenger, collection clerk, discount clerk and teller, still holding the latter position. He is a son of Henry T. Sperry, former editor of the Post, and has made many friends by his conscientious work in the bank, which place he has held for a number of years.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.

After the ceremony and at 3 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. W. J. M. Ives, of No. 435 New York avenue, Strong, daughter of Strong of this city, and Miss Arthur's of New York by plane, arrived at the hotel. Mr. Sperry, who is a member of the Temple Building and over this temple building.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.

After the ceremony and at 3 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. W. J. M. Ives, of No. 435 New York avenue, arrived at the hotel. Mr. Sperry, who is a member of the Temple Building and over this temple building.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.

At the election of officers by the board of directors of the National Exchange Bank yesterday, the old officers were chosen, and Henry M. Sperry was elected assistant cashier. Mr. Sperry has been connected with the bank for nine years and has served as messenger, collection clerk, discount clerk and teller, still holding the latter position. He is a son of Henry T. Sperry, former editor of the Post, and has made many friends by his conscientious work in the bank, which place he has held for a number of years.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.

At the election of officers by the board of directors of the National Exchange Bank yesterday, the old officers were chosen, and Henry M. Sperry was elected assistant cashier. Mr. Sperry has been connected with the bank for nine years and has served as messenger, collection clerk, discount clerk and teller, still holding the latter position. He is a son of Henry T. Sperry, former editor of the Post, and has made many friends by his conscientious work in the bank, which place he has held for a number of years.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.

After the ceremony and at 3 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. W. J. M. Ives, of No. 435 New York avenue, arrived at the hotel. Mr. Sperry, who is a member of the Temple Building and over this temple building.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.

At the election of officers by the board of directors of the National Exchange Bank yesterday, the old officers were chosen, and Henry M. Sperry was elected assistant cashier. Mr. Sperry has been connected with the bank for nine years and has served as messenger, collection clerk, discount clerk and teller, still holding the latter position. He is a son of Henry T. Sperry, former editor of the Post, and has made many friends by his conscientious work in the bank, which place he has held for a number of years.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.

At the election of officers by the board of directors of the National Exchange Bank yesterday, the old officers were chosen, and Henry M. Sperry was elected assistant cashier. Mr. Sperry has been connected with the bank for nine years and has served as messenger, collection clerk, discount clerk and teller, still holding the latter position. He is a son of Henry T. Sperry, former editor of the Post, and has made many friends by his conscientious work in the bank, which place he has held for a number of years.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.

After the ceremony and at 3 o'clock Mr. and Mrs. W. J. M. Ives, of No. 435 New York avenue, Strong, daughter of Strong of this city, and Miss Arthur's of New York by plane, arrived at the hotel. Mr. Sperry, who is a member of the Temple Building and over this temple building.

Scottish Rite Masonry Jewel.
ALLEN—In this city, November 1st, 1915, Alice Robbins (Clark) Allen, wife of Edwin S. Allen, and daughter of William B. Clark. Funeral at her late residence, No. 58 Kenyon street, tomorrow (Thursday) afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Please omit flowers.

ALLEN—In this city, October 22, 1903, William B. Allen, to Mrs. Ellen Case, Mrs. Lyman B. Brainerd and Mrs. Henry J. Robinson.

Clark A. Edwin S., Jr., and Francis A., sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin S. Allen of Kenyon St., were killed in the fire of the Aetna Fire Insurance Co., January 17, 1903. The late Colonel John B. Batchelder, historian of the Gettysburg battlefield, was her son-in-law. She is in good health, and now her daughter reads it to her.
SATURDAY, JANUARY 17, 1903.

FANCY DRESS PARTY.

About thirty-five members of the Hartford Golf club, who have held dancing parties at the club at intervals during the winter, had a fancy dress and masquerade party at the club house, Friday night. The event was the occasion of much fun and a decidedly pleasant evening. The costumes were unique and combined with the fact that members of the party were all masked, there were some interesting situations before the unmasking at supper time.

The “Rogers Brothers” tried several times to dance with “Janice Meredith,” and “Topsy,” but the consensus of opinion was “Cardinal.” Frank E. Howard was an oriental, “Fatima,” and “George Washington,” the oriental, two-stepped with a Spanish bandillero, while “Babbie” and the “Cardinal” were not less serious than “Dolli Varden” and the “Clown.”

A special car carried the party to the city about 1 o’clock. Supper was served during the evening, after which the dancing went on, only the dancers were unmasked. There was no cotillion, waltzes and two-steps being played.

Those present, with the costumes worn, were: Mrs. L. P. Waldo Marvin, a colonial girl; Mrs. Louis E. Gordon, gypsy; Miss Elizabeth Wainwright, “Topsy”; Miss Thompson, “Janice Meredith”; Mrs. Brown of New York, a colonial; Miss Mary Taylor in a colonial gown and hat; Miss Hyde, gypsy; Miss Mansfield, “Topsy”; Miss Helen Howard, as “Babbie,” from “The Little Minister”; Miss Whipples, as “Dolli Varden”; Miss Lincoln, gypsy; Miss Seyms, pop-corn girl; Miss Nye, Japanese girl; Miss Strong, waitress; Mrs. James Gibson, gypsy. There was some doubt as to the character represented by Miss Upton of Thompsonville, but the consensus of opinion was that it was “stunning.”

Arthur Day appeared as a “Capuchin Monk” and James Terry was the “Cardinal.” Frank E. Howard was an Irishman, with a brogue, and Harrie E. Hart played the “clown” to perfection. William P. Conklin impersonated an old Major Gordon. Thomas Lawrence was a Spanish cavalier; Edwin F. Ingraham, a Mexican; Morrison Young, a cowboy, and James E. Howard, Jr., a cowboy and Mexican; Mrs. Junius M. A. Field. Charles E. Gross and Shiras Morris were “The Rogers Brothers,” while Edward Morris was “George Washington.” L. P. Waldo Marvin appeared as a Spanish bandillero, and James Thompson was an “up-to-date girl.” William Pelton represented a Mexican, Harry Conklin a colonial gentleman and Frederick Kimball a Turk.

Edwin Welles and his wife Lucy Lowrey (Robbins) Welles, reached the one-hundredth anniversary of their marriage on January 20, 1883. They held no public reception, but a number of their friends who knew of the happy occasion called at their home on Elm street during the day to congratulate them on having passed through so long a period of happy and prospering married life. The home by hours of friends and devoted children and grandchildren. They received the best wishes of all for a continued period of health and happiness.

LEGATE-CHAPMAN 1903

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Chase, No. 914 Asylum avenue, was very handsomely decorated last evening with plants and flowers in profusion, the occasion being the wedding of Mrs. Chase’s daughter, Miss Louise Jane Chapman of Chicago, and Elmer Frank Legate of Legate Hill, Leominster, Mass. Only members of the family of the bride and groom were present.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor at 7:30 o’clock by Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, pastor of the Asylum Hill Congregational Church. The bride’s dress was of pearl grey crepe de chine, richly trimmed with old Venetian lace. The presents were many and handsome, the gift of the bride’s mother being a set of solid silver. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Legate left on the Springfield train for a short wedding trip. They will reside at Legate Hill in Leominster, Mass. No cards were issued for the wedding, only relatives being present. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. James R. Chapman of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert W. Chapman of Greensburg, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams of Newton Highlands, Miss Sarah Legate of Newton Highlands, Mass.; Mrs. James R. Chapman of Chicago, Mr. and Mrs. Hubert W. Chapman of Greensburg, Pa., Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Williams of Newton Highlands, Miss Sarah Legate of Newton Highlands, Mass.; Miss Helen Legate of Concord, Mass.; Miss Grace Legate and Miss Marion Legate of Boston; Mr. and Mrs. Tupper of Arlington, Mass.; Mr. and Mrs. George L. Chase, Rev. and Mrs. Joseph H. Twichell, Mrs. Mary Field, Louis E. Chapman and Eugene Field of Hartford.

Hart-Smith 91

MRS. FLORENCE BRADLEE SMITH AND EDWARD HERBERT HART were married yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride’s parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore S. Hart, of the home of Legate and Chapman street, by Rev. H. I. Bodley, rector of St. Mark’s Church. It was originally intended to have the wedding at the church, but owing to the bride’s slight indisposition as a result of an attack of the grippe it was decided to have a home wedding. Maxwell S. Hart, a brother of the groom, was the best man and Miss Marjorie Hart, a niece, was flower girl. Only relatives of the two families were present. The wedding march from Lothengrin was played by Percy Van. L. Wheeler. The groom is the son of W. H. Hart, president of the Stanley Works, and the father of the bride is secretary of the Russell & Erwin fac-

MacNaught-Blakeslee Wedding 92

A pretty wedding took place at 7:30 o’clock last night at Trinity Church, when Miss Jessie B. Blakeslee and Rev. George K. MacNaught, pastor of Grace Chapel, in Parkville, were married. The church was entirely filled with the friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Bishop Brewster, assisted by Rev. Ernest deF. Miel, rector of the church, performed the ceremony.

The maid of honor to the bride was Miss Jessie G. Elmer and the best man was Rev. Walter Geyer of Marine, N. Y. There were no bridesmaids. The ushers were Andrew G. Steele, Horace R. Grant and Roger H. and Henry J. Blakeslee, brothers of the bride. The bride wore a gown of crepe de chine, and carried red roses, while the maid of honor was dressed in pink silk and carried white roses. Following the wedding there was a reception at the home of the bride, No. 791 Park street, after which they left on a late train for a short wedding trip. Mr. and Mrs. MacNaught will make their home in Harrison, N. Y.
Day Homestead

On Oct 21 of last year Mrs Lydia Oakes, one of the two Day sisters that were living in the old Day homestead in West Springfield, died. The other sister, Mrs Eunice Bliss, has gone to her son’s in Tarrytown, N Y, and the old home of the Day’s is left vacant. Just before Mrs Oakes died, several young women of West Springfield were talking of the picturesque place and one of them exclaimed, “What a shame it would be to have that dear old house torn down!” The idea that such a fate might overtake it in the course of time seemed never to have occurred to those who loved the old ladies living in their quaint home. The illness and death of Mrs Oakes brought the chance of its being realized very near and in an informal, almost casual way, the project of purchasing the house for the house and preserving it in all its ancient simplicity and dignity was given birth and grew into a definite plan.

Mrs Howard Regal of West Springfield invited to her house one afternoon from different parts of the town, Miss Susan Arnold, Miss Eva Miller, Miss Florence Eustis, Mrs W. J. Eldred, Mrs C. M. Woodward of Tatham, Miss Martina Bagg of Riverdale, Mrs Henry Schmuck, Mrs Walter Smith and in that little gathering by unanimous vote the property had its origin. At first it was planned to hold entertainments and parties to raise the required money, but this idea was for the time abandoned in favor of direct subscriptions.

To Save the Old House

The interest in the movement has grown even more rapidly than was expected. Not only have the people of West Springfield come forward with their interest and their money, but people of Springfield are eager to preserve this familiar landmark. The committee in charge is working industriously to enlist the aid of those who know and love the old home and to remain as it has been for the past century and a half. Three thousand dollars is necessary to purchase the property as it stands. Already $700 has been raised in subscriptions of $100, $75, and $50 to raise houses of success in the hearts of those who are giving their time and efforts to keep the house from demolition.

Mrs Bliss has promised, if the house is purchased by these people who will save it, to save all of the pieces of old furniture which the Day family has used; a very old-fashioned, high-posted bed stands with canopv, a rude wooden cradle, a spinning wheel, a solemn and stately highboy and several other bits of furniture almost never seen and never used to-day. The kitchen has a great open fireplace, boarded up just now, but which can easily be opened; it has a deep bake oven and with its andirons and crane and with a settle drawn up by it will take one quickish imagination to the days of our greatgrandfathers and and grandmothers. The windows are deep set, small, with little square panes. The front door has a bar across it that calls to mind former means of defense against Indians; the stairs are thin, almost toy stairs they seem to us now. In one corner of the parlor is built a cupboard, with curious shelves, a splendid place for plates of days gone by and cups and saucers used before we were born. Upstairs, on one of the doors is a latch-string such as we so often read about. The house is in an excellent state of preservation and repair and promises to stand for yet another hundred and fifty years.

An Historical Museum

It is planned to make the house as near as possible as it was in the days when that early settler, Robert Day, built it. Old-fashioned furniture will be put upon the tiny walls, old-fashioned flowers cultivated in the generous sized garden. There are many who will be glad of such a place to which they can loan or give pieces of ancient furniture or old pictures, knowing that they will be well kept and well cared for. It is wholly probable that upon the purchase of the place—and if interest increases as it has done already there is every hope of making several ladies, from different parts of the town, Miss Susan Arnold, Miss Eva Miller, Miss Florence Eustis, Mrs W. J. Eldred, Mrs C. M. Woodward of Tatham, Miss Martina Bagg of Riverdale, Mrs Henry Schmuck, Mrs Walter Smith and in that little gathering by unanimous vote the property had its origin. At first it was planned to hold entertainments and parties to raise the required money, but this idea was for the time abandoned in favor of direct subscriptions.

To Save the Old House

The interest in the movement has grown even more rapidly than was expected. Not only have the people of West Springfield come forward with their interest and their money, but people of Springfield are eager to preserve this familiar landmark. The committee in charge is working industriously to enlist the aid of those who know and love the old home and to remain as it has been for the past century and a half. Three thousand dollars is necessary to purchase the property as it stands. Already $700 has been raised in subscriptions of $100, $75, and $50 to raise houses of success in the hearts of those who are giving their time and efforts to keep the house from demolition.

Mrs Bliss has promised, if the house is purchased by these people who will save it, to save all of the pieces of old furniture which the Day family has used; a very old-fashioned, high-posted bed stands with canopv, a rude wooden cradle, a spinning wheel, a solemn and stately highboy and several other bits of furniture almost never seen and never used to-day. The kitchen has a great open fireplace, boarded up just now, but which can easily be opened; it has a deep bake oven and with its andirons and crane and with a settle drawn up by it will take one quickish imagination to the days of our greatgrandfathers and and grandmothers. The windows are deep set, small, with little square panes. The front door has a bar across it that calls to mind former means of defense against Indians; the stairs are thin, almost toy stairs they
An interesting letter has been received from Rev. George E. Day of New Haven, great-grandson of Josiah Day, who built the Day house facing the West Springfield common, in which, besides a substantial subscription to the house fund, he says that he will apply any funds raised in this way, it is thought, to be applied either on the purchase or maintenance of the house.

OPENING OF THE DAY HOUSE.

An interesting letter has been received from Rev. George E. Day of New Haven, great-grandson of Josiah Day, who built the Day house facing the West Springfield common, in which, besides a substantial subscription to the house fund, he says that he will apply any funds raised in this way, it is thought, to be applied either on the purchase or maintenance of the house.

The old Day house, the little ivy-covered structure facing West Springfield, will be opened to the public on Sunday and visitors are invited on that day and succeeding days of the week. The little house has attracted attention by years of its picturesque and now fortunately fallen into the hands of the Day Historical Society that will preserve it most carefully. Those who began last winter the work of raising the property for this purpose made good progress in raising funds, more money is needed. The pro- cess the opening will be applied to the purchase fund. The house is now for public view. It has been restored as nearly as possible to its state, its old fireplaces have been opened, the interior woodwork has been painted and the walls with pretty old-fashioned papers. The large kitchen fireplace has two bake-ovens. The wall-papers are reductions of ancient designs. The room is hung with a very old paper, a bedroom is a bower of the old red rose and on the other walls are papers of quaint design. The floor is done in the real old skim-milk million red and has a yellow floor. Curtains are at all the windows. There are many ancient pieces of furni-
Miss Elsie Deane Cheney, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Cheney of South Manchester, made her debut into society at Cheney Hall in that place last evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Cheney gave a dancing party in her honor. The beauty of the hall was greatly added to by many original decorative features. Gracefully suspended from the center of the ceiling and carried to the sides and corners were twelve streamers of pale green and white bunting, covering cords of electric wire from which hung hundreds of tints, shade. The central piece was a large open Japanese umbrella, around the edges of which were arranged many dainty electric stars from the center of which hung a large Japanese lantern, brilliantly lighted. Decorations of green and white caught up in the shape of fans and butterflies and an abundance of smilax from Georgia were along the sides of the hall. Over the stage and inside the arched sides the same material was used and in addition Southern palm. The windows along the side were curtained and dotted palms tied with white satin ribbon were set in them. The alcoves were transformed into bowers by lattice-work, covered with green, while overhead streamers of pale green and white were used. Screened resting places had been prepared at the end of the hall, furnished with rugs and easy chairs, and in the vestibule, decorated similarly to the main hall, fruit punch was served.

Behind a heavy screen of green in the gallery an orchestra of fifteen pieces was concealed and while the guests were assembling a reception was held during which a concert program was given. Mr. and Mrs. Cheney and Miss Cheney received on the west side of the hall where a pretty setting of tables with large bouquets of carnations had been arranged. Miss Cheney was assisted in receiving by the Misses Madeline Tabor of New York, New Haven, Hartford, Boston, and other places, making the assemblage one of the most brilliant that, to the main hall, fruit punch was served.

There were about 150 guests present, including the Cheney families of South Manchester and many persons from New York, New Haven, Hartford, Boston and other places, making the assemblage one of the most brilliant that has ever gathered in the hall. A special train for the occasion came from Hartford. A delightful scene, like a painted was revealed to the eye, a painted scene was in the dark. The music was furnished by an orchestra. The hostess was assisted in receiving by Mr. Bidwell's sister, Miss Bidwell, and by her sister, Mrs. Tom Masson. The ladies who poured and assisted were: Mrs. E. P. Parker, Mrs. Judson H. Root, Mrs. George H. Seyms, Mrs. A. S. Sargent N. Seyms, Mrs. L. D. Fisk, Mrs. E. T. Hagoon, Mrs. Arthur D. Newton, Mrs. Arthur S. Hyde, Mrs. Henry Bryant, Mrs. Edwin V. Judson, Miss Ada, Miss Louisa Seyms, Miss Carrie Hills and Miss Grace Hils.

Mr. and Mrs. White Entertain at Putnam Phalanx Hall—Mrs. Bidwell's Reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. White of No. 1484 Prospect avenue, gave one of the largest and most charming receptions of the city's social season, Tuesday night, in Putnam Phalanx hall. The decorations were green and white and very attractive. Long streamers from the sides of the wall were entwined with many electric lights. The stage was elaborated in appearance, Corinthian columns rising on each side with a background of palms and ferns. The orchestra was concealed back of this.

About 300 guests were present. Mr. and Mrs. White were assisted in receiving by Miss May Cooke of Brooklyn, N. Y., and by Mr. White's parents, Judge J. Harburt White and Mrs. White. The reception lasted from 6 until 10 o'clock, after which there was dancing until midnight.

Mrs. Bidwell's Reception.

The reception and tea given by Mrs. James H. Bidwell at her home, No. 673 Farmington avenue, Tuesday afternoon, was a charming affair. The house was handsomely decorated with cut flowers, pink being the prevailing color. Music was furnished by an orchestra. The hostess was assisted in receiving by Mr. Bidwell's sister, Miss Bidwell, and by her sister, Mrs. Tom Masson. The ladies who poured and assisted were: Mrs. E. P. Parker, Mrs. Judson H. Root, Mrs. George H. Seyms, Mrs. A. S. Sargent N. Seyms, Mrs. L. D. Fisk, Mrs. E. T. Hagoon, Mrs. Arthur D. Newton, Mrs. Arthur S. Hyde, Mrs. Henry Bryant, Mrs. Edwin V. Judson, Miss Ada, Miss Louisa Seyms, Miss Carrie Hills and Miss Grace Hils.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry U. Richmonds Celebrate Their Golden Wedding.

Henry Usher Richmond and Mrs. Ade line Matilda Richmond were married fifty years ago yesterday and with their relatives and friends celebrated their golden wedding in an entirely informal but delightful manner, at their home, No. 7 Preston street. There was a reception for their neighbors and friends from 2 to 5 o'clock, and from 7 to 10 o'clock they received members of their respective families and other relatives in a rather more private manner. The lower part of the house was prettily decorated with yellow roses and daffodils and the dining room table was festooned with golden ribbon.

Mr. and Mrs. Richmond were married in the Congregational Church at Portland, Conn., January 30, 1853, by Rev. Harvey Talcott. They came to Hartford in the spring of 1852 and during the period of the Civil War Mr. Richmond was employed as an inspector in Sharp's factory on Capitol avenue, then Rifle avenue. Since then Mr. Richmond has been engaged in the lumber business, first with Chase & Co., then with the firm's successor, John W. Starkweather, afterwards with the Hartford Lumber
Mr and Mrs Furey held a reception from 5 until 6 o'clock while standing under a tree in one corner of the hall.

SATURDAY JANUARY 31, 1903

Mrs John L. Bates, Wife of Gov Bates, and Her Children

Mr and Mrs Furey have two children, Eugene H. Rich-
The building at 56 Wall street in New York city is called the "cradle of modern American life insurance," because the original offices of the Mutual Life of New York were opened there February 1, 1841. It has now been marked with a tablet by the Canadian society in memory of the first president of the company, Morris Robinson. There is general interest in the 60th anniversary, which is thus commemorated. Modern life insurance has grown from little things start Mr Robinson's service. Honest characteristics th to meet the large demands which he founded the company, a safe man. Richard A. McCoy, the company, a near 20 years later. Mr Fish and ex-president of New York issued the first policies for life insurance in the United States, with nine miles, $3,188,492 was the company's assets. It was 40 years old, it reached the dollar mark, and then it had received applications for insurance in force; but the increase of this first company touched the $100,000,000 point and had assets of $38,502,878, with a total income of $38,562. Now there are more than 100 companies chartered in the United States, with nine billions of insurance in force and assets of over two billions. Starting on lines closely copied after those of their English predecessors, the American companies have to-day more than twice—indeed, nearly three times—the amount of business of their British competitors; the reason being that American methods based on scientific accuracy have been applied with persistency, conservatism and energy. The good judgment of the organizers of the Mutual appears in the fact that, although they were chartered in April, 1842, to begin business as soon as they had received applications for policies amounting to half a million, they decided to hold off until they had twice the required amount, and to accomplish this postponed opening their offices for a month after the date they had previously fixed. It was not until 1849 that the money assets of this first company touched the million-dollar mark, and then it had $14,044,213 of insurance in force; but the increase from that time was rapid, and in 1883, when it was 40 years old, it reached the $100,000,000 point and had 110,000 policies on its books, with a surplus that reached nearly $6,500,000. Its total income for that year was something over $18,4 millions, and its disbursements more than 16 millions, of which $3,138,492 was in the form of dividends to its policy-holders. The present assets of the Mutual exceed $800,000,000, and since 1854 it has paid out over $500,000,000 in dividends.

FEVERUARY 6, 190

Policeman Louis G. Melberger Wound in Wrist by Thomas J. Pillow, a Brother Officer.

Officer Louis G. Melberger was accidentally shot in the wrist by Officer Thomas J. Pillow, in the toilet room at police headquarters, about 9 o'clock this morning. The bullet made an ugly and painful wound. The fact that the ball was flattened indicates that it struck a bone, and if it caused a fracture, Officer Melberger will be out of duty several weeks. He lost considerable blood, and is suffering from the shock. He displayed good nerve, and showed that he is of the right sort for a policeman.

While much sympathy was expressed for Officer Pillow entering the room with men, a majority of them seemed to think he was grossly careless.

The quarterly report of the mid-night squad was held at 8:15 this morning. The story of the shooting, as related by principals and eye-witnesses, is to the effect that the policemen were getting their uniforms and equipment ready to fall in line when Chief Ryan should give the signal. In the toilet room, which is located in the south part of the basement of the police building, the policemen, including Officer Melberger, were congregated, for Officer Pillow by his brother, who had his revolver in his hand. Officer Melberger was standing in the center of the room, south of Officer Pillow, both facing the west, Officer Pillow remarked that he had seen "Charlie" Russell (another policeman) trying his revolver, and said: "I don't know whether mine will work or not."

He pulled the trigger and there followed a loud report.

Officer Melberger exclaimed, "I'm shot!"

He ran upstairs to the main office and sat down near the entrance to the prison, groaning with pain.

Officer James D. Flynn, who was behind the desk, heard the report of the pistol, and seeing Officer Melberger's distress, telephoned for Surgeon A. M. Rowley. The doctor was told to lose no time, and the operator replied. He left his office at No. 298 Main street, and mounting his bicycle reached the station in less than five minutes.

A trail of blood left by Officer Melberger in his run upstairs led to the belief that the bullet had severed an artery. Dr. Rowley gave the wounded officer stimulants. When he began probing the wound to see if the bullet had carried a part of the officer's overcoat into it, the officer faint ed away. He was quickly revived however, and grew stronger as the wound was dressed.

It was found that the bullet entered the upper part of the left wrist and passed out through the flesh of the hand. Officer Melberger could open and close his hand, and although the muscles had not been torn and that no artery had been severed. Dr. Rowley said that not once in many times does a man receiving such a wound escape so luckily. He had known of bullets flattening with the report, and was inclined to think that in this case the bullet behaved unusually. He wrote first with Chase & Co., then with the firm's successor, John W. Starkweather, afterwards with the Hartford Lumi...
Ill

Officer Pillion's revolver is a Colt's .32-caliber, with five chambers. While the wound was being dressed Officer Melberger was surrounded by fifteen or twenty officers, and all remarked upon his grit.

"I'll be all right in a few days," he said. "I want to get home quietly, so that I won't frighten my wife. I thank you, boys, for your sympathy."

He left the station with Dr. Rowley and Sergeant Weltner, and was driven to his home, No. 61 Madison street. Under the rules of the police department he was on duty until after inspection.

Officer Melberger is one of the best known officers on the force. He is a member of the midnight squad and does duty on Lewis, Mulberry, and Grove streets and City Hall square. One of his most important arrests was made September 29, 1898, when he took Dominick Child into custody for stealing wire from the roadbed of the Hartford Street Railway company on Newington avenue. When discovered Child bolted and ran, and Officer Melberger shot him through the body. Child was laid up in the Hartford hospital for several weeks, but fully recovered.

Officer Melberger was appointed a regular policeman April 2, 1897. Officer Pillion was made a regular, January 14, 1897. He seemed to feel as bad over the accident as Officer Melberger.

Chief Ryan felt that the accident was due to carelessness, and told Officer Pillion so. He took the pistol away from Officer Pillion and said: "You don't know how to handle a club or a revolver!"

Officer Pillion took the reports to the basement and showed them the position occupied by himself and Officer Melberger when the shooting occurred. He said he supposed he emptied the revolver of its cartridges in the locker room, but one of them must have stuck in the cylinder. A superior officer took another revolver of the same make as Pillion's, and showed that if the ejector had not been in the cylinder the cylinder could not have been closed.

To Save the Arm.

Dr. Ansel G. Cook, assisted by Dr. A. M. Rowley and a nurse, will to-morrow morning perform an important operation upon the left arm of Officer Louis G. Melberger, who was accidentally shot by Officer Thomas J. Pillion, at the police station, about ten weeks ago. The wound has proved to be of a much more serious character than was at first supposed, the injury to the bone being severe enough to render complications that now render a difficult and delicate operation necessary to save the arm.

To-morrow's operation will be performed at the patient's home on Madison street.

JULY 29, 1903.

Policeman Louis G. Melberger of No. 61 Madison street, who was accidentally shot in the wrist by Thomas J. Pillion at the police station, February 6, will resume duty, Monday. Policeman Melberger has not done a day's duty since the accident. The full use of the injured wrist is restored.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Mabel Colton Salter of New York, daughter of the late United States Consul Dr. George H. C. Salter, and ex-alderman Watson H. Bliss of this city, at the Morningside Presbyterian Church, February 6. Mr. and Mrs. Bliss sailed on Saturday for an extended trip abroad, taking steamer for the Mediterranean.

Miss Elizabeth Coombs Adams of Quiney, granddaughter of John Adams, second president of the United States, was 96 years old yesterday. Her anniversary was observed as usual by her friends by calls. Miss Adams has the distinction of having attended every presidential inauguration from that of John Quincy Adams down to that of Grover Cleveland. Her father, Thomas Boylston Adams, was the first and last son of President John Adams. Thomas Boylston Adams was a lawyer, rising to be chief justice of Massachusetts. His eldest son, Thomas Boylston Adams, died at Fort Dade, Fla., in 1837, while serving in the Second U. S. artillery. John Quincy Adams, the second son, was lost in the wreck of the United States ship Albatross in 1854. Joseph Harvard Adams, another son, died in China, in 1855. When a child Miss Adams visited often at the home of her uncle, President John Quincy Adams, and on one of her visits in 1825 she saw the meeting between John Adams and General Lafayette.

Married Fifty-nine Years.

Mrs. and Mrs. George C. Bills of Summit street, Norwich, celebrated the fifty-ninth anniversary of their marriage on Saturday. They were married at the Fourth Congregational Church in this city in 1844. They removed to Norwich and have lived in that city fifty-three years. Mr. Bills is 84 years of age and enjoys the best of health. He was born in China, Sept. 18, 1819, and during his business life was in the grocery business. Mrs. Bills was born in Townsend, Mass., April 23, 1828. She came to this city when a child and lived here until after her marriage.

FEBRUARY 12, 1903.

GREAT BARRINGTON.

Is 100 Years Old To-day.

Miss Charlotte Cleveland celebrates today her 100th birthday at her home near Mill River, in the town of New Marlboro, where she has been a resident for many years. She now resides with her sister-in-law, on one of the roads, some five miles from the post-office and country store. Those who have recently seen Miss Cleveland state that she is quite active for one who has passed the seven-score. Her eyesight is a little dim and her hearing slightly affected. During the summer she is able to walk about quite active. When Miss Cleveland came to Mill River the town was quite an active one. There were paper mills, and the various water-powers, which are now utilized, and the hum of industry greeted one's ears as he passed through the place. She has lived to see a place of industry dwindle down to a mere settlement, which is supplied by one general store. The water-powers are now idle and are considered of little value, excepting that capitalists propose taking the stream for a business venture, then an excessive price is demanded for the rights. Miss Cleveland has always been a resident of the town.
Tells How He Was Rescued

February 18.—A letter from Wells W. Cheney, received yesterday, tells how he was rescued when the madiana in a gale, home from a trip on the sea. Mr. Cheney was one of the passengers on the madiana, which was wrecked on the beach of Bermuda, February 11th. His letter follows:

When we arrived at the scene of the wreck, the passengers were crowded on the hurricane deck, with the waves frequently dashing over us. The lining of the cabin was poured over us, and the air was filled with the cries of the passengers. The poor people were in the most distressing state of mind. I was fortunate enough to save some of my clothes, not losing anything in fact, though some of the passengers came ashore in pajamas and underclothes and had lost all else they possessed. Our party, Mr. Preston, Croft and myself, were taken off about 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, and landed about 10 o'clock, being met at the dock by the population of the village of Hamilton. The inhabitants of the village treated the passengers with great consideration and offered to assist in any way they could.

Mr. Cheney will remain at Hamilton for a few weeks and return home later.

Mr. Cheney sent two photographs, which are here reproduced.

Mrs. Miles B. Preston of No. 214 Collins street received a letter yesterday from her husband, ex-Mayor Miles B. Preston, who was one of the passengers. The following extracts are from his letter:

We have had a very thrilling experience, but were recovering from it. They expect to see Mr. and Mrs. Dexter later and write to the newspapers.
THE WRECKED MADIANA

PERSONAL EXPERIENCES ON BOARD LOST STEAMER.

LETTERS FROM EX-MAYOR PESTON AND WELLS W. CHENEY.

Narrative of Incidents of the Disaster—How the Passengers Finally Reached the Bermudas.
FROM PHOTOGRAPH OF THE MADIANA TAKEN DAY AFTER THE WRECK.
BURGLARS’ GOOD HAUL.
FEBRUARY 13, 1903.

ABOUT $2,500 WORTH OF JEWELRY STOLEN.

The biggest haul made by burglars in this city in some years was made at the house of A. L. Ellis, No. 550 Farmington avenue, between 5 and 6 o’clock last evening. The value of the articles stolen is estimated at $2,500. One brooch taken contained fifty diamonds and was valued at $600. Several bank books were taken and about $40 in money. Everything stolen was in a tin box and this was carried off.

The discovery of the burglary was made by Mrs. Ellis when she went to her bedroom shortly after 6 o’clock. She noticed that the furniture in the room had been disturbed and the door of a closet broken. The tin box had been kept in the closet and it was soon noticed. Word of the burglary was telephoned to the police station and Detective Butler was sent out to examine the premises. He obtained a description of the articles stolen and the police of New York and Boston were notified as soon as possible, as it was thought the burglars would have time to get out of town by either of the evening express trains. Later the police in cities in this state were given a description of the jewelry and other articles.

It was a second-story job and was cleverly executed. The police do not believe that any local burglar did have anything to do with it although local men may have tipped the burglars off about the location of the rooms in the house, but it is believed that no local man had anything to do with it as the burglar alarms were kept, and it was not until a short time after her mother left it to arrange her hair before going to dinner that the detectives do not believe that any local men had anything to do.

Detective Butler was not able to discover any tracks and was unable to recover any of the articles. He notified the police of New York and Boston that he had been unable to find anything but will continue in the work. The detectives do not believe that the burglars threw the things stolen away.

Mrs. Ellis’s house is one of the handsomest in the city and there is probably not one in the country that is better constructed. He gave a great deal of attention to it while it was being built and it has been visited by many of the best architects in the country, notably the best architects in the country, notably the best architects in the country. The first floor is protected by patent burglar alarms, but there are none on the upstairs porches or windows.

Until a short time ago Mr. Ellis carried policies in a burglary protection company but he allowed them to expire when he bought the house. Mrs. A. L. Ellis of No. 550 Farmington avenue went to New York, Monday, and recovered papers and bank books stolen from her residence on the morning of February 12. She had received a letter written by a colored woman, asking her if she had been robbed. Mrs. Ellis was never received that the New York police had the books and papers in their possession, and that Mrs. Ellis was unable to identify them. The woman who wrote to Mrs. Ellis had care of the room occupied by the burglars shortly after the robbery and found the papers in the back yard.
Major Louis R. Cheney.

DECEMBER 4, 1906.

FOOT GUARD GETS ITS FORMER MAJOR BACK.

Major Louis R. Cheney Unanimous Choice of Organization.

The expected happened at last evening's meeting of the First Company, Governor's Foot Guard, called to choose a successor to Major F. R. Bill, who recently retired from the command of the company. Major Louis R. Cheney was elected and the choice was unanimous.

Captain and First Lieutenant Charles H. Slucum presided at the meeting, which was held at the armory.

Captain P. H. Ingalls, reporting for the previously nominated company, was re-elected as Major Cheney of the company. At the election by ballot, the candidate presented had received the entire eighty-three votes cast.

Captain Ingalls had prepared the expected meeting by the organized and prepared for the meeting, and the choice of the company was unanimous.

The resignation of Major Cheney from the command of the First Company, Governor's Foot Guard, was accepted by the company, and the choice of Major Cheney was unanimous.

Capt.

The resignation of Major Cheney from the command of the First Company, Governor's Foot Guard, was accepted by the company, and the choice of Major Cheney was unanimous.

The resignation of Major Cheney from the command of the First Company, Governor's Foot Guard, was accepted by the company, and the choice of Major Cheney was unanimous.
DECEMBER 15, 1902.
EDSON GALLAUDET TO MARRY.

Engagement of a Well Known Yale Graduate.

The papers yesterday announced the engagement of Edson Fessenden Gallaudet to Senator Cockrell’s daughter in Washington. Dr. Gallaudet is a son of Dr. E. M. Gallaudet, formerly of this city. Young Dr. Gallaudet was stroke of the Yale crew and is one of the leading graduates in athletic councils. He was a classmate of John T. Robinson and Francis Parsons of this city. A Washington dispatch to the Sunday "Herald" of New York said—

The engagement will be formally announced to-morrow by Senator Cockrell of Missouri of his eldest daughter, Miss Marion Cockrell, to Mr. Edson F. Gallaudet, son of Dr. Edward M. Gallaudet, president of Gallaudet College. The marriage is to take place at the Church of the Covenant, in this city, in February. Miss Cockrell, one of the belles of the national capital, is a tall and very handsome blonde, who has been at the season’s court of her father’s house for the last eight years, having assumed charge at the age of 18. She was educated in the private schools of Washington.

The Gallaudet-Cockrell Wedding.

The wedding of Miss Marion Cockrell, daughter of Senator F. M. Cockrell of Missouri, to Edson F. Gallaudet will occur February 14 at the Church of the Covenant, this city. The marriage will be one of the brilliant social events of the season. More than a thousand invitations will be issued. Miss Anna Ewing Cockrell, her debutante sister, will be the maid of honor, and a bevy of bridesmaids will be selected from her numerous girl friends.

Mr. Gallaudet, son of Dr. Edward M.

Gallaudet-Cockrell Wedding Tour.

The wedding of Edson Fessenden Gallaudet, formerly of this city, and Miss Marion Cockrell, daughter of Senator Cockrell of Missouri, takes place to-day in Washington. A dispatch to the "New York Times" of yesterday said—

Miss Marion Cockrell and Edson F. Gallaudet, whose marriage takes place Saturday night, were this evening the guests of honor at a dinner and musicale given by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh. After the dinner the company drove to the New Willard, where more than 300 guests were invited to a musicale in the pink ballroom, the artists of the evening being Miss Susanne Adams of the Metropolitan Opera Company, Allan Yard, and Mrs. Herbert E. Gallaudet, a famous Austrian violinist heard here for the first time.

Miss Cockrell received this morning a magnificent gown of white satin with a cascade of orchids was embroidered with embroidery and lace. Among the 400 guests were President Roosevelt and Secretary Cortelyou, ambassadors, members of the diplomatic corps, members of both houses of Congress and representatives of the army and navy. Mrs. Roosevelt did not attend the ceremony but was present at the breakfast which followed at Rauscher’s, where the guests were received by the bride’s aunt, Mrs. John R. Walker of Kansas City, assisted by Dr. and Mrs. Gallaudet. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Gallaudet will reside in Dayton, O. Mr. Gallaudet is a native of this city, where his father was at one time connected with the American School of the Deaf. He was a graduate of the Hartford High School and of Yale University, where he was noted for his interest in athletics.

The Washington special to the "Boston Herald" says—

Mrs. Walker of Kansas City, Mo., was the hostess at the wedding breakfast. She was escorted by the President and contrary to his usual custom, the chief executive took the time to perform the multitudinous duties to sit throughout the long repast. His toast to the bride and groom was characteristic. He said:

"I drink to the health and prosperity of the bride and groom, to the love and loyalty of two young people, handsome and well endowed by all the best gifts of nature. May the promise of this auspicious day be fulfilled according to the heart’s desire of all who hold them dear." He then drained his glass and bade them a good night at the wedding cake which the bride had cut for him.

The President then said amid applause, "Men are the housewives hereafter... I drink to the venerable father of the bride, a man whom I have known and admired for many years. A grand old man from a good old state."
MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Rogers Celebrate their Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Rogers celebrated their golden wedding in a quiet manner yesterday, at their home, No. 91 Wadsworth street, where they have lived for many years, enjoying the friendship and esteem of their neighbors. Yesterday being Sunday, with family bereavements of comparatively recent date, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers decided not to make the celebration of a public character, so they remained quietly at home and received the congratulations of members of the family and a few personal friends, who dropped in during the afternoon and evening to extend their congratulations and renew good wishes.

Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were married in Newark, N. J., February 16, 1853, by Rev. Dr. Eddy, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of that city. Mrs. Helen Rogers was the daughter of Isaac Brant and Mrs. Juths Ann Brant of Newark, and is a remarkably well-preserved woman, aged 70 years old, in the enjoyment of all her faculties. Mr. Rogers is in his 80th year but is still actively engaged in business, with headquarters in this city. He was born in Springfield, Mass., and came to this city when a boy. He afterwards went to New York and was engaged in the rubber business there, living in Newark, when he became acquainted with Mrs. Rogers. They have one daughter, Miss M. Blanche Rogers. A son, William C. Rogers, who was in business on a large scale at No. 91 Wadsworth street, where they have lived for comparatively recent date, Mr. and Mrs. Rogers recalled the circumstances. He often spoke of the war of 1812, recalling several privates who sailed from the port and contested with the vessels of the enemy. He retired from the grocery business in 1888.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

MARRIED FIFTY YEARS.

Murphy-McIntee.

A large number of friends attended the wedding of Daniel F. Murphy of New York and Miss Elizabeth F. McIntee, daughter of Mrs. John McIntee of No. 235 Wethersfield avenue, which took place in St. Peter’s Church at 10 o’clock yesterday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Paul F. McAlenney, pastor of the church. The bride wore a traveling dress of blue cloth and she was attended by Miss Katherine E. Mulana, whose dress was of the same color. George Forster of Rockville was the best man. After the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride’s sister, Mrs. George Gerety, No. 149 Main street. After a short wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Murphy will live at No. 235 West Twenty-second street, New York, where they will be at home after March 15.

OLDEST LEGISLATOR.

Senator Wark of New Brunswick Now in His 100th Year.

Frederleton, N. B., Feb. 19—Hon. David Wark was 99 years old to-day and he claims the distinction of being the oldest living legislator in the world. He

THE MONROES.

Things Remembered of an Interesting White House Family.

(Richmond Times-Dispatch.)

The effort to have the General Assembly for Virginia make an appropriation for the purpose of bringing the remains of Mrs. James Monroe and daughter, buried at Oak Hill, in Loudoun county, to Richmond to be reinterred beside the tomb of President Monroe, in Hollywood, is exciting widespread interest.

Eliza Monroe, afterwards Mrs. George Hay, the most exclusive lady who has ever been mistress of the White House, loved France and Paris, where she was educated, and dying there, was buried in Pere-la-Chaise. There she sleeps to-day. But though born in Paris, where her father was minister there, Maria loved America and Virginia, and when she died in New York, they brought

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION.

Southwick has the honor of having a real daughter of the Revolution for one of its old residents. Mrs Lydia Wheeler Hunt’s father was Col Stephen Wheeler, who was thrice married and had seven children. Mrs Hunt being a daughter of the third wife. Col Wheeler enlisted in the army while living at Stephentown, N. Y., and when he died at the age of 72, Mrs Hunt was seven years old when her father died at the age of 72. Mrs Hunt has been a member of the Methodist Episcopal church for over 50 years.

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION.

A real daughter of the Revolution has been discovered in the person of Mrs. Hannah Fellows, living near Passumpsic, Vt., for her years. She lost her father, an 81 years old veteran, in June, and is not only a daughter of the Revolution, but a granddaughter as well, and a certificate of membership of the Mercy War

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION.

A real daughter of the Revolution has been discovered in the person of Mrs. Hannah Fellows, living near Passumpsic, Vt., for her years. She lost her father, an 81 years old veteran, in June, and is not only a daughter of the Revolution, but a granddaughter as well, and a certificate of membership of the Mercy War

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION.

A real daughter of the Revolution has been discovered in the person of Mrs. Hannah Fellows, living near Passumpsic, Vt., for her years. She lost her father, an 81 years old veteran, in June, and is not only a daughter of the Revolution, but a granddaughter as well, and a certificate of membership of the Mercy War

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION.

A real daughter of the Revolution has been discovered in the person of Mrs. Hannah Fellows, living near Passumpsic, Vt., for her years. She lost her father, an 81 years old veteran, in June, and is not only a daughter of the Revolution, but a granddaughter as well, and a certificate of membership of the Mercy War

A REAL DAUGHTER OF THE REVOLUTION.

A real daughter of the Revolution has been discovered in the person of Mrs. Hannah Fellows, living near Passumpsic, Vt., for her years. She lost her father, an 81 years old veteran, in June, and is not only a daughter of the Revolution, but a granddaughter as well, and a certificate of membership of the Mercy War and those of the beloved daughter, who took care of him in his old age and poverty, on the other side.

Mrs. Monroe was a Miss Kortright, of New York city, and she became the wife of Mr. Monroe when he was representing a Virginia district in Congress. The two children of this marriage were Eliza, born at Oak Hill, probably in 1803, and Maria, 13 years later. During the time her father was representing this country in Paris, Eliza was going to school there. She learned the ways of aristocracy, and her education in this direction bore an abundant fruit when her father became President, and, on account of the feeble health of her mother, she became practically as well as absolutely the mistress of the White House and the most exacting little monarch that stately mansion has ever had. She would not visit any one, and it was as if she had put up the diplomats to making formal calls. Before that, during Madison's and Jefferson's administrations, the diplomats often happened in to tell how much visits were missed, and as they would anyone else. But Mrs. Hay put a stop to this, and it was she who first made the distinction of rank. She set diplomatic as well as state and national circles on fire with anxiety as to their places, and Washington never was so stirred. After her father's two terms she went to France on a visit, and dying there, was buried in Pere-la-Chaise, and there doubtless the remains of her mother read until the last trumpet. Had she expressed a wish, she would likely have preferred her ashes to mingle with the soil of France in preference to returning to her own native America.

Maria's life was even as interesting as that of her elder sister. She was the first daughter of a President to be married in the White House, She was born in Paris in 1806 and was educated there. In 1829, at the age of 17, she went to school in New York city. She had but the briefest and most formal notice of it. But a few were present. But a week later it was planned for a number of brilliant receptions to be given her. Mrs. Decatur gave the first and the very next day the news reached the city that Commodore Decatur had been killed, and Washington was once thrown into mourning, and the entertainments were, of course, abandoned.

Both Eliza and Maria married gentlemen who were at different times the private secretaries of the President. At that time John Quincy Adams was secretary of state and Mr. Hay made his life hard, for she had him communicate to the foreign ministers her rulings regarding receptions and visits to the White House. But when Mr. Adams became President, he appointed Mr. Hay to be a judge and made Mr. Gouvernour postmaster of New York city.

Maria took it by turns, living at times in New York, Washington and Oak Hill. After the death of Mrs. Monroe in 1835, Maria went to New York to be with her and with Mrs. Hay, who was also living there. He was very poor and in 1831, on July 9th, died, making Maria third President of the United States who had died on the date of the nation's birth.

Mrs. Gouvernour seems to have been far more popular than her sister. After her father's death she continued to come to Oak Hill, bringing her little son, Samuel L., Jr. Their summers were always spent there. and they usually drove in the carriage from Washington to the old homestead, the baggage wagons bringing up the rear, making a long cavalcade. Mrs. Gouvernour was kind-hearted and open-handed and the poor near Oak Hill welcomed her.

FEBRUARY 19, 1905.

THE BARKER-DAY WEDDING.

Daughter of Justice Barker Married to Harry G. Day of New Haven.

St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Pittsfield was the scene of an unusual wedding yesterday afternoon, when Miss Mary Phillips Barker, daughter of Justice James Barker, of the Massachusetts supreme court, became the wife of Harry Goodyear Day of New Haven, Ct. The marriage was of much social importance, as both the bride and groom are prominent in society, and the ceremony was witnessed by a large number of their friends and relatives. The decorations of the church were the work of Miss Lillian Adams and Miss Elizabeth Barker, the latter a sister of the bride, and consisted of azaleas and carnations, artistically arranged about the organ.

The ceremony was set for 4 o'clock, but long before that hour a greater part of the guests had arrived in the church. The ceremony Prof. Fred J. Liselle rendered a number of selections on the organ.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march, and walked slowly up the aisle. The usher, John Barker of Boston, a brother of the bride, Leonard Daggett, Clive Day, John D. Jackson, and Wilbur F. Day, Jr., of New Haven, and Charles Keene, of New York, were present. But a week later it was planned for a number of brilliant receptions to be given her. Mrs. Hay, had but the briefest and most formal notice of it. But a few were present. But a week later it was planned for a number of brilliant receptions to be given her. Mrs. Decatur gave the first and the very next day the news reached the city that Commodore Decatur had been killed, and Washington was once thrown into mourning, and the entertainments were, of course, abandoned.

Both Eliza and Maria married gentlemen who were at different times the private secretaries of the President. At that time John Quincy Adams was secretary of state and Mr. Hay made his life hard, for she had him communicate to the foreign ministers her rulings regarding receptions and visits to the White House. But when Mr. Adams became President, he appointed Mr. Hay to be a judge and made Mr. Gouvernour postmaster of New York city.

Maria took it by turns, living at times in New York, Washington and Oak Hill. After the death of Mrs. Monroe in 1835, Maria went to New York to be with her and with Mrs. Hay, who was also living there. He was very poor and in 1831, on July 9th, died, making Maria third President of the United States who had died on the date of the nation's birth.

Mrs. Gouvernour seems to have been far more popular than her sister. After her father's death she continued to come to Oak Hill, bringing her little son, Samuel L., Jr. Their summers were always spent there. and they usually drove in the carriage from Washington to the old homestead, the baggage wagons bringing up the rear, making a long cavalcade. Mrs. Gouvernour was kind-hearted and open-handed and the poor near Oak Hill welcomed her.

FEBRUARY 19, 1905.

THE BARKER-DAY WEDDING.

Daughter of Justice Barker Married to Harry G. Day of New Haven.

St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Pittsfield was the scene of an unusual wedding yesterday afternoon, when Miss Mary Phillips Barker, daughter of Justice James Barker, of the Massachusetts supreme court, became the wife of Harry Goodyear Day of New Haven, Ct. The marriage was of much social importance, as both the bride and groom are prominent in society, and the ceremony was witnessed by a large number of their friends and relatives. The decorations of the church were the work of Miss Lillian Adams and Miss Elizabeth Barker, the latter a sister of the bride, and consisted of azaleas and carnations, artistically arranged about the organ.

The ceremony was set for 4 o'clock, but long before that hour a greater part of the guests had arrived in the church. The ceremony Prof. Fred J. Liselle rendered a number of selections on the organ.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march, and walked slowly up the aisle. The usher, John Barker of Boston, a brother of the bride, Leonard Daggett, Clive Day, John D. Jackson, and Wilbur F. Day, Jr., of New Haven, and Charles Keene, of New York, were present. But a week later it was planned for a number of brilliant receptions to be given her. Mrs. Hay, had but the briefest and most formal notice of it. But a few were present. But a week later it was planned for a number of brilliant receptions to be given her. Mrs. Decatur gave the first and the very next day the news reached the city that Commodore Decatur had been killed, and Washington was once thrown into mourning, and the entertainments were, of course, abandoned.

Both Eliza and Maria married gentlemen who were at different times the private secretaries of the President. At that time John Quincy Adams was secretary of state and Mr. Hay made his life hard, for she had him communicate to the foreign ministers her rulings regarding receptions and visits to the White House. But when Mr. Adams became President, he appointed Mr. Hay to be a judge and made Mr. Gouvernour postmaster of New York city.

Maria took it by turns, living at times in New York, Washington and Oak Hill. After the death of Mrs. Monroe in 1835, Maria went to New York to be with her and with Mrs. Hay, who was also living there. He was very poor and in 1831, on July 9th, died, making Maria third President of the United States who had died on the date of the nation's birth.

Mrs. Gouvernour seems to have been far more popular than her sister. After her father's death she continued to come to Oak Hill, bringing her little son, Samuel L., Jr. Their summers were always spent there. and they usually drove in the carriage from Washington to the old homestead, the baggage wagons bringing up the rear, making a long cavalcade. Mrs. Gouvernour was kind-hearted and open-handed and the poor near Oak Hill welcomed her.

FEBRUARY 19, 1905.

THE BARKER-DAY WEDDING.

Daughter of Justice Barker Married to Harry G. Day of New Haven.

St. Stephen's Episcopal church in Pittsfield was the scene of an unusual wedding yesterday afternoon, when Miss Mary Phillips Barker, daughter of Justice James Barker, of the Massachusetts supreme court, became the wife of Harry Goodyear Day of New Haven, Ct. The marriage was of much social importance, as both the bride and groom are prominent in society, and the ceremony was witnessed by a large number of their friends and relatives. The decorations of the church were the work of Miss Lillian Adams and Miss Elizabeth Barker, the latter a sister of the bride, and consisted of azaleas and carnations, artistically arranged about the organ.

The ceremony was set for 4 o'clock, but long before that hour a greater part of the guests had arrived in the church. The ceremony Prof. Fred J. Liselle rendered a number of selections on the organ.

The bridal party entered the church to the strains of the "Lohengrin" wedding march, and walked slowly up the aisle. The usher, John Barker of Boston, a brother of the bride, Leonard Daggett, Clive Day, John D. Jackson, and Wilbur F. Day, Jr., of New Haven, and Charles Keene, of New York, were present. But a week later it was planned for a number of brilliant receptions to be given her. Mrs. Hay, had but the briefest and most formal notice of it. But a few were present. But a week later it was planned for a number of brilliant receptions to be given her. Mrs. Decatur gave the first and the very next day the news reached the city that Commodore Decatur had been killed, and Washington was once thrown into mourning, and the entertainments were, of course, abandoned.

Both Eliza and Maria married gentlemen who were at different times the private secretaries of the President. At that time John Quincy Adams was secretary of state and Mr. Hay made his life hard, for she had him communicate to the foreign ministers her rulings regarding receptions and visits to the White House. But when Mr. Adams became President, he appointed Mr. Hay to be a judge and made Mr. Gouvernour postmaster of New York city.

Maria took it by turns, living at times in New York, Washington and Oak Hill. After the death of Mrs. Monroe in 1835, Maria went to New York to be with her and with Mrs. Hay, who was also living there. He was very poor and in 1831, on July 9th, died, making Maria third President of the United States who had died on the date of the nation's birth.

Mrs. Gouvernour seems to have been far more popular than her sister. After her father's death she continued to come to Oak Hill, bringing her little son, Samuel L., Jr. Their summers were always spent there. and they usually drove in the carriage from Washington to the old homestead, the baggage wagons bringing up the rear, making a long cavalcade. Mrs. Gouvernour was kind-hearted and open-handed and the poor near Oak Hill welcomed her.
EW BRITAIN'S NEW PASTOR.

COOPER.

Ketch of Rev. Dr. O. S. Davis who is Expected to Accept Call.

(Special to The Courant.)

New Britain, June 1.

Although a formal answer has not yet been received from Rev. Dr. O. S. Davis of Newtonville, Mass., to the call which has been extended to him to become the pastor of the South Congregational Church, of which Rev. Dr. J. W. Cooper was pastor for a quarter of a century, it is understood that he will accept and will forward his reply when he has formally notified his own parish of his intention. The committee in recommending a pastor have continued to receive very complimentary reports in regard to Dr. Davis and his work, and believe he is the man for the charge you can do to do is to go to 10 pounds for $8.75. And you can do it.

We have just heard that the Department of Public Instruction has taken over the Sardines. The President's able men and able men are able to save the country.

The Secretary's Office are to be remembered. The Secretary's Office are to be remembered. The Secretary's Office are to be remembered.

Please remember that a DEBUTANTE'S RECEPTION.

Large Party Entertained at Miss Moore's Home on Wethersfield Avenue.

Mrs. James B. Moore gave a large party at her home.

MISS MOORE'S DANCE.

November 15, 1902

Beautiful Decorations at Putnam Phalanx Hall Where Affair Was Held.

Putnam Phalanx hall presented as nearly the appearance of fairyland, Friday night, as one could imagine. Seldom has it been more handsomely and attractively decorated than it ever has been times past. The scene more so than ever, there was a most effect obtainable from the white, enchan ting whole color, maj estic picture the dance gave. B. Moore for Miss Moore was received by many to much of the flattery.

The arran gement of electric lights at the center of the church was quite an innovation, Frond pink and white being the predominant hues of all. Below were strewed with Laces hung in white and walls of white. Gilded windows and lace. Little t. The air pink, also that a band to stationed the Mes sionaries of N Scranton, Pen Yan, Michigan, Miss Moore at York.

With Mrs. evening, altho Mr. and Mrs. and Rob P. H. Ingersoll and Henry S. Barrett.

Two-steps a un t il 12 o'clock served. The dancers were reflec tive with and decorator.

After supper the music started and it was not long when the last carriage left the hall.

DECEMBER 19, 1902.

Mr. and Mrs. James Buncle Moore of No. 85 Wethersfield avenue announce the engagement of their daughter, Laura, to Raymond George Keeney.

MARRIED AT NOON.

February 24, 1903.

Wedding of Raymond T. Keeney and Miss Laura Moore at Church of the Good Shepherd.

There was a large and fashionable attendance at the Church of the Good Shepherd at noon yesterday, when Raymond George Keeney and Miss Laura Moore, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James B. Moore of No. 85 Wethersfield avenue, were married. The church was beautifully decorated with palms, ferns and lilacs, and the effectiveness of these was increased in the chancel by the addition of a great number of Ascension lilies. The ceremony was performed by Rev. George T. Linseley, rector of the church, and the preludes and other music incidental to the marriage were played upon the organ by John M. Gallup. The bride, leaning upon the arm of her father and escorted by the maid of honor, eight bridesmaids and the ushers, entered the church at the south door and was met at the chancel rail by the groom and his best man. As they passed up the center aisle the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by the organist. The bride wore a rich dress of old rose point lace overlay, and the mousseline de soie. Her veil was of white tulle and she carried a large bouquet—octagon in shape, of white violets and ferns. The dresses of the maid of honor and of the bridesmaids were of light blue chiffon, elaborately tiered, and they were large hats of blue chiffon, ornamented with long plumes of ostrich feathers. The bouquet of the maid of honor was of pink bush roses and those of the bridesmaids were of clear white roses.

The ceremony was performed within the chancel rail and the grouping of the bride party formed a beautiful picture. During the benediction the bride and groom knelt upon cushions of white satin. At the conclusion of the marriage service the bride and groom left the church to the music of Mendelssohn's 'Wedding March.'

The maid of honor was the bride's sister, Miss Annie Richards Moore, and the bridesmaids were: Miss Kate Van Brumblad of Watertown, N. Y., Miss Edith Fuller of Meriden, Miss Amelia Smith of Milwaukee, Wis., Miss Elizabeth Rawn of Cincinnati, Miss Alice Peters of Great Barrington, Mass., schoolmates of the bride who was at the Misses' School of New York, Miss Elsie Lincoln of Hartford and Miss Sadie Kinney of Hartford and Miss Helen Howard of Hartford. The best man was Albert Munger Barrell, Yale, '90, and the ushers were: Reuben S. Dressler, Yale, '89, of Washington, D. C.; Earl Alexander, Yale in 1900, of Elizabeth, N. J., Ralph J. Robinson of East Orange; Edward Reed Ingraham, Yale '28 S. of Hartford; Harrie E. Hart, Yale '84 S. of Hartford; James L. Howard, Yale '88 S. of Hartford and Harold Emerson, Yale '90, of Hartford, and Major Lewis Edward Gordon, Westeyn '94, of Hartford.

After the ceremony at the church there was a reception at the home of the bride's parents, at Wethersfield avenue, which breakfast was served. Only the bridal party and a small number of relatives and intimate friends of the families attended the reception. The residence was handsomely decorated with roses, tulips, nasturtiums, palms, ferns and lilacs. The bride and groom received the congratulations of Twelfth cavalry, stationed at Fort Curry, Texas, was solemnized at noon, today. In the absence of Colonel Cod., the bride,...

THE TENTH MARY WASHINGTON.

A birthday celebration is being planned for February 22 for Mary Washington Bond Morosini, direct descendant of Mary Washington, the mother of George Washington. Little Mary Washington is the tenth in her line. Her mother was Mary Washington Bond, of New Jersey, the famous beauty.

THE TENTH MARY WASHINGTON.

A birthday celebration is being planned for February 22 for Mary Washington Bond Morosini, direct descendant of Mary Washington, the mother of George Washington. Little Mary Washington is the tenth in her line. Her mother was Mary Washington Bond, of New Jersey, the famous beauty.

Announcement is made of the marriage in Lynn, Mass., Monday, of Charles Stephen Marston, Columbia, S. C., and Miss Elizabeth V. J. B. Howard, daughter of Mr. Will-...
MRS. JOHN M. GALLUP’S TEA. FEBRUARY 25, 1903.

Yesterday afternoon, from 4 until 6 o’clock, Mrs. John M. Gallup gave a tea at her home, No. 39 Forest street, which was attended by a large number of her friends. The house was handsomely and profusely decorated with roses, carnations, tulips, daffodils, smilax and ferns. An attractive feature of the afternoon was the singing of a half dozen songs by Miss Rose O’Brien, a pupil of Madame Micolle of New York. Miss O’Brien has a charming contralto voice and by her singing gave much pleasure. The piano accompaniments to the songs were played by M. A. Alfred of this city. Mrs. Gallup was assisted in receiving and at the tea and chocolate tables by Mrs. Edward Hazard, Mrs. Edwin Y. Judd, Mrs. Hewitt Coburn, Mrs. Francis A. Crum, Mrs. John R. Penn and Miss Mary Penn.

AMATEUR THEATRICALS. APRIL 25, 1903.

“My Milliner’s Bill” and “The Ambassador’s Burglar.”

Society took its turn at amateur theatricals last evening, and Unity Hall was well filled with a fashionable audience to see two little plays presented by well known local talent. The first play was “The Ambassador’s Burglar,” a story of attempted intrigue, a misplaced letter being the theme around which the plot revolves. Count Spinachi, the Paphlagonian minister, and his wife, the countess, have been on a yachting trip, and of the company on the yacht were Miss Constance Harmsworth and Mr. Conquesta, first secretary of the embassy. There had been some passages of love making between the secretary and the countess, and the secretary had also set his heart on the conquest of Miss Harmsworth. The ambassador is also desperately in love with the young lady and writes a note to her. Dinner on the evening of the day his wife is to leave for Bar Harbor. The letter he bands to her happens to be another letter altogether, implicating the archduke in some scandal in the ambassador’s home country. In order to get this letter the secretary plays the burglar, and the plot works out by the arrival of the count, who announces that the letter was not the one he supposed it was after all, and the scene is over. Miss Lucy Pien played the Countess Spinachi with life and spirit, and in the closing scene, where she faints at the sight of a burglar, after having professed that she comes of a “brave family,” was exceedingly well done, with a fine appreciation of comedy spirit. Miss Roberts played Miss Constance, and was quite charming in her naiveté and proved an excellent foil for both the ambassador and his secretary. John L. Bunce played the ambassador with dignity and his anxiety for the welfare of his letter was sufficient to drive away his thoughts of lovemaking, with which he opened the act. John J. Naire was the secretary and the part fitted him to a nicety, giving him good opportunity for his talents as a lively and bright man on the stage. Charles P. Cooley played the footman, with due regard for the aspirates. The play was much enjoyed and the scenery and costumes were appropriate and effective.

The closing piece was “My Milliner’s Bill,” the one-act farce made familiar by the Vokese some years ago. Bits of the dialogue had been modernized to save a little present day flavor, although the story is as new as it is old, that of a fashionable woman running in debt for dress without her husband’s knowledge, the day of reckoning the day of the success server being the day of the story. Mrs. J. M. Gallup played Mrs. Mistrewd, the fashionable woman in distress because of her diffrinks and John William B. Dwight was the husband, disguised a part of the time as the official “keeper” of the house and furniture. Mrs. Merridew in an acceptance before her marriage and reminiscences of her success gave bright moments in her lines, and for the rest the situations were sufficient to make a good deal of good-natured fun. Incident to the action, Mrs. Merridew remembers her stage days and sings two comic songs, which were given with good dialect and much life and were greatly appreciated, her husband, in disguise, doing a clever “walk round” as an accompaniment to the refrain of the last one. Mrs. Gallup proved herself as she often has a charming entertainer.

WETHERSFIELD WEDDING.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Millard’s Reception—Local Notes.

A pretty home wedding took place in Wethersfield yesterday afternoon at 5 o’clock when Edmund Earle Freeman of Hartford and Miss Alice Louise Mildrum, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Mildrum of Wethersfield, were married at the home of the bride’s brother, William H. Mildrum, on Main street. The house was handsomely decorated for the occasion with palms, ferns and carnations, the color effect in the dining room being red and green. The couple stood under an arch of green lined with white ribbons. Rev. Harold Pattison, pastor of the North Baptist Church of Hartford, performed the ceremony. The couple entered the room attended to the strains of the wedding march from “Lohengrin” played by Mr. Benedict of Hartford. The bride wore a gown of blue cloth with white moire waist and white chiffon hat and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The ushers were George Mildrum, brother of the bride, and Milton Freeman, brother of the groom. The ceremony was followed by a reception and supper, after which the couple left for a short trip. On their return they will reside at the bride’s home on the corner of Main and Garden streets in Wethersfield, where they will be at home after April 22. The guests included only the immediate families and near relatives of the bride and groom, about fifty being present. Among the guests was the grandmother of the bride, 83 years old, from Middletown, also other friends from Middletown, New York and New Britain. The couple received many handsome gifts of cut glass, silver, china, etc. The groom is employed in the office of the American bicycle works.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mildrum gave a pleasant reception last evening from 7 to 9 o’clock at their home on Main street in Wethersfield in honor of the fourth anniversary of their marriage. A large number of friends called, Mr. and Mrs. Mildrum receiving their guests under the wagon which had been arranged for their sister’s marriage in the afternoon. George Mildrum and Milton Freeman of Hartford again acted as ushers. Chocolate, coffee and wafers were served in the dining room and fruit punch in the hall.
Rev. George R. Warner has resigned as rector of St. Thomas's Church and his resignation has been accepted by the wardens and vestrymen of the church. Mr. Warner will retire from the rectorship May 19 of this year, which is the fourteenth anniversary of his coming to the church. Mr. Warner's health has been very poor for some time, and this step has been expected by his friends. He will continue his residence in this city. The church will supply the pulpit until the end of the term. Mr. Warner has been confined to his house for some little time but has occasionally taken a little out-of-door exercise until quite recently. The church, which has prospered greatly since he assumed the duties of rector, the membership having increased from 136 to 465, very much regrets that he feels obliged to take this step. There has been absolute harmony in the relations of parish and rector, and in all that pertains to the progress of the community of the north end of the city.

Mr. Warner has been an active force in the wardens and vestrymen of the parish, and many of the prominent people of the community will feel a loss by his departure. Mr. Warner was elected rector was for fifteen years and the committee of the wardens and vestrymen of the parish, held in the parish house last evening, voted unanimously to extend a call to the Rev. Percival H. Whaley.

The Southington correspondent of the Record has the following:

The Southington correspondent of the Meriden Record has the following, which will interest many Hartford people:

"The meeting of the members of St. Paul's parish, held in the parish house last evening, was largely attended. The meeting was called for the purpose of acting upon the recommendation of the Rev. George R. Warner of Aspen, Colo., to be rector of St. Paul's. The meeting after hearing the recommendations voted unanimously to extend a call to the Rev. Mr. Warner. The newly-elected rector was for fifteen years rector of St. Thomas's parish in Hartford and was beloved by his parishioners and all who knew him. The duties of so large a parish were too heavy for him and he failed. Last February, Mr. Warner went to Colorado to recuperate. He is now fully recovered and will return east. He is highly recommended by Bishop Brewster, Archbishop Bodley, the members of St. Thomas's, parish, and many prominent people of Hartford. He is active in parish work and is a good preacher. He is a member of the G. A. R., the Masons and the Odd Fellows. There is every reason to believe that he will accept the call to St. Paul's and the members of the parish think themselves very fortunate in securing so good a man."
Daniel H. Chase of Middletown

Ranches Age of 90 Years.

(Special to The Courant.)

Middletown, March 8.

Daniel H. Chase, LL. D., the oldest alumnus of Wesleyan and aedoctarian of the first class that graduated, celebrated to-day his ninetieth birthday anniversary.

Dr. Chase is in excellent health, and is daily seen in the streets of the city.

He was born in Hoosick, N. Y., March 8, 1814, the third son of Rev. Henry and

Rachel Pine Chase. A sister, Mrs. Nathaniel Burton, resides in Hartford. Dr. Chase graduated at Wesleyan in 1835 and has resided here the entire time. Soon after leaving college he started a famous preparatory school in this city, which he conducted until 1870. He has twice visited Europe. In 1833 and 1835 he represented this town in the General Assembly. Wesleyan conferred the degree of LL. D. upon him in 1858. He has been a member of the Methodist Church since 1834. His wife died in 1881.

Somers Couple Celebrate.

(Special to The Courant.)

Somers, March 8.

Mrs. Cyrus Lee celebrated her eighty-second birthday and she and her husband celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding to-day. Mr. Lee is 83 years old. Their seven children and ten grandchildren were with them, coming from Warehouse Point and from Hampden, Mass.

MARCH 14, 1903.

OLDEST WESLEYAN ALUMNUS.

Daniel Henry Chase First Valedictorian-Career as an Educator.

Correspondence of The Republican.

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Saturday, March 11.

Daniel Henry Chase, the oldest living

alumnus and the only living member of the first class graduated from Wesleyan

University, celebrated his 91st birthday

at his home in this city, Wednesday.

Out of deference to Dr. Chase's wishes the day was passed quietly. It was not allowed to pass unnoticed, however, for all of his children who reside in this city at present came to his home.

MARC 14, 1903

WESLEYAN'S OLDEST GRADUATE

CELEBRATES 91ST BIRTHDAY.

Daniel Henry Chase First Valedic-
torian-Career as an Educator.

Correspondence of The Republican.

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Saturday, March 11.

Daniel Henry Chase, the oldest living

alumnus and the only living member of

the first class graduated from Wesleyan

University, celebrated his 91st birthday

at his home in this city, Wednesday.

Out of deference to Dr. Chase's wishes the

day was passed quietly. It was not allowed to pass unnoticed, however, for all of his children who reside in this city at

present came to his home.

WESLEYAN'S OLDEST GRADUATE

CELEBRATES 91ST BIRTHDAY.

Daniel Henry Chase First Valedic-
torian-Career as an Educator.

Correspondence of The Republican.

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Saturday, March 11.

Daniel Henry Chase, the oldest living

alumnus and the only living member of

the first class graduated from Wesleyan

University, celebrated his 91st birthday

at his home in this city, Wednesday.

Out of deference to Dr. Chase's wishes the

day was passed quietly. It was not allowed to pass unnoticed, however, for all of his children who reside in this city at

present came to his home.

WESLEYAN'S OLDEST GRADUATE

CELEBRATES 91ST BIRTHDAY.

Daniel Henry Chase First Valedic-
torian-Career as an Educator.

Correspondence of The Republican.

MIDDLETOWN, Ct., Saturday, March 11.

Daniel Henry Chase, the oldest living

alumnus and the only living member of

the first class graduated from Wesleyan

University, celebrated his 91st birthday

at his home in this city, Wednesday.

Out of deference to Dr. Chase's wishes the

day was passed quietly. It was not allowed to pass unnoticed, however, for all

of his children who reside in this city at

present came to his home.
proper cultivation the business should boom, as it never boomed before. None of us should let these bright, balmy, exhilarating days slip by, and everyone who has shown any lethargy heretofore, should make up at once for his lost time. The Spring is everybody's season, and those who have not contributed should bestir themselves and those who need no warning or no cheering note, should only whet up their enthusiasm and revel in the happy reflection that there is yet a full store of persistency for use upon the uninsured. Postponement only means that the Summer will slip away before the business is closed, if meanwhile your more persistent competitor does not gather in your prospects. Be persistent in the development of prospects. Canvas and you will find them, and when you feel it is time to broach the subject of Accident and Health insurance, strike and strike hard—and your mission and our mission will be fulfilled to the glorification of your heart and our ambitions, and of your purse and of our ideals. Surely persistency pays.

A field man need not run an actuary shop. He need not let any of the vexatious problems of Accident and Health insurance bother him. He does not have to, and unless he wants to make that feature his home work, he had better let it alone. He should leave that to the fellows at headquarters, who are paid for that sort of thing, and while passing from one prospect to another, figure on whether the next and the next and so on through his list can be insured, and if they are able to pay the premium. Let him talk to all of these to insure them, avoiding reserves or ratios and all of that, but going to work at 8:30 a.m. and not quitting until 6:00 p.m., and he will find that the business has in it all that he expected to find—a wholesome, dignified, money-making, money-saving occupation.

HOW DOES IT AFFECT YOU?

Picking up a daily paper one morning, we read the following headlines, looking at but two pages: "Accident on the Baltimore;" "Jumped Blindfold to Death;" "A Train Suction—Drew in a Child so that She was Struck by the Car Steps;" "Jumped from Car and was Killed;" Trolley Car Struck by Lightning;" "Passersby watch a Girl Burn;" "Trolley Accident in Flatlands." And this is an "easy" list. Accidents seem to come in bunches. Some days—but seldom—your daily paper will be comparatively free from recitals of them, yet never entirely so. Other days, as above, a few—just a few—will loom up. Again on another you will find the columns teeming with accounts of mishaps, some not very serious, many very serious, numerous fatal ones.

How do these recitals affect you? If you are insured against accidents you must feel satisfied and regret that perhaps many of the persons you have just read about have been overtaken by mishaps unprepared, financially, to meet them. If you are not insured against accidents do you reflect that some morning there may be an accident in your paper about your own meet with a more or less serious mishap, or that your family may have to read of your untimely, perhaps horrible death? Because you have escaped thus far, do you reckon upon a continuance of that happy condition of things? Are you not aware that, for that very reason, you are more liable to be overtaken with peril than if your accident had already mangled you? No one knows the law of nature that governs accidents, but it is a safe conclusion that such a law exists, and that while you have been spared thus far, your share of the average mishaps is surely awaiting you.

How does all this affect you? Will you not be wise aforetime and for the sake of your good wife and little ones, prepare for their comfort, and perhaps—let us hope—for your own? Are we appealing to you in vain? We trust not.
Mr. J. Wm. Hampden Pye, subject of this sketch, and recently elected Second Vice-President and General Manager of the Union Casualty & Surety Co. of St. Louis, was born in New England some thirty years ago. At the age of nineteen he accepted employment with the Travelers Insurance Company of Hartford, Conn., as a junior clerk at the Home Office. The attention of the officers of this Company was not long in being drawn to Mr. Pye’s exceptional ability, tenacity, definiteness of purpose and the clear and conclusive manner in which he took hold of and did things, and in three years after he began his service with the Travelers Insurance Company he was appointed to the responsible position of Company’s auditor. Mr. Pye has those traits and characteristics which guarantee success as surely as sparks fly upward. The originality to conceive a thing as being necessary, the energy to push it and endurance to swing on until the purpose is accomplished. “He is a man who through his earnestness in striving for his purpose forgets his food, and in his joy for having accomplished it, loses all sense of his toil.”

The exactness and precision with which Mr. Pye does his work is an inspiration to those who work with him. Some men will finish a job and leave more work than ever before for the other fellow. Not so with the subject of this sketch. When he finishes his job, whatever it may be, the work is done. Mr. Pye’s dominant quality is love of fair play. He concedes to others what he asks for himself, recognition of merit and ability, and in his management of men these qualities should attract the men of merit and repulse the drones.

Mr. Pye speaks his convictions freely, and delights in having others doing the same. In his business matters he believes in push, pluck, perseverance inspired by the knowledge of right, then the determination to win. With his knowledge of men he will surround himself with good lieutenants, capable and trustworthy men, inspire them with these principles, and it is predicted that all who are interested in the welfare of the “Union” will see a bright and glorious future for this Company.

W. W. K.
J. WM. HAMPDEN PYE.
SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT AND GENERAL MANAGER
OF THE
UNION CASUALTY AND SURETY COMPANY OF ST. LOUIS, MO.
The Hartford Times.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 11, 1903.

Golden Wedding Celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Clough—An Enjoyable Reception.

Friends to the number of 100 or more gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Clough, No. 117 Madison avenue, Monday evening, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. A reception was given in the afternoon to those who could not attend in the evening. Friends and relatives from many town in Connecticut and Massachusetts were present. Letters of congratulations were received from several who expressed regret at not being able to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were the recipients of many valuable gifts in gold and silver, also some money in gold.

At 8:30 Mr. and Mrs. Clough entered the parlor, followed by their children and grandchildren. The Rev. James Balfour Connell, a former pastor of the couple, officiated at the ceremony, in which a ring was used, and the aged couple renewed their marriage vows. Mr. Connell, in extending his congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clough on the occasion of their golden wedding, referred to the phrase "a vein to the celebration of wooden, tin, crystal and silver weddings. The significance of marriage anniversaries, said he, would be the best intention and most sincere affection of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Clough had more reason to congratulate themselves as they looked along the shores of time and observed the number of "matrimonial wrecks."

Mr. Connell referred to a humorous vein in the celebration of wooden, tin, crystal and silver weddings. The golden wedding, he said, claimed most sincere affection of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Clough had more reason to congratulate themselves as they looked along the shores of time and observed the number of "matrimonial wrecks."

Mr. Connell referred to a humorous vein in the celebration of wooden, tin, crystal and silver weddings. The golden wedding, he said, claimed the secret of their happy life was in their faith in true religion.

Mr. Clough was born in Bradford, N. H., March 9, 1833. He was the son of David Clough, a farmer. Mrs. Clough, whose maiden name was Frances A. Clark, was born in Middletown, this state, June 9, 1834. She was a daughter of Captain L. D. Clark, who commanded the steamer Westchester, plying between New York and Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were married here March 9, 1853, by the Rev. Dr. John J. Murdock, pastor of the South Baptist church. For the past eight years Mr. Clough has been employed at the Hartford Rubber works. Previously he was employed for 15 years by the Colt Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company, and 15 years by W. George & Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Clough were members of the Memorial Baptist church for years, and took their letters to the Old Mill Baptist church. They have been connected with the Salvation army for the past eight years. Two children were born to them, Horin A. Clough and Albert I. Clough. The former was born October 15, 1859, and the latter January 4, 1865. Albert died July 26, 1865. They have two grandchildren, Ida May Clough, aged 15 years, and Clarin A. Clough, aged 13. Both were present Monday evening.

Friends to the number of 100 or more gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Clough, No. 117 Madison avenue, Monday evening, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. A reception was given in the afternoon to those who could not attend in the evening. Friends and relatives from many town in Connecticut and Massachusetts were present. Letters of congratulations were received from several who expressed regret at not being able to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were the recipients of many valuable gifts in gold and silver, also some money in gold.

At 8:30 Mr. and Mrs. Clough entered the parlor, followed by their children and grandchildren. The Rev. James Balfour Connell, a former pastor of the couple, officiated at the ceremony, in which a ring was used, and the aged couple renewed their marriage vows. Mr. Connell, in extending his congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clough on the occasion of their golden wedding, referred to the phrase "a vein to the celebration of wooden, tin, crystal and silver weddings. The significance of marriage anniversaries, said he, would be the best intention and most sincere affection of their friends. Mr. and Mrs. Clough had more reason to congratulate themselves as they looked along the shores of time and observed the number of "matrimonial wrecks."

Mr. Connell referred to a humorous vein in the celebration of wooden, tin, crystal and silver weddings. The golden wedding, he said, claimed the secret of their happy life was in their faith in true religion.

Mr. Clough was born in Bradford, N. H., March 9, 1833. He was the son of David Clough, a farmer. Mrs. Clough, whose maiden name was Frances A. Clark, was born in Middletown, this state, June 9, 1834. She was a daughter of Captain L. D. Clark, who commanded the steamer Westchester, plying between New York and Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were married here March 9, 1853, by the Rev. Dr. John J. Murdock, pastor of the South Baptist church. For the past eight years Mr. Clough has been employed at the Hartford Rubber works. Previously he was employed for 15 years by the Colt Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company, and 15 years by W. George & Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Clough were members of the Memorial Baptist church for years, and took their letters to the Old Mill Baptist church. They have been connected with the Salvation army for the past eight years. Two children were born to them, Horin A. Clough and Albert I. Clough. The former was born October 15, 1859, and the latter January 4, 1865. Albert died July 26, 1865. They have two grandchildren, Ida May Clough, aged 15 years, and Clarin A. Clough, aged 13. Both were present Monday evening.

Friends to the number of 100 or more gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Clough, No. 117 Madison avenue, Monday evening, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. A reception was given in the afternoon to those who could not attend in the evening. Friends and relatives from many town in Connecticut and Massachusetts were present. Letters of congratulations were received from several who expressed regret at not being able to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were the recipients of many valuable gifts in gold and silver, also some money in gold.

At 8:30 Mr. and Mrs. Clough entered the parlor, followed by their children and grandchildren. The Rev. James Balfour Connell, a former pastor of the couple, officiated at the ceremony, in which a ring was used, and the aged couple renewed their marriage vows. Mr. Connell, in extending his congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clough on the occasion of their golden wedding, referred in a humorous vein to the celebration of wooden, tin, crystal and silver weddings. The golden wedding, he said, claimed the secret of their happy life was in their faith in true religion.

Mr. Clough was born in Bradford, N. H., March 9, 1833. He was the son of David Clough, a farmer. Mrs. Clough, whose maiden name was Frances A. Clark, was born in Middletown, this state, June 9, 1834. She was a daughter of Captain L. D. Clark, who commanded the steamer Westchester, plying between New York and Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were married here March 9, 1853, by the Rev. Dr. John J. Murdock, pastor of the South Baptist church. For the past eight years Mr. Clough has been employed at the Hartford Rubber works. Previously he was employed for 15 years by the Colt Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company, and 15 years by W. George & Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Clough were members of the Memorial Baptist church for years, and took their letters to the Old Mill Baptist church. They have been connected with the Salvation army for the past eight years. Two children were born to them, Horin A. Clough and Albert I. Clough. The former was born October 15, 1859, and the latter January 4, 1865. Albert died July 26, 1865. They have two grandchildren, Ida May Clough, aged 15 years, and Clarin A. Clough, aged 13. Both were present Monday evening.

Friends to the number of 100 or more gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Clough, No. 117 Madison avenue, Monday evening, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. A reception was given in the afternoon to those who could not attend in the evening. Friends and relatives from many town in Connecticut and Massachusetts were present. Letters of congratulations were received from several who expressed regret at not being able to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were the recipients of many valuable gifts in gold and silver, also some money in gold.

At 8:30 Mr. and Mrs. Clough entered the parlor, followed by their children and grandchildren. The Rev. James Balfour Connell, a former pastor of the couple, officiated at the ceremony, in which a ring was used, and the aged couple renewed their marriage vows. Mr. Connell, in extending his congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clough on the occasion of their golden wedding, referred in a humorous vein to the celebration of wooden, tin, crystal and silver weddings. The golden wedding, he said, claimed the secret of their happy life was in their faith in true religion.

Mr. Clough was born in Bradford, N. H., March 9, 1833. He was the son of David Clough, a farmer. Mrs. Clough, whose maiden name was Frances A. Clark, was born in Middletown, this state, June 9, 1834. She was a daughter of Captain L. D. Clark, who commanded the steamer Westchester, plying between New York and Providence.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were married here March 9, 1853, by the Rev. Dr. John J. Murdock, pastor of the South Baptist church. For the past eight years Mr. Clough has been employed at the Hartford Rubber works. Previously he was employed for 15 years by the Colt Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company, and 15 years by W. George & Beach. Mr. and Mrs. Clough were members of the Memorial Baptist church for years, and took their letters to the Old Mill Baptist church. They have been connected with the Salvation army for the past eight years. Two children were born to them, Horin A. Clough and Albert I. Clough. The former was born October 15, 1859, and the latter January 4, 1865. Albert died July 26, 1865. They have two grandchildren, Ida May Clough, aged 15 years, and Clarin A. Clough, aged 13. Both were present Monday evening.

Friends to the number of 100 or more gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Horace W. Clough, No. 117 Madison avenue, Monday evening, to celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion. A reception was given in the afternoon to those who could not attend in the evening. Friends and relatives from many town in Connecticut and Massachusetts were present. Letters of congratulations were received from several who expressed regret at not being able to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Clough were the recipients of many valuable gifts in gold and silver, also some money in gold.

At 8:30 Mr. and Mrs. Clough entered the parlor, followed by their children and grandchildren. The Rev. James Balfour Connell, a former pastor of the couple, officiated at the ceremony, in which a ring was used, and the aged couple renewed their marriage vows. Mr. Connell, in extending his congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Clough on the occasion of their golden wedding, referred in a humorous vein to the celebration of wooden, tin, crystal and silver weddings. The golden wedding, he said, claimed the secret of their happy life was in their faith in true religion.
MERWIN-PARSONS. At Brooklyn, N. Y., March 21, 1903, by the Rev. Edward P. Ingersoll, D. D., assisted by the Rev. Dr. S. Parke Cadman, Parson de Forest Parsons, daughter of Rev. Edward P. Ingersoll, D. D., Secretary of the American Bible Society, to Timothy Dwight Merwin, of Englewood, New Jersey.

MERWIN-PARSONS.

Marriage of a Former Hartford Man in Brooklyn.

Mrs. Antoinette de Forest Parsons and Timothy Dwight Merwin of Englewood, N. J., were married Wednesday afternoon at No. 83 Halsey street, Brooklyn, N. Y., the residence of the bride's father, Rev. Dr. Edward P. Ingersoll, secretary of the American Bible Society. The ceremony was performed by Dr. Ingersoll, assisted by Rev. Dr. S. Parke Cadman, pastor of the Central Congregational Church of Brooklyn.

Mr. Merwin is a Yale graduate of the class of 1877, and formerly lived in Hartford, where he studied law in the office of Hon. Henry C. Robinson. He was afterward clerk of the United States Senate committee on civil service reform, of which Senator Hawley was chairman. For several years he has been a member of the well known law firm of Boardman, Platt & Soles, No. 27 Wall street, New York. Mrs. Parsons has given much attention to art, having studied for three years in the Paris schools. Her proficiency in painting has assured her admission to the Paris Salon, where her picture of a scene was the appearance in the bridal party of Miss Antoinette Fuller of Cleveland, O., niece of the bride, as maid of honor, dressed in pink and white, carrying a bouquet of pink roses, while another niece, Marion Fuller, and Margaret Merwin, daughter of the groom, similarly dressed, acted as flower girls, carrying baskets of pale pink carnations. The floral decorations were the magnificent arrangement of roses and carnations in pink and white, relieved by festoons of southern smilax and the darker green of palms. Only relatives and intimate friends were present. Louis Lord Querue of Brooklyn acted as best man and Frank H. Parsons and John Clark Smith, also of Brooklyn, were the ushers.

After May 1, Mr. and Mrs. Merwin will live at the Lowell, Morningside Heights, New York.

TUTTLE-FOSTER WEDDING AT BOSTON.

A brilliant wedding at Boston last night was that of Miss Ethel Estelle Tuttle, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Tuttle, to Reuben Carll Foster of Baltimore, Md. Mr. Tuttle is the president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The bridegroom’s father, Reuben Foster, is the president of the Chesapeake Bay Steamship company. The marriage ceremony was performed at the North South church by Rev George A. Gordon. Miss Tuttle’s sister, Mrs. George A. Miller, the wife of Dr. Miller of Dayton, Ohio, attended the bride as matron of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Alice Saxton of Boston and Miss Emma Frey White of Lewiston, Me., the granddaughter of Senator William P. Frey, the president pro tem of the United States Senate.

Mr. Tuttle was engaged in his brother, Arthur Foster, in the practice of law.

ST. REPPUBLIC.

SPRINGFIELD, SATURDAY, MAR. 14, 1903.

OLDEST PERSON IN FRANKLIN.

Stephen E. Boyton Will Observe His 100th Birthday Anniversary To-Day.

South Deerfield takes just pride in the fact that within her borders live eight people over 90 years of age. They are: Stephen E. Boyton, who will be 100 years old today, March 15th; Mrs. John H. Sills, age 90 years, eight months; William Hayes, who is in his 94th year; Mrs. Anna Maria Rupley, nearly 90; Mrs. Franklin Bartlett, Mrs. Ann Maria Barlow, both 80 years, and Ellen Hawk, each in their 91st year.

Stephen E. Boyton, who will reach the century mark to-day, and who is the oldest person in Franklin county, was born in Hubbardston March 14, 1803, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Boyton. In 1860 the family moved to Leverett, where he spent the greater part of his boyhood. Mr. Boyton remembers the exciting times in 1812, in the war with Great Britain, of the raising of a company of volunteers at church one Sunday, and a few days later seeing Capt Mayo start with his company to the enemy. He also gives many interesting particulars of the first train over the Connecticut River railroad. Mr. Boyton was married in 1831 to Rebecca Clark of Wendell, who died in 1880 at the age of 85 years. Mr. Boyton went to South Deerfield soon after his marriage, buying the farm on which he has since lived, of “Zib” Hawks, and of the farm at that time was heavily timbered. Mr. Boyton gives many interesting accounts of some of the many changes which have taken place during his long life. He has been a man of good habits, leading a rather quiet, but active life, nearly all of which has been spent upon the farm. He has two sons, Joseph and Alphonse; two granddaughters, Miss Ethel Boyton and Mrs. Flora B. Hayes, and a grandson, Frederick, children of Joseph, and two great-grandchildren, a boy and girl, children of Mrs. Hayes. He also has a brother, Reuben L. Boyton, living in Wales, who is 82 years old.

Mr. Boyton is in excellent health, his eyesight.

NATIONAL DEFENSE.
Betsy Morley Lewis, Aged One Hundred Years, Harrisburg, Pa. 1903

Mother Lewis was a tailoress, and worked at her trade in her native city for many years, her life always being an active one.

Her diet is very simple, consisting largely of rice, oatmeal, and potatoes, of which she is especially fond. She eats no meat of any kind, and drinks coffee very moderately. She has never used tobacco or alcoholic liquors in any form.

The accompanying cut is from a photograph taken on her one hundredth birthday. At this time she was given a public reception, at which she greeted five hundred people, and without a great deal of fatigue.

Her eyesight is still so good that she is able to read both print and plain script readily. She sleeps well, and it has long been her custom to retire at eleven o'clock.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stalker, Aged One Hundred and One Years, Altoona, Pa.

One of the most remarkable women living in the Keystone State is sweet-faced Grandma Stalker of Altoona. She takes a keen interest in all the affairs of life, and often actively assists in the duties of her household. Her robust health gives promise of many more years of life for her.

Mrs. Stalker is a member of the Presbyterian church of Williamsburg, and a regular attendant, walking a distance of two squares twice each Sunday. She enjoys the best of health, and her mind is as bright as that of a woman of fifty.

Miss Catherine Isenhood, Aged One Hundred and Six Years, Wilkinsburg, Pa. 1903.

Miss Isenhood was born in Erie County, New York, in 1795, and at an early age started west with her parents. The trip across the wild State of Pennsylvania was, at that time, a perilous one, and when the family reached the junction of the Allegheny and Monongahela rivers, where Pittsburgh now is, the little girl was left with some friends, to be sent for when the new home was established. This was the last she ever heard of her parents, and it was never known whether they were killed by Indians or met their death in some other g figure, attention. talk of her early trail she rail since one of Pittsburg, ly retenti- est rec- Wash- she was old dis- the court to ried the in- SS Isen- unaided, ss blind. Isen-
To Celebrate Golden Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. James Porteus will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding Tuesday, March 17, when they will be glad to receive their friends in honor.

Mr. and Mrs. James Porteus Celebrate Fiftieth Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. James Porteus celebrated their golden wedding last evening at their home, No. 3 Forest street, when their relatives and friends met and greeted the aged couple from 8 to 10 o'clock. During the afternoon the elder friends of the couple came to tender their congratulations and wish continued years of happiness to the pair, while in the evening the children and grandchildren were present. The house was well decorated with flowers sent in by friends in the city. Besides these gifts, Mr. and Mrs. Porteus received upwards of $50 in gold and many articles of plate and china. Mr. and Mrs. Porteus received their guests, though somewhat wearied by the usual excitement, appeared in health and spirits.

They were married March 17th, 1853.

The Porteuses built the house at No. 3 Forest street, in which he has since resided. For thirty-eight years Mr. Porteus has lived in this city and are: Robert, who resides at No. 12 Forest street; John M., who lives at No. 5 Forest street; Mrs. John Moody of No. 3 Forest street, Mrs. David Durie of Glendale avenue and Miss Angie Porteus, who lives with her parents. The twelve grandchildren of Mr. and Mrs. Porteus were also present. Rev. Mr. Porteus, who is nearing his 80th birthday and his wife who is 74 years old, are both in good health and well preserved. They are attendants at Trinity Church and have been since its organization. With the exception of their children and grandchildren, Isaac B. Price of New York, alleged to be 101 years old, says he never before entered beyond the city limits, never rode in a trolley-car, never crossed Brooklyn Bridge, never let a barber shave him, never drank liquor, and never had pipe or cigar between his teeth. "I have chewed tobacco since I was a boy," he says.

BARRON—In Warehouse Point, March 14, Horace Barber, of Emfield, 101 years old.

Funeral at his late residence, this (Monday) afternoon at 2 p.m. Interment at Spring Grove Cemetery, Warehouse Point.

GRANT—BARBER—At Solitude, Warehouse Point, Conn., March 15, 1932 by the Rev. William J. Brezner, Caroline W. Barber and Thompson S. Grant, No. 21.

GRANT—BARBER WEDDING.

Ex-Comptroller Thompson S. Grant of Enfield and Mrs. Caroline W. Barber, widow of Horace Barber of Warehouse Point, were married at noon Wednesday at Mrs. Barber's home, and the ceremony was performed by Rev. William J. Brezner of St. John's Episcopal Church. Only intimate friends were present. A brief reception was held at the house following the marriage service, and a wedding luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Grant left on a southbound train for a short trip and on their return will reside in the home of Mr. Grant on Enfield street. Later it is their intention to take an extended European trip.

Figurine in Politics and Civic Affairs.

Legislator and Delegate to Constitutional Convention—No Near Kin.

Special to The Times.

Thompsonville, February 2.

Thompson Sinclair Grant, formerly state comptroller, and one of Enfield's most prominent citizens, died this morning at 8 o'clock at the home of Thomas B. Carroll, where he has lived for the past fifteen months. Death came at the end of a decline of about two years' duration. Mr. Grant suffered an attack of pneumonia, in November, 1911, which was the beginning of a general breakdown. Mr. Grant was 72 years old. He was born in Enfield, June 23, 1843.

His father was Dr. Harry Allen Grant, for many years an eminent physician in Hartford and its vicinity. His mother was Laura A. Grant. Mr. Grant was educated in the Enfield schools.

CONNECTICUT GENTLEMAN'S FINE HOME AND FARM.

A Mansion, Stored With Rare Old Antiques, and a Dairy Farm of Choicest Quality.

THOMPSON S. GRANT ESTATE, 1910.

JUNE 4, 1903.

Grand Reception in Enfield.

The most elaborate social function that has ever taken place in Enfield was held Wednesday evening, when Mr. and Mrs. Thompson S. Grant gave a grand reception in their home on Grant street. Guests present from the Warehouse Locks and which was gaviable and decorated as it is was used as the principal dining-hall. The house was well decorated with flowers and received refreshments and a dinner. The dining-hall, which was south side, was fitted up for the men and many were she never before seen. The house was a beautiful one, the red being present were Noble, Lewis, Mrs. H. D. Higgins and Mr. J. C. H. Brubaker of Newton, excellent and State and Mrs. A. W. Parsons of New York, and Mrs. J. W. Mrs. Horace Mrs. John G. Grant's de chere over jewel trim- monson.

Nelson.
We are not at all sure that Mr. Platt knows even yet, after all these years, the real width, depth and warmth of his state's liking for him. He will get additional light on the subject before bedtime.

His visit to Hartford last fall was political. He came to take the chair in a party convention. The errand that brings him to the old capital city today is of a different and more genial nature. He is the honored and beloved guest of the state—of all the people of the state. There's no politics in this welcome; the bugles have sung truce. We are not republicans and democrats today; we are Connecticut-folks, trying to make Mr. Platt of Connecticut (as the official reporters of the Senate call him) understand how proud we all are of our right and title in him. The occasion would be perfect but for the necessary absence of his colleague and friend; and that is only a bodily absence. We may be sure that General Hawley's thoughts will be in Hartford today.

It is well that the young men of the state should see and consider the careers of their senators. General Hawley's is an education and inspiration in patriotism, and so—without any clash of arms in it—is Mr. Platt's. He was born in a Litchfield county farmhouse. The Gunnery taught him his Latin, and things more valuable than Latin. Litchfield Hill gave him his start in the law. Meriden has had a good citizen in him for fifty years and two. He has obeyed every order of duty; a soldier could do no more. He was diligent in the service of his town before he was called into the service of his state. From his first year in the chamber a conscientious, hard-working, painstaking senator, he has grown and broadened and ripened into a leading senator—great in influence, great in usefulness. His name is spoken with respect in distant states. Yet at home he is still the unfriIed Connecticut man, interested in local affairs, a friendly neighbor among neighbors, seeking and enjoying "the talk Man holds with week-day man in the hourly walk Of the mind's business."

Your free-spoken admirer in the White House is right, Senator Platt. You are, as he forcibly says, a Bully Old Boy. Hartford is glad to have you here on this twentieth day of March, 1903; the legislators, state officers, judges, reverend clergy, learned physicians, poor but honest lawyers and plain people won't do a thing to you.
HARTFORD DESCENDANTS OF RUSSIAN COUPLE CELEBRATE

A unique ceremony, based on the marked characteristic of the Hebrew race, love for the family relation, took place at the Hebrew Institute on Pleasant Street last night, beginning at 8 o'clock and lasting until nearly midnight. It was a gathering of the descendants of David and Eva Tulin of Chomska, province of Grovno, Russia, and was a celebration of the diamond wedding of the old couple, who were married in that town seventy-five years ago yesterday, new style. They were born in that town, have always lived there and among their 200 descendants are seventy living in the United States, most of them in this city. It was the Hartford contingent which gathered together last night to celebrate the remarkable event in the lives of their progenitors, each of whom is 95 years old and is hail and hearty, as their pictures, taken in Russia, show.

Their immediate descendant in this city is Shula D. Tulin of the firm of Toft & Tulin of this city, their third son, who came to this country fifteen years ago and is the head of a responsible firm. Several grandsons of the old people were present, including Philip Davis, Harvard, '03; Abraham Tulin, Yale, '03; and Israel, Joseph, Jacob and Wolf Silver of this city. The old couple have two sons living in Russia, Leon and Matthew, 74 and 72 years old, respectively, and a daughter. The patriarchal head of the family is six feet tall, straight and vigorous. He is a large owner of land in Russia, which has been in the family for two or three centuries and although Jews are not allowed to own real estate in Russia now, the Tulin estate has never been disturbed. The Silver boys are sons of Matthew Tulin, but changed their name on account of the military conscription law.

David Tulin has always been a prosperous merchant and manufacturer in Russia and was engaged in the milling and flour business for many years until about thirty years ago, when he retired and has since devoted himself to the management of his estate and to works of charity. He is a great Hebrew scholar and gets up every morning at 4 o'clock to study the Talmud, Sanskrit and other languages.

The ceremonial last evening took the form of a family reunion with speeches, music and other exercises. A platform was erected at the east end of the hall, which was decorated with the American and Jewish flags. On the platform stood four great grandchildren, girls, dressed in white, each holding a lighted candle, and in front of the platform stood on a table a basket of fruit and vegetables, attuned to the Purim and Chateau call of Purim. Pomegranates, oranges, figs, dates, grapes, raisins and trimmings were in abundance.

And the Chateau is to keep the feast of Purim. The Purim feast

MARCH 23, 1903.

Bennett-Wright Wedding in New Haven.

New Haven, March 22—Miss Susan Stillman Wright, eldest daughter of Professor A. W. Wright of Yale, and Winchester Bennett, Yale '97 S., son of Thomas G. Bennett and grandson of the late Oliver F. Winchester, founder of the Winchester Repeating Arms Company, were married at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's father. Rev. George P. Fisher of the Yale Theological Seminary officiated. The maid of honor was Miss Dorothy Wright, sister of the bride, and the best man was George W. Mixter, Yale '86 S., of Moline, Ill. The ushers were Henry Brewer, Harry W. Foote, Walter L. Mitchell and Osborn Day.

Whiting-Robinson.

Miss Lizzie E. Robinson, daughter of George Robinson, and Frank A. Whiting of Holyoke, Mass., were married at noon yesterday at St. John's Episcopal Church, by Rev. J. W. Bradin. They will be at home after June 1 on Morgan Street, Holyoke.

WHITING-ROBINSON—In this city, March 2, 1903, St. John's Church at 11 o'clock, noon, by Rev. J. W. Bradin. Frank A. Whiting and Lizzie E. Robinson.

BURNHAM-BECKER—March 23, 1903, in this city, by Rev. H. M. Thompson, Mr. Dwight T. Burnham and Mrs. Emma E. Becker, both of Hartford.

GRANT—ROSEBERY.

EARL'S ELDEST DAUGHTER MARRIED AT EPSOM.

London, March 28.—The Earl of Rosebery's eldest daughter, Lady Sybil, was married at Epsom to-day to Lieut. C. J. C. Grant, of the Coldstream Guards, son of Lieut.-Gen. Sir Robert Grant. The wedding was quiet, only near relatives and intimate friends of the families being present.

Lord Rosebery gave away his daughter, who was attended by eight bridesmaids, including Miss Muriel White, wearing the earl's racing colors, primrose and pink. A wedding luncheon was afterwards served at the Durdans, Lord Rosebery's seat at Epsom.

The display of presents has rarely been equaled. King Edward, Queen Alexandra, the Prince and Princess of Wales and other members of the royal family sent diamond bracelets or brooches. Lord Rosebery's gift amounted to a wonderful old woman.

Mrs. Jennie Buisinean is 105 Years of Age and Still Able to Go A Visiting.

Lancaster, Mass., March 28.—Mrs. Jennie Buisinean, aged 105, has left the home of her youngest daughter, Mrs. Joseph Backant, here, where she has been living twenty-two years, to go to Norwood, R. I., for a brief visit. Next week she will go to other relatives in the province of Ontario to pass the remainder of her days.

Mrs. Buisinean can see without spectacles, has knitted stockings and has baked bread during the winter. Her mind is clear and she is quite active. Eight of her fourteen children have died of old age. Her youngest daughter is fifty-five. Mrs. Buisinean has more than 100 descendants.
BRISTOL COUPLE CELEBRATES

MR. AND MRS. WILLIAM GAYLORD MARRIED SIXTY YEARS.

Bristol, March 30.

Mr. and Mrs. William Gaylord of West street celebrated yesterday the sixtieth anniversary of their wedding. At noon in the Sunday school of the Prospect Methodist Church, of which Mr. Gaylord and his wife are among the oldest members, Superintendent William E. Sessions called attention to the anniversary and Mr. Gaylord occupied a seat on the platform during the services. One of the young girls of the school pinned a flower on the lapel of his coat and another presented to him a large bouquet of flowers from the school. Mr. Sessions also made a few remarks and congratulated Mr. Gaylord and his wife on having lived together so long.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Celebration of Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus M. Woodward of Danielson.

(Special to The Courant)

Danielson, March 29.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvanus M. Woodward celebrated their golden wedding last evening at their residence in East Brooklyn. Mr. Woodward belongs to one of the oldest families in town. His great-great-grandfather, John Woodward, came from Newton, Mass., and settled in the north of Canterbury (now included in the town of Brooklyn) in 1707. He built the large colonial house in which his descendants were born and reared. Lieutenant Ephraim, Captain Ward and David Woodward, respectively great-grandfather, grandfather and father of Sylvanus M. David served in the war of 1812 and was for many years justice of the peace of the town of Brooklyn. Sylvanus M. enlisted in Colonel Henry C. Denning's regiment, the Twelfth C. V., December 7, 1861, and served in the Louisiana campaign under General Banks. He was in the battle of Georgia Landing and was honorably discharged. March 23, 1863, he married Hannah E. Lucas of Webster, Mass., who is a lineal descendant of John Howland, who came over in the Mayflower, by whom he had four children, two sons and two daughters. His eldest son, Angelo L., became an attorney, resides in Hartford, Conn. His new duties will occupy all his time.

The following were some of the relatives present, Mr. and Mrs. Milton A. Shumway of Danielson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred B. Brooks and family of Westwood, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Elisha A. Woodward and family of Brooklyn, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome B. Woodward of Hampton, Mrs. Abigail Parmelee Hunt of Fairfax, celebrated her 100th birthday anniversary and is in good health, and reads without glasses. Mrs. Hunt has in her possession the commission of her grandfather, as captain in the Revolutionary army, signed by John Hancock.
THURSDAY, APRIL 9, 1903.

Professor Perkins and Miss Olga Flinch Married in New York.

Professor H., Trinity College, a graduate of and Miss Olga; and Mr. Seward, which was a breakfast, and simple, Mrs. Edward Perkins, of the groom of delphia and New York, bride, and Md. After return couple of we will live for Mr. Edward street, where for their flier Reception b

Friends of kings and Mrs. at home sinc home on For noon, in lar were from 4 the house we apple blossoms prominent in rooms, and handsome or kings and Mr. assisted by an Arthur Fork New York ar At the table Harmon, and Mrs. Horace B. with Mrs. Le Moyne. Enders, Mrs. Lucius E. Robinson, Miss Trumbull, Miss Julia, Havemeyer, Miss Helen Roberts, Miss Antoinette Pierson, Miss Lucy Pierson, Miss Mary Barton and Miss Mary Clark. The wedding gifts were shown in a room upright.

APRIL 9, 1903.

Baker-Mahl.

George Merrick Baker, son of Mr. and Mrs. George L. Baker of this city, and Miss Grace Edith Mahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mahl, were married at the home of the bride's parents, No. 24 Annawan street, at 7 o'clock last evening by Rev. Harold Pattinson, pastor of the First Baptist Church. The ceremony was witnessed by relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties. Miss Alice Gates, a sister of the bride, was maid of honor. There were no bridesmaids. Benjamin Frank Bean of Harrisburg, Pena., Yale Law School, '01, was the groomsman and Ernest T. Bauer of New Haven, Yale, 1900 and Harry R. Reed of Bridgeport, Sheffield Scientific School, '01, were the ushers. The reception room in which the ceremony was performed was prettily decorated with lilies, roses and palms. The bride, who was of white lace, carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor's gown was white silk net with blue trimmings. Mr. and Mrs. Baker's future home will be in New Haven, the groom, who was a member of the Yale class of 1900, being an instructor in German at the university. A delegation of his college fraternity, was present at the wedding.

MRS. P. BIGELOW'S DIVORCE.

Wife of Noted Traveler, Who Was Miss Jaffrey, Will Bring Suit.

LONDON, March 14.—Poultney Jaffrey Bigelow, widely known as a traveler, author and lecturer, who has made his home in England for twelve years, sailed for New York last Thursday on the steamship Minneapolis with the purpose of taking up his permanent residence in America.

Mrs. Bigelow, who was Miss Editha Evelyn Jaffrey of New York, daughter of Edward S. Jaffrey, the noted merchant, will start for New York next week. It is an open secret in the American colony of London that her intention is to obtain a divorce from her husband.

Mr. Bigelow is the son of John Bigelow, a former Minister of the United States to France. The Bigelows have been married eighteen years, and have three children, all daughters, the eldest being 17 years of age.

Mrs. Bigelow, as Editha Jaffrey Bigelow, is almost as well known in the literary world as her husband. Only a year ago she won a $1,000 prize offered by the "Smart Set" for the best short story.

She was an heiress, and friends of the family say it was owing to this circumstance that discussions arose, which have now culminated in her suit for divorce in the State of New York.

Mr. Bigelow told a friend before leaving England that he would not contest the suit.
Mrs. Mary L. Fisk and Miss Alice Mahl will sail for Europe June 20 on the Zeeland, of the Red Star line. In Switzerland they will meet Miss Mahl's sister and her husband, Dr. George Merrick Baker of New Haven, with whom they will spend the summer traveling on the continent and in England.

being an instructor in the university. A delegation from this city and Miss

A daughter was born Saturday in New Haven to Professor Henry A. Perkins and Mrs. Perkins.

OCTOBER 16, 1908.

CHRONICLE AND COMMENT.

Professor Perkins of the department of physics at Trinity college has left his chair to be occupied by Dr. Perkins, formerly of Yale, and is to spend a year in Paris in Madame Curie's laboratory, which, to the scientific mind, is one of the most interesting places in the present-day realm of science. Mme. Curie, who, with her distinguished husband, discovered radium, is attempting to repeat the experiments of Sir William Ramsey with that metal, with the hope of making it useful in changing copper into sodium, potassium and lithium by the aid of radium. This transmutation of metals—though quite as often spoken of as a degradation, instead—was denounced by the late Lord Kelvin and others, and they absolutely refused to accept the conclusions of Ramsey. Madame Curie decided that she would undertake the investigation on her own hook, and has already gone into it in such detail as to show that it is not yet certain that Ramsey was mistaken. While not yet ready to announce her conclusions, she has some facts which would go to establish the English scientist's deductions. Those who know Professor Perkins intimately are ready to believe that such work as he will see in the Paris laboratory will suit him to a T, and that he will heartily enjoy it all. Physics, as taught at Trinity, is eminently practical, and the professor is sure to return with the theoretical given a still lower place.

CHRONICLE AND COMMENT.

A daughter was born Saturday in New Haven to Professor Henry A. Perkins and Mrs. Perkins.

OCTOBER 16, 1908.

CHRONICLE AND COMMENT.

Professor Perkins of the department of physics at Trinity college has left his chair to be occupied by Dr. Perkins, formerly of Yale, and is to spend a year in Paris in Madame Curie's laboratory, which, to the scientific mind, is one of the most interesting places in the present-day realm of science. Mme. Curie, who, with her distinguished husband, discovered radium, is attempting to repeat the experiments of Sir William Ramsey with that metal, with the hope of making it useful in changing copper into sodium, potassium and lithium by the aid of radium. This transmutation of metals—though quite as often spoken of as a degradation, instead—was denounced by the late Lord Kelvin and others, and they absolutely refused to accept the conclusions of Ramsey. Madame Curie decided that she would undertake the investigation on her own hook, and has already gone into it in such detail as to show that it is not yet certain that Ramsey was mistaken. While not yet ready to announce her conclusions, she has some facts which would go to establish the English scientist's deductions. Those who know Professor Perkins intimately are ready to believe that such work as he will see in the Paris laboratory will suit him to a T, and that he will heartily enjoy it all. Physics, as taught at Trinity, is eminently practical, and the professor is sure to return with the theoretical given a still lower place.

CHRONICLE AND COMMENT.

A daughter was born Saturday in New Haven to Professor Henry A. Perkins and Mrs. Perkins.

OCTOBER 16, 1908.

CHRONICLE AND COMMENT.

Professor Perkins of the department of physics at Trinity college has left his chair to be occupied by Dr. Perkins, formerly of Yale, and is to spend a year in Paris in Madame Curie's laboratory, which, to the scientific mind, is one of the most interesting places in the present-day realm of science. Mme. Curie, who, with her distinguished husband, discovered radium, is attempting to repeat the experiments of Sir William Ramsey with that metal, with the hope of making it useful in changing copper into sodium, potassium and lithium by the aid of radium. This transmutation of metals—though quite as often spoken of as a degradation, instead—was denounced by the late Lord Kelvin and others, and they absolutely refused to accept the conclusions of Ramsey. Madame Curie decided that she would undertake the investigation on her own hook, and has already gone into it in such detail as to show that it is not yet certain that Ramsey was mistaken. While not yet ready to announce her conclusions, she has some facts which would go to establish the English scientist's deductions. Those who know Professor Perkins intimately are ready to believe that such work as he will see in the Paris laboratory will suit him to a T, and that he will heartily enjoy it all. Physics, as taught at Trinity, is eminently practical, and the professor is sure to return with the theoretical given a still lower place.
AS TO POULTNEY BIGELOW'S WIFE

And His Writings—William of Germany, the Greatest Man in the World Save President Roosevelt.

[From the New York Tribune.]

Poul'tney Bigelow, the author and traveler, after living in England for more than 12 years, came back to New York last week. In the steamer Minneapolis, and says that he will not have very much to say about the report that his wife, Miss Editha Jaffrey, the merchant, is going to sue him for divorce, but declared that the subject was unimportant.

"This is the first time that I have heard of it," he said, handing back to a reporter a newspaper clipping telling the story. "Anyway, it is a trifling matter compared with some of the more important things which I am interested in;" he added.

"Do you regard a suit for divorce as a trifling matter?" he was asked.

"Oh, yes," he said, "so far as the public is concerned. What does the public care for the mosquito Bigelow? There are great national questions to be discussed. I am now engaged in writing a book on colonial expansion. I wrote three chapters coming out of England." "But are you surprised at the report of the action your wife is going to take?" some one asked. "No, I am not. Am I ready to drop to the ground with astonishment?" was his answer. Mr. Bigelow then looked at a story by his wife, which took a $1,000 prize in an American magazine last summer, and which dwells on strained relations between husband and wife. "I can't remember all I have written, to say nothing of remembering my wife's manuscripts. Let us talk about something else," he added.

"I was in the Philippines during the Spanish war," he went on, "and I think they are a valuable possession—too rich to let go. We should keep them. This country can handle them better than England or Germany; and, by the way, I want to say that England is our best friend. Germany has done everything possible to make us friendly with England, but England and the United States will never quarrel. They are too sensible, and have too many interests in common. The United States may have trouble in the future, possibly war with Germany. Germany is colonizing in South America, and when she gets richer, she will not be worth anything in her eyes."

"It is not true that I have quarreled with Emperor William of Germany. He is the bravest man in the world, excepting Roosevelt."
JOHN L. WAY, SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT OF THE TRAVELERS INSURANCE COMPANY

JOHN L. WAY

It is with great pleasure that we announce the election of John L. Way of St. Louis to the position of second vice-president of The Travelers and a member of the board of directors. Mr. Way was born about forty years ago in Gilding, Conn., of old New England ancestry. He is Travelers-bred, having entered the employ of the Company as a young man and worked his way up through the various grades of promotion. Leaving the Home Office for Connecticut and Rhode Island, two years later, when an agent's territory comprised within the states of Texas, Missouri, and Arkansas, he was selected as the right man for the place, and as General Agent for these states he has for seven years been located with headquarters at St. Louis. Mr. Way will continue to reside in St. Louis for some time, engrossed in developing the business interests of the Company in the western states, but he will ultimately take up his duties at the Home Office. Mr. Way is a man of large executive capacity. He is in every way aed is much respected, and that it has been obtained through exceptional talent and ability. The Company is a gainer in having secured his services for Home Office work.

APRIL 14, 1903.
JOHN L. WAY.

Elected Second Vice-President of the Travelers Insurance Company.

John L. Way was unanimously elected second vice-president of the Travelers Insurance Company.

APRIL 15, 1903.
Miss Lillian M. Burnett and Dr. Burris B. Breese Married on Highland Street.

Miss Lillian M. Burnett, daughter of Mrs. Charles C. Burnett, late of Cleveland, O., and Burris B. Breese, Ph. D., were married at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lunger, No. 6 Highland street. Mrs. Lunger is an aunt of the bride.

The house was handsomely decorated for the occasion, with white and green, palms, ferns and Easter lilies forming the general decorations in the color scheme. The ceremony took place in the hallways, which was tastefully arranged and decorated for the occasion. Rev. Ernest de F. Miel, rector of Trinity Church, was the officiating clergyman.

The bride wore a gown of white silk crepe de chine trimmed with duchess lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. She was attended by Mr. Lunger, who gave her away. The best man was Dr. Henry Leavitt of Columbia University and the ushers were Edward Crockroft of New York and Thomas W. Russell of this city. The maid of honor was Miss Winnifred Burnett, a sister of the bride, who wore a gown of white silk, covered with white lace. The bridesmaids were Miss Helen B. Ranney of Cleveland, O., and Miss Marion de W. Tracey of Lakewood, N. J. They wore gowns of white muslin de soie and carried bouquets of Easter lilies.

The wedding was attended by about thirty friends and relatives of the bride and groom, and Mr. and Mrs. Breese left on a wedding trip. They will live at Knoxville, Tenn., where Dr. Breese is a professor of physiology in the Knoxville University.

Abbe-Sanders.

Robert Lester Abbe of this city, a son of Lester G. Abbe, and Miss Edith May Sanders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Sanders of No. 34 Hudson street, were married at the First Baptist Church at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Ernest de F. Miel, rector of Trinity Church, was the officiating clergyman.

Gone Over a Month and Said to be in Texas.

Robert L. Abbe of Congress street, who has been employed as a clerk in the insurance office of Charles E. Parker & Co., at No. 50 State street, left his home suddenly over a month ago, and it is understood that he does not intend to return to Hartford. Mr. Abbe, it is said, told members of his family that he had to go out of town.

It was said at the insurance office of Charles E. Parker & Co., at No. 50 State street, that Robert L. Abbe, formerly employed as a clerk in the office, left his home suddenly a month ago and has not been seen in Hartford since. It is said Mr. Abbe is in financial difficulties and it is anticipated that he does not expect to return to Hartford. His financial troubles are not in any way connected with the firm by which he was employed. It is understood that Mr. Abbe is in Texas and is it is intimated that he intends to remain there.

By the time the paper was in press it was reported that his return is not expected. He is married.
Marriage of John P. Cheney and Miss Alice Gay in Farmington.

One of the prettiest weddings that ever occurred in Farmington took place at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Congregational Church, when John Platt Cheney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Cheney of South Manchester, and Miss Alice Gay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Erastus Gay, were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. James Gibson Johnson, pastor of the church. Easter lilies and palms were used for the decorations, making a decidedly artistic appearance backed as they were on the pulpit and along the aisles.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father and marched up the aisle while the wedding march from "Lohengrin" was being played. Miss Carolyn Gay, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and the best man was William Cheney, cousin of the groom. There were no bridesmaids. The ushers were John W. Banks of Bridgeport, Harold and Frank Gay, brothers of the bride, and Clifford D. Philip and Harry Cheney, cousins of the groom.

The dress of the bride was of white silk muslin, with point lace. She carried a light blue Gainsborough hat. Because of the recent death of the bride's uncle, Richard H. Gay, no reception was held following the ceremony. After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Cheney will make their home in South Manchester.

The Republican

MAY 8, 1905.

A daughter was born yesterday to Mr. and Mrs. John P. Cheney of South Manchester. Mrs. Cheney was formerly Miss Alice Gay of Farmington, daughter of ex-Senator Erastus Gay, and Mr. Cheney is a son of Major James W. Cheney of South Manchester.

Miss Olive Williams of East Hartford and Arthur D. Robinson of this city were married at noon yesterday at Hinsdale, N. Y., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Aaron Williams, the parents of the bride. While Miss Williams was living in East Hartford she was employed in the office of the Pratt & Whitney Company in this city and the wedding gift from her associates in the office was a set of Haviland china and a French clock. Miss Bessie R. Arnold of East Hartford was the bridesmaid. The bride is a sister of Mrs. Easter S. White of Sipourney street. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Robinson will live at No. 67 Ashley street, this city, where they will be at home to their friends after June 10.

Miss Imogene Hawthorne, daughter of Julian Hawthorne, will be married to Dr. William Champion Deming in the Swedishborgian church of the New Jerusalem, in East Thirty-fifth street, New York, on April 15. Miss Hildegarde Hawthorne will be maid of honor, and the Misses Beatrice and Gwen-dolyn Hawthorne bridesmaids.

The engagement is announced of Alexander Kimball Gage, Trinity '96, formerly of Hartford and now of Detroit, and Miss Candler of Detroit.

The Central Baptist Church of Syracuse, from the pastorate of which Rev. Dr. William H. Main recently resigned, is to come to the South Baptist Church of this city, last week accepted the pastor's resignation, after a committee had reported that Dr. Main could not be persuaded to remain. Resolutions were adopted expressing the highest appreciation of the church for Dr. Main's faithful and successful ministry. It was stated in the resolutions that Dr. Main's pulpit utterance had been forceful, earnest and evangelical, his pastoral labors diligent and effective. He had been a wise counselor in the church's financial affairs and his judicial and kindly spirit had endeared him to the members of the church in all their social relations. The resolutions concluded: "While the sadness of parting is still fresh in our hearts, we would extend to our sister church in Hartford our heartfelt congratulations, and to our retiring pastor our earnest and loving Godspeed."
Leonard of Rockville.

That these breeders were wonder-poultry.

they produced belted cattle, pigs and these peculiar color markings until

New England, and but few in Connec-ants worked upon the perfection of these beautiful cattle are located in South Africa.

to export the Dutch Belted cattle, but

she paid for some time it was unlawful

is now called Haarlem, North Holland,

in its highest development.

informed him that there were gentle-family from the Holsteins. Frank R.

bines the two colors, presenting a Lakenvelder cattle are natives of Haarlem herds on account of the neat mobility of Holland, but are a distinct breed or in Holland to place blankets upon seems to be some doubt even in Hol-

Welles. The farmhouse was built in

"DUKE OF LACONIA," JOHN L. WAY'S PRIZE DUTCH BELTED BULL

Mr. Way's great great-grandfather

1745, and has been the home for seven generations of Mr. Way's family. These ancestral acres Mr. Way has since 1894, when he removed from St.

St. Louis. The Lakenvelder seems to be the first cattle but do not care to began to flourish in Holland that possess national color of their dams. There have a very long time the calves came with white middles, and

results were attainable; and from conversation with dairy cattle everywhere in the reign of his towards the average

large and black rings around the eyes. These are above average size, and their form is usually very fine. They are broad white band around

body of the cattle while the rest

head.

the Duke of Laconia" is the name of the cattle owned by John L. Way of this

Mr. Way had been a great admirer

results were attainable; and from conversation with

Mr. Way's great-great-grandfather in in seven categories, as we have the results of their breeding in the Dutch Belted cattle. They are belts on the necks of the females, and cows, calves and steers will be includ-sheep, hogs and cattle came with white middles, and showed more skill in breeding than the

breed them, and also to supply the productive for two years or more, and they have

Mr. Way had been a great admirer of the breed for a number of years before he started his herd, and he made something of a study of their

Mr. Way's herd to be exhib-

HOW THE BELT FIRST CAME.

John L. Way's Herd of New England, and but few in Connec-

ants worked upon the perfection of these beautiful cattle are located in the province of Holland.

rated by the nobility of Holland, beauty and utility in the exhibition which will be

John L. Way's parents for two years or more, and they have

Mr. Way's great-great-grandfather in early importations in the United States natives of the Netherlands. The

Mr. Way's Herd to Be Exhib-

UNIQUE COLOR BREEDING IN DUTCH BELTED CATTLE.

"DUKE OF LACONIA," JOHN L. WAY'S PRIZE DUTCH BELTED BULL

shares more skill in breeding than the

breed them, and also to supply the

to export the Dutch Belted cattle, but

she paid for some time it was unlawful

is now called Haarlem, North Holland,

most wonderful cattle in the world."

towards the average

broad white band around

body of the cattle while the rest

head.

the Duke of Laconia" is the name of the cattle owned by John L. Way of this

Mr. Way had been a great admirer

results were attainable; and from conversation with

Mr. Way's great-great-grandfather in

in seven categories, as we have the results of their breeding in the Dutch Belted cattle. They are belts on the necks of the females, and

showed more skill in breeding than the

breed them, and also to supply the

to export the Dutch Belted cattle, but

she paid for some time it was unlawful

is now called Haarlem, North Holland,

most wonderful cattle in the world."

towards the average

broad white band around

body of the cattle while the rest

head.

the Duke of Laconia" is the name of the cattle owned by John L. Way of this

Mr. Way had been a great admirer

results were attainable; and from conversation with

Mr. Way's great-great-grandfather in

in seven categories, as we have the results of their breeding in the Dutch Belted cattle. They are belts on the necks of the females, and

showed more skill in breeding than the

breed them, and also to supply the

to export the Dutch Belted cattle, but

she paid for some time it was unlawful

is now called Haarlem, North Holland,

most wonderful cattle in the world."

towards the average

broad white band around

body of the cattle while the rest

head.

the Duke of Laconia" is the name of the cattle owned by John L. Way of this

Mr. Way had been a great admirer

results were attainable; and from conversation with

Mr. Way's great-great-grandfather in

in seven categories, as we have the results of their breeding in the Dutch Belted cattle. They are belts on the necks of the females, and

showed more skill in breeding than the

breed them, and also to supply the

to export the Dutch Belted cattle, but

she paid for some time it was unlawful

is now called Haarlem, North Holland,

most wonderful cattle in the world."

towards the average

broad white band around

body of the cattle while the rest

head.

the Duke of Laconia" is the name of the cattle owned by John L. Way of this

Mr. Way had been a great admirer

results were attainable; and from conversation with

Mr. Way's great-great-grandfather in

in seven categories, as we have the results of their breeding in the Dutch Belted cattle. They are belts on the necks of the females, and

showed more skill in breeding than the

breed them, and also to supply the

to export the Dutch Belted cattle, but

she paid for some time it was unlawful

is now called Haarlem, North Holland,
The Rev. Dr. W. H. Main to be Pastor of South Baptist Church.

The Rev. Dr. William Halloway Main of Syracuse, N. Y., in a telegram received here Saturday night, accepted a call to be pastor of the South Baptist church in this city. The telegram was received by William C. Augur, clerk of the city corporation, and the acceptance was announced at the service in the church, Sunday morning.

Dr. Main was born in 1862, and is the S. M. of his education graduating from Union in 1887. His gree of D. D., archaeology, I. Waterford, N. Y., of the First E. years. From 18 of the Emanuel Dalo, N. Y., and membership of over 600 new Main made a Europe, Egypt, and made his eastern country research Dr. I of the Central case in 1887. In the pastoral the Lyceum has been attended and west. He has a number of papers that have appeared in pamphlet form, and is the author of over 600 published series of sermons on "Our Bible," dealing particularly with the relation of Dr. Main to the Young People's a of New York, & trustees of the society of the st. president of the of the executive Theological semi Main and a member of the Dr. Main is a first representative who came to New land in 1840. In about eighteen the City Council Main have one & Main.

Friends of Reginald Vanderbilt and Miss Cathleen Neilson announce that they have been married.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 7—Mr. and Mrs. Cathleen Neilson (Nelson) of Newport have been married, and will take place next Tuesday. A number of relatives and friends were present at the wedding. A display of jewels will be on the table and tea sets among the gifts displayed. The array of gifts is considered to be the most brilliant and costly seen at Newport for many years.

For the Neilson-Vanderbilt Wedding at Newport.

Not a little of the summer gayety of Newport was in evidence yesterday on the arrival of a special train from New York bearing those who will be guests at the wedding of Miss Cathleen Neilson and Reginald C. Vanderbilt. Mayor of the city were in readiness for the visitors, these having been thrown open especially for this occasion. The marriage ceremony will be held in the Catholic church. Afterward the wedding breakfast will be served and the many gifts displayed. The array of gifts is considered to be the most brilliant and costly seen at Newport for many years. Among the presents are six sets of silver and crystal services among the gift sets displayed. The array of gifts is considered to be the most brilliant and costly seen at Newport for many years. Among the presents are six sets of silver and crystal services among the gift sets.
VANDERBILT-NEILSON PRESENTS TO BE SHOWN AT NEWPORT.

Bride Has Eighteen Trunks, All Marked "C. N. V."—Jewels Alone
Worth $200,000.

Special Dispatch to The Mail and Express.
Newport, April 11.—Miss Cathleen Neilson, who arrived at Newport Thursday evening, brought along some eighteen trunks containing much of her wedding trousseau, each trunk being marked "C. N. V." The jewels also arrived, under the protection of a detective: they represent an estimated value of $200,000. The rest of the presents, including the silver and gold, arrived on Friday and were taken to Arleigh, where they were unpacked and placed upon tables covered with black velvet as a background.

All the presents, including the jewels, will be shown Monday afternoon at a tea which Mrs. Neilson will give to the wedding guests and friends. Reginald Vanderbilt will give each policeman at the wedding a twenty dollar gold piece tied with a ribbon or Miss Neilson's favorite color.

Besides the thousand upon thousand of Easter lilies which go to make up the altar arch and its surroundings, before which the ceremony will take place, there will be ten standard rose bushes, each carrying 100 American Beauty roses, scattered variously placed. Then there will be two hundred palms, both large and small, scattered throughout the house.

VANDERBILT-NEILSON WEDDING.

Brilliant Event at Newport—Lavish Display of Wealth.

The wedding of Reginald C. Vanderbilt of New York, the youngest son of Cornelius Vanderbilt, and Miss Cathleen G. Neilson, also of New York, which occurred at "Arleigh" at noon yesterday, was a brilliant as well as an early opening of the social season of 1903 at Newport. As the marriage took place in the gray villa, it lacked much of the pomp which typically attends a church function. About 150 guests, nearly all from Newport, were present at the ceremony. It was a white wedding. The decorations were white, on a background of green, the bridesmaids were gowned in white, with white picture hats; the bridegroom, his best man, and the ushers wore white puff cravats and white boutineers, and the bride, of course, wore nothing but purest white.

An orchestra played for an hour preceding the ceremony, and just at noon the measured strains of the Lohengrin march signaled the approach of the bridal party. Rev. Mr. Meenan, attended by two altar boys, previously had taken his place at a floral altar, and just as the procession started down the grand staircase Mr. Vanderbilt, accompanied by his elder brother, Alfred Gaymne Vanderbilt, took positions beside the priest. Miss Neilson advanced on the arm of her uncle, Frederick G. Gehrard. The maid of honor was Miss Gladys Vanderbilt, a sister of the groom. Her four bridesmaids were Misses Isabella May of Washington, Miss Florence Twombly, a cousin of Vanderbilt, Miss Evelyn Parsons and Miss Nathalie Needham. The ushers, who led the procession, were Jules B. Neilson, a brother of the bride, Ellis Adams of Orange, N. J., Arthur S. Burden of New York, S. N. Sloane, a member of the family, Peter Goolet Gerry and Albert Gray of New York.

The bride was gowned in heavy white silk with a costly veil of rare lace flowing back from the crown of her head to the end of the train. Around her throat was tightly clasped a serpent necklace of rarest pearls, the gift of the bridegroom. The ceremony was brief. Its completion was indicated by the Mississopp's church. A reception followed and an inspection of the bridal gifts, which were declared to be probably as costly an array as ever was bestowed on two young people at the advent of their married life. Then came the wedding breakfast. Among those who were present at the ceremony were the following: Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Sloane, Mr. and Mrs. H. McK. Twombly, Mr. and Mrs. I. Townsend Burden, George R. Fearing, Mr. and Mrs. Chasney M. Dineen, Dr. and Mrs. Seward Webb, Mr. Elliott F. Shepard, Harry Payne Whiting, Mrs. Arthur Kemp, Harry F. Leh, E. F. Cumler, Potter Palmer, Admiral and Mrs. S. B. Luce, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Norman, Mr. and Mrs. W. Storm Wells, Mrs. C. M. Oelrichs, Mr. and Mrs. Peter D. Martin, Mrs. Governor Kortright, Mrs. Burke-Rocbe, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Carter and Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Reswind.

Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt began their honeymoon in Boston, and are occupying apartments at Hotel Somerset in the Back Bay, where they arrived yesterday afternoon from Newport. Their special, consisting of an engine and a passenger coach, only went as far as the Roxbury crossing station, where the young couple alighted and took a carriage in order to avoid the curious who were watching for them at the in-town stations. Arriving at the Somerset set they entered by the small ladies' entrance at the eastern end of the hotel and went directly to their apartments. Their suite is not the bridal one that was occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Gaymne Vanderbilt on their bridal tour there in January, 1901, but is one of equal elegance which commands a broad view of Commonwealth avenue and the Fenway, on the fourth floor. Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt brought no servants, and their baggage, consisting of three trunks and a gip, came on the regular Newport train. It is not known how long the young couple will remain in Boston.

The "occupations" of the fathers of the two rich young people who are to be married at Newport to-day are given in the application for a license as "capitalist" in one case and "gentleman" in the other. To enable them to act as such somebody in the family must have worked before them—or was the money acquired without work? The young folks would evidently like to think that it had been stolen.

It is understood that Reginald C. Vanderbilt has settled $1,000,000 on Miss Cathleen Neilson, whom he is to marry April 14. He will give the best man and ushers the modern expensive presents ever given by a bridegroom. Mrs. Vanderbilt, on Wednesday, inspected Arleigh, where the wedding is to take place, and superintended the putting in order of the Breakers, which will be occupied by Reginald Vanderbilt after his marriage.
The Young Couple

Cameras to right of them, cameras I: aid C. Vanderbilt crossed the gangplank and entered Dominion Line atHalsted, home from a voyage of about three months. The ship was warped into port and they emerged from the vessel, whose presence was keenly observed from all sides. The Vanderbilt was suffered to proceed, the officers not ill-disposed, but apparently merely thwarting the attempt to get a profile view of the passengers. The officers, however, soon observed the curious quarters of the Mayflower to be filled with so many pieces of baggage that it was reported the ship was loaded up with the wharfside. The presence of the ship, for her voyage, was greatly gratifying. The public, to a great extent, was joyous at Boston than elsewhere. Customs officials rang the bell, and it was reported Mrs. Nielson, the latter's sister, was plain and not annoying. Many passengers were taking pictures of the vessel across the street, and her general air of enjoyment was quite apparent.

The Vanderbilts are on the other first social "dining-room, by removing the rooms 33 and 34. It was their sleeping rooms, of two staterooms. It was reported abroad that Vanderbilt was suffering from sickness, but, according to the report, all was well. He paid on $16,000 foreign purchases, in jewels. The Vanderbilts were supposed to take several foreign purchases, and also the wedding tour, and two hours in Seattle, who returned at all social, in jewels. The foreign purchaser, finally paid $30,000. He paid on $16,000 foreign purchases, in jewels. The Vanderbilts were supposed to take several foreign purchases, and also the wedding tour, and two hours in Seattle, who returned at all social, in jewels.

It is only once or twice that the Vanderbilts were supposed to take the Mayflower to Fray and remove the portrait to Fray. The Vanderbilts were supposed to take several foreign purchases, and also the wedding tour, and two hours in Seattle, who returned at all social, in jewels.

Arleigh, The Pratt Villa at Newport, Where the Wedding Will Take Place.

Sandy Point Farm, The Country Estate of Mr. Vanderbilt, Where the Young Couple Will Spend Most of the Summer.
INDIANS ENGAGED TO TEND THE BISON ON THE NEW RANCH.

The stock will be reduced to the size that is necessary to the herd. The remainder will be shipped to the stock on the farm, and will be sold for one million dollars. The new quarters of the stock will be on the farm.
R. Vanderbilt Rewards His Tutor.

New Haven, April 27.—Malvern H. Tillitt, the Yale student who tutored Reginald H. Vanderbilt to his diploma after he failed to graduate in 1902, has left the senior class in the Yale Law School to accept employment offered by his wealthy pupil. According to the general report in the law school, Tillitt is to act as Vanderbilt's private secretary, but from his intimate friends, it is said that Tillitt is to be Vanderbilt's personal representative in New York, where Mr. Vanderbilt himself does not care to appear. Tillitt is now in Newport learning the details of his new work. Tillitt, who comes from Elizabeth City, N. C., will take his final examination for his degree with his class in June.

A children's ward containing twenty beds, established by Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Vanderbilt, was dedicated on Monday, at the Lincoln Hospital and Home, One Hundred and Forty-first street and Southern Boulevard, New York city. The ward has been named for Kathleen Vanderbilt, in honor of the donors' daughter. Mr. Vanderbilt paid $5,000 for the equipment of the ward, and he will provide also for its maintenance.
Washington Diplomats Snubbed.

Washington, April 18.—Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page is a prudent mother, and does not wish to run any risks of international entanglements for her debutante daughter, Miss Florence Field. Some recent lessons in Washington evidently have been taken to heart, and Miss Field is carefully secluded from the foreign set here.

Last night Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Nelson Page gave a ball in honor of the young debutante, and the remarkable fact is that not a single diplomat received an invitation. Even diplomats who are practically of American blood, like the Baron Gevers, were omitted from the invitation list. In fact, the conduct of this family is so open and purposeful that it is evident that a boycott has been proclaimed against the diplomatic corps.

The Pages have been prominent heretofore for sarcastic allusion to the frivolity of the smart set. The most popular member of the diplomatic corps always are prominent in this cotillion. That they should be pointedly omitted from the hospitality of this home is so contrary to the local customs as to excite remark. Miss Florence Field, who is thus seriously safeguarded, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Field, brother of Marshall Field of Chicago. She inherited from her father an income of nearly $80,000 a year. Her only sister is Mrs. Preston Gibson, formerly Miss Minnie Field, whose sensational elopement with the nephew and ward of Associate Justice Edward D. White was a startling topic for society.

WALTER FORWARD.

He Was Born in East Granby.

To the Editor of The Courant:

I saw this morning in your paper: "What town claims Walter Forward?"

Also that he was a native of Connecticut and secretary of the United States treasury in President John Tyler's administration, all of which is true. He was born about 1789 (I can get dates if wanted) in East Granby, then a part of Granby, called Turkey Hill. When a young man, his father, mother, several brothers and sister moved to Aurora, O., then to Vermont; Walter and sister went to Pittsburgh, Pa., entered the law office of Judge Young, became a lawyer and court judge. Some time after being secretary, as stated, he was United States minister to Russia, as I remember. Several relatives in the Clark, Mather and Hitchcock families were named from him. He was brother of Mrs. Horace Clark, my grandmother, who resided always in East Granby to the time of her death in 1882, aged 97. He was a contemporary (though older) in East Granby, of Appleton Robbins, Charles T. Hillyer, Erastus Holcomb, Judge Woodruff, Edmund Thompson, Col. Holcomb, etc. Horace Clark.

Windsor, March 27.

The Contest was Born in June, 1786.

To the Editor of The Courant:

I answer your query in this morning's issue, Hon. Walter Forward was born within the limits of the present town of East Granby, about three-quarters of a mile north of the church. His birth date from an old report is November 13.

To the Editor of The Courant:

In reply to "Inquirer" of New Hartford in your paper of to-day, I state: Walter Forward was born in East Granby, January 24, 1783. In 1806 he went with his father's family to Ohio. Walter Forward's sister, Hannah Forward, remained here as the wife of Gorace Pinckney, father of the late Charles P. Clark, B. Pinckney Clark.

NEW DEAN OF CANTERBURY.

A P R I L  2 0 , 1 9 0 3.

Owen Cousin of the Late Professor Brocklesby of Trinity.

It is announced that Rev. Dr. Henry Wace has been appointed dean of Canterbury, in succession to the late Dr. Farrar. Dr. Wace's father, a clergyman of the Church of England, was own cousin of Dr. John Brocklesby, for a long time professor and professor emeritus at Trinity College, the elder Mr. Wace's mother having been sister of John Brocklesby, so, who lived for some time in a house which he built on Talcott Mountain, Professor Brocklesby's three sons, John H., William C. and Arthur K., live in this city.

Dr. Wace, who is now in his 60th year, is a man of careful and wide learning, "an uncompromising defender of the Reformation and a conservative opponent of the higher criticism," and acknowledged to be a man of great impartiality and soundness of judgment, as is shown by the choice made of him as chairman of the two conferences lately held at Fulham palace to consider vexed questions in regard to the Holy Communion and confession. He has been preacher at Lincoln's Inn, and in connection with this chaplaincy at first professor and then principal of King's College, London; he has served as select preacher at both Oxford and Cambridge, and also as Bampton lecturer, his subject being "The Foundations of Faith." He edited the volumes of the "Speaker's Commentary on the Apocrypha," and was co-editor with Dr. William Smith of the great "Illustrations of Christian Biography." As principal of King's College he succeeded Dr. Barry, appointed bishop of Sydney, and has been succeeded by Dr. Robertson, just appointed bishop of Exeter, and Rev. Arthur Cavley Headlam, well-known as a commentator.

Their Silver Wedding Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pinney of No. 15 Square street celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, at the Horse Guard armory, Saturday afternoon, attended by an unusually large company.

There was an attendance of about seventy relatives. The hall was hand-

Two Golden Weddings.

On the 17th of April Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Loth of New York celebrated their golden wedding. Mr. Loth was a merchant in Hartford many years ago, his store being in the vestry building of Center church, under the firm name of Armstrong & Loth. He is a manufacturer of silk ribbon now, of the "Fair and Square" trade mark, and a man of large property and business interests. Rev. Richard Mrs. Loth are in excellent health and strength, and their celebration was attended by hosts of friends.

On the 15th of this month Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mandelbaum will celebrate their golden wedding. In New York, where they reside, Mr. Mandelbaum was in business here for over forty years in the firm of Stern & Mandelbaum, and, after the death of his partner, Mr. Mandelbaum has been confined to the house by lameness for some years.

The celebrations of these former residents will be remembered with interest here, and many pleasant wishes will go out to them, especially to Mr. and Mrs. Mandelbaum, who have been married only about ten years.
TWO Daughters of Dr. L. G. Chapman Married Yesterday.

The residence of Dr. Leslie G. Chapman and Mrs. Chapman on New Britain avenue near Elmwood was the scene of a double wedding yesterday, when their daughter, Miss Grace Elinor Chapman, was married to Alexander Gilmore Beach of this city, and their daughter, Miss Mary Anne Chapman, was married to Roland Henry Benjamin also of this city.

The ceremonies were performed at high noon by Dr. Herman Lilienthal, rector of St. George's Church, Astoria, N. Y., in the presence of the immediate relatives of the bride and groom. After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served. The house was prettily decorated with palms, potted plants and cut flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Beach will spend a few days in New York, and Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin will enjoy a brief trip in Massachusetts.

April 26

Miss Elizabeth Alice Collins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stitt of Middletown, and Osborn A. Carr of Hartford were married Wednesday evening at the Church of the Holy Trinity in Middletown by Rev. E. C. Anderson. The church was decorated with Easter lilies and palms by a committee of the Girls' Friendly Society, of which the bride was a member. The bridesmaid was Miss Ruth Stitt, sister of the bride, and the best man was John E. Mays of Hartford. The usher was Abraham Crossley, a cousin of the bride, and Herbert B. Avery, both of Middletown. The bride's gown was white chiffon over white crepe over blue taffeta. She wore a picture hat and carried an armful of pink roses. There was a reception at the home of the bride on Lincoln street. Guests were present from all the cities of the state. The groom's gift to the bride was a handsome brooch set with diamonds and pearls, Mr. and Mrs. Carr will live in Hartford, where the groom is assistant superintendent of the Electrical Engineering Company.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Celebration of Rev. and Mrs. Horace B. King of Enfield.
(Special to The Courant)
Thompsonville, April 26.

Rev. and Mrs. Horace King of Springfield celebrated their golden wedding yesterday afternoon and evening at their home on Enfield street. As the anniversary occurred on a Sunday the event was celebrated yesterday instead of to-day. The reception was informal. Mr. and Mrs. King received from 4 to 6 and from 7 to 9, assisted by their daughter, Mrs. Anna Vail, and her husband, Dr. Edwin S. Vail. Refreshments were served during the afternoon and evening.

Mr. and Mrs. King were married April 26, 1853, at Windsor by Rev. T. A. Leete. As far as known the only persons who witnessed the marriage are David Brainard and Mrs. Georgia Losey. Mr. and Mrs. King came to Thompsonville soon after their marriage and have always made their home here, although Mr. King's duties have at times called him far away. Rev. Horace King is a son of the late Colonel Jacob King, and was born April 19, 1837, the youngest son of six children. He is the only surviving member of the family. He was born in the house in which he now resides. He received his education in the Enfield High School and in the Literary Institute at Suffield. He engaged in business for himself when he was 20 years of age, after assisting in manufacturing furniture and carriages.

THE DART GOLDEN WEDDING.

Well-Known Enfield Couple Celebrate the 50th Anniversary of their Wedding.

For the second time within two days residents of Enfield street have celebrated golden wedding anniversaries, Mr. and Mrs. Giles Warren Dart celebrated their golden wedding yesterday morning at their residence on Enfield street. During the afternoon and evening several hundred friends called at the homestead to extend congratulations, and they were received in the front parlor, which was decorated with potted plants, pears, ferns and golden color. The dining room was similarly decorated, with the additional table decorations of large bouquets. The decorations and arrangements were made and carried out by Miss Fannie Hills, sister of Mr. and Mrs. Dart. All of the members of the family were present, in addition to relatives from Bridgeport, New Haven, Hartford, and in the Literary Institute at Suffield. He engaged in business for himself when he was 20 years of age, after assisting in manufacturing furniture and carriages.

Mr. Dart is one of Enfield's well-known residents, has lived a very interesting and active life. He was born at Colchester, Ct., in 1824, and was a son of Henry Dart and Miss Margery Williams. When 14 he left home to work in a country store, where he remained until he was 20. He afterward went to Norwich and engaged in the dry goods business for about five years, and then went to Broad Brook as office clerk in the mills, where he remained until 1854. On July 4 of that year he started for the gold fields in California to seek his fortune. The party sailed around Cape Horn, and were 105 days in reaching the Golden Gate, Mr. Dart soon became a steward on one of the Pacific mail ships, and was on board ship about three years, at the end of which time he came East and made his home in Enfield.

On April 27, 1858, he was married to Mrs. Dart, whom he met while in Broad Brook. The marriage took place in the house of James Schenecady in Thompsonville, the ceremony being performed by Rev. C. A. G. Brigham, pastor of the First Congregational church in Enfield, who afterward founded the Catholic Apostolic church there. Soon after his marriage Mr. Dart was a clerk in a hotel in Hartford. A year later, in company with a Mr. Brown, he assumed the management of the Seville house in Waterbury, under the firm name of Dart & Brown. He remained in Waterbury but a short time, and afterward engaged in the hotel business in New York. In 1863 he went to Middletown and was proprietor of the McDououch house. In 1862 he sold out and went to the war as a member of the 24th Connecticut regiments. He was promoted to a position on the colonel's staff as quartermaster, and later resigned and left the army. For the next 20 years he conducted a large boarding-house in New York, and then returned to En-Announcement is made of the marriage of Joseph D. Hamilton of Central avenue and Miss Mary A. Carney of Hartford, at the parsonage of the First Congregational Church last Wednesday evening. They will live in Hartford.

DECEMBER 12, 1908.

OCTOBER 27, 1903.

Mrs. Hamilton Wants Divorce.

Mrs. Emily D. Hamilton of East Hartford has brought suit for divorce and alimony from her husband, Joseph D. Hamilton of the same town. Mrs. Hamilton claims that her husband is worth $15,000 in real and personal estate, and property owned by him at the corner of Buckingham and John streets in this city has been attached to secure judgment on the claim for alimony. Mrs. Hamilton's maiden name was Peabody. She married the defendant at Yonkers, N. Y., on April 29, 1895. She bases her claim for divorce on intolerable cruelty. She asks for a divorce, alimony and permission to resume her maiden name.

APRIL 30, 1903.

Judge Shumway filed decisions in the superior court yesterday in cases that had been heard by him on the merits and in cases that came before him on interlocutory matters in short calendar session.

Mrs. Emily E. Hamilton, who formerly lived with her husband, Joseph D. Hamilton in East Hartford, a real estate dealer in the city, is granted a divorce from him with alimony of $1,500, the alimony to be paid within one month. This action was contested by Hamilton when it came before Judge Shumway. The judge finds the allegation of the complaint, charging Hamilton with intolerable cruelty, to be true and the allegation of his cross-complaint, in which he charged his wife with improper conduct, is found to be untrue. It was said yesterday that Hamilton is possessed of estate of the value of between $10,000 and $12,000. No appeal will be taken from the decision. Judge John A. Stoughton was Mrs. Hamilton's lawyer and Joseph L. Barbour appeared for Hamilton.

OCTOBER 22, 1903.

Hamilton-Goff.

Joseph D. Hamilton of this city and Miss Margaret A. Goff were married at 8 o'clock yesterday morning at St. Mary's Church, New Britain, by Rev. J. T. Winters. Charles N. Wrenn of Hartford was best man and Miss Kate Graham of Jersey City, N. J., was bridesmaid. A reception and wedding breakfast followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. William Coniff of No. 73 Small street, New Britain. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton left on a wedding trip and upon their return will live at No. 33 Ward street.

APRIL.

Miss Stella E. W. Elkins of to $20,000,000, the Elkins is a son of Sidney F. Tyler of Philadelphia. Mr. Tyler, son of Sidney F. Tyler of Philadelphia, is to marry Miss Stella Elkins. Mr. Tyler owns a bank of $20,000,000. Mr. Tyler is heir to a granddaughter of the late Mr. Elkins; also heir to the estate of Mr. Elkins. Mr. Tyler's ex-wife and son of Mr. Elkins, and Mr. Tyler's ex-wife and former president of the Bank. Mr. Elkins is a son of George Elkins, president of the Bank. Mr. Elkins was a son of the late Frederick Tyler of this city and brother of the late Mrs. S. J. Tyler of this city. The Tylers are among the richest people in Philadelphia. Mrs. Carpenter, widow of Judge Elkins Carpenter, is their nearest relative in this city.
THE ROYAL WEDDING.

W. K. VANDERBILT MARRIED.

The Two Divorced Persons Have a Small Audience at Their Ceremony in London.

London, April 23.- William K. Vanderbilt was quietly married to Mrs Lewis M. Rutherford in London yesterday. It is understood that the bride and groom started for France, where they probably will remain for some time. Only eight persons, including Mrs Rutherford and Mr Vanderbilt, were present in the dear St Mark’s church, North Audley street, where the marriage ceremony was performed. The arrangements by which the wedding was kept secret were most elaborate and cautious, and they were not relaxed even at the last moment. The wedding party entered the church through the vicarage which adjoins St Mark’s, and departed from the rear entrance. In the vicarage, as in so many homes of leading families of England and America, lived the dead child of the Scullion, Mark, who made Mr Vanderbilt and Mrs Rutherford man and wife. As soon as the simple wedding ceremony was over, the coffin was taken into the church and Rev. H. H. Hdden read the burial ceremony over his child. Immediately afterward he left for Liverpool, where his father is living.

Half a dozen doors from St Mark’s church is Tarrant’s hotel, now quiet and old-fashioned, but once one of London’s most famous hosteries. From this hotel Mr Vanderbilt walked to the church yesterday morning. For the past three weeks he had been staying off and on in a modest apartment at Tarrant’s, qualifying by this residence to secure the marriage license. With the exception of Mr Tofford, Mr and Mrs Henry White and Mrs Rutherford, none of Mr Vanderbilt’s friends knew of his whereabouts. On Friday, Mr Van-derbilt-Ruther-furd wedding was a breach of Church Discipline.

London, April 29.—At to-day’s ses-sion of the London diocesan confer-ence, the bishop of London, the Right Rev. Arthur F. Ingram, read a letter from representatives of the clergy of the diocese, drawing attention to the Vanderbilt-Rutherford wedding, and requesting him to make such reference during the conference to this scandalous and deplorable incident as shall serve to allay to some extent the distress of the clergy, who feel keenly this infringement of the marriage law in the dioceses, and which may also lead others to realize how serious a breach of church discipline is involved in such proceedings. The bishop said he need hardly say that, even without this letter, the matter would have been investigated. He had seen the chancellor of the diocese, who contended that he was obliged by law to issue a license to divorced persons if any clergy found to marry them, as in this case; that the latter was the guilty party, that the chancellor’s jurisdiction was entirely independent of the bishops, and that the license went out in the chancellor’s name and not in the bishops. The bishop of London added that he had already summoned the Rev. Hadden, who performed the cere-mony, and after seeing him he would express his opinion of the whole matter.
In marrying for his second time, William K. Vanderbilt, who has two of the most beautiful young women as his wives but has never married, and who has two beautiful husbands, is said to have a personal fortune of $3,000,000. Mr. Vanderbilt would be making a tolerably safe investment, as he has already of experience.

Every patriotic American is sure to support Mr. Vanderbilt, now a member of the Church of England, in his marriage of Mr. Vanderbilt, now a member of the Church of England, with Miss Vanderbilt's $3,000,000 fortune, and it is believed has long since been spent.

But Alice Thaw, though a girl of 18, was astute enough to keep a string attached to the half-million of Pittsburg real estate. When Yarmouth, not satisfied with the million held up the wedding for the weekend in Cumberland, Ga., next Tuesday, Alice Cornelia Shaw of Pittsburg, Pa., ex-Countess of Yarmouth, is to be married to Geoffrey G. Whitney. Her sister lives in Cumberland. Whitney lives in Milton, Mass. "He is a member of the Somerset Club," a Boston paper, "and of the Boston Athletic Association."
London, April 13.—The White Star line Celtic, which sails for New York from Liverpool, Wednesday, will have among her passengers the Marquises of Hertford, Lord Edward Seymour and Lady Jane Seymour, who are going to America to attend the wedding of Miss Alice Thaw to the Earl of Yarmouth in Pittsburgh.

The Earl of Yarmouth is the eldest son of the Marquises of Hertford. Lord Edward Seymour is their son and Lady Jane Seymour is their youngest daughter.

WEDS EARL OF YARMOUTH.

Marriage of Miss Alice Thaw at Pittsburgh.

The marriage of the young and impetuous English earl to a young American woman of large wealth in Pittsburgh, was attended by incidents that were humiliating to the national pride. This young man, "with titles to burn," had a debt, a writ served on him by English attorneys only an hour or two before the wedding ceremony, which could not fail to emphasize the notorious fact that this noble earl had come over to marry American dollars.

Most of these alliances are disgusting, and they exhibit America in a light that is far from flattering. A genius like Thackeray could find in them the material for a new "Vanity Fair" that would rival even the original in power.

THE ROYAL WEDDING.

Some Incidents Not Down on the Bill.

(From New York.)

The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, was an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest. The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, as an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest.

THE COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

News of the Famous Trial.

A tea at the Hotel Schenley was attended by incidents that were humiliating to the national pride. This young man, "with titles to burn," had a debt, a writ served on him by English attorneys only an hour or two before the wedding ceremony.

The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, as an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest.

THE COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

News of the Famous Trial.

A tea at the Hotel Schenley was attended by incidents that were humiliating to the national pride. This young man, "with titles to burn," had a debt, a writ served on him by English attorneys only an hour or two before the wedding ceremony.

The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, as an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest.

THE COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

News of the Famous Trial.

A tea at the Hotel Schenley was attended by incidents that were humiliating to the national pride. This young man, "with titles to burn," had a debt, a writ served on him by English attorneys only an hour or two before the wedding ceremony.

The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, as an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest.

THE COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

News of the Famous Trial.

A tea at the Hotel Schenley was attended by incidents that were humiliating to the national pride. This young man, "with titles to burn," had a debt, a writ served on him by English attorneys only an hour or two before the wedding ceremony.

The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, as an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest.

THE COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

News of the Famous Trial.

A tea at the Hotel Schenley was attended by incidents that were humiliating to the national pride. This young man, "with titles to burn," had a debt, a writ served on him by English attorneys only an hour or two before the wedding ceremony.

The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, as an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest.

THE COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

News of the Famous Trial.

A tea at the Hotel Schenley was attended by incidents that were humiliating to the national pride. This young man, "with titles to burn," had a debt, a writ served on him by English attorneys only an hour or two before the wedding ceremony.

The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, as an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest.

THE COUNTESS OF YARMOUTH.

News of the Famous Trial.

A tea at the Hotel Schenley was attended by incidents that were humiliating to the national pride. This young man, "with titles to burn," had a debt, a writ served on him by English attorneys only an hour or two before the wedding ceremony.

The earl, who was stopping at the Hotel Schenley, as an early riser on his wedding morn. As soon as he was up he called for a high ball. For breakfast he ordered ham and eggs, as so many Englishmen do, and washed it down with another high ball, which no Englishman does. Time seemed to pass slowly with him until the arrival of two constables from Alderman McKenzie's office. They never would have seen the earl if he had seen them first.

But the constables got him, and served a writ from the king's bench for an arrest.
Evelyn Nesbit has collapsed under the strain to which her daughter and Harry K. Thaw has subjected her. When Evelyn did not come to her former home in Pittsburg to-day as Mrs. Holman had expected, the mother went to pieces. Later when a newspaper was shown to her in which it was set forth that Thaw and Miss Nesbit were still dodging people in and about New York, she threw up her hands and fell on the floor in a dead faint.

A letter was sent by the mother to Evelyn to be delivered to her the moment she landed in New York, in which she implored her to come home at once and talk things over, to announce to the world that she was the wife of Harry Thaw, if such was the case, and if such was not the case, to come home with all speed and stop the tongue of scandal. If this was received by the young woman, she made no sign.

It is announced to-day by one very close to the Thaw family that Harry Thaw is held in New York by orders from his family here who do not wish to precipitate a rupture in the social and religious connections which Harry has moved for years. Harry is, for the present, out of the social swim here, and that he would be ignored by those who before were his friends is assured.

Thaw yesterday had a long talk with the people at home by telephones, and he was assured that in his case distance would be better for the present. But the young fellow who has made folks stare on both sides of the Atlantic has friends and he is paving the way for his return here, too. The generosity and the charity of Thaw is now told, and it is asserted by many that it will not be for society here to turn down Thaw when he returns.

Of the Third Presbyterian Church of Pittsburg, Holman is one of the strongest supporters. On the last Sunday he was in Pittsburg, the Sunday before he sailed for Europe with Evelyn Nesbit, he placed on the plate his check for $1,000.

THAW WEDS MISS NESBIT.

Young Man Who Gave $25,000 "Beauty Dinner" Is Married to Floral-dora Chorus Girl.

Pittsburg, April 5—Harry K. Thaw and Florence Evelyn Nesbit were married last evening in the study of the Rev. William L. McElvain, pastor of the Third Presbyterian church of Pittsburg. They were driven to the parsonage at 5 o'clock and accompanied by Mrs. William Thaw, the mother of the bridegroom, and Joseph C. Thaw. There they were met by Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Holman, stepfather and mother of the bride. No one else was present. The ceremony was brief, and then Mrs. William Thaw, who last fall set her foot down on having anything to do with her son Harry so long as he kept company with Miss Nesbit, the report made, is on the spot.
Cosmopolitan Magazine

kin to the founders of the famous banking-house of Baring Brothers. The footlights had done their work, and the former chorus girl received an offer of marriage from the aristocratic Englishman. Upon her retirement from the stage a short time ago, she was sent to a convent in France to be equipped to meet the social requirements of the wife of a British peer, whose landed property covers thirty-six thousand acres of that Green Isle in which began Lady Ashburton's ancestry.

It was from the chorus in "The Wizard of Oz" that beautiful June Van Buskirk stepped into legitimate roles, playing with Louis Mann before she achieved distinction on the London stage in "The Walls of Jericho," "Miss Grundy," and "Angels Unawares." So captivating were her beauty and charm in the latter drama that its author, Robert Vernon Harcourt, son of Sir William Harcourt, a former Cabinet Minister, laid siege to her heart to end in marriage. When the playwright succeeds to the title, the chorus girl will be Lady Harcourt.

A show girl of pronounced Gibson type, eighteen-year-old Eva Carrington, christened Evelyn Victoria, slipped not long ago, by way of a wedding ring, into one of the most ancient of British titles. The apparent ease with which the feat was accomplished recalls Disraeli's comment, that the "silliest woman with a pretty face may achieve in a day that for which the greatest statesmen wear out a lifetime in pursuit, too often to go to the grave unrequited!" Six feet two is this American beauty's height. Her only work on the stage was to look sweet. So compelling was she in this rôle in the London productions, "Blue Bell in Fairyland," and "The Catch of the Season," that after a single meeting at a dinner in Dublin, Lord de Clifford, on the eve of embarking for Egypt, laid his hand and fortune at her feet. Civil and religious ceremony at Westminster recently sealed the troth, three days after the young nobleman's return to England. The young lovers are now traveling in Abyssinia preparatory to taking up domestic duties on the family estate, a historical baronial castle in County Mayo, Ireland.
MRS. HARRY KENDALL THAW OF PITTSBURG, WHO WAS FLORENCE EVELYN NESBIT, A FAMOUS ARTISTS' MODEL AND CHORUS GIRL.
EVELYN DROPS NAME OF THAW

The legend of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw continues. At the height of her fame, she was known as Evelyn Thaw, the singer, dancer, and actress who rose to prominence in New York. However, her personal life was marked by controversy and tragedy.

EVELYN BITTER OVER THAW "INGRATITUDE"

Evelyn Thaw returned to New York yesterday to do a dancing stunt at a roof garden. It is reported that she gets $4000 a week for this engagement. She was married to Harry K. Thaw, who was a businessman and a noted figure in the art world. The marriage was tumultuous, and the couple's relationship was fraught with drama and legal battles.

THAW DIVORCE CASE HEARD IN PRISON

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 3.—The divorce case of Harry K. Thaw, a Pittsburgh businessman and artist, and Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, a former singer and dancer, was heard in a prison yesterday. The case was brought by Harry Thaw against his wife, Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, who was accused of ingratitude. The hearings will be private and none of the evidence will be made public.

EVELYN THAW WEDS DANCING PARTNER

New York, May 24.—Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, divorced by Harry K. Thaw last month, and Jack Clifford, her dancing partner, returned here yesterday after a hasty trip to Baltimore and announced that they had been married in Maryland.

EVELYN NESBIT THAW.

[Copyright by George Grantham Bain.]

A week for four weeks. At the end of that period she says she will return to London, where she recently made her re-entry on the stage.

I want to be a freak. I want to stand out among my merits. The other is a feminine reason, perhaps, but I believe in it just the same. There's superstition about that name. Everyone comes in contact with that name.
THAW ORDERED HOME.

Young Man Who Married Chorus Girl
May Lose $80,000 a Year.

New York, October 31.—A Pittsburg special dispatch to the Herald says:

Another chapter in the now famous Thaw-Nesbitt wedding story from abroad is about to be opened, this time in Pittsburg. Harry Thaw has been ordered home, and he is now on the ocean.

Unless Mr. Thaw can, on his arrival in Pittsburg, show Mrs. Thaw and several other members of the Thaw family, each equally indignant, that he has not married Evelyn Nesbitt, a chorus girl, whose income, which is now $80,000 a year, from his father's estate will be reduced, it is said, to $2,500 a year.

The elder Mr. Thaw cut his son off with $2,500 a year until he became 35 years old. Mr. Thaw did not approve of some of his youngest son's actions, and, it is said, frequently told him so, but no tone used was so strong as the one used in the Thaw will. Mrs. Thaw, however, induced the brothers and sisters to agree to let Harry Thaw have the full amount that was eventually coming to him.

Since it was reported that young Mr. Thaw has been wedded to a chorus girl there have been several councils in Pittsburg, attended by the Thaws and their attorneys. It has been found that at will the other heirs can withdraw their support from the plan of allowing the young man to enjoy $80,000 annually in defiance of the wishes of his father.

And this is what is now intended, unless Mr. Thaw can show that he has not married Miss Nesbitt. He has been asked to reach Pittsburg by the fastest and first boat, and his arrival is expected this week.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Harry K. Thaw, the young Pittsburg millionaire and hero of the "$25,000 beauty dinner," to Evelyn Florence Nesbitt, a prize chorus girl and artists' model in London. Thaw's mother is said to be much distressed over the wedding, as she desired him to marry a title. It is said that the family has spent $1,000,000 in trying to keep Harry Thaw from making just such a marriage as he has contracted. Miss Nesbitt was noted for her beauty even as a girl of 16. She was at that age when she came to New York from Pittsburg in 1901. She became a model and was the sensation of the studios for a time, posing for such noted artists as Carroll Beckwith, Carl Blenner, F. S. Church, and others. Her beauty made it easy for her when she decided to adopt a stage career, and she found an easy opening in "Florodora."

HARRY THAW IS BACK.

Arrives on Kaiser Wilhelm with Miss Nesbitt.

New York, Nov. 1.—Harry K. Thaw of Pittsburg, Pa., who is said to have been summoned home from Europe by his wealthy mother to explain his reported marriage to Miss Evelyn F. Nesbitt, an actress-model, arrived today on the Kaiser Wilhelm. Miss Nesbitt was also on board, but not as his wife. Young Thaw had the imperial suite, which costs $2,000. The couple disappeared directly the ship landed and it is said that they went immediately to Pittsburg to try to smooth things over.

Miss Nesbitt is a Pittsburg girl, having lived near the Thaw home there. Mrs. Thaw is said to contemplate reducing her son's annuity from $80,000 to $2,500 if the stories about his marriage are true. The countess of Yarmouth is Thaw's sister.
Deputy Sheriff to Marry Wealthy Widow.

(Waterbury Republican.)
The serving of papers in a civil suit has resulted in the engagement of Deputy Sheriff George Ambrose Stevens of this place to Miss Elizabeth Frances Pratt of Clinton, whose affairs have resulted in the engagement of Many Guests at Stevens-Pratt Marriage to Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Pratt.

Special to The Hartford Times.

Clinton, April 28.

Deputy Sheriff George Ambrose Stevens and Mrs. Elizabeth Frances Pratt of this place to-day, the ceremony occurring at “Harbor View,” the residence of the bride, at 1 o'clock. The affair was an exceedingly brilliant one, about 100 guests being present. The prevailing colors in the decorations were pink and white. Our flowers, consisting for the most part of carnations, were effectively arranged about the several rooms. An orchestra of this place furnished music.

The ceremony took place beneath a bower of laurel and asparagus ferns in a bow window of the parlor, the background of the arch being relieved by white carnations, while at either side the greenery was caught by bows of pink roses and ferns. The bridal couple stood before a bank of beautiful palms in the front drawing room, while the ceremony was being performed an orchestra played softly varying appropriate music. The marriage service was attended by a few besides immediate relatives, but about 500 invitations were issued for the wedding reception, which immediately followed the ceremony. Many out of town guests from New Haven, New York, Pittsburgh, Harrisburg, Brooklyn, Syracuse, Lynn, and other cities were present. A lively party gathered to fling confetti, the traditional old shoes, and a host of good wishes at the departing bride and groom.

The bride’s gown was of white crepe-de-chine, over white silk, elaborately trimmed with point lace and chiffon, and her tulle veil was fastened with a handsome pearl coronet, the gift of the Chase-Geer Nuptials at Christ Church.

Late This Afternoon.

The wedding of A. Lincoln Chase and Miss Gladys A. G. Geer, daughter of Mrs. Mary G. Geer, will be solemnized in Christ Church, this afternoon, at 5:30, in the presence of many friends of the contracting parties in this city and from out of town. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. James Goodwin, rector of the church. Organist Priest will play the wedding march from “Lohengrin” as the bridal party advances to the altar. Miss Geer will be attired in a traveling costume of gray tulle, and will carry white roses, lilies-of-the-valley and maidenhair ferns. She will be attended by Miss Annette Kranz as maid of honor. Miss Kranz will be her bridesmaid in white silk mull, will wear a picture hat and carry a shower bouquet of white roses. Dr. Hugh Dryhurst will officiate as best man. The ushers will be Benjamin B. Crocker, Thomas J. Potter, L. L. Gaylord and F. A. Mott.

The groom’s present to the bride is a diamond brooch. Conspicuous among the gifts are articles of silverware and china, from the firm and clerks of G. Fox and Company, by whom the groom is employed as superintendent.

Mr. and Mrs. Chase will go to Atlantic City, N. J., and Niagara Falls, N. Y. They will see their friends after June 1, at No. 10 Belden street.
"BONNIE BRAE," THE HOME OF THE LEYS, WHERE KID LAWTON PERPETRATED HIS INITIAL CRIME IN FRENZIED FINANCE

Tax Collector's Safe in City Hall Ruins
Showing Books Containing Records of $200,000 in Uncollected Taxes

THE HOMESTEAD WILL CONTINUE TO APPEAR EACH WEDNESDAY AFTERNOON
8 Pages 2 Cents

SPECIAL
Add 25 cents to include Wednesday Edition, to Subscription Offer on Page 7.

Springfield, Mass, Saturday Morning, January

ornestead

Street Block

Homesdale
More South. Mr Hall was re-lected by both the Second and Third Districts where he had the support of the Republican and Liberal interests and treasurer never the less that the two candidates ran separately as both take most of their votes from the area around the city hall.

Because the government has granted the scheme of building a connecting river navigation system by the creation of a river navigation authority. The channel would be wider but the area has not yet been used for the purposes of navigation.

The ways and means committee of this association has two or three plans in mind for the further-development of this system.

The Calhoun club will hold a regular monthly meeting next Tuesday evening when a talk on The Waldorf-Astoria hotel will be given by Oscar L. Young. There will also be cultural specialties during the evening by Messrs Power and Munk.

About 160 automobile enthusiasts of the city will attend the annual New Year's ball at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel with Messrs Pullman and Henry.

If the spectators had all paid a new fee this year, the city would have received $1200 from persons engaged in the post office building in this city.

The high school basketball team will be at a premium for the next two weeks.

The high school basketball league will have a new line this year. The first place team will be defeated at the high school.

The high school basketball
league will have a new line this year. The first place team will be defeated at the high school.

The high school basketball
league will have a new line this year. The first place team will be defeated at the high school.

The high school basketball
league will have a new line this year. The first place team will be defeated at the high school.

The high school basketball
league will have a new line this year. The first place team will be defeated at the high school.

The high school basketball
league will have a new line this year. The first place team will be defeated at the high school.

The high school basketball
league will have a new line this year. The first place team will be defeated at the high school.

The high school basketball
league will have a new line this year. The first place team will be
defeated at the high school.
improvement by the school, instead of supplementing their efforts, are employed to aid, in its work. The measure of the success of the public schools has been for any one to have a failure on the part of parents heart and hand to cooperate with the teacher, a sign that shows their interest in school matters.

The Family the True Nursery

The family, it has been said, is the only unit of the state, but it is the only true nursery of the noblest in the nation by the middle class. In the family there are employed to aid, in its work the whole family, and the whole family only forms the standard of right action. But it is compelled to be a corrector of evil influences, and to work against the results of bad habits already formed.

Parents Are Too Indifferent

Parents are sometimes wonderstruck at the innocence of their children, while their parents are indifferent. It is a common school of error, and the school of error, to present the same good to the world as it presents to the world, in the public schools.
REV. DR. HARTRANFT RESIGNS PRESIDENCY.
APRIL 30, 1903.

The Hartford Theological Seminary in particular, the cause of religion and the city of Hartford are to be congratulated that Rev. Dr. Chester D. Hartranft, who will retire from the seminary this summer, on July 1st, the cause of religion and the city of Hartford are to be congratulated that Rev. Dr. Chester D. Hartranft, who will retire from the seminary on July 1st, 1903.

Rev. Dr. Chester D. Hartranft.

DECEMBER 21, 1906.

A CURIOUS STORY.

Dr. Hartranft’s Work in Germany and the Death of a Royal Supporter of His Undertaking.

A special dispatch from the Berlin correspondent of the London Times, states that the Rev. Dr. Hartranft, who is the founder of the German Theological Society, has been elected a member of the Royal Society of Sciences in Berlin. The Society has been founded to promote research in the natural sciences and the humanities. The Rev. Dr. Hartranft has been a prominent figure in the German religious community for many years, and his work has been widely admired.

JUNE 4, 1907.

SCHWENKFELD’S WRITING THEM TOGETHER.

Dr. Hartranft’s Work in Germany.

It is thought probable that the volume of the life and work of the great Reformer, Schwendfeld, will soon be ready for publication. The English translation of the “Writings of Schwendfeld” has been completed, and the work is now in the hands of the printer. The book will contain a large number of Schwendfeld’s sermons, letters, and other writings, and will be a valuable addition to the literature of the Reformers. The work is being edited by a noted scholar, who is well acquainted with the history of the Reformation and with the life of Schwendfeld. The editor has been working on the project for many years, and has been able to obtain a large number of original manuscripts and other documents. The work is expected to be ready for publication in the near future.
Rev. Dr. William Douglas Mackenzie, the new president of the Hartford Theological Seminary, arrived in Hartford with his family last evening and will remain for a few days at the home of Professor Edwin Knox Mitchell, No. 21 Gillett street, while his future home is No. 22 Gillett street, formerly the residence of President Chester D. Hartranft of the seminary, is being prepared for his occupancy. His furniture and personal effects arrived from Chicago a day or two ago. Dr. Mackenzie's family consists of Mrs. Mackenzie and two children, Ian Douglas, 13 year old, and Marjorie Douglas, 7 years old.

Professor Jacobus

Jacobs received a drinking cup, Saturday evening, from the trustees of the seminary in recognition and acknowledgement of his self-sacrificing devotion to the needs and welfare of the seminary, and as a token of our appreciation of his successful and able administration as acting president, May 29, 1904.

The cup was selected by a committee consisting of the Rev. H. H. Kelcey, pastor of the Fourth Congregational church, Lyman B. Trainor, Atwood Collins, John Allen, the Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of the First church, and Edward W. Hooker.

Professor Jacobus Elected Dean

Professor Melancthon W. Jacobus has been elected dean of the Hartford Theological Seminary, and is to share with President W. D. Mackenzie some of the administrative duties. Professor Jacobus is the first incumbent of the chair. He is professor of New Testament exegesis and criticism. He was born in Allegheny City, Pa., and is the son of the well-known commentator on the New Testament, after whom he is named. He is identified with Princeton University and theological Seminary, is a graduate and director of both institutions and a lecturer before the seminary. Many graduates of Princeton University are attracted to Hartford Seminary in order to come under the influence of their former teacher and as a man. He studied at Berlin and Gottingen in 1881-84, and was seven years in a Presbyterian pastorate at Oxford, Pa. He was called to a professorship in Princeton Seminary, but declined.

The drinking cup was selected by a committee consisting of the Rev. H. H. Kelcey, pastor of the Fourth Congregational church, Lyman B. Trainor, Atwood Collins, John Allen, the Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of the First church, and Edward W. Hooker.

Professor Jacobus

Presented to Melancthon Williams Jacobus, by vote of the trustees of the Hartford Theological Seminary, in recognition and acknowledgement of his self-sacrificing devotion to the needs and welfare of the seminary, and as a token of our appreciation of his successful and able administration as acting president, May 29, 1904.

The drinking cup was selected by a committee consisting of the Rev. H. H. Kelcey, pastor of the Fourth Congregational church, Lyman B. Trainor, Atwood Collins, John Allen, the Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of the First church, and Edward W. Hooker.

Dr. Mackenzie Accepts

Will Become President of Hartford Theological Seminary.

Word was received in Hartford yesterday that Dr. William Douglas Mackenzie, professor of systematic theology in the Chicago Theological Seminary, has accepted the presidency of the Hartford Theological Seminary and the chair of Christian theology in that institution, succeeding in both positions, Rev. Dr. Chester D. Hartranft. Dr. Mackenzie's message came by wire to the committee which returned from Chicago last week after tendering to him the appointment. As already told in "The Courant," Dr. Hartranft retires as head of the seminary because he believed himself to be too much burdened with the care and labors of his position, and the efforts of the authorities to induce him to withdraw his resignation were unavailing. He will, however, remain with the seminary in some other capacity.

Rev. Dr. William Douglas Mackenzie is professor of systematic theology in the Chicago Theological Seminary and is considered one of the foremost theologians in the United States. He was born in Fauresmith, Orange River Colony, South Africa, July 16, 1859, the son of the late John M. Mackenzie, an English missionary and for a time the British Queen's deputy commissioner in Bechuanaland. He was graduated from the Edinburgh University in 1881, and studied divinity in the Congregational Theological Hall, Edinburgh, and at the University of Gottingen, Germany. He became a Congregational minister and came to this country several years ago, where his attainments and reputation soon found him a position in the Chicago institution. Dr. Mackenzie married, about twenty years ago, Miss Alice Crowther, daughter of the late T. B. Crowther of Harrowby Green, Carlisle, England, and is the son of a man of great ability as a teacher and as an administrator. He is the author of many books, among which are: "The Ethics of Gaiter," 1892; "The Psalms," 1896; "Christianity and the Progress of Man," 1897; "South Africa: Its History, Heroes and Wars," 1900. Dr. Mackenzie received an honorary degree of doctor of divinity from Beloit College, Wis., in 1896. He will take up his duties in Hartford next fall.

Dr. Mackenzie here.

December 30, 1905
The groom is a son of Henry D. Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., and was formerly rector of St John's Church, St Paul, Minn., and Alexander Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., brother of the groom. The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with court train. The flowers of point lace with which it was trimmed were those worn by her mother on her wedding day. She wore orange blossoms and the bridal bouquet was of lilies-of-the-valley. A reception was held at the Bend residence on Summit avenue, immediately after the ceremony. Later in the evening Rev and Mrs Sedgwick left for the East. They will be at home after June 1 at 543 Ashland avenue.

The groom is a son of Henry D. Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., and was formerly rector of St John's Church, St Paul, Minn., and Alexander Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., brother of the groom. The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with court train. The flowers of point lace with which it was trimmed were those worn by her mother on her wedding day. She wore orange blossoms and the bridal bouquet was of lilies-of-the-valley. A reception was held at the Bend residence on Summit avenue, immediately after the ceremony. Later in the evening Rev and Mrs Sedgwick left for the East. They will be at home after June 1 at 543 Ashland avenue.

The groom is a son of Henry D. Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., and was formerly rector of St John's Church, St Paul, Minn., and Alexander Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., brother of the groom. The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with court train. The flowers of point lace with which it was trimmed were those worn by her mother on her wedding day. She wore orange blossoms and the bridal bouquet was of lilies-of-the-valley. A reception was held at the Bend residence on Summit avenue, immediately after the ceremony. Later in the evening Rev and Mrs Sedgwick left for the East. They will be at home after June 1 at 543 Ashland avenue.

The groom is a son of Henry D. Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., and was formerly rector of St John's Church, St Paul, Minn., and Alexander Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., brother of the groom. The bride wore a gown of ivory satin with court train. The flowers of point lace with which it was trimmed were those worn by her mother on her wedding day. She wore orange blossoms and the bridal bouquet was of lilies-of-the-valley. A reception was held at the Bend residence on Summit avenue, immediately after the ceremony. Later in the evening Rev and Mrs Sedgwick left for the East. They will be at home after June 1 at 543 Ashland avenue.
Miss Mary Bishop White, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. N. G. White of No. 869 Farmington avenue, West Hartford, and Dr. Carroll C. Beach of this city were married at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Farmington Avenue Congregational Church of this city, Rev. William DeLoss Love, pastor of the church, performing the ceremony. The bride wore a white satin princess gown, trimmed with duchesse lace, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The matron of honor was Mrs. Clarence D. Frayer. She wore blue taffeta and a white hat and carried a white satin valance. On account of the recent death of the bride's grandfather there was no reception. The groom entertained his best man and the ushers at dinner Tuesday evening at the Flyn House. Dr. and Mrs. Beach left last evening for a wedding trip and they will be at home after June 1 at 345 Ashland avenue.

The grooms are a son of Henry D. Sedgwick of Stockbridge, Mass., and was formerly rector of St. John's church at Williamsport. A party of relatives and friends from Stockbridge came to be present at the wedding. In the party were Henry D. Sedgwick, Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Sedgwick, Rev. Dr. Arthur Lawrence, Miss Helen Butler and Miss Virginia Butler.

NEW COMMISSIONER NAMED.

Herbert Knox Smith, '91, to head Bureau of Corporations.

President Roosevelt sent to the U. S. Senate December 11 the nomination of Herbert Knox Smith, '91, of Hartford, Conn., as commissioner of corporations, to take effect on the appointment of James R. Garriofl, now head of that Bureau, as Secretary of the Interior.

Mr. Smith was born in Chester, Mass., Nov. 17, 1860, and was the son of Rev. Edward Alfred Smith, '56, a Congregationalist clergyman resident there, and Melissa E. Knox Smith. He moved in 1874 to Farmington, Conn., where his father was an active clergyman until 1888. He then moved to Hartford, which is still his legal residence. Mr. Smith prepared for college at the Lawrenceville School, graduating from there in 1887 and from Yale in 1891. He then took two years postgraduate work at Yale, graduated from the Yale Law School in 1895, and was admitted to the Hartford County Bar July 1895. He practised law in Hartford from 1895 to August, 1903. He was Chairman of the Republican 6th Ward Committee of Hartford from 1900 to 1903; Chairman Republican Town Committee in 1903; was two years, 1900-1903, in the Hartford Common Council, a Representative in the Connecticut legislature from 1903-4; and was, on August 15, 1903, appointed by the President as Deputy Commissioner of Corporations at Washington, which position he now holds.

Mr. Smith was for a short time also Acting Solicitor of the Department of Commerce and Labor, in which Department the Bureau of Corporations is a member of the Federal Commission of Investigation upon the Wreck of the Steamer "General Slocum." He was also a member of the Federal Commission that investigated the wreck of the steamer "Valencia," which occurred near the entrance to Puget Sound, Jan. 22, 1906, and as a result of that work, drew and secured the passage of a number of laws for the improvement of the Steamboat Inspection Service and the greater safety of marine passenger traffic. He was also a member of the Federal Commission that investigated the wreck of the steamer "Valencia," which occurred near the entrance to Puget Sound, Jan. 22, 1906, and as a result of the work of that Commission a number of much needed coast guard and lighthouse improvements at the entrance to Puget Sound were secured at the last session of Congress.

Herbert Knox Smith, '91, to head Bureau of Corporations.
TWO NEW MEMBERS.

Professor Ferguson and Representative H. K. Smith on the Park Board MAY 9, 1903.

A special meeting of the board of park commissioners was held yesterday morning to fill the vacancies in the board caused by the resignations of Dr. Gordon W. Russell and W. O. Burr. Professor Henry Ferguson was elected for the unexpired term of Dr. Russell, ending April 30, 1907, and Representative Herbert Knox Smith was elected for the unexpired term of Mr. Burr, ending May 11, 1906.

Professor Ferguson is the well known professor of history and political science at Trinity College, of which he is an alumnus. He is a member of several clubs and societies, including the Century Club of New York and the University Club. Professor Ferguson is a popular member of the faculty of Trinity College and the alumni association, a broad thinker and widely informed man, much interested in Hartford and its growth and artistic development.

Herbert Knox Smith is the well known junior representative from Hartford in the General Assembly and former alderman from the Sixth Ward. He is also chairman of the republican town committee and an influential member of the Center Church. Mr. Smith is a gentleman of artistic tastes and is deeply interested in everything pertaining to the city's welfare. He is a graduate of Yale University, class of 1891, and is secretary of the Yale Alumni Association of Hartford.

The park board is one of the most important branches of the city government and all Hartford has a proper interest in the selection of the commissioners. The recent resignations of Commissioners Russell and Burr were unexpected by the public and regretted by them, but the choice yesterday of Professor Ferguson and Representative H. K. Smith puts into the vacant places two gentlemen peculiarly well fitted for the position and fully maintaining the high standard of character and judgment that has marked the board ever since it was established.

GOING TO WASHINGTON.

JULY 31, 1903.

HERBERT KNOX SMITH SELECTED BY THE PRESIDENT.

Representative Herbert Knox Smith of this city has been appointed deputy commissioner of the bureau of corporations and labor at Washington, and will begin his duties there on August 15. The position is worth $3,500 a year and the appointment was made by Secretary Cortelyou, secretary of the department. Mr. Smith accepted the position after an interview with President Roosevelt.

Mr. Smith said yesterday that he did not know that it would be necessary for him to resign as representative in the General Assembly from the town of Hartford. There was nothing in the federal law to prevent a representative in a state Legislature from being a federal officer, but the state law provided that a federal officer could not act as a representative. Of course, he could not act as a representative while holding a government position, and if a special session were called, an improbable thing, he thought Representative Lake could conserve the interests of the town of Hartford at the session. Mr. Herbert Knox Smith is the well known Junior representative from Hartford in the General Assembly and former alderman from the Sixth Ward. He is also chairman of the republican town committee and an influential member of the Center Church. Mr. Smith is a gentleman of artistic tastes and is deeply interested in everything pertaining to the city's welfare. He is a graduate of Yale University, class of 1891, and is secretary of the Yale Alumni Association of Hartford.

Professor Henry Ferguson.

The position of chair of the park commissioners, year with credit to the party, of the society's Church, a post-resign. He is a member of several clubs and societies, including the Century Club of New York and the University Club. Professor Ferguson is a popular member of the faculty of Trinity College and the alumni association, a broad thinker and widely informed man, much interested in Hartford and its growth and artistic development.

Herbert Knox Smith is the well known junior representative from Hartford in the General Assembly and former alderman from the Sixth Ward. He is also chairman of the republican town committee and an influential member of the Center Church. Mr. Smith is a gentleman of artistic tastes and is deeply interested in everything pertaining to the city's welfare. He is a graduate of Yale University, class of 1891, and is secretary of the Yale Alumni Association of Hartford.

The park board is one of the most important branches of the city government and all Hartford has a proper interest in the selection of the commissioners. The recent resignations of Commissioners Russell and Burr were unexpected by the public and regretted by them, but the choice yesterday of Professor Ferguson and Representative H. K. Smith puts into the vacant places two gentlemen peculiarly well fitted for the position and fully maintaining the high standard of character and judgment that has marked the board ever since it was established.

GOING TO WASHINGTON.

JULY 31, 1903.

HERBERT KNOX SMITH SELECTED BY THE PRESIDENT.

Representative Herbert Knox Smith of this city has been appointed deputy commissioner of the bureau of corporations and labor at Washington, and will begin his duties there on August 15. The position is worth $3,500 a year and the appointment was made by Secretary Cortelyou, secretary of the department. Mr. Smith accepted the position after an interview with President Roosevelt.

Mr. Smith said yesterday that he did not know that it would be necessary for him to resign as representative in the General Assembly from the town of Hartford. There was nothing in the federal law to prevent a representative in a state Legislature from being a federal officer, but the state law provided that a federal officer could not act as a representative. Of course, he could not act as a representative while holding a government position, and if a special session were called, an improbable thing, he thought Representative Lake could conserve the interests of the town of Hartford at the session. Mr. Herbert Knox Smith is the well known Junior representative from Hartford in the General Assembly and former alderman from the Sixth Ward. He is also chairman of the republican town committee and an influential member of the Center Church. Mr. Smith is a gentleman of artistic tastes and is deeply interested in everything pertaining to the city's welfare. He is a graduate of Yale University, class of 1891, and is secretary of the Yale Alumni Association of Hartford.

The park board is one of the most important branches of the city government and all Hartford has a proper interest in the selection of the commissioners. The recent resignations of Commissioners Russell and Burr were unexpected by the public and regretted by them, but the choice yesterday of Professor Ferguson and Representative H. K. Smith puts into the vacant places two gentlemen peculiarly well fitted for the position and fully maintaining the high standard of character and judgment that has marked the board ever since it was established.
HERBERT

HANDSOME HOME OF HERBERT KNOX SMITH

Hartford of the HOUSE IS ON FARMINGTON MOUNTAIN ROAD.

Fifteen Rooms and Hall — One of the Five Fireplaces is Four and a Half Feet Wide — Artesian Well 300 Feet Deep—200 Acres on Place.

Southington Mountains can be seen in the distance. From the front veranda can be seen Rattlesnake Hill and a notch in the mountains where Will Warren had his cave. Warren was a sort of wild man of the woods who lived in a cave and all that was necessary to frighten the children of Farmington was to tell them that Will Warren would come out and get them.

There are 200 acres in Mr. Smith’s property. Mr. Smith has not decided as yet what he will do towards improving some of the wild territory. His place is near the Country Club of Farmington and there is no occasion for him to have private golf links, as those of the club are satisfactory. There is a tennis court a short distance from the house. A rustic stone wall with ornamental posts is built along the road in front of the house. There are dense woods on the other side of the road and above the house on the Cherry Farm road. The view from the house is particularly fine at this time as the leaves are turning and the forests and mountains are in their autumnal colors. The valley of the Farmington is spread out below in all its beauty and towering on all sides are the mountains of Southington ranges.

The house is supplied with electric lights and water comes from an artesian well 300 feet deep. It is good drink, but it is a little too hard for some. The house sets well back from the road in front of the house. There is a tennis court a short distance from the house. A rustic stone wall with ornamental posts is built along the road in front of the house. There are dense woods on the other side of the road and above the house on the Cherry Farm road. The view from the house is particularly fine at this time as the leaves are turning and the forests and mountains are in their autumnal colors. The valley of the Farmington is spread out below in all its beauty and towering on all sides are the mountains of Southington ranges.

The house is supplied with electric lights and water comes from an artesian well 300 feet deep. It is good drink, but it is a little too hard for some. The house sets well back from the road in front of the house. There is a tennis court a short distance from the house. A rustic stone wall with ornamental posts is built along the road in front of the house. There are dense woods on the other side of the road and above the house on the Cherry Farm road. The view from the house is particularly fine at this time as the leaves are turning and the forests and mountains are in their autumnal colors. The valley of the Farmington is spread out below in all its beauty and towering on all sides are the mountains of Southington ranges.

The house is supplied with electric lights and water comes from an artesian well 300 feet deep. It is good drink, but it is a little too hard for some. The house sets well back from the road in front of the house. There is a tennis court a short distance from the house. A rustic stone wall with ornamental posts is built along the road in front of the house. There are dense woods on the other side of the road and above the house on the Cherry Farm road. The view from the house is particularly fine at this time as the leaves are turning and the forests and mountains are in their autumnal colors. The valley of the Farmington is spread out below in all its beauty and towering on all sides are the mountains of Southington ranges.

The house is supplied with electric lights and water comes from an artesian well 300 feet deep. It is good drink, but it is a little too hard for some. The house sets well back from the road in front of the house. There is a tennis court a short distance from the house. A rustic stone wall with ornamental posts is built along the road in front of the house. There are dense woods on the other side of the road and above the house on the Cherry Farm road. The view from the house is particularly fine at this time as the leaves are turning and the forests and mountains are in their autumnal colors. The valley of the Farmington is spread out below in all its beauty and towering on all sides are the mountains of Southington ranges.

The house is supplied with electric lights and water comes from an artesian well 300 feet deep. It is good drink, but it is a little too hard for some. The house sets well back from the road in front of the house. There is a tennis court a short distance from the house. A rustic stone wall with ornamental posts is built along the road in front of the house. There are dense woods on the other side of the road and above the house on the Cherry Farm road. The view from the house is particularly fine at this time as the leaves are turning and the forests and mountains are in their autumnal colors. The valley of the Farmington is spread out below in all its beauty and towering on all sides are the mountains of Southington ranges.

The house is supplied with electric lights and water comes from an artesian well 300 feet deep. It is good drink, but it is a little too hard for some. The house sets well back from the road in front of the house. There is a tennis court a short distance from the house. A rustic stone wall with ornamental posts is built along the road in front of the house. There are dense woods on the other side of the road and above the house on the Cherry Farm road. The view from the house is particularly fine at this time as the leaves are turning and the forests and mountains are in their autumnal colors. The valley of the Farmington is spread out below in all its beauty and towering on all sides are the mountains of Southington ranges.

The house is supplied with electric lights and water comes from an artesian well 300 feet deep. It is good drink, but it is a little too hard for some. The house sets well back from the road in front of the house. There is a tennis court a short distance from the house. A rustic stone wall with ornamental posts is built along the road in front of the house. There are dense woods on the other side of the road and above the house on the Cherry Farm road. The view from the house is particularly fine at this time as the leaves are turning and the forests and mountains are in their autumnal colors. The valley of the Farmington is spread out below in all its beauty and towering on all sides are the mountains of Southington ranges.
May 13, 1903

MRS. BARRETT IS 103 YEARS OLD

Yet Was Able to Receive the Many Friends
Who Called to Extend Congratulations
Upon Her Birthday

MRS. Hannah Newell Barrett, probably the oldest person in Boston, is today celebrating her birthday in her home at 452 Massachusetts avenue, having reached the advanced age of 103 years. Notwithstanding the burden of her years Mrs. Barrett still enjoys good health, and though hearing and eyesight are somewhat impaired, was enabled to receive the number of friends and relatives who called to extend their congratulations during the day.

Many flowers were sent, including a plant from the Boston Tea Party Chapter of the D. A. R. of which she is an honorary member. Assisting Mrs. Bennett in receiving was her sister, Mrs. Lovisa Darbour of Cambridge, who is ninety-two years of age. From Portland, Ore., came Mrs. Ralph W. Wilbur, a granddaughter, and a telegram of congratulation was received from Mrs. Barrett's son, Dr. J. W. H. Fessett and Mrs. Heustis of Dubuque, Ia., who have attended the celebration in person the past three years. During the afternoon a number of residents of Harvard, Mass., where Mrs. Barrett formerly resided, visited her.

Mrs. Barrett was much interested in learning of the birthday celebration chronicled in the morning papers of Mrs. Catherine Kendall Stoele of Lynnfield, N. H., who has reached the age of 102 years, and happily observed that she herself is well and happy after an even longer life.

Ira Coddit, son of a Revolutionary soldier, celebrated his 95th birthday, Saturday, at Ipswich, N. H. He is the youngest Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mandlebaum.

Formerly of Hartford, Celebrate Joyous Event in New York, May 13th, 1903.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

At No. 1,300 Madison avenue, New York, the residence of their sons, J. H. and Dr. Fred S. Mandlebaum, two former residents of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Mandlebaum, celebrated their golden wedding on Friday evening, by a dinner at which all their immediate relatives were present. The entire house, and especially the dining room and table, was ornamented with yellow or gold colored flowers, daffodils, tulips, roses and chrysanthemums being used in profusion, while ribbons of gold-colored satin heightened the effect. After dinner formal speech-making was omitted, it being a family party entirely, but a large and splendid gold loving cup was presented to the happy couple with appropriate remarks. All of the ladies then received miniature gold cups of similar pattern, as souvenirs. Other presents were displayed on tables in the parlor, and numerous letters and telegrams full of good wishes, were received and read during the evening. A number of these came from Hartford.

Mr. and Mrs. Mandlebaum resided in Hartford from 1854 to 1891, and were married in this city in the spring of 1853. Both are extensively known to our people, and, as a member of the firm of Stern & Mandlebaum, and later, in business with his sons on the corner of Main and Temple streets, Mr. Mandlebaum was among the most prominent merchants of the city. He was leading in the community, a foremost member and officer of the Beth Israel synagogue, Ararat lodge, and of the Philo-Dramatic society, which then united the best German elements with a liberal sprinkling of Americans.

After going out in business Mr. Mandlebaum removed to New York city, where two of his sons reside. J. H. is merchant of Mandlebaum & Sons, physicians of the Mt. Washington A. R. of which she is an honorary member. Many flowers were sent, including a plant from the Boston Tea Party Chapter of the D. A. R. of which she is an honorary member. Many flowers were sent, including a plant from the Boston Tea Party Chapter of the D. A. R. of which she is an honorary member. Many flowers were sent, including a plant from the Boston Tea Party Chapter of the D. A. R. of which she is an honorary member.

JACOB MANDLEBAUM.

street, New York, from 3 to 5 o'clock, and hosts of their New York and Hartford friends will doubtless be in attendance.

Daughter of Col. Haskins Married to Major Gaston at Waterford.

Waterford, May 16.—Major Joseph A. Gaston of the First cavalry, U. S. A., and Miss Lavinia Haskins, daughter of Colonel and Mrs. Nat. A. Haskins, were at the wedding of which was officiated by Rabbi Reiss of New York and Hartford on May 15th. The wedding was performed at the house of the bride's father in New York street, New York, from 3 to 5 o'clock, and hosts of their New York and Hartford friends will doubtless be in attendance.

MRS. MANDLEBAUM.

Kins of New York, Joseph L. Haskins of Buffalo and Lawrence Haskins of Cornell college, brothers of the bride, were also present.
NORTHAMPTON CHURCH WEDDING

UNITING MISS FRANCES B. SEYMOUR AND REV. H. RICHARD HULSE

A church wedding which was largely attended and of much interest to people of Northampton and vicinity took place in the First church at Northampton on Sunday afternoon at 4:30, uniting Miss Frances Barrows Seymour, daughter of Dr and Mrs Christopher Sey mour, and Rev. H. Richard Hulse, rector of the church in New York city. The decorations were made with laurel, palms and Japanese snow-ball hanked upon the platform, and laurel and sprays of lilac upon the pew posts. The organist, Ralph L. Baldwin, gave a recital of wedding music while the guests assembled. The full Episcopal service was used, the minister being Rev. H. F. Rose, pastor of the First church. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Seymour, sister of the bride and the best man was William T. Hepper of New York. The ushers were Rev. St. Clair Hester and Rev. Frederick Wright of Brooklyn, Rev. A. B. Howard, Elmer Oliver and William Higgins of New York city and Benjamin Hickley of Northampton. Just before the bridal procession started, Miss Frances Seymour was crowned in white, who are intimate friends of the bride. The ushers were escorted to pews at the front by two of the ushers, William Higgins and Rev. Frederick Wright. The young women were Misses Emma and Frances Hulse, sisters of the groom, Miss Lucy Stoddard and Miss Martha Curley of New York, Miss Ruth McGowan of Washington, D. C., Miss Hendetta Seelye, Miss Rose Hickley, Miss Helen Rose, Miss Cara Walker, Miss Marion Story, Miss Edith Clark and Miss Edith Maltby. The bridal procession was made up as follows: The usher, the bridesmaid, the bride on the arm of her father, who gave her away. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played for the procesessional, themes from the wedding scene of "Lohengrin" during the ceremony, and the Mendelssohn walking march for the recessional. The bride's gown was of white liberty satin, with veil caught with orange blossom carried bride roses. The bridesmaid was gowned in flowered chiffon over white silk, and carried pink roses.

A reception to relatives and a few friends at the home of the bride followed the ceremony. The rooms were decorated with laurel, palms and flowers, and boyden catered. The many handsome gifts made a beautiful display. The guests included the father and sisters of the bride, Misses Emma and Frances Hulse of New York, Mr and Mrs Charles T. C. Caruth of Cambridge, Mr and Mrs Henry C. Lee of Boston, Mr and Mrs Charles W. Smith of New York, Mr and Mrs Frank H. Spalding of New York city, Mr and Mrs Franklin Griffin of South Glastonbury, Ct. The bride is a graduate of Smith in the class of 1897, and has recently returned from a year abroad. She has a host of friends, whose best wishes follow her to her new home in New York, and Mrs Hulse left on their wedding trip late in the afternoon.

MAY 21, 1903.

Marriage of Miss Mary L. Mellen.

The wedding of Mary Louise Mellen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Mellen, to Ray Barton Manbeff of Springfield, Mass., took place at the home of the bride's parents, No. 215 Collins street, this afternoon, at 4 o'clock. The wedding was performed by the Rev. Dr. John Coleman Adams of the Church of the Redeemer, was attended only by the immediate relatives of the couple.

After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Manberr will reside in Springfield.
Held Privately Because of Illness of the Groom.

Miss Edith Sherwood Hall, daughter of the late Dr. Charles W. Hall, formerly of Amherst, and Henry D. Marsh, secretary of the Five Cents savings bank and son of Daniel J. Marsh, were quietly married at the home of the groom, 42 Maple street, at 6 last evening. The Episcopal service was used, Rev. J. C. Sharp, assistant rector of Christ Episcopal church, performing the ceremony. There had been planned to hold the wedding in New York city and the invitations had been issued, when Mr. Marsh was taken seriously ill with grip. It was seen that he would be unable to go to New York for the ceremony, and rather than postpone if the invitations were recalled and Miss Hall came to Springfield for the wedding. Her sister, Mrs. W. C. Marsh of Flagstaff avenue, went to New York, and both turned yesterday morning in company with an aunt, Mrs. Susan R. Peacocks. There was a bountiful display of American beauty roses, the gifts of many New York friends, about the Maple-street home when the service was begun yesterday afternoon. Mr. Marsh was far from well, but was able to be dressed and carried from his room down to the front parlor, where he sat during the ceremony. There were no attendants or music, and only relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh will make their home probably at The Oaks until they find a residence suited to their wishes. Mr. Marsh's Illness is not considered at all dangerous.

Miss Rosabella Virginia Bacon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bacon of No. 61 Trumbull street, and A. P. W. Malins were married at Christ Church at 8 o'clock, Wednesday evening, the occasion being the wedding of Arthur William Pearman Malins and Miss Rosabelle Virginia Bacon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bacon.

The Rev. James Goodwin, rector of the church, officiated, the beautiful Episcopal service (with ring) being most impressive throughout. During the occasion being the wedding of Arthur William Pearman Malins and Miss Rosabelle Virginia Bacon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Bacon.

Miss Edith Sherwood Hall, daughter of the late Dr. Charles W. Hall, formerly of Amherst, and Henry D. Marsh, secretary of the Five Cents savings bank and son of Daniel J. Marsh, were quietly married at the home of the groom, 42 Maple street, at 6 last evening. The Episcopal service was used, Rev. J. C. Sharp, assistant rector of Christ Episcopal church, performing the ceremony. There had been planned to hold the wedding in New York city and the invitations had been issued, when Mr. Marsh was taken seriously ill with grip. It was seen that he would be unable to go to New York for the ceremony, and rather than postpone if the invitations were recalled and Miss Hall came to Springfield for the wedding. Her sister, Mrs. W. C. Marsh of Flagstaff avenue, went to New York, and both turned yesterday morning in company with an aunt, Mrs. Susan R. Peacocks. There was a bountiful display of American beauty roses, the gifts of many New York friends, about the Maple-street home when the service was begun yesterday afternoon. Mr. Marsh was far from well, but was able to be dressed and carried from his room down to the front parlor, where he sat during the ceremony. There were no attendants or music, and only relatives were present. Mr. and Mrs. Marsh will make their home probably at The Oaks until they find a residence suited to their wishes. Mr. Marsh's Illness is not considered at all dangerous.
A business meeting of the members of the First Congregational Church was held last evening at which it was unanimously voted to extend a call to the Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt.

REV. MR. LEAVITT INSTALLED.

Willimantic, May 25.

The exercises which installed Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt as pastor of the First Congregational Church of this city, were held in the church this afternoon and evening. The council convened at 3 o’clock and was composed of the following churches: Columbia, South Coventry, Mansfield, Windham, Scotland, Pomfret, Chaplin, Putnam, Wauregan, Plainfield, Second Church of Hartford, Melrose Highlands Mass. Phillips Church of South Boston, Ithaca, N. Y., South Windsor and Danielson.

The session of the council organized by the election of Rev. S. Mathews of Danielson as moderator and Rev. C. B. MacDuffee of Windham Center, as scribe. The work of the council consisted in the examination of the candidate for installation, hearing the statement of belief and passing of a vote recommending him to the church as a suitable person to assume the duties of his pastoral charge and that he be installed as the pastor of the church.

At 5:30 o’clock a supper was served to the delegates and guests in the church parlors by the Ladies’ Society of the church.

The evening exercises began at 7:30 o’clock and notwithstanding the heat the large audience room was filled, the audience being composed of people from all denominations in the city and nearby communities.

The services were opened by an organ prelude, followed by an invocation by Rev. S. H. Fellows of Wauregan. Rev. Charles B. McDuffee, in a scribe of the council, read the minutes, which included the resolution passed by the council, recommending Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt for installation as pastor of the church.

The scripture reading was by Rev. J. H. Newland, pastor of the Methodist Church of this city. An impressively rendered solo, “Calvary,” was sung by Miss Dorothy MacGaffey Miller of Worcester, Mass.

Dr. E. P. Parker of Hartford delivered the installation sermon, speaking in part as follows:

There are cases, no doubt, when we may properly and praiseworthily say of persons that they are self-made and the architects of their own fortune. But frequently, if not generally, when we hear people boasting of themselves in that way, we are inclined to agree with them and to admit that, as they and their fortunes look, God has probably had little to do with this making up of themselves. With the making of others.

Your son goes out into the world, starts in business and begins to build his house and home; and how deeply you feel his mysterious dependence upon some higher than human guidance and protection. It may not be professionally religious, or much in the habit of audible prayer, but the deep, silent prayer of your heart is that God will direct his steps, and prosper his ways.

And your daughter goes forth, with her newly-wedded husband, to make a new home, and you move right into the spirit of our text, and say, perhaps, “Remember, dear child, that except the Lord build the house, they that build it labour in vain that build it; and except the Lord keep the city, the watchman watcheth in vain.”

But there is another side to this matter. There are cases, no doubt, when we may properly and praiseworthily say of persons that they are self-made and the architects of their own fortune. But frequently, if not generally, when we hear people boasting of themselves in that way, we are inclined to agree with them and to admit that, as they and their fortunes look, God has probably had little to do with this making up of themselves.

With the making of others.
CONCORD CHURCH
MAY GET PASTOR.

JANUARY 18, 1908.

HAS CALLED YOUNG WILLIAM-ACT MINISTER.

The Rev. A. D. Leavitt was given a standing ovation Saturday night at the council meeting of the young Congregational churches in the city, where it was announced that a young man named Mr. A. D. Leavitt had been called to be the pastor of the Congregational church in Concord.

For a year or more there has been a vacancy at the church in Concord, and the pastor had been a very young man. The church has been in a very critical condition, and the congregation had been very much disappointed in the pastorate, as they have been residents of this city for a vacation every summer.

A Lr. Leavitt was given a standing ovation Saturday night at the council meeting of the young Congregational churches in the city, where it was announced that a young man named Mr. A. D. Leavitt had been called to be the pastor of the Congregational church in Concord.

TREASURY MILLS TO CLOSE FOR A SHORT PERIOD.

( Special to The Courant.)

WILLIAM-MARKET, Jan. 18. Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt, master of the First Congregational Church in this city, yesterday morning received an official call to become the pastor of the First Congregational Church of Concord, N. H. The announcement was given at a meeting of the church council on Saturday night, when the Rev. A. D. Leavitt, as pastor of the church, will preside.

For a year or more there has been a vacancy at the church in Concord, and the congregation has been in a very critical condition, as they have been residents of the city for a vacation every summer. The congregation had been very much disappointed in the pastorate of the Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt, who is a very talented young man.

TREASURY MILLS TO CLOSE FOR A SHORT PERIOD.

The Rev. A. D. Leavitt of the First Congregational Church in Concord, N. H., was called to be the pastor of the church on Saturday night, when the Rev. A. D. Leavitt, as pastor of the church, will preside.

For a year or more there has been a vacancy at the church in Concord, and the congregation has been in a very critical condition, as they have been residents of the city for a vacation every summer. The congregation had been very much disappointed in the pastorate of the Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt, who is a very talented young man.

DINNER IN HONOR OF THE REV. MR. LEAVITT.

WILLIAM-MARKET, February 7.—As the next social effort of the board of trade, the Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt will be the guest of honor. The affair is to take the form of a complimentary dinner in Mr. Leavitt’s honor.

The Rev. Mr. Leavitt, who was appointed pastor of the First Congregational Church of Concord, N. H., is a former resident of this city, having been a member of the church for many years.

He has been closely connected with the church and its affairs for many years, and his name is well known in the community.

Rev. Mr. Leavitt, who is a very talented young man, is well known in the community, and his services have been very much appreciated.

Rev. Mr. Leavitt, who is a very talented young man, is well known in the community, and his services have been very much appreciated.

REV. ASHLEY D. LEAVITT.

WILLIAM-MARKET to Concord, New Hampshire: The Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt, who has been called to be the pastor of the First Congregational Church of Concord, N. H., has accepted the call and the congregation will hold a special meeting to welcome him.

The Rev. Mr. Leavitt, who is a very talented young man, is well known in the community, and his services have been very much appreciated.

He has been closely connected with the church and its affairs for many years, and his name is well known in the community.

Rev. Mr. Leavitt, who is a very talented young man, is well known in the community, and his services have been very much appreciated.

He has been closely connected with the church and its affairs for many years, and his name is well known in the community.
MR. LEAVITT RESIGNS.
MARCH 15, 1904.

ASSISTANT PASTOR OF THE SOUTH CHURCH TO LEAVE.

The annual meeting of the South Congregational Church, was held last evening and attended by a considerable number of prominent members, including ex-Governor Bulkeley, ex-Mayor Dwight, President G. F. Hills of the State Bank, President H. Knight of the First National Bank, Colonel C. M. Jostyn, W. E. Baker, Charles H. Northam, John T. Robinson, J. E. Morris and E. V. Mitchell. Colonel Jostyn presented and J. E. Morris acted as clerk. New members of the society were elected as follows:—

Clerk—John E. Morris.
Treasurer—Emerson F. Harrington.

Chairman Robinson of the committee took the floor and surprised many with the announcement that Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt, who has been assistant pastor of the South Congregational Church, will be unable to renew his relation of the church. Mr. Leavitt was mortified. As a result of the announcement, the committee asked Mr. Leavitt to present his resignation, and it was accepted.

Mr. Leavitt has rendered many valuable services to the church, and has been an acceptable addition to its parsonage. He has been a great help to the church and has been highly esteemed by its members. The church is much regretted to lose him, and hopes that he may continue to be an active member of the church in the future.

Ashley Day Leavitt, assistant to the pastor of the South Congregational Church, was ordained pastor at the South Church yesterday afternoon, at a council for the examination of the candidate met in the chapel of the South church at 3 o'clock, its members including the pastors and delegates from the Congregational churches in this city, South Windsor, and Rev. E. F. Leavitt of Melrose Highlands, and Rev. Dr. George R. Leavitt of Beloit, Wis., the former the father and the latter the uncle of the candidate for ordination.

Mr. Leavitt was ordained assistant pastor of the South Church, was held last evening and attended by a considerable number of prominent members, including ex-Governor Bulkeley, ex-Mayor Dwight, President G. F. Hills of the State Bank, President H. Knight of the First National Bank, Colonel C. M. Jostyn, W. E. Baker, Charles H. Northam, John T. Robinson, J. E. Morris and E. V. Mitchell. Colonel Jostyn presented and J. E. Morris acted as clerk. New members of the society were elected as follows:—

Clerk—John E. Morris.
Treasurer—Emerson F. Harrington.

Chairman Robinson of the committee took the floor and surprised many with the announcement that Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt, who has been assistant pastor of the South Congregational Church, will be unable to renew his relation of the church. Mr. Leavitt was mortified. As a result of the announcement, the committee asked Mr. Leavitt to present his resignation, and it was accepted.

Mr. Leavitt has rendered many valuable services to the church, and has been an acceptable addition to its parsonage. He has been a great help to the church and has been highly esteemed by its members. The church is much regretted to lose him, and hopes that he may continue to be an active member of the church in the future.

Ashley Day Leavitt, assistant to the pastor of the South Congregational Church, was ordained pastor at the South Church yesterday afternoon, at a council for the examination of the candidate met in the chapel of the South church at 3 o'clock, its members including the pastors and delegates from the Congregational churches in this city, South Windsor, and Rev. E. F. Leavitt of Melrose Highlands, and Rev. Dr. George R. Leavitt of Beloit, Wis., the former the father and the latter the uncle of the candidate for ordination.

Mr. Leavitt was ordained assistant pastor of the South Church, was held last evening and attended by a considerable number of prominent members, including ex-Governor Bulkeley, ex-Mayor Dwight, President G. F. Hills of the State Bank, President H. Knight of the First National Bank, Colonel C. M. Jostyn, W. E. Baker, Charles H. Northam, John T. Robinson, J. E. Morris and E. V. Mitchell. Colonel Jostyn presented and J. E. Morris acted as clerk. New members of the society were elected as follows:—

Clerk—John E. Morris.
Treasurer—Emerson F. Harrington.

Chairman Robinson of the committee took the floor and surprised many with the announcement that Rev. Ashley D. Leavitt, who has been assistant pastor of the South Congregational Church, will be unable to renew his relation of the church. Mr. Leavitt was mortified. As a result of the announcement, the committee asked Mr. Leavitt to present his resignation, and it was accepted.

Mr. Leavitt has rendered many valuable services to the church, and has been an acceptable addition to its parsonage. He has been a great help to the church and has been highly esteemed by its members. The church is much regretted to lose him, and hopes that he may continue to be an active member of the church in the future.
The charge to the pastor was by Rev. B. F. Leavitt of Melrose, Mass., his father. The sentiment of the charge was taken from the words of Paul, "We are ambassadors of Christ."

He illustrated his place as a counterpart of the representative of a government in a foreign country. As his duty as ambassador is to be in frequent communication with the home government, the charge was a whole-some and practical address for work in the ministry from a father to a son about the responsibilities of his first parish. Following the charge to the pastor Mrs. McTaggart Miller sang a solo.

The charge to the bride was by Rev. C. A. Dinsmore, the pastor of the church of South Boston, and formerly pastor of the church in this city.

The exercises were concluded at 9:20 o'clock by the singing of hymn No. 885 by the quartet and audience and a benediction by the new pastor.

LEAVITI-HART.

Willimantic Pastor, Formally of This City, Married Here.

Rev. Ashley Day Leavitt, pastor of the Willimantic Congregational Church and formerly assistant pastor of the South Congregational Church of this city, and Miss Myrtle Rose Hart, daughter of Leverett C. Hart of No 366 Garden street, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at No. 440 Albany avenue, the home of John Grant, a friend of the family. Rev. B. F. Leavitt of Melrose, Mass., father of the bridegroom, and Rev, H. K. Sherwood of the Windover Avenue Congregational Church performed the ceremony, in the presence of about seventy-five friends and relatives. Miss Maid Grant played the wedding march. The bride wore chiffon, trimmed with cream valle lace, and she was attended by her sister, Mrs. James W. Ward, as matron of honor, and by two bridesmaids, Miss Helen S. Rockwell of Frankfort Arsenal, Pa., and Miss Helen Leavitt, sister of the bridegroom. All wore organzine.

Rev. P. C. Walcott, assistant pastor of the Asylum Hill Congregational Church, was best man. Gold wheat was used for the decorations. After the ceremony a reception was held, at which the bride was assisted by the Misses Anna and Adelaide Kennedy of Kingston, N.Y., and Miss Mary Gray and Mrs. W. Frederick Grant of this city. After a wedding trip the couple will live at No. 34 Windham street, Willimantic.
SUNDAY was the hundredth birthday of Widow Mary Coleman Young who lives in Laconia, N. H. When a young girl she taught school. She was married in 1838; her husband died in 1870. After her marriage she was baptized in the Winnisogne River by a

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, TUESDAY, JUNE 2, 1903.

RUSSELL GOLDEN WEDDING.

Pleasant Anniversary of Veteran Machinist and His Wife.

Fifty years ago yesterday Mr and Mrs John W. Russell of 223 Allen street were married in this city, and the anniversary was celebrated at their home last evening with a large reception for their friends, more than 150 of whom gathered to offer their congratulations and to enjoy the evening. The weather yesterday was much like that on their wedding day, both being delightful summer days. The guests were received by Mr and Mrs Russell in the parlor of the house. In the evening, the room being attractively decorated with foliage and yellow flowers. The other rooms contained bouquets of flowers and potted palms. The white table linen and the decorations were out of many selections during the reception and while the guests were at supper. The supper was made by several of the guests, including Rev. L. J. Hale and Rev. Joseph Scott, both long-time friends of Mr Russell. Mr Russell's two sons, Charles and William, were in charge of the evening's entertainment, and it was carried off in a most satisfactory manner. Mr and Mrs Russell were presented with many gifts, including more than $100 in gold. Both are in excellent health and enjoyed the evening greatly.

John W. Russell is probably one of the oldest machinists in the city, having begun his apprenticeship at the trade more than 60 years ago, when he was only 15 years old. He was born in this city September 1, 1823, on Hickory street, not far from his present home. He is the son of Austin Russell, the family having descended from Rev. John Russell, who settled in Hadley about 1635. Mr Russell attended the Hadley schools in this city, but he was of a mechanical turn of mind, and left the high school at 16 and entered the shop of Oliver H. Armstrong, who was then working on South Main street, below York. When he was a young man he was a member of the Lion fire company, one of the organizations for fire protection in the city, having its headquarters on Mill street. The discovery of gold in California allured Mr Russell to that spot in 1849, and he was one of the party who went around the Horn on the ship Henry Lee, the voyage occupying no less than seven months.

In 1851, coming by way of the isthmus of Panama. While he was in California he built a desk in the city.

Mr Russell was satisfied to turn his attention again to mechanical work after his return to this city, and he opened a machine-shop on Taylor street, which he later moved to South Main street, where he did considerable business in making rifles and pistols for a New York firm. He was appointed a police officer under the administration of the city's second mayor, Phileas B. Taylor, in 1854, but he remained on the force only a year.

Mr Russell married his second wife soon after his return from California. Miss Russell was before marriage Miss Maria L. Smith, daughter of Philip Smith. She was born in Glastonbury, Ct., December 1, 1833, and when she was 10 years old her parents moved to Portland. Mr and Mrs Russell moved to this city some years later. Mrs Russell received most of her education in Portland, and soon after coming here she was married to Mr Russell. Owing to ill-health, Mr Russell disposed of his business in 1855 and bought a farm in Quincy, Wis., where the family lived for six years. Mr Russell was not able to leave his family to go to the war in 1861, but he helped to organize a company of the 4th Wisconsin regiment, which was composed largely of the lumbermen in the state. In 1861 the family came back to this city and for a year and a half Mr Russell was employed in the Watershops. In 1866 he formed a partnership with W. W. Day under the firm name of Russell & Day, and they established a machine-shop on corner of Water and Hampden streets, moving some years afterward to Taylor street, where the business continued until 1890. Mr Day continued to be a member of the firm until about 1885, when Mr Russell bought out his partner's interest. The business has been conducted successfully, and the concern is a prosperous one. Some years ago Mr Russell gave up the active management of the business, and it is now in the hands of his two sons, Charles and William, the only children surviving of a family of seven boys.

BAILEY—MORAN—Michael Angelo Bailey, M.D., and Louise Agnes Moran, daughter of the late John Moran, were married yesterday morning at St. Joseph's Cathedral. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Bishop Tierney, assisted by Very Rev. John Shinnott, vicar general, and by Rev. Dr. James P. Donovan, chancellor of the diocese. Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the bishop. The bride wore blue silk, with hat to match, and was attended by her sister, Miss Teresa Reilly Married by Bishop Tierney

JUNE 29, 1903.

Dr. Michael Angelo Bailey and Miss Julie Smith

104

A daughter was born Monday to Mr. and Mrs. George Bailey of No. 6 Church street, and Dr. Bailey is now celebrating his 50th year in the practice of medicine.
SEVENTIETH ANNIVERSARY.

Charles W. Hills Entertains a Large Party of Friends, May 2, 1903.

Charles W. Hills entertained a party of eighty friends and business associates at dinner at the Golden Grill last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Hills received guests at 10 o'clock, a literary program was a very appropriate feature of the occasion.

Mr. Hills, who recently presented Rev. Dr. McLean, pastor of the church, and his best man, Dr. Michael A. Donovan, his brother, were in attendance.

The bride was beautifully gowned in white crepe chiffon, trimmed with point d'esprit lace and orange blossoms. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas.

As the groom advanced to meet the bride, a merry little boy came from the vestry bearing a silver tray with the wedding ring.

The Right Rev. Bishop Tierney, vested in episcopal robes, performed the marriage ceremony. He was assisted by the Very Rev. Dr. J. F. Donovan, chancellor of the diocese.

Immediately after the marriage ceremony a high nuptial mass was celebrated during which the bride and groom took part.

The recessional was sung with great harmony and enthusiasm.

The Misses A. T. Murray, Miss Alice Cline, J. J. Lynch and Peter F. Radigio sang the bridal chorus, "Faithful and True," from Wagner's "Lohengrin.

It was beautifully sung, and as the last note was struck the vast congregation rose en masse, and remained standing while the bride passed up the aisle.

The procession was led by the ten ushers—Dr. Frank J. Bailey, Rev. Herbert Ballay, Dr. Daniel F. Sullivan, Dr. John D. Dowing, Dr. Edward F. Goich, Dr. Henry J. Plissin, Dr. Roger C. Downey, Dr. William Bonner, all of this city; Allen Gallpin Rice of Harvard university, 1902, and Ralph Winship Hooker of Springfield.

There came the maid of honor, Miss Susan Millman of Springfield, followed by the bride, Miss Reilly, and her mother.

At the altar the bride was met by the Rev. W. R. Ellis, the deacon, the Rev. Dr. J. J. Denson, the organist, and the Rev. W. J. Shamble, the rector of the church.

During the mass the following musical program was rendered:

Kyrie ..... Alex Gunnell
Glória ..... Misses M. & Coellers
M. Radigan, Mr. Lynch, Miss Murray Assisted by the Choir
Credo ..... A Lapowetz
Offertory—Away Maria ..... Dudley Buck
Miss A. T. Murray
Sanctus ..... J. Haydn
Agnus Dei ..... A Lapowetz

The music was under the direction of Mr. Caulfield, the organist of the church.

The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Murray, 61 Church street, and the guests were entertained with refreshments at 2:30.

Mr. Hills has been president of the New England Undertakers' Association for many years, and has been a charter member of the Connecticut association. He is a member of Hartford Lodge, No. 7, A. F. and A. M., Hartford Lodge, No. 82, I. O. O. F., Crescent Lodge, No. 7, F. & A. M., Charter Oak Council, No. 3, O. U. A. M., and the Framington Orde of Connecticut.

He is also a trustee of the First Methodist Church. Mr. Hills was married to Miss Margaret F. Spencer of Old Saybrook forty-five years ago last Thanksgiving Day, and have two children living, Mrs. Carrie E. Marchant, the wife of William F. Marchant, Mr. Hills's business partner, and Ernest S. Hills, employed by the Dwight Slate Machine Company. Mr. Hills has three granddaughters, two girls and a boy, children of Ernest S. Hills. Mr. Hills has been in the undertaking business for forty-five years and has lived in this city all his life, with the exception of his boyhood and early manhood.
Deserted Ten Years After Wedding, Richard C.
Lincoln Tells Court.

Richard C. Lincoln, who lives at
No. 58 Niles street, was divorced from Grace M. Spear Lincoln of this city, by Judge Howard J. Curtis in the superior court yesterday. They were married in Hartford on June 2, 1903, and Mr. Lincoln charged his wife deserted him about a week before Christmas, 1913. For a time after they were married they lived in the home of Mrs. Lincoln's father, and after that they moved to a house owned by Mrs. Lincoln on Girard avenue. Lincoln told the judge that he and his wife got along fairly well, but the marriage was not a particularly happy one, and Mrs. Lincoln had told him she never loved him.

Mrs. Lincoln will have the custody of a child born of the marriage on April 11, 1904. Mr. Lincoln will have the privilege of seeing the child twice a month. The judge was told that since the separation Mr. Lincoln has contributed $60 each month towards the support of the child.

Miss Helen Roberts, daughter of George Roberts, of this city, and her friend, Miss Helen Chase of Boston, who has recently been visiting here,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the

Miss Helen Chase of Boston,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday
afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the

Miss Helen Chase of Boston,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday
afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the

Miss Helen Chase of Boston,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday
afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the

Miss Helen Chase of Boston,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday
afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the

Miss Helen Chase of Boston,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday
afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the

Miss Helen Chase of Boston,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday
afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the

Miss Helen Chase of Boston,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday
afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the

Miss Helen Chase of Boston,
had a miraculous escape from death
at Fort Hamilton, New York, Tuesday
afternoon, when they were dragged
over the edge of a seventy-five-foot embankment by a pair of runaway army
horses. They
tery reservation.

Greenough, the
Chase is the o
The young morning drive
plants, behind a
furnished y
Michael C. non coast artillery. The carriage
surrey with a t
On the way quay
the horse in Fort Hamil
lost control of
down the aver
century house
a bad matter of
the reins and
grabbed it hold,
too, and stood up
strength while
other line.
Their might ha
the Shore road
side and saved on
the embank
broad curve
balls. Policeman R
the runaway,
saving them

in the horses j
the carriage
saw him and
would be killed of
them at the
At any rate,
they all stopp
as to prevent into
him, and ahead toward
the end of the
the cannon ball
road. Riley w
horses

The horses
surrey went it
was stray, and
and some reins,
horses, and over
the
The mantel was banked with white roses.

He spent four months in the hospital and six months in Europe. He sailed last Sunday on the American liner Saint Louis, and will probably locate in Hartford.

APRIL 21, 1902.

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Brainard of Bristol, son of Dr. Irving E. Brainard of Bristol, Yale Medical School, '02, as best man. The ushers were Howard P. Belden of Chicago and A. William Sporl of New Haven. There was a wedding reception at 7:30 when Hatch's Orchestra played the bridal music from "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the former before and the latter after the ceremony. There was also appropriate music during the ceremony. Many presents showed the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. Dr. Brainard and Mrs. Brainard are now on their wedding trip and will return they will live at No. 2 Garden street, where they will be at home on the first and third Thursdays in October.

Dr. and Mrs. Brainard "at home."

Dr. and Mrs. C. Brewster Brainard of No. 2 Garden street held their first "at home," Thursday afternoon and evening. The occasion was a delightful social event. The reception room was decorated with roses, carnations and pink dahlias. In the wedding music from "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the former before and the latter after the ceremony. There was also appropriate music during the ceremony. Many presents showed the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. Dr. Brainard and Mrs. Brainard are now on their wedding trip and will return they will live at No. 2 Garden street, where they will be at home on the first and third Thursdays in October.

Dr. and Mrs. Brainard "at home."

Dr. and Mrs. C. Brewster Brainard of No. 2 Garden street held their first "at home," Thursday afternoon and evening. The occasion was a delightful social event. The reception room was decorated with roses, carnations and pink dahlias. In the wedding music from "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the former before and the latter after the ceremony. There was also appropriate music during the ceremony. Many presents showed the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. Dr. Brainard and Mrs. Brainard are now on their wedding trip and will return they will live at No. 2 Garden street, where they will be at home on the first and third Thursdays in October.

Dr. and Mrs. Brainard "at home."

Dr. and Mrs. C. Brewster Brainard of No. 2 Garden street held their first "at home," Thursday afternoon and evening. The occasion was a delightful social event. The reception room was decorated with roses, carnations and pink dahlias. In the wedding music from "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the former before and the latter after the ceremony. There was also appropriate music during the ceremony. Many presents showed the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. Dr. Brainard and Mrs. Brainard are now on their wedding trip and will return they will live at No. 2 Garden street, where they will be at home on the first and third Thursdays in October.

Dr. and Mrs. Brainard "at home."

Dr. and Mrs. C. Brewster Brainard of No. 2 Garden street held their first "at home," Thursday afternoon and evening. The occasion was a delightful social event. The reception room was decorated with roses, carnations and pink dahlias. In the wedding music from "Lohengrin" and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March," the former before and the latter after the ceremony. There was also appropriate music during the ceremony. Many presents showed the esteem in which the bride and groom are held. Dr. Brainard and Mrs. Brainard are now on their wedding trip and will return they will live at No. 2 Garden street, where they will be at home on the first and third Thursdays in October.

Dr. and Mrs. Brainard "at home."
June 8

Miss Grace Arlene Lincoln, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Lincoln of No. 49 Maple avenue, Willimantic, and Dr. Irving DeLooes Blanchard of this city, were married at the home of the bride's parents at 7 o'clock last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. A. George of that city, in the presence of the immediate relatives. The bride was dressed in white crepe de chine over white silk, with lace trimmings, and wore a veil. The floral decorations were potted plants and laurel. The guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Blanchard of Bridgeport, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Blanchard of Waterbury, Mr. and Mrs. D. W. W. Tolhurst of Southington and Mrs. C. B. Rood of Dorchester, Mass.

The bride is a graduate of the Willimantic High School and the state Normal School and has for the past two years been teaching in the Brown School in Hartford. Following the ceremony a wedding lunch was served and at 3:50 p.m. Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard left for this city, where they are to make their home.

June 9

At No. 119 Jefferson street, Wednesday evening, an attractive wedding took place, when Miss Marion Cromwell Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. George of that city, and Mrs. E. H. Williams and William Church Tolhurst were married. The Rev. Dr. William H. Main, pastor of the South Baptist church, performed the ceremony, which was witnessed by the families of the bride and groom. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and cut-flowers, and over the improvised altar hung a marriage bell of doves. The maid of honor was Miss Maude Ebloe McCue of this city and the ushers were Herbert A. Wiley and Seymour E. Williams, a brother of the bride. Charles H. Miner of New York played and sang at the reception, which followed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white silk crepe de chine, with lace trimmings over a white taffeta slip. She wore a bouquet of white sweet peas. Mr. and Mrs. Tolhurst left for a wedding trip Wednesday night, and will be at home after September 1, at the Linden. Mrs. Tolhurst is the soprano of the choir of the Calvary Baptist church New Haven, in which the Rev. Dr. Ferris officiates, and will continue to sing there. Among the guests from out of town were William H. Graham and Mrs. Alice Graham of New Haven, the latter a sister of the bride, and their daughter, Miss Lois Graham.

June 10

The wedding of Miss Martha Schulz, daughter of Mrs. Matilda Schulz, and Henry R. Sedgwick took place at the home of the bride, No. 42 Madison street, at 7 o'clock, Wednesday evening. The ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. Herbert A. Baker, assistant pastor of church, was witnessed only by the relatives of the bride and groom.

Miss Schulz wore a gown of gray crepe de chine, and the bride was trimmed with chiffon. She was unattended, as was the groom.

After the ceremony a reception was held. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Sedgwick will live at No. 22 Maple avenue.
June Cooley-Coffin, 3, 1903.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 3, 1903

Miss Marjorie Cochrane Becomes the Wife of Francis Murray Forbes at Noon Today

—Fashionable Company Present

Those who gathered at Trinity Church at noon today for the wedding of Miss Marjorie Cochrane and Mr. Francis Murray Forbes, participated in the most exquisite and most elaborate functions of its kind that have taken place in this city in a long time, besides being the first marriage in the fashionable set to take place this month. The decorations of the church were on a most elaborate scale, and sitting in the large auditorium, one easily could imagine that the ceremony was taking place at Necesso, so abundantly was the interior adorned with flowers and greenery. On the communion table was an enormous mound of white peonies, while the stone road in front of the choir stalls as well as the chancel rail, were thickly festooned with snow balls and gariands of laurel. Down the entire length of the main aisle were large clusters of Ascension lilies tied with broad white ribbons, and as the bride and her attendants passed up between these hedges of white the scene was one of great beauty.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Cochrane of 257 Commonwealth avenue, and the bridegroom, who is prominent in real estate circles, a member of the Boston Athletic Association, and a graduate of Harvard, class of 96, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis B. Forbes of 65 Marlboro street.

The bride, who was escorted to the chancel by her father, wore a magnificent gown of white satin with a profusion of point lace. Her veil was fastened with a coronet of lilies of the valley, and in her unglove she carried a large bouquet of the same flowers. At her throat was a beautiful diamond sunburst, which was her only ornament. Directly preceding her in the wedding party was Miss Marjorie Cochrane, her sister, who acted as maid of honor. Her gown was of white chiffon with lace insertion, and a lace coat. She wore a large hat with white plumes. The bridesmaids were Miss Ethel Forbes, a sister of the bridegroom; Miss Lena Stevenson, Miss Elizabeth Wells and Miss Mary Curtis. They all were gowned similarly to the maid of honor, except for pale green rosettes at the front of the gowns, which gave just the right touch of color.

The ushers, who proceeded up the side aisles, instead of making up the immediate wedding procession, were Mr. Robert Cassatt of Philadelphia, Mr. John Warren, Mr. George T. Rice, Mr. Harry H. Amory, Mr. A. Frazier, Mr. T. D. Cochrane, brother of the bride; Mr. Hugh D. Scott, Mr. James Grant Forbes, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Howard S. Russell.

Arriving at the chancel steps, the bridal party was met by the bridegroom, attended by Mr. C. Stewart Forbes. The ceremony was performed by Rev. E. Winchester Donald, D.D., rector of the church. At the conclusion of the wedding the immediate members of the Cochrane and Forbes families, the bridesmaids and ushers, were driven to the Cochrane residence where a wedding breakfast was served. The church ceremony was witnessed by a very large company, among whom were numbers of all the leading Boston families.
The wedding of Frederick Charles Marcom of Cincinnati, formerly of Hartford, and Miss Anna Sparker Hastings of Covington, Ky., took place at the bride's home on Wednesday evening, June 6.

The engagement is announced of Mrs. Lucy Hayden, widow of Joseph L. Hayden, and Ralph Tainter of New York. Mr. Tainter is a well known New York publisher and was a cousin of Mr. Hayden. He is a widower and has a son and daughter, Mrs. Hayden has two sons, Giles Ward, who is in the marine purchasing department of the "Consolidated" road in New York, and Joseph L., a senior in Dr. Holmes' school in Ossining, N. Y.

Mrs. Lucy Hayden, widow of Joseph L. Hayden, and Ralph Tainter of New York were married at Mrs. Hayden's home in this place this afternoon at 1 o'clock by Rev. Edward E. Bacon of the First Congregational Church. Only the immediate family were present at the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Tainter left on an afternoon express for a short trip, after which they will make their home in Old Saybrook. In connection with this marriage, Mr. Tainter is engaged in the publishing business in New York.

CHOSEN SECOND VICE-PRESIDENT.

William E. Ingersoll Now Holds That Position in the New York Life Insurance Company. One of the best representatives of American business in the city is Messrs. Ingersoll & Co., who are identified with the New York Life Insurance Company, and whose business is conducted on a large scale. Mr. Ingersoll has a wide acquaintance on the continent, and he and Mrs. Ingersoll entertain many European as well as American guests in their charming home in the rue Galliera, In the best residence district in Paris.

JOSEPH HODGES CHAOTE, 3D, IS CHRISTENED.

That little Joseph Hodges Choute, 3d, was christened on Sunday afternoon, September 22, and that J. Pierpont Morgan was a godfather, is known to all the readers of Stockbridge yesterday. The ceremony took place in St. Paul's Episcopal church, with Rev. Thomas H. Yardley presiding. The other godfather was Carl A. DeGersdorf, and Mrs. DeGersdorf was godmother. Mr. Morgan left a gold spoon as a gift for the boy, who was born in New York February 22 last. The child is the only grandson and namesake of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choute. Among those who attended the christening besides the boy’s parents and grandparents, was Mr. Lanier, who was Mr. Morgan’s host.

Miss Mabel Choate, sister of the bride, was christened on Sunday afternoon, September 22, and that J. Pierpont Morgan was a godfather, is known to all the readers of Stockbridge yesterday. The ceremony took place in St. Paul’s Episcopal church, with Rev. Thomas H. Yardley presiding. The other godfather was Carl A. DeGersdorf, and Mrs. DeGersdorf was godmother. Mr. Morgan left a gold spoon as a gift for the boy, who was born in New York February 22 last. The child is the only grandson and namesake of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Choute. Among those who attended the christening besides the boy’s parents and grandparents, was Mr. Lanier, who was Mr. Morgan’s host.

OLIVER-COULIET WEDDING.

Miss Cora Lyman Oliver, daughter of Brig.-Gen. Robert Shaw Oliver of Albany, N. Y., was married at noon yesterday at Albany, June 6.—One of the most fashionable weddings of the season takes place to-day, in Albany. It is that of Miss Cora Oliver, daughter of Gen. and Mrs. Robert Shaw Oliver, and Joseph H. Choute, Jr., son of the ambassador to Great Britain.

Set for noon in St. Peter’s Church, it brings to this city a throng of well-known people from New York and elsewhere.

The decorations include a profusion of roses, lilies and wild flowers. The altar, especially, is arranged with a mass of white flowers, and about the chancel are a number of tall plants.

The bride chose for her attendants Miss Mabel Choute, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Mary Bowditch and her two sisters, Miss Elizabeth Oliver and Miss Marion Oliver. There is no maid of honor.

Most of the bridegroom’s attendants are from New York. They are his cousin, George B. de Gerlafork, the best man, and as ushers, Bayard Cutting, Elliott Tuckermab, Francis Kincault, R. Monroe Ferguson, J. Palmer Welch, William Woodward and Frederick Swift, all of New York; Penrose Hallowell and Malcolm Donald, of Boston; and Harry Bowditch, of Albany.

The bride’s gown is of white satin trimmed with old point lace, with a face veil doubled with orange blossoms and a diamond ornament. The bridesmaids’ costume is of white and pink, with large white lace hats, trimmed with plumes. All their bouquets are of roses, tied with long floating satin ribbons.

After the ceremony there is to be a large luncheon and a breakfast served at the Oliver home, 42 Willet street. Here, as at the church, there will be a superb display of flowers, and there will be music.

Miss Choute expects to take his bride to Europe, and they may be absent until the fall. When they return they expect to make their home in Paris.

Viscountess Glenworth, who had her 100th birthday recently at her home in England, is the lady to whom Disraeli referred when he wrote to his sister in 1856: “My old friend Pery, in the shape of Lord Glenworth, is going to be married to Maria Villebois—a fortunate woman, I think, to find herself a countess after all.”

But Lord Glenworth, who had only a courtesy title, died a few weeks before his grandfather, the earl of Limerick, and 65 years ago Disraeli again wrote: “The lady survives, but does not find herself a countess after all.” She retained her courtesy title, however, even after her second marriage.

Miss Gertrude Ware of this city is a winner of one of the annual scholarships awarded by the authorities of the teachers college connected with Colgate University.

Special undergraduate scholarships, value $100 each, Gertrude Ware of the British Normal School and Anna Mansfield Clark of Salisbury.
MISS PORTER'S SCHOOL.

Dr. Keep rejects plan for Board of Trustees.

Miss Porter's school is in a state of flux.

The school of Farmington, as long known as Miss Porter's, has undergone a change in its leadership.

Dr. R. P. Keep, who took over the school, has decided to change the management.

The school will be run by a new set of trustees, who will be appointed by Dr. Keep.

Dr. Keep's decision has been made after much discussion with the advisory board.

The new trustees will be appointed soon, and the school will be under new management.

The school's history and traditions will continue, but with new leadership.

The school's future is uncertain, but change is inevitable.

FARMINGTON.

Dr. Robert P. Keep and Mrs. Keep opened the school.

The school's history and traditions will continue, but with new leadership.

The school's future is uncertain, but change is inevitable.

FARMINGTON.

Dr. Robert P. Keep and Mrs. Keep opened the school.

The school's history and traditions will continue, but with new leadership.

The school's future is uncertain, but change is inevitable.

MISS PORTER'S SCHOOL.

Regrettable outcome of negotiations.

Mrs. Dow leaves—Petitions of Parents, Clapson and Peet.

The many friends of Miss Mary E. Dow and of Miss Porter's School in Farmington will regret to learn that conditions have developed which have made her feel that it is impossible for her to remain in the institution which her organizing skill and personal influence have done so much to make what it has become.

There have been consultations and conferences and many efforts to bring about a settlement of the question at issue between herself and Dr. R. P. Keep, and it seemed recently as if this might be reached, but letters written yesterday closed the speculation, and Mrs. Dow's resignation was therefore declared to be final.

Mrs. Dow has been more than a teacher in the school. She is the founder, and has often been called the guiding spirit of it.

It is said that her presence has given the school a strong backing and offers a c

A friend of Mrs. Dow discussing the situation yesterday said that there was no gradual until finally Mrs. Dow wrote and asked if it was intended to make Mrs. Dow the "head of the school." The school is to be managed by itself, and the school's history and traditions will continue, but with new leadership.

The school's future is uncertain, but change is inevitable.

FARMINGTON.

Dr. Robert P. Keep and Mrs. Keep opened the school.

The school's history and traditions will continue, but with new leadership.

The school's future is uncertain, but change is inevitable.

MISS PORTER'S SCHOOL.

Regrettable outcome of negotiations.

Mrs. Dow leaves—Petitions of Parents, Clapson and Peet.

The many friends of Miss Mary E. Dow and of Miss Porter's School in Farmington will regret to learn that conditions have developed which have made her feel that it is impossible for her to remain in the institution which her organizing skill and personal influence have done so much to make what it has become.

There have been consultations and conferences and many efforts to bring about a settlement of the question at issue between herself and Dr. R. P. Keep, and it seemed recently as if this might be reached, but letters written yesterday closed the speculation, and Mrs. Dow's resignation was therefore declared to be final.

Mrs. Dow has been more than a teacher in the school. She is the founder, and has often been called the guiding spirit of it.

It is said that her presence has given the school a strong backing and offers a c

A friend of Mrs. Dow discussing the situation yesterday said that there was no gradual until finally Mrs. Dow wrote and asked if it was intended to make Mrs. Dow the "head of the school." The school is to be managed by itself, and the school's history and traditions will continue, but with new leadership.

The school's future is uncertain, but change is inevitable.

FARMINGTON.

Dr. Robert P. Keep and Mrs. Keep opened the school.

The school's history and traditions will continue, but with new leadership.

The school's future is uncertain, but change is inevitable.

MISS PORTER'S SCHOOL.

Regrettable outcome of negotiations.

Mrs. Dow leaves—Petitions of Parents, Clapson and Peet.

The many friends of Miss Mary E. Dow and of Miss Porter's School in Farmington will regret to learn that conditions have developed which have made her feel that it is impossible for her to remain in the institution which her organizing skill and personal influence have done so much to make what it has become.

There have been consultations and conferences and many efforts to bring about a settlement of the question at issue between herself and Dr. R. P. Keep, and it seemed recently as if this might be reached, but letters written yesterday closed the speculation, and Mrs. Dow's resignation was therefore declared to be final.

Mrs. Dow has been more than a teacher in the school. She is the founder, and has often been called the guiding spirit of it.

It is said that her presence has given the school a strong backing and offers a c

A friend of Mrs. Dow discussing the situation yesterday said that there was no gradual until finally Mrs. Dow wrote and asked if it was intended to make Mrs. Dow the "head of the school." The school is to be managed by itself, and the school's history and traditions will continue, but with new leadership.

The school's future is uncertain, but change is inevitable.
FARMINGTON-ON-HUDSON.

Success of the Old Farmington School at Briarcliff.

(Special to The Commercial.)

Farmington girls back from Briarcliff were highly enthusiastic about the prospects for the new buildings for the Farmington school. Dr. Keep's daughter has just returned from a visit to the new buildings, which are now being built.

The school has been designed by architect Charles L. Stickney, who is well known in the architectural world. The buildings are being constructed of brick and will be capable of expansion as needed. The school will have a capacity of 200 students and will include classrooms, a library, a gymnasium, and a auditorium. The buildings will be completed by the end of the school year, and the school will open in the fall of 1922.

The Farmington people are very much pleased with the new school and are looking forward to its opening with great anticipation.

April 21, 1904.

The FARMINGTON SCHOOL.

To the Editor of The Republican:

An article in the Herald-American of the 9th, stating that a recent attempt had been made by Miss Sarah Porter to give the old "Farmington School" a new lease on life, and may she be only too happy if the old "Farmington School" is placed in the hands of the trustees of the late Miss Porter, was the greater part of the school, and also the whole article was based upon the assumption that the school should be maintained by the trustees of the late Miss Porter, and in accordance with their wishes.

I have, therefore, no doubt that Dr. Keep is correct in his conclusion that the news is correct, and that the old "Farmington School" will be continued to be maintained by the trustees of the late Miss Porter, and in accordance with her wishes.

I also have no doubt that Dr. Keep is correct in his conclusion that the news is correct, and that the old "Farmington School" will be continued to be maintained by the trustees of the late Miss Porter, and in accordance with her wishes.

The very object and endeavor of Dr. Keep is to maintain the school as the one down below by Miss Porter. Mr. Allis, (who has charge of the old "Farmington School") and one of the trustees, proved that the school was no longer, but that Miss Porter is in the future, as in the past, a large place in the town. Hope had been entertained that Dr. Keep and Mrs. Dow stood to have offered to buy the whole lot of the school, and that Miss Porter in her will expressly states her regard for and recommendations of the school.

The committee proposed by Mrs. Dow and the three others to be appointed by Dr. Keep and Mrs. Keep is to maintain the school. Whatever pledges were made by the pupils before withdrawing from Farmington school were made voluntarily and were accepted as they were given.

In one respect the news is bad, as it would be regrettable if the school should be closed. The very object and endeavor of Dr. Keep is to maintain the school as the one down below by Miss Porter. Mr. Allis, (who has charge of the old "Farmington School") and one of the trustees, proved that the school was no longer, but that Miss Porter is in the future, as in the past, a large place in the town. Hope had been entertained that Dr. Keep and Mrs. Dow stood to have offered to buy the whole lot of the school, and that Miss Porter in her will expressly states her regard for and recommendations of the school.
The Farmington school.

To the Editor of The Courant:

I have received a marked copy of the report of the " advisory board" of Dr. Keep's school in this town, and think you might be publishing it in your newspaper. I ask the opinions of those people who are always advisable. It seems fair to consider that Mrs. Dow's withdrawal should have been " unexpected," for Dr. Keep had not only been, as he himself put it, "imposing" her for a year or two, but he had written to her that she was " doing well," and she had told him so, and he could not adjust her to the situation. It was really a fine article, and seemed to confirm the common rumor that he had sold appointments for positions that he was keeping " in trust," but she was not to stay long.

The offer made by Mr. F. P. Pease, Judge Blumfield, Mr. Thacher, Mr. Green and Mr. Knowles was that Dr. Keep and the trustees, Mr. Allen, should be two trustees, that Mr. Thacher, and Mr. Green and Mr. Knowles and others, and that these four should select other trustees. It is hard to see how this could have been hazardous for the school, since each of the "strangers" had had daughters in the school and the wives of two of them were former teachers. It is not known that Dr. Keep asked "further than" after the petition was made, and, of course accidentally, the time was lost by long negotiations of most of the gentlemen who, while leaving at the school, many belonging might naturally wish to return there. Mrs. Dow had been back in Paris until she had thought it necessary, but that has not been a practical solution for every school and every family. She must have known that she would take care of her. The "happy company" that make the "success" are understood to number from Miss Dow to the trustees.

Farmington, Nov. 4, 1903.

Parent.
She Seeks Divorce from Her Husband, a Naval Officer.

Mrs. Belle Bemis Barber, wife of Surgeon George Holcomb Barber, U. S. N., has brought suit in the supreme court in New York for a divorce. Mrs. Barber asks that a divorce be granted because of intimacy on the part of her husband with Miss Louise Walker, who lives near Winchester, Va., and who was a bridesmaid when Mr. and Mrs. Barber were married in Washington in December, 1895.

Dr. Barber is a native of Glastonbury in this state and in 1899 he brought an action in the superior court of this county, claiming a divorce from his wife on the ground of habitual intemperance. The case was not heard for many months after it was returned to court and under an order of the court Dr. Barber paid his wife $100 to enable her to employ counsel to defend, and while the action was pending he, for several months, had to pay his wife $70 a month while he was doing duty at sea and $60 a month while he was doing land duty. Mrs. Barber was represented by counsel when the case came up for trial and she denied the allegation of her husband. Judge Prentice, who heard the case, gave judgment for Mrs. Barber and dismissed the case, and Dr. Barber took an appeal to the supreme court. On June 9, 1899, the supreme court gave a decision confirming the decision of Judge Prentice.

Dr. Barber is now stationed at Coaster's Harbor, Narragansett, R. I., and Mrs. Barber is living with her mother at Glastonbury where Barber was born, for their honeymoon, but in a few weeks he was ordered to sea. He served on the Glacier in the war during the Spanish war, and was then sent to the Annapolis academy. Miss Walker lived with the Barbers from December, 1897, until February, 1898. About 1899 Barber's grandmother died at Glastonbury, leaving him $50,000 in cash and a large country residence, and shortly afterward he began an action in the superior court here for a divorce, alleging that his wife was habitually intemperate. The suit was tried in March, 1900, and resulted in a victory for Mrs. Barber. She testified that in February, 1900, when she returned to her "corral" at Annapolis one day, she found the door of their apartment locked, and on its being opened, later, Dr. Barber and Miss Walker came out.

Dr. Barber appealed from the decision of the superior court, but was again defeated in the supreme court. Since then the Barbers have not lived together, the husband allowing his wife $50 a month for her maintenance.
Kellogg-Williams.

The First Congregational church in Glastonbury was filled with society people, Tuesday evening, to witness the wedding of Miss Helen Louise Williams, oldest daughter of David W. Williams of Glastonbury, and George Aaron Kellogg of Vernon. The bride and the groom have a wide circle of friends and the potential in society. Miss Williams is a graduate of Wellesley in the class of 1901, and Mr. Kellogg is the United States referee in bankruptcy for Hartford and Tolland counties. He is a graduate of Amherst in the class of 1892, and of the Yale law school, in that of 1891. The church was magnificently decorated with laurel and daisies. A large screen composed chiefly of laurel concealed the front of the organ. The pillars under the galleries were wound with daisies, giving a solid effect of blossoms. On the end of the pews at each side, bunches of daisies, tied with satin ribbon, were placed and running the entire length of the two sides of the middle aisle were arranged daisies extending along the ends of the pews, in which were interwoven daisies, giving in the presence of a daisy rose.

The ceremony was at 7 o'clock. The six bridesmaids, Miss Anne S. Williams, Miss Isabel D. Seelye, Miss Mildred Kellogg, Miss Mary P. Williams, Miss Katherine R. Page, Wellesley, 1903, Miss Henrietta R. Page, Wellesley, 1903, Misses Wellesley, Mass., and Miss Ethel Bowman, Wellesley, 1903, of Boston, entered the auditorium of the church from the small rooms on both sides of the middle aisle was white satin ribbon, were placed and running the entire length of the two sides of the middle aisle were arranged daisies, giving in the presence of a daisy rose.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George F. Waters, pastor of the church, assisted by the Rev. Joseph B. Callums, Boston, New York, and the Revs. Dr. H. S. Fuller, G. G. Williams and J. B. Callums. The bridesmaids were dressed in white muslin, with shirred waist, sleeveless gowns, and carried shower bouquet of white sweet peas. The bridesmaids were dressed in white muslin, and carried shower bouquet of white sweet peas.

As the bridal party left the altar, offertory—"Hesse de Marriage" Dubois, and Mrs. Markham, C. S. Williams and Dr. Taintor, and Mrs. Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hooker. Others present were Deputy Internal Revenue Collector W. B. Sprague of Andover, George F. Williams of Rockville, former Attorney-General Charles Phelps and Mrs. Phelps of Rockville, the Rev. W. H. Field, and Mrs. Field of Hartford, Mrs. J. Eugene Tucker presided at the organ and previous to the marriage ceremony gave the following selections:

Offertory—"Messe de Mariage," Dubois
Betrothals, acte devoute des Mariés, Thomas Becque from "Jocelyn,
Nocturne from "Midsummer Night's Dream" A. Guilmant
"Cavalleria Rusticana" Mascagni
"Berceuse" A. Guilmant

Among these present from Hartford were Judge Dwight Leominster, Hon. J. R. Buck and Mrs. Buck, Representative E. J. Lake and Mrs. Lake, Judge J. E. Taintor and the Hon. Dr. H. S. Fuller; G. G. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Judge D. A. Markham and Mrs. Markham, C. S. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hooker. Among those present from Lowell were Judge Dwight Leominster, Hon. J. R. Buck and Mrs. Buck, Representative E. J. Lake and Mrs. Lake, Judge J. E. Taintor and the Hon. Dr. H. S. Fuller; G. G. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Judge D. A. Markham and Mrs. Markham, C. S. Williams and Mrs. Williams, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hooker, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hooker. Others present were Deputy Internal Revenue Collector W. B. Sprague of Andover, George F. Williams of Rockville, former Attorney-General Charles Phelps and Mrs. Phelps of Rockville, the Rev. W. H. Field, and Mrs. Field of Hartford, Mrs. J. Eugene Tucker presided at the organ and previous to the marriage ceremony gave the following selections:

Offertory—"Messe de Mariage" Dubois
Betrothals, acte devoute des Mariés, Thomas Becque from "Jocelyn"
Nocturne from "Midsummer Night's Dream" A. Guilmant
"Cavalleria Rusticana" Mascagni
"Berceuse" A. Guilmant
The newly completed residence of William B. Green on Steele road, West Hartford, is one of the most artistic dwellings recently erected. Russell F. Barker was architect and Wilbur A. Wilcox, builder.
The Hartford Times

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1903.

Chess by Wireless Telegraphy.

Lucius Hudson Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Holt, of No. 149 High street, this city, who returned, this week, with his bride, from Europe, was one of a party of four in the Kroonland who played a game of chess by wireless telegraphy with a party on board the Philadelphia, also bound home. Mr. Holt gave a very interesting account of his trip. He said that both vessels were equipped with the Marconi system, the study of any interest developed by their use.

Captain Patrick A. Farrell of Company E, First Regiment, C. N. G., and Miss Mary Elizabeth Gaffey, daughter of Mrs. Rose Gaffey of Center street, were married, this morning, in St. Patrick’s church. The Rev. William H. Flynn of Stamford, brother of Fire Commissioner Flynn of this city, and Chaplain of Company B, First Regiment, and the Rev. A. E. F. Parker, pastor of the church, celebrated the nuptial mass and performed the marriage ceremony. William R. Barrett was best man and a friend of the bride, sister of the bride, was bridesmaid.

The bride’s dress was of gray crepe, trimmed with lace, and the bridesmaid wore a dress of blue crepe, also trimmed with lace. Among those in the bridal party were F. P. Holt of the City, and Professor E. H. Potter of New Haven.

HOLT’S SON QUOTED IN WEST POINT REPORT

Lucius Hudson Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Holt, of No. 149 High street, this city, who returned, this week, with his bride, from Europe, was one of a party of four in the Kroonland who played a game of chess by wireless telegraphy with a party on board the Philadelphia, also bound home. Mr. Holt gave a very interesting account of his trip. He said that both vessels were equipped with the Marconi system, the study of any interest developed by their use.

Lucius Hudson Holt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred P. Holt, of No. 149 High street, this city, who returned, this week, with his bride, from Europe, was one of a party of four in the Kroonland who played a game of chess by wireless telegraphy with a party on board the Philadelphia, also bound home. Mr. Holt gave a very interesting account of his trip. He said that both vessels were equipped with the Marconi system, the study of any interest developed by their use.

A son was born Friday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Billings, and is at present taking a position as a student at the Military Academy at West Point. The child is the first male child born to the parents, and is expected to become a fine soldier.

Local military men have received copies of the annual report of the superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point. The report, which is of interest to all officers, also includes a special report on the study of English and history at the Academy. The West Point course includes natural and experimental philosophy, political and military history, and literature. The curriculum includes a new mathematics course. Drawing and mathematics courses are repeated in English and history courses, which are largely increased. The course in law and history is largely increased. The course in law and history is largely increased.

The report includes an extract by the professor of English and history, Dr. H. H. Holt, a son of Miss Mary E. Billings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Billings, and is at present taking a position as a student at the Military Academy at West Point. The child is the first male child born to the parents, and is expected to become a fine soldier.

A son was born Friday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Billings, and is at present taking a position as a student at the Military Academy at West Point. The child is the first male child born to the parents, and is expected to become a fine soldier.

Local military men have received copies of the annual report of the superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point. The report, which is of interest to all officers, also includes a special report on the study of English and history at the Academy. The West Point course includes natural and experimental philosophy, political and military history, and literature. The curriculum includes a new mathematics course. Drawing and mathematics courses are repeated in English and history courses, which are largely increased. The course in law and history is largely increased. The course in law and history is largely increased.

The report includes an extract by the professor of English and history, Dr. H. H. Holt, a son of Miss Mary E. Billings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Billings, and is at present taking a position as a student at the Military Academy at West Point. The child is the first male child born to the parents, and is expected to become a fine soldier.

A son was born Friday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Billings, and is at present taking a position as a student at the Military Academy at West Point. The child is the first male child born to the parents, and is expected to become a fine soldier.

Local military men have received copies of the annual report of the superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point. The report, which is of interest to all officers, also includes a special report on the study of English and history at the Academy. The West Point course includes natural and experimental philosophy, political and military history, and literature. The curriculum includes a new mathematics course. Drawing and mathematics courses are repeated in English and history courses, which are largely increased. The course in law and history is largely increased. The course in law and history is largely increased.

The report includes an extract by the professor of English and history, Dr. H. H. Holt, a son of Miss Mary E. Billings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Billings, and is at present taking a position as a student at the Military Academy at West Point. The child is the first male child born to the parents, and is expected to become a fine soldier.

A son was born Friday morning to Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Billings, and is at present taking a position as a student at the Military Academy at West Point. The child is the first male child born to the parents, and is expected to become a fine soldier.

Local military men have received copies of the annual report of the superintendent of the Military Academy at West Point. The report, which is of interest to all officers, also includes a special report on the study of English and history at the Academy. The West Point course includes natural and experimental philosophy, political and military history, and literature. The curriculum includes a new mathematics course. Drawing and mathematics courses are repeated in English and history courses, which are largely increased. The course in law and history is largely increased. The course in law and history is largely increased.

The report includes an extract by the professor of English and history, Dr. H. H. Holt, a son of Miss Mary E. Billings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Billings, and is at present taking a position as a student at the Military Academy at West Point. The child is the first male child born to the parents, and is expected to become a fine soldier.
JUNE 10, 1903.

KANSAS GOVERNOR MARRIED.

Willis J. Bailey, governor of Kansas, and Mrs Ida B. Weed were married in the First Congregational church at Kansas City last evening. Immediately after the ceremony Gov and Mrs Bailey left for Topeka. It had been Gov Bailey's intention to make a trip to his old home in Illinois, but this was postponed because of pressing business relating to the Flood. An interesting incident of Gov Bailey's recent campaign was a story that he had promised his election up from women in afering themselves and yesterday Mrs Weed and I ried. I never had one that I would elect. Sometimes the story started by so

They meant it had really had t

Many of Colorado's reports the bachelor Roosevelt, "prob social function ev the executive of longer. He was Mo. Tuesday Weede, and the peka, which the home of its gow Mrs Bailey's mat her first husband Rock Island and also "and without, took them to MAYNARD.

Daughter of Married in

The wedding daughter of Jud warped Marsden day afternoon at Westminster Church was attended by relatives, formed by Rev. S. H. Woodrow in the music-room of the Maynard residence, which had been pleasingly decorated for the occasion. A beautiful bowler of laurel from the old home of Judge Maynard's father in Wilbraham graced the corner where the couple stood during the service. Laurel was also banked on the mantel from Mrs. Maynard's home in Warren added to the decorations, with roses, fragrant and of many colors. The double ring service was the bride being given away by her father. The bride was attended by a little flower girl, her niece, Pauline Maynard, and by a maid of maid, Miss Josephine B. Denoon. The best man was William G. Wycok. The bridal party entered the music-room of the Maynard house, which also had a guest house and a music-room. The music-room was decorated with flowers and ribbons. The bridal party entered the music-room of the Maynard wedding march, played by Miss Miriam Denoon, who also played Novin's "Love Song" during the ceremony. The bride's dress was white silk muslin over white silk, cut in a train. She carried white sweet peas. The flower girl carried white sweet peas, and the maid of honor, adorned in white, also carried sweet peas. The music of the wedding march was furnished by Misses Katherine and Marie Burke, daughters of Lawrence J. Burke. Many of the guests were received. Mr and Mrs Denoon made a graceful departure, which charmed some of their friends, who had not been taken into the plan. The reception was at Mrs B. Burnham Hill, where Mr Denoon is in charge of a government contract.

DECEMBER 4, 1908.

MARITAL WRETCHEDNESS.

Some of the Problems Which Reach the Divorce Court—Judge Shumway's Decisions.

Considerable business at the short calendar session of the superior court this morning made the divorce cases late in being presented to Judge Shumway to-day, and none of the cases was reached till noon.

Drink Did It.

Alice C. Mott, daughter of Henry J. Curtis, of No. 61 Imlay street, this city, was married to Leon L. Mott of Mount Vernon on the ground of desertion, and Mrs. Mott, who now lives with her father, was given the custody of her daughter, Katherine Mott, born July 21, 1904. Mrs. Mott were married in this city on the first husband of Mount Vernon on the ground of de...

Miss Alice Louise Curtis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Judson Curtis, and Leon Leroy Mott of Providence, R. I., were married at the home of the bride, No. 61 Imlay street, at 7 o'clock last night by Rev. Dr. George M. Stone, pastor of the Asylum Avenue Baptist Church. The pastor in which the ceremony was performed was decorated with palms and hydrangeas, the mantel being banked with white roses and maidenhair fern. The decorations of the adjoining parlor were of palms, red roses and maidenhair fern, while the prevailing color of the dining room was pink, pink roses, emilax and Parlyense fern making up the decorations of this part of the house. The lower part of the house was lighted by 300 miniature lights operated by storage batteries. Sedgwick & Hayden furnished the music, rendering the natal chorus from "Lohengrin" before and Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" after the ceremony, with appropriate music during the ceremony. The bride's dress was of white Liberty satin crepe de chine, with real lace collar and pearl trimmings. She wore a veil and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. Miss Mamie B. Curtis, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress was of embroidered white chiffon and her bouquet was of pink roses.

Judge John Lace of Providence, R. I., swam, was her best man and Judge Willis Knowles of Providence, James Russell Fuller of Providence and Edward L. Belknap and Orrin W. Mills of Hartford. The couple was followed by a reception from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, after which Mr. and Mrs. Mott left on a wedding trip. They will live for a short time at Auburn, R. I., and afterwards at Providence. They received many valuable gifts from relatives and friends. Among those present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Mott of Providence, mother of the groom, Mrs. Nathan Mott and Mrs. C. C. Hall, Block Island, R. I., Judge Morgan and Miss Isabella B. Turner of Glastonbury and Miss Margarette Chambers of New York and Miss Helen Peters of Boston, who were bridesmaids of the bride in the class of 1902, Smith College.

June Fuller-White, 10, 1903.

Mrs. Lefroy Fuller of Naugatuck and Miss Shirley Louise White, youngest daughter of Alonzo White, were married at the home of the bride, No. 148 Seymour street, at 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. E. P. Parker, pastor of the South Church, in the presence of the two families and a number of friends. The bride's dress was of white silk, trimmed with all-over lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. The groom's gown was of white silk, trimmed with all-over lace, and she carried a bouquet of white roses. Miss Hart wore a pongee silk gown and Miss Cleveland's dress was of white muslin. The gowns of both bridesmaids were trimmed with pink trimmings and they carried bouquets of pink roses.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Christina Burnham of this city played Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" on the piano and she gave several selections following the ceremony. A breakfast was served to the wedding party and the invited guests. There were a number of musical and artistic presents from relatives and friends of the bride and groom. They left on the 7:18 p.m. train last evening for Saratoga, and will be absent on their wedding trip for about two weeks. Upon their return they will live in Naugatuck, where Mr. Fuller was the train dispatcher on the Naugatuck Division of the "Consolidated" road. He is a son of Jerome Fuller, chief of the Naugatuck fire department.

Miss Elizabeth Gray, daughter of Mrs. William Gray, and ex-Alderman Louis S. Caswell were married at the home of the bride, No. 496 Prospect avenue, at high noon yesterday. Only relatives and intimate friends were present at the announcement of the recent death of the father of the bride, William Gray, inventor of the Gray telephone pay station. The house was decorated with strings, ferns, small and Virginia creepers. Rev. Ernest deF. Miel, rector of Trinity Church, performed the ceremony. The bride's dress was of panned organza, with point lace trimming, and the bridesmaid, Miss Carolyn Huffman Dyer of Norristown, Pa., was wearing a white embroidered Swiss. John Henry McManus of this city was the best man. Mr. and Mrs. Caswell received many beautiful gifts. On their return from their wedding trip they will live at No. 496 Prospect avenue, where they will receive their friends after October 15 to accept a position with Hayden Eames, manufacturers' agent for automobile parts, accessories and supplies, of Cleveland, O.

Married in the College Chapel.

(Hanover, N. H., Dispatch in New York Sunday, March 27, 1920.) The wedding ceremony of unusual interest to Dartmouth and to Hanover occurred this (Thursday) afternoon in the College Church, when Mr. Nelson P. Brown, '99, of Everett, Mass., and Miss Margaret Tucker, second daughter of President William J. Tucker, were married man and wife. The ceremony was performed by President Tucker, the wedding being open to the public.

Instructor John L. Mann, '94, was best man, and Miss Laura W. Lord, daughter of Professor John King Lord, was maid of honor. Miss Elizabeth Tucker, sister of the bride, was flower girl. The ushers were Ernest M. Hopkins, private secretary to the president; Instructor W. K. Stewart, Warren C. Kendall, '99, of Boston; Instructor F. F. Skinner of Harvard University.

The bridegroom was graduated with honors, was an able debater and orator, and won prizes in oratorical and forensic contests. He was a member of the pamphlets recently issued by the bureau of forestry at Washington is "Tests of the Physical Properties of Timber," by Frederic E. Olmsted, formrly of Hartford, and a nephew of the dean of landscape architects, Frederic Law Olmsted. Mr. Olmsted is a graduate of Yale, having been for two years counselor of the varsity crew. He is now an assistant forester in the government bureau at Washington.

Mrs. Phoebe R. Gifford of Providence, mention of whose hundredth birthday was made in Thursday's "Courant," has been the oldest Quaker minister in the world since 1900. She was originally Friend Phoebe Rushmore, coming of old Quaker stock in New York. She is well known for her longevity than for its piety. She had six brothers and sisters; all of them lived past 80. Dr. Theod-ore L. Cuyler, "The Providence Journal" says: One of the features of the day which gave Mrs. Gifford great pleasure was arranged for the late afternoon, when the members of the primary class of the "Friends' Sunday School" in a house in a body and in unison.

MARCH 27, 1920. Elizabeth Gray Caswell, whose mother, Judge Burpee was tried, was married on June 10, 1905, and Mrs. of 'The Courant,' Caswell, when he lived with her mother, was tried for a while at the time when the bride was married. Mrs. Caswell was given her own dress in the wedding day, and the work of the bride, and then Mr. Weaver. Mr. Weaver was the sister and then second the wedding ceremony of unusual in-Rock and the most popular story of the sort that the bride was told he would not do. The marriage was Carey of Philadelphia, and her husband to the late Mr. Weaver. Mr. Weaver was the sister and then second the wedding ceremony of unusual interest to Dartmouth and to Hanover occurred this (Thursday) afternoon in the College Church, when Mr. Nelson P. Brown, '99, of Everett, Mass., and Miss Margaret Tucker, second daughter of President William J. Tucker, were married man and wife.

Mrs. Phoebe R. Gifford of Providence, mention of whose hundredth birthday was made in Thursday's "Courant," has been the oldest Quaker minister in the world since 1900. She was originally Friend Phoebe Rushmore, coming of old Quaker stock in New York. She is well known for her longevity than for its piety. She had six brothers and sisters; all of them lived past 80. Dr. Theod-ore L. Cuyler, "The Providence Journal" says: One of the features of the day which gave Mrs. Gifford great pleasure was arranged for the late afternoon, when the members of the primary class of the "Friends' Sunday School" in a house in a body and in unison.

MARCH 27, 1920. Elizabeth Gray Caswell, whose mother, Judge Burpee was tried, was married on June 10, 1905, and Mrs. of 'The Courant,' Caswell, when he lived with her mother, was tried for a while at the time when the bride was married. Mrs. Caswell was given her own dress in the wedding day, and the work of the bride, and then Mr. Weaver. Mr. Weaver was the sister and then second the wedding ceremony of unusual interest to Dartmouth and to Hanover occurred this (Thursday) afternoon in the College Church, when Mr. Nelson P. Brown, '99, of Everett, Mass., and Miss Margaret Tucker, second daughter of President William J. Tucker, were married man and wife.

Mrs. Phoebe R. Gifford of Providence, mention of whose hundredth birthday was made in Thursday's "Courant," has been the oldest Quaker minister in the world since 1900. She was originally Friend Phoebe Rushmore, coming of old Quaker stock in New York. She is well known for her longevity than for its piety. She had six brothers and sisters; all of them lived past 80. Dr. Theod-ore L. Cuyler, "The Providence Journal" says: One of the features of the day which gave Mrs. Gifford great pleasure was arranged for the late afternoon, when the members of the primary class of the "Friends' Sunday School" in a house in a body and in unison.

MARCH 27, 1920. Elizabeth Gray Caswell, whose mother, Judge Burpee was tried, was married on June 10, 1905, and Mrs. of 'The Courant,' Caswell, when he lived with her mother, was tried for a while at the time when the bride was married. Mrs. Caswell was given her own dress in the wedding day, and the work of the bride, and then Mr. Weaver. Mr. Weaver was the sister and then second the wedding ceremony of unusual interest to Dartmouth and to Hanover occurred this (Thursday) afternoon in the College Church, when Mr. Nelson P. Brown, '99, of Everett, Mass., and Miss Margaret Tucker, second daughter of President William J. Tucker, were married man and wife.

Mrs. Phoebe R. Gifford of Providence, mention of whose hundredth birthday was made in Thursday's "Courant," has been the oldest Quaker minister in the world since 1900. She was originally Friend Phoebe Rushmore, coming of old Quaker stock in New York. She is well known for her longevity than for its piety. She had six brothers and sisters; all of them lived past 80. Dr. Theod-ore L. Cuyler, "The Providence Journal" says: One of the features of the day which gave Mrs. Gifford great pleasure was arranged for the late afternoon, when the members of the primary class of the "Friends' Sunday School" in a house in a body and in unison.

MARCH 27, 1920. Elizabeth Gray Caswell, whose mother, Judge Burpee was tried, was married on June 10, 1905, and Mrs. of 'The Courant,' Caswell, when he lived with her mother, was tried for a while at the time when the bride was married. Mrs. Caswell was given her own dress in the wedding day, and the work of the bride, and then Mr. Weaver. Mr. Weaver was the sister and then second the wedding ceremony of unusual interest to Dartmouth and to Hanover occurred this (Thursday) afternoon in the College Church, when Mr. Nelson P. Brown, '99, of Everett, Mass., and Miss Margaret Tucker, second daughter of President William J. Tucker, were married man and wife.

Mrs. Phoebe R. Gifford of Providence, mention of whose hundredth birthday was made in Thursday's "Courant," has been the oldest Quaker minister in the world since 1900. She was originally Friend Phoebe Rushmore, coming of old Quaker stock in New York. She is well known for her longevity than for its piety. She had six brothers and sisters; all of them lived past 80. Dr. Theod-ore L. Cuyler, "The Providence Journal" says: One of the features of the day which gave Mrs. Gifford great pleasure was arranged for the late afternoon, when the members of the primary class of the "Friends' Sunday School" in a house in a body and in unison.

MARCH 27, 1920. Elizabeth Gray Caswell, whose mother, Judge Burpee was tried, was married on June 10, 1905, and Mrs. of 'The Courant,' Caswell, when he lived with her mother, was tried for a while at the time when the bride was married. Mrs. Caswell was given her own dress in the wedding day, and the work of the bride, and then Mr. Weaver. Mr. Weaver was the sister and then second the wedding ceremony of unusual interest to Dartmouth and to Hanover occurred this (Thursday) afternoon in the College Church, when Mr. Nelson P. Brown, '99, of Everett, Mass., and Miss Margaret Tucker, second daughter of President William J. Tucker, were married man and wife.

Mrs. Phoebe R. Gifford of Providence, mention of whose hundredth birthday was made in Thursday's "Courant," has been the oldest Quaker minister in the world since 1900. She was originally Friend Phoebe Rushmore, coming of old Quaker stock in New York. She is well known for her longevity than for its piety. She had six brothers and sisters; all of them lived past 80. Dr. Theod-ore L. Cuyler, "The Providence Journal" says: One of the features of the day which gave Mrs. Gifford great pleasure was arranged for the late afternoon, when the members of the primary class of the "Friends' Sunday School" in a house in a body and in unison.

MARCH 27, 1920. Elizabeth Gray Caswell, whose mother, Judge Burpee was tried, was married on June 10, 1905, and Mrs. of 'The Courant,' Caswell, when he lived with her mother, was tried for a while at the time when the bride was married. Mrs. Caswell was given her own dress in the wedding day, and the work of the bride, and then Mr. Weaver. Mr. Weaver was the sister and then second the wedding ceremony of unusual interest to Dartmouth and to Hanover occurred this (Thursday) afternoon in the College Church, when Mr. Nelson P. Brown, '99, of Everett, Mass., and Miss Margaret Tucker, second daughter of President William J. Tucker, were married man and wife.
MARRIED IN BOSTON.

Wedding of Samuel Thorne and Miss Ethel Cheney.

Samuel Thorne, Jr., of New York city, and Miss Ethel Mary Cheney, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Cheney of Boston and having many friends in this vicinity, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in St. Paul's Church in Boston. Rev. Dr. Linsley, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. Anson Phelps Stokes, jr., secretary of Yale University, and a classmate of the groom at Yale in the class of '96. The maids of honor were the Misses Dorothy and Marjorie Cheney of South Manchester and the bridesmaids were Miss Mary Crocker and Miss Marion Slazenger, both of Boston, Miss Sturgis and Miss Fannie Dominick of New York. The bride's dress was white satin, princess style, trimmed with duchesse lace. The maid of honor and bridesmaids wore museline de sole and tulle veils. James Brown N. of St. Louis, Mo., was best man and the ushers were S. B. Thorne of New York, Edward L. Trudeau of Saranac, N. Y., Alexander Brown, Ralph P. Treadway and William Redmond Cross of New York, and Frank D. Cheney of South Manchester. All were classmates of the groom except the last named. Many members of the Cheney families in South Manchester attended and there were several guests from Yale. After a tour Mr. and Mrs. Thorne will live in New York city where Mr. Thorne is engaged in the practice of law. They will live on East Seventy-second street.

The wedding in Boston on Tuesday of Miss Ethel Cheney to Samuel Thorne, Jr., of this city, will take a lot of New Yorkers over there, as it will be a large and fashionable affair. The bride-to-be belongs to the well-known family of Cheneys, and is an attractive girl, who has been out a season or two. She is identified with the more quiet members of Boston's smart set and has never gone in much for sports and the like.

Mr. Thorne, who is a Yale man, of the class of 1896, lives with his family at 914 Fifth avenue. He has gone about a lot socially and is a member of several clubs, including the University, Riders and City. The wedding will take place in St. Paul's Church and will be an afternoon affair.

Edward B. Fitch and Miss Elsie Fitch of Yonkers, N. Y., son and daughter of the late John Lee Fitch, are passing a few days at the home of their uncle, W. G. Fitch, on Vernon street.

WETHERSFIELD MAN MARRIED.

Wedding in Springfield—Local High School Exercises To-night.

William Ellis Hamner of Wethersfield and Miss Flora Emily Fancher of Hopkinton were married at the home of relatives of the bride in Springfield, Mass., on Monday at 1 o'clock. Only immediate family friends were present. Mr. and Mrs. Hamner left for a drive through the Berkshires and on their return will reside at Mr. Hammer's home on Village street, Wethersfield, where they will be at home after August 1.

MARRIAGE OF MISS MARTHA HORSFALL AND EDMUND P. KOHN.

Miss Martha Isabel Horsfall, daughter of Luke Horsfall, and Edward Paul Kohn, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kohn, were married at the home of the bride, No. 52 Huntington street, at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, by Rev. W. DeLross Love, pastor of the Farmington Avenue Congregational Church. The house was elaborately decorated, the color scheme of the library being green and white, smilax predominating. Roses and maidenhair ferns were used in the parlor, the bride and groom during the ceremony standing in front of a bank of ferns. Palms and potted plants were plentifully used in the other rooms on the first and second floors of the house. The bride and her father entered the parlor from the dining room, passing through the library, an aisle of ribbons being made by the ushers while the groom and best man entered the parlor from the hall. The bride was gaited in white crepe de chine, trimmed with lace and ribbon roses, and wore a diamond enamel clover leaf pin, a gift from the bride. She carried a bouquet of maidenhair fern. Oscar W. Kohn, brother of the bridegroom, was the best man, and the ushers were Albert M. Kohn and George Kohn, brothers of the groom, and Robert M. Brewster.

A reception followed. A clock followed the ceremony, at which about 100 invited guests were present. Only relatives, and intimate friends of the contracting parties were present at the wedding. Emmens Orchestra furnished music, being stationed on the veranda, which was enclosed. The wedding music from „Lohengrin“ and Mendelssohn's „Wedding March“ were rendered. Mr. and Mrs. Kohn received many valuable gifts, including Turkish rugs, a mahogany dining room set, an English hall clock and valuable articles in china and silverware, from friends and business associates. Guests were present from Montclair, N. J., Cleveland, O., New York, Norwich and Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Kohn left the city on the 6:53 north-bound train last evening for an extended tour through the New England states and Canada. They will live in New York, where the groom, who is a member of the firm of Wadsworth & Co., and silverware, from friends and business associates. Guests were present from Montclair, N. J., Cleveland, O., New York, Norwich and Portland. Mr. and Mrs. Kohn left the city on the 6:53 north-bound train last evening for an extended tour through the New England states and Canada. They will live in New York, where the groom, who is a member of the firm of Wadsworth & Co., A very pretty church wedding took place yesterday afternoon in St. Mary's Episcopal Church, South Manchester. Miss Martha A. Matchett of South Main street and John Miller of Hartford were married by Rev. J. A. Biddle of New Haven. The bridesmaid was Miss Mary Totten of South Manchester and the best man was Thomas Neebit of Hartford. The ushers were William F. Clark of Hartford and William McAfee of South Manchester. As the bridal party entered the church Miss Fannie Hand played the "Lohengrin" wedding march. The bride wore a dress of white silk and a veil caught up with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried bride roses. The bridesmaids' dress was light blue silk and she carried pink roses. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion with wild flowers. It was the most largely attended wedding in the church for some time. Immediately following the ceremony a reception was held in Odd Fellows' Hall. About 100 friends, including many from Hartford and other places, sat down to the wedding supper. The dining hall was decorated for the event. Rev. Mr. Miller left on a late afternoon train on a wedding trip through New York and New Jersey and upon their return will live in Hartford, where the groom is master of ceremonies. The bride was given away by her brother, James P. Miller, Miss Agnes L. Long and Miss Florence G. Dunn of this city and James Burke of Southington. As the bridal party left the church for a short wedding trip. On their return they will live at No. 43 Eimer street.

June 18, 1905.

WINDSOR.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ward, No. 102 Babcock street, was the scene of a pretty wedding at 6 o'clock Wednesday evening, when their niece, Miss Ethel Lydia Twiss of New Haven, was married to Nathan Hale Williams of Springfield. About forty guests were present, including only relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties. The decorations were white and green, the general effect being relieved by colored roses. The couple were unattended and during the ceremony stood under a wedding bell of white, festooned with ferns. The Rev. George T. Linsley, rector of the Church of the Good Shepherd, officiated. The ring service being used. The bride wore a costume of tan crepe de chine, with trimmings of cream-colored lace applique, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. She was given away by her uncle. Following the ceremony the newly-wedded pair received congratulations, and a fine collation was served. Late in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Williams left for a brief honeymoon and upon their return they will reside in Springfield. The gifts included china, silverware, glassware, pictures, etc., among them being a handsome cut-glass fruit dish and knife rest from the bookroom of the Case, Lockwood & Brainard Co., where the bride is formally employed, and a silk quilt of 1,454 pieces, the work of a lady 85 years of age. Guests were present from Hartford, East Hartford, Springfield and Southington.

Basney-Beckwith.

Miss Grace E. Beckwith, daughter of the late Alpheus and Eugenia Beckwith, was married to Robert H. Fox, building inspector, and Miss Theresa Catherine Berry, daughter of Mrs. Peter Berry of No. 17 Windsor avenue, were married yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The wedding took place at St. Patrick's Church, which was decorated with palms, ferns and hydrangeas. The marriage ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Joseph Joyce of Bridgeport, a personal friend of the family. Dr. Joyce celebrated the nuptial mass. The Rev. Dennis Hurley acted as deacon, Rev. John Downey as sub-deacon and Rev. John Ryan, as master of ceremonies. The bride was given away by her brother, James P. Berry. Thomas Fox was groomsman and Miss Mary E. Berry, sister of the bride, maid of honor. The bridesmaids were Miss Mary J. Berry, Miss Agnes L. Long and Miss Florence G. Dunn of this citv and James Burke of Southington. The ushers were E. M. Synnott, D. J. Broughel, Edward H. Howley, John Hogan and William H. Dunn of this city and James Burke of Southington. The bride's dress was of point d'Alencon lace over princess satin. She wore a tulle veil and also a diamond sunburst, the gift of the groom, and she carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. D. S. Moran, organist of the church, had charge of the music. The "Lohengrin" march was played, La Hache's mass was sung by the chorus. During the ceremony Mrs. Virginia P. Marwick sang "O Promise Me," Miss Malvina Murphy sang Dana's "Salve Regina," and Mrs. C. J. Callahan sang Bartlett's "O Spiritus," At the conclusion of the ceremony Mendelssohn's "Wedding March" was played. A wedding breakfast was served after the ceremony and the couple left on the 2:28 p.m. train for Atlantic City, where they will remain for a short time. On their return they will live at No. 43 Eimer street.
JUNE 18, 1903.
GRISWOLD-WILLIAMS.

Pretty Wedding at "Malvern Rest," the Griswold Home in Colrain.

The marriage of Miss Vivian, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lorenzo Griswold of Colrain and this city, to Frank Lincoln Williams of Boston, at the home of the bride, "Malvern Rest," in Griswoldville, Colrain, last evening was attended by a brilliant social event and of interest to a wide circle of friends. The drawing-room in which the ceremony took place was decorated with asparagus ferns, with pink roses interspersed. The bay-window, where the contracting parties stood, was banked with asparagus and pink hydrangeas. Laurel was used for the divan-room, and the walls and stairway were handsomely decorated with asparagus and white roses. The decorations for the library were white roses and laurel. The officiating clergyman, Rev. Dr. Philip L. Emory of this city, preceded the bridal party as it entered the drawing-room. The groom, who was his best man, Frank D. Hamilton of Youngstown, O., followed. Next came the six ushers, Lorenzo Griswold, Jr., brother of the bride; Clarence H. Williams of Newton, Ct., brother of the groom, Frank D. Griswold of Brooklyn, N. Y., Noyes Palmer of Stonington, Ct., Charles L. Barlow and Frederick H. Jones of Hoosick, N. Y., and a matron of honor, Mrs. Noyes Palmer of Stonington, Ct., sister of the groom, and lastly the bride and her father. The matron of honor was dressed in white, the bride being given away by her father. The bride was gowned in ivory white satin, with chiffon trimmings, and carried a sheaf bouquet of bride roses. The matron of honor was gowned in white satin with chiffon trimmings, and carried a sheaf bouquet of La France roses.

The ceremony was followed by a reception with dancing, led by Joseph W. Bullard and Miss Permele Elliott of Virginia. The Philharmonic orchestra furnished the music, and Barr of this city catered.

SNOW-MULLIGAN WEDDING.

Well-Known Springfield Young Man Married at Providence.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Thursday, June 18.

One of the most fashionable weddings of the month occurred at noon to-day, when Miss Maria F. Snow, daughter of Mrs. J. Lippitt Snow of this city, and Walter F. Mulligan of Springfield were married at 125 Hope street. The drawing-room in which the ceremony was performed was lavishly decorated with cut flowers and potted palms, ferns and rubber plants. Rev. Edward S. Sanderson, pastor of the Central Congregational church, performed the ceremony, and he was assisted by Rev. Edward Moore, formerly a pastor of the Central Congregational church and at present a professor at the Cambridge theological institute. The matron of honor was Mrs. Philip C. Powers of Springfield, and Herbert L. Institution of Bridgeport acted as best man. The ushers were John L. Wentz of Philadelphia, Edward Corrie and Rev. Wilbert Powers of Springfield, and Fred W. Fuller, both of Providence. The bridesmaids were Misses Louise Drost of Montclair, N. J., Agnes McKelvey of Bridgeport, Lucille Damon of New York and Mary Ainslee of Chicago.

Directly after the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served to the bridal party and a few of the more intimate friends and relatives. Upon their return from their wedding journey, Mr. and Mrs. Mulligan will live at 57 Avon place, Springfield.

Among the Springfield people at the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. James T. Albee, Mr. and Mrs. W. Day, Mr and Mrs. C. D. Morgan, the parents of the groom.

JUNE 18, 1903.

Marriage of Miss Mary R. Fenn and Willard D. Brown.

Miss Mary Roberts Fenn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Linus Tryon Fenn, and Willard Dalrymple Brown of Lexington, Mass., were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the Fenn homestead, "Fennell," No. 699 Farmington avenue, West Hartford, by Rev. Joseph H. Twichell, pastor of the Asylum Hill Congregational Church, the Episcopal service being used. The house was decorated with laurel, ferns, roses, daisies and sweet peas. The bride, who was unattended, was dressed in white crepe de chine, with pearl trimmings, with full length stole of point lace. She wore a full veil and orange blossoms and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. As the bridal party entered the reception room, where the ceremony was performed, the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin" was played by Emmons's Orchestra, which gave Schubert's "Serenade" during the ceremony and appropriate music as its conclusion. The best man was Moses Ellis Baker of Dedham, Mass., and the usher was Robert Collier of New York, Dr. Louis Whittome Gilbert of Brookline, Mass., Rev. Luther M. Strayer of Hartford, Ct., and Walter Bliss of this city. Misses Hester, Baldwin and Gilbert were classmates of the groom at Harvard University. There were many handsome wedding presents, the groom's gift to the bride being an ornament of pearls and diamonds. Mr. and Mrs. Brown left last evening on a brief wedding trip. They will spend the summer at Point Allerton, Mass., making their home in the fall at Lexington, Mass., where they will receive their friends until October 1. Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Emery of this city, Miss Leslie Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick L. Emery and Dr. Edward N. Merriam and Mrs. Merriam of Lexington, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. George H. Baldwin of Arlington, Mass., Rev. Gilbert Lovell and Mrs. William Hull Wells of Brooklyn, N. Y., Mrs. O. P. Fort Jervis, N. Y., Mrs. Emily Penn-Pound of Plainfield, N. J., and Mrs. Mary B. Morris of New York.

MR. FULLER'S BIRTHDAY.

Anniversary of Well-Known Hartford Man Observed Saturday.

George W. Fuller, who for more than sixty years has been identified with the mercantile life of this city, was 80 years old Saturday and the anniversary was suitably observed at his pleasant home, No. 96 Webster street. Many of his friends and neighbors called on him during the day to extend congratulations and bring with them gifts as remembrances of the occasion. A reception for visitors was held at his home between the hours of 4 and 7 o'clock p. m.

Mr. Fuller was born in Lebanon, this state, on June 30, 1823. He was one of a family of five children. His parents and his three brothers and one sister are dead. When a lad of less than 18 years he came to this city to live with his uncle, Dr. Silas Fuller, who was a prominent physician here in his time.
Shortly after coming here Mr. Fuller entered the employ of H. B. Ware to learn the trade of harness maker. Mr. Ware's place of business was about on the site of the building of the Aetna Life Insurance Company and then the number was 115 Main Street. When he was about 30 years old, with Joseph Williams, he bought out Mr. Ware and the business was conducted by Mr. Fuller and Mr. Williams for some years. Then they dissolved. Mr. Williams continued the harness part of the business, moving the store to North Main street, and Mr. Fuller took the trunk and baby carriage part and established himself in a store on Asylum street, where the Corner building now stands. When the old building on Asylum street which he first occupied was to be torn down he moved the business, about thirty years ago, to the Auditorium building on Asylum street, then known as the Allen building, where it has since been conducted.

Mr. Fuller retired about three years ago, when he transferred the business to his son, Frederick H. Fuller. Frederick and Frank W. Fuller, another son, had been associated with their father in the management of the business for several years, but some years ago Frank went to Colorado for his health. His brother, Frederick, accompanied him there and they established themselves in business. Frank died and Frederick returned home to assist his father here, and when the infirmities of age led his father to retire from active work the business was transferred to him.

Mr. Fuller has always prided himself upon his business career. Engaging in mercantile life before he had reached his majority, he acquired a wide acquaintance with the purchasing public and he lived to transact business with three and four generations in some families. People came to trade with him because they knew their fathers and grandfathers had done so, and they had heard their ancestors speak of Mr. Fuller's uprightness in his business dealings. He always endeavored to do an honest business and expressions of approval of his business dealings from the descendants of old-time patrons were always pleasing to him.

Mr. Fuller has been three times married. His present wife, to whom he was married in 1859, is Miss Cynthia M. Watrous of Saybrook. He has been the father of eight children, and three children of his present marriage survive. These are Mrs. Nellie Hull of New London, Miss Arminia B. Fuller, a teacher in the high school at Orange, N. J., and a son, Frederick H. Fuller, who conducts the business established by his father. There are three grandchildren and one great-grandchild. Mr. Fuller has been in feeble health for some time, but on Saturday entered the spirit of the occasion as well as his condition permitted and talked interestingly of his career when a "Courier" reporter saw him seated in a chair on the porch at his home.

The rooms of the home were decorated for the anniversary with roses, maiden-hair fern and daisies and the visitors who called to extend congratulations brought many presents. Among these was a handsome cake prepared for the occasion. Several of the guests were present at the home of the donor and the inscription, "1823-1903." During the reception Stephen Maxten sang several songs which were favorites with Mr. Fuller. Miss Clara M. Coe of this city gave several recitations and Miss Jennie Lawrence of Middletown recited an original poem prepared for the occasion.

G. W. Fuller.

H. W. Lester, secretary of the Veeder Manufacturing Company, and Miss May B. Whipple of Sterling, Ill., were married at the bride's home on Wednesday last. Mr. and Mrs. Lester will live in this city and will arrive Wednesday. They will be at home at Highland Court after September 15.

MANY NEW LAWYERS

Announcement of Candidates who Passed Examinations.

Announcement was made Saturday at New Haven of those who passed the state bar examinations, admitting them to practice law in this state, the examinations having been held last week. Sixty-three men took the examinations, forty-eight being successful and fifteen failing to pass. The majority of those who took the examinations were graduates of the Yale Law School.

The successful ones from Hartford and vicinity are Morgan B. Brainard, Salvator D'Esopo, Warren D. Chase and Francis P. Rohrmayer, all of Hartford, and Leslie L. Braun, East Hartford, Theodore G. Chase, Granby, Stanley W. Edwards, Granby, T. M. Driggs, New London, A. C. Williams of Springfield, brother of the bride, was best man and C. Henry Olmsted and George H. Goodwin were the ushers. The wedding march was composed by the bride's cousin, Miss Jennie Burnham, as the bridal party took their places upon the east side of the church, made of ferns and fox glove where Rev. William B. Tuthill performed the ceremony, assisted by Rev. J. S. Kelsey of New London. The bride, who wore a gown of white mousseline de soie over white silk and carried a bouquet of white roses and maidenhair fern, was attended by Miss Linda H. Driggs, a sister of Mr. and Mrs. Driggs, and Alfred B. Tuthill performed the ceremony.

JUNE 22, 1903.

I and Salvator and Stanley W. who recently for admission to the bar of the city and will arrive yesterday by train.

1903. ion was passed by the central labor union, the question was whether to place on the action of Mr. of the full union in the city.

G. W. Fuller.
A NEWSBOY COLLEGE GRADUATE

The Rise of Maurice B. Rich, Honor Man of Senior Class at Brown

[From the Providence Journal]

In 1891, Maurice B. Rich, a vendor of newspapers on the city thoroughfares, gained his rudimentary knowledge of the English language in the questionable vocabulary employed by the street gamins. On Wednesday last, the first person to congratulate him was the chancellor of the university, Colonel Goddard, and by the unanimous decision of the judges he was awarded the Gaston medal for oratory. The announcement of this fact at the alumni dinner and the enthusiasm with which it was greeted made it manifest that with the student body there was entire accord in the opinion of the judges, and a complimentary dinner given at night. To the victor by members of his class completed a day of the greatest glory known to Maurice Benjamin Rich in the twenty-three years of his life.

In 1887 his father came to this country, an emigrant steamer. He settled in Providence and obtained employment at the Nicholson File Works. He is there to this day. In four days from the time he landed in America, Maurice Rich was selling newspapers in the streets of Providence. He could not speak a word of English and he was drilled to recite the names of the papers by an older boy. The Rich boy said that took him six months to acquire the language of the streets, and that quite a proportion of the vocabulary was expressive and picturesque profanity. He had been here about two months when he started an education, and there is no doubt that he has acquired it. He worked his way from primary school to the university, and helped his parents all the time. He began in the State Street Primary School, stayed one day in the Transfiguration School and then went into the highest. A little while later he was making such advances that he moved up to the Candace Street Grammar School and remained there for three years, graduating in 1890. He spent four years in the Classical High School, and four in Brown University.

He continued to sell papers up to six years ago, through his entire grammar school course, and during two of his four years in high school. He sold flowers, also, because there were not only his own demands to be supplied but there was assistance to give to his parents. In his second year in the high school he secured an appointment as teacher in the evening schools. Just before that he had attended the evening selling candy in the gallery of Keith's Theatre. When his appointment as night school teacher came opportunities for tutoring, and he availed himself of these to assist his income. He was unoccupied Saturdays, however, and he looked around for work. He found it in the Public Market, then he clerked in a shoe store and finally applied for a position in the store of Arnold & Maine, in the Hicks prize debate as a junior and won the Gaston medal on Wednesday last. He was also one of the marshals of the commencement parade. His oration was on "The Folly of Antisemitism," and it was an impassioned, poetic exposition of the highest standards of the Jewish people, with an instructive outline of historical information. Its delivery was very oratorical, and the enthusiasm with which it was received made it manifest that the student body there was entire accord in the minds and hearts of those in attendance at the commencement exercises.

Marshall P. Wilder Married.

New York, June 24.—Marshall P. Wilder and Miss Sophie Hanks of Brooklyn, were married today. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Dr. Houghton of the Church of the Transfiguration.

Marshall P. Wilder, the humorous monologist, who passed his boyhood days in Hartford, was married Wednesday afternoon to Miss Sophie Correll Hanks, daughter of Dr. E. F. Hanks of Brooklyn. The ceremony took place in Theodore Marceau's photograph gallery, 258 Fifth avenue, New York, and was performed by the Rev. Dr. Houghton, pastor of the Little Church Around the Corner. Mr. Marceau and his wife and James Young, an actor, were the only witnesses.

Miss Hanks's family and Wilder's father, it is said, knew nothing of the wedding until it was over. Then, according to Wilder's friends, Miss Hanks's brother, J. T. Hanks, was notified by telephone, and he broke the news to his father. The elder Hanks, it is said, immediately sent his congratulations. Mr. Wilder went over to his father's apartments in the Alpine and told him what he had done.

Miss Hanks's friends say, didn't feel obliged to get her father's consent to the marriage, because her father had remarried about two years ago without consulting her.

Mrs. Wilder is about thirty years old and is described as an accomplished musician. She is short and rather stout, with dark hair and eyes. Wilder is 45 years old. The selection of the photograph gallery for the wedding was Wilder's idea. The gallery was decorated with palms and flowers. Wilder and his bride stood up with Marceau at his photographic studio three months ago. The Wilders went to Boston.

Now that Marshall P. Wilder has become a man of family his banner will no longer wave on the outer wall of his former home in West Thirty-third street. A flag floating over the palace of a ruling sovereign means that he is in residence, and Mr. Wilder years ago adopted this same method of letting the world know that he was at home and his life was proved. When the flag was hanging from an upper window it was a sign that Mr. Wilder could be seen. But the flag is at half-mast now, for the poet's friends will have to discover some new way of learning whether they can see him.—[New York Sun.]
FELL ON A LITTLE GIRL.

JUNE 25, 1903.

TWO WOMEN AND A CHILD

BREAK LINEMAN'S FALL.

Mrs. C. L. Edwards, Mrs. Brewster and Nanette Brewster Stood Near Pole Where Albert L. Larkin Was Working.

Intense sympathy was aroused through the city yesterday by a sad accident which occurred at the exreme end of Main street, at the corner of Jefferson, a few minutes after 10 o'clock in the morning, As the result of the accident Nanette Brewster, the 9-years-old daughter of Mrs. Charles E. Brewster of Emerson avenue, Minneapolis, Minn., is laid up at the Hartford Hospital with a compound fracture of the left knee.

Mrs. Edward
Charles L. Edwards, at her home on Trinity avenue, Mrs. Brewster and is greatly condition of
and Albert L. played by the Telephone Co.
boarding place suffering troshock and be-curred in this has brought sympathy fro-and even from Mrs. Brew-tor Edward daughter to purpose of a ent exercise of visiting her wards said he been plantinand here and Mr.
com at this at the Trinity wards: Profes-ymorning and Mrs. Edwards little girl left Wethersfield
the corner of streets and They were not short time
alking. No Ed-Larkin to pole, who quires about Brewster that above his better move of his tools
They moved so
"The Courant" (always supposed to have some expla-Nation as to how it happened, but the first thing she realized of the accident was on the sidewalk recovering consciousness. She says a man sit-ning on the sidewalk near her and then she knew that something had struck her, and she came to the conclusion that he had fallen from the pole. The safety of the little girl was the first thought that came to her. A large crowd soon gathered, which expressed the utmost sympathy and showed the greatest of kindness, and Mrs. Edwards is said that the employees of the street railway on the cars that came along were extremely kind.

Larkin lay upon his back on the sidewalk and part of the little girl's body was under him. It was some minutes after Larkin fell before he and the little girl recovered consciousness.
Before he had fully regained consciousness he saw the little girl lying on the sidewalk, with the little girl protruding through her stocking, and
his first exclamation was, 'Oh, God,
take me, and save her and little girl.'

This exclamation from a man who the crowd believed had been killed caused many eyes to moisten among those who had gathered.

Policeman Matthew Fagan, who does duty in that locality and who is acquainted with Mrs. Edwards, was exercising the street at the accident.

He went to where the injured ones
were lying and where the mother of

The Hartford Times.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1903.

GIRL NEARLY KILLED.

Nancy Brewster Injured By Fall
of Telephone Lineman
From Pole.

TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL.

Child's Mother and Mrs. Charles L.
Edwards Also Injured—Accident
Due to Electric Shock.

A TERRIBLE STREET SCENE.

A most distressing accident occurred at the southwestern corner of Main and Jefferson streets about 11 o'clock this afternoon. Four persons received injuries and one will probably die.

Those injured are as follows:

The Injured.

Nancy Brewster of Minneapolis, Minn.
11 years old, compound fracture of the left leg; scalp wound and possible internal injuries; condition critical.

Mrs. Charles E. Brewster, Minneapolis,
mother of Nancy; injury right side.

Albert Larkin of No. 157 Asylum street,
brother, scalp wound, internal injuries,
suffering from shock.

Mrs. Charles L. Edwards, Wethersfield avenue, bruised on head, suffering from shock.

Nancy Brewster is at the Hartford hospital. Larkin is at his boarding home but she went to bed shortly after reaching there. She has been for eighteen weeks caring for her very sick child. She was attended by Dr. L. Rapport. The wound in the little girl's leg bled profusely but Mrs. Edwards and Officer Fagan stopped the hemorrhage by the application of bandages before the arrival of the doctor. Otherwise the sufferer would have died.

An examination showed that the child had a compound fracture of the left leg and she had a scalp wound, but an examination of the wound later showed that there was no fracture of the skull. The child's left leg was covered with bruises. Her chest and abdomen were bruised, she vomited some blood after the accident, but this is said to be due to a shock and was unable to walk.

Dr. Rowley, who was called to the scene, said that he believed the child was not in any danger, but that she might be some days before this can be definitely determined and it was said yesterday that it could not be told for forty-eight hours, from the cumberwhether her leg could be saved. After the child had been attended by Dr.
Rowley in the drug store she was taken to the hospital in the ambulance, her mother accompanied her there and the hospital showed that there was a fracture of the skull. The child's mother was given very careful attention and Dr. Rowley said that she might be some days before this can be definitely determined.

The accident occurred when Larkin, who is a man who has been plunging here and there and who is caretaking at this time, was conscious he saw the little girl lying on the sidewalk, with the blood protruding through her stocking, and
his first exclamation was, 'Oh, God,
take me, and save her and little girl.'

This exclamation from a man who the
crowd believed had been killed caused many eyes to moisten among those
who had gathered.

Policeman Matthew Fagan, who does duty in that locality and who is acquainted with Mrs. Edwards, was exercising the street at the accident.

He went to where the injured ones
were lying and where the mother of

The Hartford Times.

WEDNESDAY, JUNE 24, 1903.

GIRL NEARLY KILLED.

Nancy Brewster Injured By Fall
of Telephone Lineman
From Pole.

TAKEN TO THE HOSPITAL.

Child's Mother and Mrs. Charles L.
Edwards Also Injured—Accident
Due to Electric Shock.

A TERRIBLE STREET SCENE.

A most distressing accident occurred
at the southwestern corner of Main and Jefferson streets about 11 o'clock
this afternoon. Four persons received injuries and one will probably die.

Those injured are as follows:

The Injured.

Nancy Brewster of Minneapolis, Minn.
11 years old, compound fracture of the
left leg; scalp wound and possible internal injuries; condition critical.

Mrs. Charles E. Brewster, Minneapolis,
mother of Nancy; injury right side.

Albert Larkin of No. 157 Asylum street,
brother, scalp wound, internal injuries,
suffering from shock.

Mrs. Charles L. Edwards, Wethersfield avenue, bruised on head, suffering from shock.

Nancy Brewster is at the Hartford
hospital. Larkin is at his boarding home but she went to bed shortly after reaching there. She has been for eighteen weeks caring for her very sick child. She was attended by Dr.
We cannot recall a more thoroughly unique or a sadder accident in this city than that which befell Mrs. Edwards and her visitors, Mrs. and little Miss Brewster, on yesterday. The shock to all concerned, the dread incident to the little girl, the self-forgetful sympathy and heroism of the unfortunate lineman, Larkin, whose surprising fall was the cause of all the trouble, all combine to make the affair noteworthy, while the fact that people are in danger of having others fall upon them through the air adds a new peril abroad. It is to be hoped most sincerely that the injured child will recover and that an operation may not be necessary. There is enough of the tragic in the accident already. The sympathy of everyone who learned of yesterday's occurrence was prompt and sincere.

Nancy Brewster of Minneapolis, Minn., the little girl who was frightfully injured, Wednesday morning, by being struck by Albert R. Larkin, a lineman, when he fell from a pole at the corner of Main and Jefferson streets, is in a critical condition at the Hartford hospital. There are grave doubts as to her recovery. The hospital physicians have decided that they will not amputate the little one's fractured leg. As a result of the accident, Mrs. Edwards, wife of Professor Charles L. Edwards of the faculty of Trinity college, is still confined to her bed, at her home, N. 165 Asylum avenue, and Mr. Larkin is in bed at his boarding place, No. 165 Asylum street, suffering from badly burned hands and the effects of a severe electric shock and bad fall. Nancy Brewster, besides having a compound fracture of the leg and scalp wound, is badly bruised. Her chest and abdomen are bruised and she has a bruised elbow and a black eye. She is also suffering from nervous shock.

We cannot recall a more thoroughly unique or a sadder accident in this city than that which befell Mrs. Edwards and her visitors, Mrs. and little Miss Brewster, on yesterday. The shock to all concerned, the dread incident to the little girl, the self-forgetful sympathy and heroism of the unfortunate lineman, Larkin, whose surprising fall was the cause of all the trouble, all combine to make the affair noteworthy, while the fact that people are in danger of having others fall upon them through the air adds a new peril abroad. It is to be hoped most sincerely that the injured child will recover and that an operation may not be necessary. There is enough of the tragic in the accident already. The sympathy of everyone who learned of yesterday's occurrence was prompt and sincere.

Nancy Brewster of Minneapolis, Minn., the little girl who was frightfully injured, Wednesday morning, by being struck by Albert R. Larkin, a lineman, when he fell from a pole at the corner of Main and Jefferson streets, is in a critical condition at the Hartford hospital. There are grave doubts as to her recovery. The hospital physicians have decided that they will not amputate the little one's fractured leg. As a result of the accident, Mrs. Edwards, wife of Professor Charles L. Edwards of the faculty of Trinity college, is still confined to her bed, at her home, N. 165 Asylum avenue, and Mr. Larkin is in bed at his boarding place, No. 165 Asylum street, suffering from badly burned hands and the effects of a severe electric shock and bad fall. Nancy Brewster, besides having a compound fracture of the leg and scalp wound, is badly bruised. Her chest and abdomen are bruised and she has a bruised elbow and a black eye. She is also suffering from nervous shock.

Nancy Brewster, besides having a compound fracture of the leg and scalp wound, is badly bruised. Her chest and abdomen are bruised and she has a bruised elbow and a black eye. She is also suffering from nervous shock.

Nancy Brewster, besides having a compound fracture of the leg and scalp wound, is badly bruised. Her chest and abdomen are bruised and she has a bruised elbow and a black eye. She is also suffering from nervous shock.

JULY 4, 1903.

An operation was performed at the Hartford Hospital yesterday morning upon Nannette Brewster, the child who was so badly injured by an accident at the corner of Main and Jefferson streets, about two weeks ago. The child then received a compound fracture of the leg, and it was found necessary to give the broken bones special attention. The patient rallied from the effects of the ether and, it was said last night, there is no doubt but that Larkin and Mrs. Edwards will recover.

JULY 15, 1903.

Mrs. Edwards, wife of Professor Charles H. Edwards of Trinity college, who was badly injured on June 24 by the falling of a lineman from a telephone pole at the corner of Main and Jefferson streets, was taken to the Jackson sanitarium at Dansville, N. Y. Mrs. Edwards has been suffering continuously from the effects of the accident, and, it was said last night, was comfortable, and would undoubtedly recover.

Nancy Brewster of Minneapolis, Minn., who received the brunt of the lineman's fall remains about the same, at the Hartford hospital. There are grave doubts as to her recovery. The hospital physicians have decided that they will not amputate the little one's fractured leg. As a result of the accident, Mrs. Edwards, wife of Professor Charles L. Edwards of the faculty of Trinity college, is still confined to her bed, at her home, N. 165 Asylum avenue, and Mr. Larkin is in bed at his boarding place, No. 165 Asylum street, suffering from badly burned hands and the effects of a severe electric shock and bad fall. Nancy Brewster, besides having a compound fracture of the leg and scalp wound, is badly bruised. Her chest and abdomen are bruised and she has a bruised elbow and a black eye. She is also suffering from nervous shock.

Nancy Brewster, besides having a compound fracture of the leg and scalp wound, is badly bruised. Her chest and abdomen are bruised and she has a bruised elbow and a black eye. She is also suffering from nervous shock.

Nancy Brewster, besides having a compound fracture of the leg and scalp wound, is badly bruised. Her chest and abdomen are bruised and she has a bruised elbow and a black eye. She is also suffering from nervous shock.
settled with Mrs. Brewster.

The Southern New England Telephone Company has made a satisfactory settlement with Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brewster of Minneapolis, Minn., for the injury which Mrs. Brewster and her daughter, Nanette, received on June 24, when a telephone lineman fell upon them from a pole. The little girl is still at the hospital, but she is steadily improving. At the time of the accident Mrs. Brewster was visiting Mr. Edwards, wife of Professor Charles L. Edwards of Trinity College, and the two ladies and the little girl were on their way to the college to attend the commencement exercises. Mr. Brewster came on after the accident and remained in Hartford awhile. The company pays all of the expenses of Mr. and Mrs. Brewster, the hospital bills and a cash consideration.

Nanette Brewster Leaves the Hospital.

Nanette Brewster, who has been at the Hartford Hospital since her "injury of June 24, has so far recovered as to be able to leave the institution. She was taken yesterday to the house of Professor Charles Edwards, No. 27 Wethersfield avenue, where her mother is staying. The girl is not yet able to walk, being obliged to get about in a wheel chair, but complete recovery from the effects of her injury is expected.

Nanette Brewster, the 11-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Brewster of Minneapolis, Minn., who was frightfully injured at the corner of Main and Jefferson streets, June 24, by the fall of Albert Larkin from a telegraph pole, is fast regaining her health at the home of her uncle, Professor Charles L. Edwards, No. 27 Wethersfield avenue. She was taken from the Hartford hospital Friday.

Lying in bed surrounded by picture books, building blocks and toys, she looked the picture of health when seen by a reporter of The Times this afternoon. Her eyes fairly sparkled as she said that within two weeks she would be at the top of the class.

"My daughter's recovery is considered remarkable," Mrs. Brewster said, "and I am proud that in short time she will be able to walk as well as ever. We miss the old walk, but—"

Mrs. Brewster said this afternoon, that she was going to take Nanette to Dr. A. G. Cook's office to be fitted with a brace for her injured leg. She will also be provided with crutches. Nanette has not been able to walk since the accident, she having sustained a compound fracture of the left leg. She also received a scalp wound and suffered much from shock. Her recovery is considered almost miraculous. Mrs. Brewster is confident that her daughter will completely recover.

Monday night the little girl was taken to New York on the steamer Hartford, arriving back in Hartford on the same boat Wednesday morning. It was the first time that she had seen the salt water and she derived benefit from the trip.

It will be remembered that Mrs. Edwards was also injured by the lineman's fall. She went to a sanitarium in Dansville, N. Y., for treatment and has been there for several weeks. Mrs. Brewster said to-day that reports concerning Mrs. Edwards's condition are not at all encouraging. She is suffering from an injury to her head and spine, and will be compelled to remain at the institution some time.

SEPTEMBER 3, 1903

Nanette Homeward Bound.

Promised to Write Policeman Fagan a Letter for His Kindness.

Mrs. Charles E. Brewster and daughter, Nanette Brewster, of Minneapolis, Minn., are on their way here. They left Hartford on the 8:55 train for Springfield, this morning, and changed cars there for Montreal. From Montreal they will go to Minneapolis on the Canadian Pacific railway and will arrive in Minneapolis, Saturday.

Many will remember the terrible accident to Nanette on June 24, when she was struck by Albert Larkin, a lineman, who fell from the top of a thirty-five-foot pole. She sustained a compound fracture of the left leg, a bad scalp wound and body bruises. For days she lingered between life and death at the Hartford hospital.

With the aid of braces and crutches she was able to walk a few steps before leaving Hartford, and her mother feels confident that she will completely recover.

The little girl was carried from her carriage to the car by Policeman Matthew Fagan, who had been very attentive to her since the accident. Normal L. Hope of No. 106 Wethersfield avenue was a passenger on the same train and he volunteered to carry the little girl from the car in Springfield to the parlor car on which the trip will be made to Montreal.

Tears were in the little girl's eyes when she bade Policeman Fagan good-by. She said, "I will write you a letter when I get home."

Mrs. Brewster said she never found more sympathetic and hospitable people than in this city. In spite of the accident she said she would have many pleasant recollections of her stay here.

The following letter containing the news of the girl's complete recovery written by Mr. Brewster was received here by a friend, to-day:

Minneapolis, Minn., July 4, 1904.

Dear Friend:—Your letter of June 9 was duly received. In reply will say our daughter Nanette seems to have fully recovered the use of her leg, broken in the sad accident on June 24, 1903.

The leg is entirely healed where broken save a bad scar and is not perceptibly shorter than it was before the accident.

She was able to return to school last January and has enjoyed excellent health most of the time since leaving Hartford.

She can run, play and ride her bicycle much the same as other girls. Thanking you for your interest, I am, sincerely yours,

CHA. E. BREWSTER,
Field-Dunning.

A home wedding took place yesterday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at No. 21 Girard avenue, the home of the bride, when Miss Anna M. Dunning (daughter of Mrs. William B. Dunning, and Frances Elliott Field were married, in the presence of relatives and intimate friends. The house was prettily decorated with potted palms and roses. Rev. Joseph H. Twichildren of The Assyrian Hill Congregational church performed the ceremony. The bride wore a pretty dress of white silk de chine, with point lace yoke and trimmings. She carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. Miss Katherine Northam was the maid of honor. She wore a dress of point d'esprit.
Mr. Mather and Miss Moses

Miss Florence Ethel Moses, daughter of Mrs. Alvin H. Bill, and Frank M. Mather, clerk of probate court, were married at Unity Church last evening, at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Joseph Walte, pastor of the church. The altar of the church was handsomely decorated with palms, elders and roses, the decorating being done by the ladies of the church and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus from "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn’s "Wedding March" after the ceremony. The bride's dress was of white crepe de chine, trimmed with duchess lace and pearls. She wore a tulle veil caught with rosebuds and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. Miss Helen L. Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and her bouquet was of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Marlon S. Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white silk muslin, trimmed with cluny lace. They wore picking bouquets of pink roses. The best man was Walter Wilcox Pratt, cousin of the groom, and the ushers were William Mills Malblde, Eugene D. Field, cousin of the groom, George King Dywer, cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Searles. Mr. and Mrs. Mather received many valuable presents, among which were a handsome clock and candelabra from Mr. Mather's associates at the Hall of Record. The ceremony was followed by a wedding breakfast at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill, No. 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Mather will be at home to their friends after September 1 at No. 56 Deerfield avenue.

Flora Louise Brainard, 24

Flora Louise Brainard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brainard, and Everett Elmer Warren were married at the home of the bride, No. 2 Avon street, at 7 o'clock last evening by Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of the Center Congregational Church. The parlor in which the ceremony was performed was decorated with palms, red roses and other flowers, the couple standing under an arch of palms and roses while the ceremony was being performed. The bride's dress was of white crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid was Miss Grace M. Brainard, sister of the bride. Her dress was of gray crepe de chine and her bouquet was of white bride roses. The groom was attended by Louis Warner of this city. The ceremony was followed by a reception. The couple received many valuable presents, among them a silver tea service of six pieces from the Church of Charles G. Lincoln, where the bride has been employed for the past seven years. Mr. and Mrs. Warren left on a wedding trip of two weeks, going as far as Japan. On their return they will be at home to their friends Tuesdays after July 11 at No. 25 Adelaide street.

East Hartford Wedding

One of the prettiest church weddings held in East Hartford for some time took place at St. John's Episcopal Church at 6:30 o'clock last evening, when Miss Sara Hayden, daughter of Mrs. Maria Hayden of Main street, East Hartford, and William Newnam Chalfin Carlton of this city were married. The church was handsomely decorated with palms and cut flowers and was filled with friends and relatives. The Episcopal service was used and the ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Bradin of Hartford and Rev. J. J. McCook, rector of the church. The maid of honor was Miss Daisy Carlton, sister of the groom, and H. B. Bradfield of New York was the best man. The bridesmaids were Miss Bertha Hayden, sister of the bride, Miss Lois Warren of Hartford, and Miss Maude Beaumont and Miss Jessie Goodwin of East Hartford.

East Hartford Wedding

June 26, 1903.

East Hartford Wedding

Mahon-Carroll—Married in Hockanum—Local Notes.

Miss Ruth Winifred Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Joseph Carroll of South Main street, East Hartford, and Egbert Gervase Mahon were married at St. Mary's Church in East Hartford yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the couple. The ceremony was performed by Rev. T. S. Duggan, pastor of the church, assisted by Rev. J. J. Gleson of Willimantic, formerly pastor of St. Mary's, and Rev. F. Murray. Miss Nellie Ban-

Miss M. May Carroll, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and the groom was attended by his brother, Charles A. Mahon, of Albany, N. Y., as best man. Miss Rose Bannon of Lakeville was bridesmaid and the ushers were T. A. Warner, of New York, the wedding trip of the couple. Following the ceremony at the church a reception was held at the home of the groom's parents and was attended by the relatives and intimate friends. The house was very prettily trimmed for the occasion. Following the reception Mr. and Mrs. Mahon left on a trip. They will make their home at Howick, Province of Quebec, Canada, where Mr. Mahon is engaged in the lumber business. On Wednesday evening the groom gave dinner to his friends and as a present gave his ushers real gold pins. The bride's gifts to the maid of honor and bridesmaid were gold bracelets. The bride received many handsome and valuable presents. At the church Miss Pagan presided at the organ, assisted by Thomas Cavanagh on the violin. Miss Josephine St. John sang "Salve! Regia!" by Dana, at the offertory. Mrs. Edward L. Bauder sang "O Salutaris," after the devotion and Edward H. St. John sang "Ave Maria" after the "Agnus Dei."
AN EXPELLED GIRL'S TUITION FEES.

Suit for $6750 Brought by the Misses Ely Against a Natnick Linen

OF SPORTS.

Poughkeepsie if the distance is reduced from four miles to three. The question of eliminating the deadly fourth mile was discussed at a meeting of the board of stewards of the associations here. Although no action was taken it is said that all three stewards at the meeting favored the change.

No invitations to compete in the regatta will be issued until after the next meeting of the stewards in February. The races this year will be rowed at Poughkeepsie on June 21.

Gilbert High in Front.

H. P. H. S. READY FOR NAVAL MEET

Coach Fox's Runner: Showing Fine Form
Practice for Games.

كوش فياكس's Runner:
Showing Fine Form
Practice for Games.

HOPE TO REPEAT
LAST YEAR'S WINS

Springfield and Holyoke
Will Oppose Broad St.
Speed Next Month.

Local interest in the coming athletic carnival of the Second Division Naval Militia will be great and centered about the work of the track-protectors of the Hartford high school, under Coach George Fox. The usual, the local school will send its best men to the starting point, and if they all come up to expectation many difficulty should be experienced in seeing them in coming to the fore in their respective events. The inter-school relay, the 150 yard dash, the 800 yard dash, the 1,000 yard run, etc., will contain H. P. H. S. and Mr. Hough, both of its prospects, the events will take place in mid-May.

Last Year's Record.

A record to be envied by high school of this section in last year's naval games, when the local harriers took first in the three mile relay, second in the 150 yard dash and third in the 200 yard dash, and the representatives of Spring- fiel and Holyoke high schools, in addition to other high schools throughout New England.

The Speed Kings.

Coach Fox will have a large fi...
These Were Hartford Female School Graduates of 1853

Living Members of Class of '53 Are Raising a Fund

Of these twenty-four girls who graduated from the old seminary, they are indicated by an asterisk (*). Top row, left to right: Isabel Simeon T. Hyde); Frances Greene (Mrs. Martin T. Bennett); Susanon. Second Row: *Maria Crofut, Ann Mary Chapman, *Carrie Bird, Mabelle (Mrs. Rowland Swift); *Esther Wheaton. Third row: Mary Bird Mills (Mrs. Moses Welch); *Mary Conley (Mrs. Wilcox); *Louise Chafee (Mrs. Merrin, Springfield); Jane Best, Ellen Leonard, Jane Goldthwaite on their arms at graduation, out of respect to the memory of a teacher.

Mr. Mather and Miss Moses

Miss Florence Ethel Moses, daughter of Mrs. Alvin H. Bill, and Frank M. Mather, clerk of probate court, married at Unity Church last evening at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Joseph W. pastor of the church. The altar of the church was handsomely decorated with palms, elders and roses, the door being done by the ladies of the church and was a complete surprise to bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mari Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace, wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was G. W. Wentworth, cousin of the groom, George King Dwyer, cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Searles. Mr. and Mrs. Mather received many valuable presents, among which were some paintings, by D. W. Wentworth from the congregation of Unity Church. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill at 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses, and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mari Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace, wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was

Mr. Mather and Miss Moses

Miss Florence Ethel Moses, daughter of Mrs. Alvin H. Bill, and Frank M. Mather, clerk of probate court, married at Unity Church last evening at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Joseph W. pastor of the church. The altar of the church was handsomely decorated with palms, elders and roses, the door being done by the ladies of the church and was a complete surprise to bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mari Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace, wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was G. W. Wentworth, cousin of the groom, George King Dwyer, cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Searles. Mr. and Mrs. Mather received many valuable presents, among which were some paintings, by D. W. Wentworth from the congregation of Unity Church. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill at 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses, and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mari Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace, wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was G. W. Wentworth, cousin of the groom, George King Dwyer, cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Searles. Mr. and Mrs. Mather received many valuable presents, among which were some paintings, by D. W. Wentworth from the congregation of Unity Church. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill at 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses, and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mari Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace, wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was G. W. Wentworth, cousin of the groom, George King Dwyer, cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Searles. Mr. and Mrs. Mather received many valuable presents, among which were some paintings, by D. W. Wentworth from the congregation of Unity Church. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill at 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses, and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mari Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace, wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was G. W. Wentworth, cousin of the groom, George King Dwyer, cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Searles. Mr. and Mrs. Mather received many valuable presents, among which were some paintings, by D. W. Wentworth from the congregation of Unity Church. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill at 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses, and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mari Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace, wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was G. W. Wentworth, cousin of the groom, George King Dwyer, cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Searles. Mr. and Mrs. Mather received many valuable presents, among which were some paintings, by D. W. Wentworth from the congregation of Unity Church. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill at 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses, and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas. The bridesmaids were Miss Mari Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace, wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was G. W. Wentworth, cousin of the groom, George King Dwyer, cousin of the bride, and Wilbur Searles. Mr. and Mrs. Mather received many valuable presents, among which were some paintings, by D. W. Wentworth from the congregation of Unity Church. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill at 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses, and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Songs of Praise," after the ceremony, bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace, pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Hel Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin, trimmed with white lace, and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas.
Seminary
More Than Sixty Years Ago.

Nearly sixty-four years ago only six are living. In the following list:

Goodell, daughter of Dr. Goodell of Constantinople; Charlotte Morgan of Goodwin (Mrs. H. K. W. Welch); Antoinette Phelps, Kate Hunting-Goodell (Mrs. Dr. Henry Barnum, Harpoot, Turkey); Sarah E. Gil-Lizzie Thatcher, *Mary Chapman (Mrs. Frederick F. Street); Sarah Fourth row: Martha Buell (Mrs. J. G. Rathbun); Ellen Fitch (Mrs.

Members of the class wore crepe at Miss Strong who died during the year.

Member of the Seminary Class of 1853,
Living Here Now.

The most prominent an stitutions of learning in this-early '50s was the Hart-
izable or tear

ounded in 1836 and the first
was Miss Catherine Beeching 1849, its officers were:
ent—Hon. Thomas Day,
—Reuben Langdon,
Dr. Joel Hawes, Hon.
Hon. William W. Ellis-
eter—Reuben Langdon,
Mr. Olm-
ben Langdon, Amos M. Col-

125 and to Provide College Scholarships for Girls.

UNION GIVEN UP.

AFTER FIFTY YEARS.

1853.

The fiftieth, or golden, anniversary of the uation of the class of 1853, the ird Female Seminary, was cele-
ester afternoon by a re-
 the house of Mrs. Julius G.
No. 218 Ashley street, four-

JULY 9, 1908.

Members of Seminary Class of 1853,
Living Here Now.

The most prominent an stitutions of learning in this-
early '50s was the Hart-
izable or tear

ounded in 1836 and the first
was Miss Catherine Beeching 1849, its officers were:
ent—Hon. Thomas Day,
—Reuben Langdon,
Dr. Joel Hawes, Hon.
Hon. William W. Ellis-
eter—Reuben Langdon,
Mr. Olm-
ben Langdon, Amos M. Col-

125 and to Provide College Scholarships for Girls.

UNION GIVEN UP.

AFTER FIFTY YEARS.

1853.

The fiftieth, or golden, anniversary of the uation of the class of 1853, the ird Female Seminary, was cele-
ester afternoon by a re-
 the house of Mrs. Julius G.
No. 218 Ashley street, four-

JULY 9, 1908.

Members of Seminary Class of 1853,
Living Here Now.

The most prominent an stitutions of learning in this-
early '50s was the Hart-
izable or tear

ounded in 1836 and the first
was Miss Catherine Beeching 1849, its officers were:
ent—Hon. Thomas Day,
—Reuben Langdon,
Dr. Joel Hawes, Hon.
Hon. William W. Ellis-
eter—Reuben Langdon,
Mr. Olm-
ben Langdon, Amos M. Col-

125 and to Provide College Scholarships for Girls.

UNION GIVEN UP.

AFTER FIFTY YEARS.

1853.

The fiftieth, or golden, anniversary of the uation of the class of 1853, the ird Female Seminary, was cele-
ester afternoon by a re-
 the house of Mrs. Julius G.
No. 218 Ashley street, four-

JULY 9, 1908.

Members of Seminary Class of 1853,
Living Here Now.

The most prominent an stitutions of learning in this-
early '50s was the Hart-
izable or tear
MR. MATHER AND MISS MOSES

Miss Florence Ethel Moses, daughter of Mrs. Alvin H. Bill, and Frank M. Mather, clerk of probate court, were married at Unity Church last evening at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. Joseph W. pastor of the church. The altar of church was handsomely decorated with palms, elders and roses, the decor being done by the ladies of the church and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple. As the couple entered the church D. W. Wentworth, the organist, rendered the bridal chorus of "Lohengrin," and Mendelssohn's "Ves March" after the ceremony.

The bride's dress was of white crepe chine, trimmed with duchesse lace pearls. She wore a tulle veil with rosebuds and carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Helen Bolles of Springfield was maid of honor. Her dress was of white silk muslin trimmed with white lace, and her bouquet was of white sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Mark Fowler and Miss Ethel C. Fish. Their dresses were of embroidered white muslin, trimmed with cluny lace. They wore pink sashes and carried bouquets of pink roses. The best man was Wilcox Pratt, cousin of the groom, and the ushers were William Maltbie, Eugene D. Field, cousin to the groom, George King Dwyer, cousin to the bride, and Wilbur Searles. The best man and the ushers were members of the church and were among the congregation who were present.

The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Alvin H. Bill, at 56 Deerfield avenue. The house was decorated with palms, daisies and roses and the couple were received by the bride's mother and the guests at the wedding. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Mather will be at home to their friends after September 1 at No. 56 Deerfield avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brainard

Flora Louise Brainard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George W. Brainard and Everett Elmer Warren were married at the home of the bride, No. 2 street, at 7 o'clock last evening by Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of Center Congregational Church, parlor in which the ceremony was performed. The ceremony was followed by a wedding supper at the home of the bride. The ceremony was performed in the presence of the congregation and the couple were received by the bride's mother and the guests at the wedding. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Warren left for their return they will be at home to their friends after July 21, at 25 Adelaide street.

Carlton-Hayden.

THE FIELD

By BRIGGS

One of the prettiest church weddings held in East Hartford for some time took place at St. John's Episcopal Church last evening. The wedding of Miss Florence Ethel Moses, daughter of Mrs. Alvin H. Bill, and Frank M. Mather, clerk of probate court, was attended by many of the congregation, and was a complete surprise to the bridal couple.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of the congregation and the couple were received by the bride's mother and the guests at the wedding. After the wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Warren left for their return they will be at home to their friends after July 21, at 25 Adelaide street.

"PHEW! IT'S TOO HOT FOR THIS GAME"

Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Bauer sang "O Salutaris" after the devotions and Edward H. St. John sang "Ave Maria" after the "Agnus Dei."
AN EXPULSED GIRL’S TUITION FEES.

Suit for $172 Brought by the Misses Ely Against a Natick Papa.

(Boston Special to New York Sun.)

The Misses Elizabeth and Mary Ely, principals of a girls' school in New York, have brought suit against J. W. Walcott of Natick to recover $172 and expenses of $172 alleged to be due for the tuition of his daughter, Miss Madeleine Walcott, who was expelled from the school on December 3, 1902. The suit is one of the chapters in the escapades of three school girls, which had its result in the marriage last June of Tompkins Graydon, the Harvard full back, to Miss Beryl Whitney. On November 13 of last year Miss Walcott, Miss Whitney and another young woman were suspended from the Miss Ely School because they “broke certain inflexible rules of said school.” On November 22 they were “rusticated” to the town of Sharon, Conn., in charge of a chaperon. After the Yale-Harvard game Graydon went to Sharon to see Whitney and was introduced to Walcott’s brother, S. C. Pratt, in Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Aesthetic Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and will be a large and fashionable affair. Many invitations have been received here, as well as in Plainfield and other places in New Jersey.

The bride will be given away by her father, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Ethel Plumme, for her maid of honor. In addition, there will be a little flower girl, her cousin, Edythe Milliken. The bride, who is very young, will wear a gown of chiffon, tucks and trimmed with lace. Her veil will be of tissue, fastened with orange blossoms, and she will carry lilies of the valley. The little flower girl will also be dressed in a white chiffon gown, as will the maid of honor. The wedding is to be at 10:30 A. M. and the reception will follow at the home of the bride’s uncle, Mr. Hough of New Haven, Conn. The bride’s father, Horace Snyder of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Aesthetic Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and will be a large and fashionable affair. Many invitations have been received here, as well as in Plainfield and other places in New Jersey.

The bride will be given away by her father, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Ethel Plumme, for her maid of honor. In addition, there will be a little flower girl, her cousin, Edythe Milliken. The bride, who is very young, will wear a gown of chiffon, tucks and trimmed with lace. Her veil will be of tissue, fastened with orange blossoms, and she will carry lilies of the valley. The little flower girl will also be dressed in a white chiffon gown, as will the maid of honor. The wedding is to be at 10:30 A. M. and the reception will follow at the home of the bride’s uncle, Mr. Hough of New Haven, Conn. The bride’s father, Horace Snyder of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Aesthetic Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and will be a large and fashionable affair. Many invitations have been received here, as well as in Plainfield and other places in New Jersey.

The bride will be given away by her father, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Ethel Plumme, for her maid of honor. In addition, there will be a little flower girl, her cousin, Edythe Milliken. The bride, who is very young, will wear a gown of chiffon, tucks and trimmed with lace. Her veil will be of tissue, fastened with orange blossoms, and she will carry lilies of the valley. The little flower girl will also be dressed in a white chiffon gown, as will the maid of honor. The wedding is to be at 10:30 A. M. and the reception will follow at the home of the bride’s uncle, Mr. Hough of New Haven, Conn. The bride’s father, Horace Snyder of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Aesthetic Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and will be a large and fashionable affair. Many invitations have been received here, as well as in Plainfield and other places in New Jersey.

The bride will be given away by her father, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Ethel Plumme, for her maid of honor. In addition, there will be a little flower girl, her cousin, Edythe Milliken. The bride, who is very young, will wear a gown of chiffon, tucks and trimmed with lace. Her veil will be of tissue, fastened with orange blossoms, and she will carry lilies of the valley. The little flower girl will also be dressed in a white chiffon gown, as will the maid of honor. The wedding is to be at 10:30 A. M. and the reception will follow at the home of the bride’s uncle, Mr. Hough of New Haven, Conn. The bride’s father, Horace Snyder of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Aesthetic Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and will be a large and fashionable affair. Many invitations have been received here, as well as in Plainfield and other places in New Jersey.

The bride will be given away by her father, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Ethel Plumme, for her maid of honor. In addition, there will be a little flower girl, her cousin, Edythe Milliken. The bride, who is very young, will wear a gown of chiffon, tucks and trimmed with lace. Her veil will be of tissue, fastened with orange blossoms, and she will carry lilies of the valley. The little flower girl will also be dressed in a white chiffon gown, as will the maid of honor. The wedding is to be at 10:30 A. M. and the reception will follow at the home of the bride’s uncle, Mr. Hough of New Haven, Conn. The bride’s father, Horace Snyder of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Aesthetic Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and will be a large and fashionable affair. Many invitations have been received here, as well as in Plainfield and other places in New Jersey.

The bride will be given away by her father, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Ethel Plumme, for her maid of honor. In addition, there will be a little flower girl, her cousin, Edythe Milliken. The bride, who is very young, will wear a gown of chiffon, tucks and trimmed with lace. Her veil will be of tissue, fastened with orange blossoms, and she will carry lilies of the valley. The little flower girl will also be dressed in a white chiffon gown, as will the maid of honor. The wedding is to be at 10:30 A. M. and the reception will follow at the home of the bride’s uncle, Mr. Hough of New Haven, Conn. The bride’s father, Horace Snyder of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Aesthetic Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and will be a large and fashionable affair. Many invitations have been received here, as well as in Plainfield and other places in New Jersey.

The bride will be given away by her father, and she has chosen her sister, Miss Ethel Plumme, for her maid of honor. In addition, there will be a little flower girl, her cousin, Edythe Milliken. The bride, who is very young, will wear a gown of chiffon, tucks and trimmed with lace. Her veil will be of tissue, fastened with orange blossoms, and she will carry lilies of the valley. The little flower girl will also be dressed in a white chiffon gown, as will the maid of honor. The wedding is to be at 10:30 A. M. and the reception will follow at the home of the bride’s uncle, Mr. Hough of New Haven, Conn. The bride’s father, Horace Snyder of Washington, D. C. The wedding will take place in the Crescent Aesthetic Presbyterian Church, Plainfield, and will be a large and fashionable affair. Many invitations have been received here, as well as in Plainfield and other places in New Jersey.
At the recent examination at Washington of the candidates who had been nominated for second lieutenant of the United States Marine Corps, Charles F. Williams, whose appointment was recommended by Senator Hawley and Congressman Henry, passed at the head of the list. Under the expansion of the Marine Corps and the recent promotions in it, there are now seven vacancies in the grade of first lieutenant to be filled and as these appointments are given to the successful candidates in the order of merit, Mr. Williams will now be commissioned a first lieutenant. His father, the late Colonel Charles F. Williams, U. S. M. C., was born in Hartford and passed several years of his early life here, where he had many warm friends. He served in the Civil War with the Connecticut volunteers.

AGED TWINS.

Mrs. Cornelina Hurlburt of this City and Cornelius Farmer of Rockville.

Cornelius Farmer, who lives in Rockville, and Mrs. Cornelina Hurlburt of this city are probably the oldest living twins in the state of Connecticut. They celebrated the eighty-fifth anniversary of their birth on Sunday. They were born in Bolton on June 28, 1818. For a great many years Mr. Farmer was a prosperous agriculturist on West street in Rockville. In recent years he has made his home with his daughter, Mrs. Arthur T. Bissell of Prospect street, Orange, N. J., and one daughter, Mrs. Bissell. Mrs. Hurlburt and Mr. Farmer occasionally take a carriage and drive to the old homestead in Bolton.

DIAMOND WEDDING OF ROYAL COUPLE.

The oldest woman of the British royal family is celebrating her second wedding to-day. She is the Grand Duchess of Mecklenburg-Strelitz, and was formerly the Princess Augusta of Cambridge. The late Duchess of York, mother of the Princess of Wales, was her sister, and Queen Victoria was her full cousin. Like her late august relative, the duchess possesses a vigorous constitution, and in spite of her advanced age—eighty-one years—she is a prominent as well as a picturesque figure in English society, and a guest at nearly all the large social functions in London. The years have been less kind to the Grand Duke, who has been blind for some years, but they have not dampened his spirits, for which he has always been noted. The Princess Augusta of Cambridge, whose father was a son of George III., was married to the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Strelitz in the chapel at Buckingham Palace in the presence of Queen Victoria and Prince Albert, the Duchess of Kent, with the Queen Dowager Adelaide and the late Prince Consort. She was then twenty-one years of age, and a letter written by her sister, the future Duchess of York, who was then a girl of ten, records that she "looked most lovely and was the admiration of everybody." The couple have always spent much of their time in London, and are now living in a small house near Buckingham Palace. They have one son, the Grand Duke George Adolph.

GLEDHILL—AYRES—At "The Cedars," Mystic, Conn., June 30th by the Rev. Claire Luther, Miss Helen Frances Ayres, daughter of Henry W. Ayres of Hartford, Conn., to Herbert A. Gledhill of Mystic.

The wedding of Herbert H. Gledhill and Miss Helen Frances Ayres in Mystic, on Tuesday, has interest for many Hartford acquaintances of the family of the bride and the groom. The latter is the son of the late Egnan Gledhill, and one of a family which is largely concerned in manufacturing woolen goods in New England, and which has its interest in England, and which came here from England, where the home branch of the family is engaged in the same business. He is himself connected with the Mystic Manufacturing company, of which his brother, Edward C. Gledhill, is superintendent and manager. The bride is the daughter of Mr. Henry W. Ayres of this city and granddaughter of the late J. A. Ayres, who was long a home during the later years of his life was in Mystic.

The wedding occurred at noon and the guests were practically confined to members of the two families. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Claire Luther of the Congregational church in Mystic. Mr. and Mrs. Gledhill will reside in West Mystic, near the home in which the bride has lived with her aunt for several years.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, WEDNESDAY, JULY 1, 1903

MARRIED AT WILLIAMSTOWN.

Wedding of Harold C. Brown of This City and Miss Frances Norton.

Harold Chapman Brown of this city, a member of the class of 1901 of Williams college, and Miss Frances Norton, eldest daughter of Mrs. James Sager Norton of Chicago, were married yesterday afternoon in St. John's church at Williamstown, the sumer home of the bride. The church was filled with relatives and friends, among whom were the members of the Williams college faculty and their families, and a large number of out-of-town guests, and though every effort was made toward simplicity, the wedding was one of importance in society at Williamstown. The church decorations were of daisies, laurel, palms and ferns, and the chancel was very prettily trimmed. The bridal party entered the church at the rear and passed up the aisle at precisely 5 o'clock, the bride being attended by her sister, Miss Elizabeth Norton. The bride wore a gown of white chiffon over white silk satin, with a veil and orange blossoms. The best man was Charles M. Olmsted of Chicago. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. W. Chapman Brown of this city, and the ushers were Prof. Frederick F. Perry, Williams, '81, of Williamstown, Joseph M. Ross of Dover, N. J., a classmate of the groom, William Olmsted of Northampton, Mass., and Franklin Carter, and the maid of honor was Miss Helen Frances Brown of this city, and the bridesmaids were Misses Mabel L. Ross, of Chicago, and Mrs. William H. Brown, of Northampton. The wedding tour, which will include a European trip.

Among those present were Dr. and Mrs. Brown of this city, Prof. Purcell of Harvard university, Mr. and Mrs. N. H. Sabine, Mrs. F. F. Leake, Mr. and Mrs. William H. Brown, Prof. Charles Hurlburt, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Ayres, the Rev. J. W. Chapman Brown, and many of the best friends of the bride and groom.
Marriage of Miss Agnes Bryan of the South
School at New York, N. Y.

Miss Agnes Capron Bryan, teacher of vocal music in the South School District, and William Wallace Chandler of St. Louis, Mo., were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon, at the Calvary Methodist Church, Seventh avenue and 13th street, New York. The officiating clergyman was the bride's father, Rev.
Dr. James R. Bryan of Plainfield, N. J., over fifty-five years prominent in the Methodist ministry in New Jersey and New York, and Rev.
Dr. George H. Whitney, pastor emeritus of the Collegiate Institute at Hackett-town, N. J., where the bride was educated.

The ceremony was elaborate and the church was decorated with tasteful effect. The bride advanced up the aisle of the church leaning on the arm of her brother, Dr. Joseph Harker Bryan of Aubury Park, N. J., and the four bridesmaids, preceded by the matron of honor entered the chanel and ascended down the aisle to meet the bride. Upon reaching the bride, the maids turned and preceded her to the altar, there meeting the four ushers, the best man and the bridesmoom. During the service, immediately after the plighting of the troth, Mrs. George Womrath, formerly Miss Forbes of this city, sang the hymn, "O, Perfect Love," set to music by Mrs.
Sum-
er Salter, wife of the organist.
Mr. and Mrs. Salter and Mrs. Womrath are intimate friends of the bride.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Russell R. Door of St. Paul, Minn., a sister of the bride and the bridesmaids were Miss May Bryan of Cranford, N. J., Miss Anna Geer of this city, Miss Edith Harker of East Orange, N. J., and Miss Virgina J. Chandler of St. Louis, Mo., dughter of the bride.

The ushers were Frederic Mariner of Bangor, Me., William Howard Bryan of Cranford, N. J., Dr. William Francis Honan of New York and Dr. George De Wayne Hallett of New York. The best man was Henry Butterworth of New York.

The bride's gown was of white Lierre lace over satin, and she wore an ornament of diamonds and pearls the gift of the groom. She carried a shower bouquet of green peas and ferns. The matron of honor wore white lace over satin with a picture hat of malines and roses. The bridesmaids wore elaborate gowns of fine French lawn with escural lace and pale green flowers and rein-sashes. Their picture hats were of point d'esperit lace and pale green flowers and they carried bouquets of white swansonia. The ushers wore their soarfs pins of garnets and pearls, the gift of the groom. The gifts of the bride to the bridesmaids were brooches of pearls and blue enameled forget-me-nots.

Following the wedding ceremony there was a reception to the family and the intimate friends of the bridal couple at the home of Dr. George McDowell and Mrs. McDowell, No. 116 West 130th street, New York. Among the many valuable and artistic gifts were Cashmere rugs from Miss Bryan, "Co-workers of the South District Schools of Hartford," a music cabinet from the graduating class of the South School, a large cut glass bowl from several of Miss Bryan's Hartford friends and a large check from ladies of the South Church with whom the bride was connected in church work. Mr. and Mrs.
Chandler left for Bakersville, Mo., for an extended wedding trip and will be at home at No. 3,050 Lindell Boulevard,
St. Louis, Mo., after September 15. Mr.
Chandler will have charge of the American Express business during the Louisiana Purchase Exposition.

Miss Bryan was for eight years the successful teacher of vocal music in the South School District and added to her ability and energy a faculty for teaching and a knowledge of music rarely excelled by a public school teacher. Many church singers and others who have attained prominence as vocalists obtained their first instruction in the art of singing from Miss Bryan and her methods were always considered most thorough and orthodox. Miss Bryan was also a teacher of piano and sang for several years in the Choral Union. People acquainted with her work among the schools of the city will not hesitate to award her much credit for the prominent position the pupils have always held in singing among the schools of the city, and for her faithful, conscientious work.

Successor to Miss Bryan.

Miss Daisy Booth, daughter of Hobert Booth of Bristol, has been appointed assistant instructor in vocal music in the South School District. W. D. Bonnier is to be the chief instructor. Miss Booth has been an instructor in music in the public schools in Terryville and Rockville and is taking a course at a summer school of music near Boston.

Mrs. Barnard and Miss Mary Barnard of Detroit, have been spending the month of June with the Misses Barnard of Main street, leave to-day for Gloucester, Mass.

Dr. Thacher.

(The New Haven Register.)

The granting of the degree of LL. D. to Thomas Thacher of New York, by Yale yesterday was a deserved compliment to the prominent man who lived and thought and through, and who has been an example to young men in a life time of high endeavor.

Miss May Ida Marsh, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Marsh of No. 105 Clark street, and Erwin Kelsey Smith were married at the home of the bride's parents at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. Harold Patton, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Miss Edena L.
Marsh, a sister of the bride, was the maid of honor and Clyde R. Smith, a brother of the groom, was the best man. The decorations of the house were of daisies, ferns and roses. The bride, whose dress was of white lawn and there was

27
Miss Mabelle Lillian Babcock, daughter of Mr. Ida M. Babcock, and John Byron Sheehan were married at the home of the bride’s mother, No. 330 Windsor avenue, at 6 o’clock yesterday afternoon by Rev. H. H. Kelsey, pastor of the Fourth Church. The reception room in which the ceremony was performed was decorated with palms, ferns and carnations. The bride was unattended. The bride’s dress was of white crepe de chine over white silk. She carried a bouquet of bride roses. Miss Grace L. Welf of Brooklyn, N. Y., formerly of this city, played the bridal chorus from “Lohengrin.” There were many handsome gifts, that of the groom to the bride being a broach of pearls and diamonds. Mr. and Mrs. Sheehan left last night on a wedding trip, which will include New York, Niagara Falls, the Thousand Islands and points in Canada. Upon their return from their trip in the fall they will make their home in this city. Among those present out of town were guests from Boston, New London, Meriden and Willimantic.

NEW AMHERST TREASURER.

Walter M. Howland, the Well-Known Chicago Lawyer, Who Now Lives at South Amherst

Editor of the Alpinist

Mr. Howland is a native of Conway, July 31, 1864. He received his preparatory education in the public school of Conway, and was graduated at Amherst college in 1887. He entered at the University of Illinois in 1883. He was elected to the Phi Beta Kappa society. He was selected as a competitor for the Kellogg prize in oratory and was one of the commencement speakers, delivering an oration on the commencement stage. Mr. Howland is a member of the Catholic association, the Chicago literary society and the University club. He served a number of terms as president of the Amherst club of Chicago. He delivered the oration at the laying of the corner-stone of the Field memorial library in his native town, Conway, a few years ago. He was elected a trustee of Amherst college in 1895, and is now serving his second term. He is married and has one child. He has recently purchased a summer home, “Prospect Villa,” in Amherst, which he is now occupying.

To Marry Anthony Hope Hawkins

Among the passengers who sailed from New York on Saturday on the Minnehaha for Europe were Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Sheldon of No. 385 Seventh avenue, New York city, who went to join their daughter, Miss Elizabeth Sheldon, who will become the bride of Anthony Hope Hawkins, the novelist, on July 1. The marriage of the English author to the beautiful and accomplished American girl is to be the culmination of a romance that is fully as interesting as any of those fascinating fictional love stories that have been written by Anthony Hope. As a matter of fact there is a connection between those stories and the approaching marriage. Miss Sheldon is, in appearance, almost identical with such a girl as was the Princess Flavia in “The Prisoner of Zenda.” She is also the counterpart in real life of Daisy Digby-Mockham of the “Dolly Dialogues.” Mr. Hope, as he is known in literature, has often told his friends that the heroines of his stories were his ideals of womanhood, and he declared he would marry no girl that was not like them. Several years ago he came to America and here met Miss Sheldon. He recognized in her at once his Princess Flavia, and made court so successfully that long ago there was an understanding that she was one day to become Mrs. Hawkins. After a manner of Englishmen, however, he made no announcement until four weeks before the date of the wedding. Mr. Howland’s father is lessee and manager of Carnegie hall. The young woman is an accomplished singer and plays the violin and piano with finished skill. Her brothers were noted Yale athletes, and her sister is the au and a physician, and was instrumental in the founding of the city hospital in Rutland, Vt., where the family formerly made their home. Anthony Hope Hawkins Married.

London, July 1—Anthony Hope Hawkins, the author, and Miss Elizabeth Sheldon of New York, sister of Suzanne Sheldon (Mrs. Alnley), the actress, were married at St. Bride’s Church, Fleet street, this afternoon, in the presence of many distinguished literary and society people. The church was handsomely decorated and the bishop of Stepney officiated. There were six bridesmaids, among them being Ethel Barrymore. The popularity of Anthony Hope was quite evident at his recent wedding in London with Miss Elizabeth Sheldon of New York, at which there gathered a notable company of distinguished authors, among them Mr. Thomas Hardy, Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, Mr. Edmund Gosse, Miss Sheldon, Mr. Humphry Ward, Mrs. W. K. Clifford, and a host of others equally well known. Mrs. Humphry Ward was among those who sent gifts, and there was an elaborate testimonial from the Society of Authors, to which Mr. Hope Hawkins has rendered such valuable service. To quote from a description of the ceremony in a recent number of the New York Times: "The ceremony was a very simple one.

The recent marriage of Anthony Hope Hawkins and Miss Elizabeth Somerville Sheldon of New York has called attention to the fact that English writers have in recent times seemed as partial to American women as English politicians. Stevenson and Kipling are conspicuous examples. A London paper makes the suggestion that the English author who takes to himself an American wife is secure of interested readers in the old world and the new. Thus far, however, American writers have shown little inclination to reciprocate.
The sixtieth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Cherry was celebrated at their home in the south part of the town yesterday. Mr. and Mrs. Cherry were married July 4, 1843, in this place by Rev. Mr. Ives, for thirty years pastor of the Second Baptist Church. They have been born to them, two of whom are now living, Virginia, wife of L. E. Clare, living with them, and Mildred, Cherry and Clara, wife of E. D. Robinson of Pasadena, Cal. Mr. Cherry is a veteran of the Civil War and is a well known citizen. Mrs. Cherry is in good health, and mach wire active than most people 20 years younger. Few pleasant days pass without her taking some housework, and doing it. She is somewhat out of health, but bears it. Her eyesight is becoming dim, but other-Frank B. Messinger of this city and Miss Lulu B. Potter were married in Springfield, Mass., at 6:30 p.m., Wednesday, the Rev. H. H. Morrill officiating.

Julius Messinger of Norwich, a brother of the groom, was the best man, and Mrs. Estelle Potter of Boston was the matron of honor. Miss Mae Smith of Holstein, No. 36 Broad street, up to within a few years ago. He is a graduate of the Hartford Public High school, class of '83, and of Trinity college in the class of 1883, and following a short apprenticeship as a teacher in New York state, he took a post-graduate course at Yale.

Mr. and Mrs. Conklin received many valuable gifts of a useful and ornamental nature, including silverware, china, bric-a-brac and works of art, beside furniture. They left on the 8:26 train for a wedding tour of five or six weeks. They will be "at home" at the Chouteau school in Wollastonford after October 19.

The groom, Mr. Conklin, resided in this city with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Conklin, at No. 108 Broadway, up to within a few years ago. He is a graduate of the Hartford Public High school, class of '83, and of Trinity college in the class of 1883, and following a short apprenticeship as a teacher in New York state, he took a post-graduate course at Yale.

Keyes-Williams.

The first wedding at the Park Avenue Memorial Baptist church, in Springfield, took place on the evening of July 8, when Miss Cora Belle Williams, only child of Mrs. C. D. Williams, formerly of Hartford, was married to Wilbur L. Keyes of Springfield. The ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. Waterbury. Edmond Keyes, a brother of the groom, was best man, and Mrs. Edmund Keyes was matron of honor. The wedding march was played by Miss Gilbert. The ushers were T. H. Rogers, D. L. Pease, H. A. Holland and H. J. Clapp, all Odd Fellows, the groom being a member of that order. Elizabeth Smith and Grace Chapel of Hartford preceded the bride to the altar. They were clad in white and scattered sweet peas. The bride was given away by her mother. She wore a gown of peau de soie with lace trimming and a veil caught up with bride roses, and carried a bouquet of the same kind of flowers. The matron of honor wore mousseline de soie over white and with lace trimmings. The house and the church were decorated in white and green.

A reception followed the ceremony. Guests were present from this city, Springfield, Worcester, Westfield, Deerfield, Winchester, Petersham and Charlemont.

Mr. and Mrs. Keyes left on a wedding journey for the west. On their return they will be "at home" at their friends after July 20 at No. 77 Pearl street, Springfield.

Brooklyn, (N. Y.) people are interested in the decision of Miss Elizabeth Valentine, cousin of the late Rev. Dr. Richard Slater Storrs, and granddaughter of the late Augustus Storrs, to go on the stage. Miss Valentine is a graduate of Cornell, of the class of '02. Her stage aspirations have the backing of her sisters, Mrs. Edward Dreyer of Renssen street, Brooklyn, and Mrs. George E. B. Lamb, also of that city. She played at college the leading feminine roles in "The Tamplng of the Shrew," "The Private Secretary" and "The Man of Destiny." Her ambition is to play Shakespeare. A part that it is declared would be congenial to her talents is that of Regina, daughter of Arling, in one of the two road companies that will play Ibsen's "Ghost" next season.

Ralph Howard Burdett, Yale 1903, son of the late Colonel Charles L. Burdett, is on a short vacation at Cascadilla in the Adirondacks. On his return he will enter the employ of the Factory Insurance Association.
JULY 20, 1903.

Married at St. Peter’s Church.

Andrew S. Cullen, manager of the George F. Quigley company, and Miss Margaret C. Logan, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Lagan of Annawan street, were married in St. Peter’s church this morning, the ceremony being performed by the Rev. Paul F. McAleeney. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. John P. Duffy, and Police Commissioner Dr. James F. O’Leary was the groomsman. After the church ceremony the bridal couple left immediately on their wedding trip. On their return they will reside at No. 195 Retreat avenue.

In the United States Navy Engineer Corps, Admiral Melville, retired, is to be succeeded as chief of the bureau of steam engineering by Commander Richard H. Rand. Some fifty years ago Commander Rae was a living counsellor. On July 24, 1843, the first Boston Evening Transcript was printed, so that in 1893 the paper is forty-three years old. Sunday, July 26, was the birthday of the Transcript’s treasurer, Mr. William Durant, who still maintains his active participation in the business at the ripe age of seven. Mr. Durant entered the employ of the Transcript when the paper was only four years old, being now, therefore, in his seventieth year of continuous active service, which he will complete next February. Such a record as this will be hard to find in the history of American newspaper-making.

Mr. Durant celebrated his anniversary quietly, as is his custom, at his home in West Newton street. From two until nine o’clock he received some sixty of his friends and business associates, who called to present their congratulations, and good wishes. Among the flowers which augmented their friendship and love was one offering, accompanied by an engraved address, with autograph signatures, from sixteen of the Transcript’s staff. The “Old Guard” comprises seventeen men who have averaged forty years in the Transcript’s service.

Mr. William Durant Observes His Eighty-Seventh Birthday—He Completes Seventy Years of Active Service with the Paper Next February.
JULY 27, 1903.

Dr. A. N. Jackson's automobile, carrying the doctor himself, his man and his bulldog, was due in New York City yesterday. It left San Francisco on May 25. It is not as spick and span as when it set out on its run across the continent, but it's still in the ring. "From the day we started," Dr. Jackson told a Washington reporter Friday, "we have been treated with extreme kindness and courteous by the people through whose country we have passed.

JULY 27, 1903.

There is a romance connected with the marriage of a charming American girl which is to the church, this afternoon, bears the quia, and is Welles, from American niece of Loe Thomas Bee whose pills in love with was accepted not like the can daughter no personal; and accompany threatened to penny. The ever, and left: He had an which Miss quite content married. To everybody in say, in the reporter, that the wedding presents will be "numerous and beautiful." The objection of the millionaire Beecham to the Welles family arose from the fact that they had taken the part of his daughter of ex-President Franklin Carter, a graduate of Williams college, centered in her marriage yesterday noon, in the St. Cloud Presbyterian church in West Orange, N. J., to Paul C. Ransom of Buffalo, N. Y. During Dr. Carter's presidency Miss Carter was his loyal helper in that pertained to the social life of the college and was closely identified with the social, charitable and religious life of Williams. At the wedding Miss M. Brown of Bright Hurst was maid of honor and Dr. De Witt Sherman of Buffalo was best man. Mr. Ransom's ushers were Eugene Delano of New York, Bradley Goodwin of Buffalo, Donald M. Ryerson of Chicago, students from the Hill school, where Mr. Ransom has taught for a number of years, and from his own school at Coacanut Grove, in Florida, and Franklin Carter, Jr., a brother of the bride. A large number of the wedding party were Dr. Hatch- Brown and Moreau Delano of New York. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Edward C. Moore of the Harvard University.

FEBRUARY 2, 1907.

Death of Paul C. Ransom.

Word has been received of the death Wednesday in Coacanut Grove, Fla., of Paul C. Ransom, a graduate of Williams college in the class of '86, who married Miss Alice Carter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Carter. Mr. Ransom had been ill since autumn, and for some time was at the Johns Hopkins hospital. He returned to his home in Buffalo last week, but was not well enough to return to Florida. He was graduated with high marks and successful in his professional study, becoming an editor of the Law Review in the Harvard school, to which he returned for two years, where he studied for two years, and then practiced law in New York, where he was engaged until poor health compelled him to seek some other vocation. He chose teaching, and for a short period taught school in Hill. His mother and two brothers were invalids, and during different times that he was with them in the South, they went for their health to the western part of the school which he conducted for several years prior to his death in Coacanut Grove. He also had a school in the Adirondacks, which he conducted during the summer, his southern school being open in the winter. At the last commencement of Williams college in the honorary degree of M. A. was conferred upon him in recognition of his many contributions to the welfare of the college.
are closed, pending bankruptcy proceedings.

W. H. Heyburn of Idaho and His Long Romance.

Spokane, Wash., Aug. 6.—A romance extending over a quarter of a century will come to a happy climax next Wednesday, when Whelden Britton Heyburn, United States Senator from Idaho will marry Miss Gherantine Yeatman of Chester county, Pa. Years ago young Heyburn met Miss Yeatman like himself a Pennsylvaniaan, of Quaker ancestry, and they became friends. In 1884 the young lawyer came west and settled in Idaho. He became a leader of the bar, acquired wealth, and last winter became United States senator.

Senator Heyburn has left for the East and it is announced that his marriage with Miss Yeatman will occur next Wednesday, probably at the home of the bride's mother. A wedding trip to Spokane and Alaska will follow.

The marriage of Miss Lillian May of Baltimore to Lord Bagot will take place in London some time next month. Miss May, who is a sister of Colonel Henry May of Washington, D. C., with her family is now abroad, is the daughter of the late Henry May of Baltimore and has lived abroad with her mother for the past sixteen years. She is tall and graceful and regarded as

IN BANKRUPTCY.

Petition Filed by Norman T. Pitkin, Boiler and Engine Makers.

Norman T. Pitkin, who is engaged in the manufacture of boilers and engines at No. 152 State street, doing business as Pitkin Brothers & Co., has filed a voluntary petition in bankruptcy with the United States district court, giving his liabilities as $27,566.79 and his assets as $34,720.87. Included in the assets are: 0

The Hartford creditors are: Phoenix National Bank, notes, one for $6,000 and one for $5,000; Charter Oak National Bank, note, endorsed by Silas Chapman, Jr., $3,800; L. E. Ensworth & Son, $106.89; Pratt & Cady Company, $810; Roger W. Sherman, $14,418; Mary C. Field Lee, $4,165; Hatch & North Coal Company, $299.36; Phoenix Iron Works Corporation, $134.57; J. Lyon & Son, 16 cents; City Coal Company, $134.83; Hartford Pulp Plaster Company, $4; Capitol City Lumber Company, $3.97; S. Chapman, Jr., $885.78; Henry C. Daniels, $1,000; C. L. C. Olson & Co., $3.75; J. C. Bidwell & Co., $4.39; "Hartford Courtant" Company, $16; Southern New England Telephone Company, $12.75; Miss F. C. Johnson, $1,000; Way Hardware Company, $31.01; Williams & Carleton, $4.87; S. J. Hussey, $1.

The works of Pitkin Brothers & Co. are closed, pending bankruptcy proceedings.

BRUCE—ABBE—In this city, Thursday, August 6, 1886, by Rev. Harold Patton, all the First Baptist church, William H. Bruce and Miss Estelle Winn Abbe.

George H. Collins, who has been connected with the Scottish Union and National Insurance Company for a number of years and for something over a year has been engaged in field work for the company in the South, has been appointed special agent, with his headquarters at Atlanta, Ga. His territory comprises Georgia, Florida, Alabama and Mississippi. Mr. Collins is the son of James M. Collins of No. 75 Madison street.

Aug. 10, 1903

Ledy Seymour Matthews, daughter of Mrs. Susan Terry Matthews, and Ralph Warren McCready, The marriage of Miss August 7, 1903.

Also Good Soldier; Also Life Saver; [New York Sun]

The soldier who left the young woman he was escorting and stopped the runaway cab

Lord Bagot, who married Lillian May of Baltimore last Saturday, is the head Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ashley L. Leavitt, assistant pastor of the South Congregational Church, in the presence of relatives and friends. The groom is employed by the Aetna Life Insurance Company and both bride and groom have been until recently residents of this city. Mr. and Mrs. McCready will be at home Wednesday October 1. They went to Middletown last night and will start to-day on a canoe trip down the river and along the Sound.

One of the new rear admirals to be made to-morrow is Capt Charles D. Sigbee, celebrated as the commander of the ill-fated Maine. Condr Richard Wainwright, also of Spanish war fame, will now become a captain.

BIG FOOTBALL MAN.

AUGUST 7, 1903.

The soldier who left the young woman he was escorting and stopped the runaway cab

Lord Bagot, who married Lillian May of Baltimore last Saturday, is the head Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ashley L. Leavitt, assistant pastor of the South Congregational Church, in the presence of relatives and friends. The groom is employed by the Aetna Life Insurance Company and both bride and groom have been until recently residents of this city. Mr. and Mrs. McCready will be at home Wednesday October 1. They went to Middletown last night and will start to-day on a canoe trip down the river and along the Sound.

One of the new rear admirals to be made to-morrow is Capt Charles D. Sigbee, celebrated as the commander of the ill-fated Maine. Condr Richard Wainwright, also of Spanish war fame, will now become a captain.
Asleep Fortescue went to his room, armed with an old horse pistol, which had been loaded up with a lot of junk calculated to increase the sound of the gunpowder. He stood at the foot of the Texan's bed and emptied the pistol into the headboard. The Texan sprang out of bed in supreme terror and was marched in his night clothes around the campus while Yale looked on.

The faculty took up the case. Fortescue admitted his guilt and that ended his career at Yale. His stepfather never offered a word of criticism, saying he was glad that "Boil" had owned up.

Miss Alice Eckhardt.

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, WEDNESDAY, AUG. 12, 1903

OBSERVED GOLDEN WEDDING.

Old Deerfield People Celebrate An-niversary—Remember Olden Times

An assembly of many neighbors and relatives last evening helped Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Zabina Stebbins celebrate their golden wedding at their home in the little community of Wapping in the town of Deerfield. They have lived in their present home, a big old square New England house, nearly all the time since they married, and in it they have had five children born to them, of whom two are living. Both Mr. and Mrs. Stebbins belong to old Deerfield families. Mrs. Stebbins, whose maiden name was Maria Childs, was the daughter of Dea. D. W. Childs. She will be 70 years old Monday. Mr. Stebbins was 77 the 10th of last March.

Mr. Stebbins takes his first name from his grandfather Benjamin, and his second from his father Zabina. At the time of his birth his father lived in the Sugar Loaf district and ran a farm and a country mill there. Edward Ely now owns and occupies the old homestead. During his boyhood Mr. Stebbins went to the school in the district.

In the course of a conversation the old gentleman who has watched Fortescue grow up from childhood, "the boy's the living picture of him."
Miss Ella Amelia Burr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Burr, and George Russell Orcutt, Jr., were married at the home of the bride, No. 16 Linden place, at 7 o'clock last evening, by Rev. H. M. Thompson, pastor of the Memorial Congregational Church. The bride was dressed in white silk mull, trimmed with white satin ribbon and medallions, and carried a bouquet of white roses, while the matron of honor, Mrs. Morgan Burr of Wethersfield, wore white dotted Swiss, trimmed with white lace and medallions, and carried white carnations. Charles W. Burr and Valentine E. Burr, brothers of the bride, were ribbon bearers. Morgan Burr of Wethersfield was the best man and the ushers were Byron L. Dowling and Eugene E. White of this city. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreen and the other decorations were ferns, goldenrod and goldenbells.

The wedding march, the "Bridal Chorus" from "Lohengrin," was played by Miss Lillian Alderman of Bloomfield. A reception followed the ceremony. There were many handsome wedding gifts. Mr. and Mrs. Orcutt left on a wedding trip last night and upon their return will live at No. 16 Linden place, where they will be at home to their friends after September 10. Among the out-of-town guests were the father and mother of the groom, Mr. and Mrs. George R. Orcutt of Bristol, Vt.

Raymond Ludlow Slocum, son of Captain and Mrs. Charles H. Slocum of No. 148 Beacon street, and Miss Margot Marie Ried of Elmwood were married at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at St. James's Episcopal Church, West Hartford, by Rev. Dr. James Gammack. The maid of honor was Miss Esther J. Paradise of this city and the best man was Louis Slocum, a brother of the groom. John Delbert Moody and Robert F. Moody were ushers and the Misses Ma bel and Frances Slocum, sisters of the groom, were flower girls. The bride's dress was of white organdie and she carried a shower bouquet of marguerites. The bridesmaid and flower girls wore white trimmed with pink. A quiet reception was held at the rectory after the ceremony. On their return from a short wedding journey Mr. and Mrs. Slocum will live at No. 103 Smith street, where they will be at home after September 15.

Mrs. C. H. Eckhardt and her daughter, Miss Alice Eckhardt, who are staying in Hartford for the summer, have moved from Farmington avenue to No. 1 Linden place. Miss Eckhardt, after two years of study in Florence, Italy, and in New York under Miss Maud Morgan, has become an accomplished harpist, and is to be brought out in New York this winter by Miss Morgan.

Mrs. Charles E. Eckhardt and her daugh ter, Miss Alice Eckhardt, who are staying in Hartford for the summer, have moved from Farmington avenue to No. 1 Linden place. Miss Eckhardt, after two years of study in Florence, Italy, and in New York under Miss Maud Morgan, has become an accomplished harpist, and is to be brought out in New York this winter by Miss Morgan.
The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ernest de F. Miel of Trinity Church, Hartford, assisted by Rev. Wilberforce Welles, the resident rector.

It was a military wedding and the decoration was in the cavalry colors, the masses of yellow flowers and flags in the church making a beautiful picture. Kingman's Orchestra of Pittsfield furnished the music. As the bridal party was forming the bugle call "Assembly" was sounded and the procession then entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." The bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, was preceded by five ushers, all of them officers of the United States army, in full uniform, and two bridesmaids. The ushers were Lieutenants Wood, Cornly and Grant, Third Cavalry; Lieutenant Wesson, Eighth Cavalry, and Lieutenant Canfield, Artillery Corps. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Hall and Miss Florence Barbour of Hartford. Miss Beulitt of Stamford was the maid of honor.

The bridesmaids' dresses were of white batiste trimmed with lace and with taffeta of white chiffon. They wore yellow straw hats trimmed with white feathers and carried blue cornflowers. The maid of honor was similarly dressed, save that she was distinguished by a yellow sash and yellow feathers in her hat. She carried yellow flowers. The bride wore white pima cloth over white satin, trimmed with old point lace. Her ornaments were a diamond heart brooch, a gift from her brother, and a necklace with a pearl pendant. Her veil was fastened with a pin of Baroque pearls and she carried white sweet peas. The groom, in full uniform and attended by his brother, Lieutenant Sterling, Jr., of Detroit, met the bride at the chancel steps. The betrothal service was read and the bride was given away by her brother, William Strong Post of Hartford. Attended by the maid of honor and the best man, the bride and groom then proceeded to the altar rail, where the marriage service was concluded. Immediately following the benediction came the bugle call, "Recess," and while the bridal party was forming, Arthur Harmont Graves of Yale orchestra played class of 1900, son of the late Joseph Banner, and "A Cottage in France," the latest music of John Philip Sousa. The house was decorated purple and blue, and the friends who had assembled from far and near made the occasion a joyous one. A toast was drunk from a beautiful silver loving cup, a gift to Lieutenant Sterling from the fraternity of Delta Psi, of which he is a member.

Last night a dance was given for the bridal party by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brownell Chapman of Hartford at the charming old house, "Unity Lodge," which they have taken for the month. Mrs. Chapman is a sister of the bride. The wedding breakfast was given by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Darling Parker of Hartford at their summer home, "Bonnie Brook," and to-night the wedding festivities will be concluded with a dance at one of the village halls.

Lieutenant Sterling was graduated from West Point in 1901 and has seen service in the Philippines. Last Monday evening he gave a dinner to his ushers in Pittsfield. Lieutenant and Mrs. Sterling will take a driving trip through the Berkshires and at the expiration of the former's leave of absence will go to Fort Assinaboine, in southern Montana, the headquarters of the Third Cavalry.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Sterling, mother of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. William Burnetshaw of Detroit; Mrs. H. D. Bean, Mrs. P. H. Ingalls, Mr. and Mrs. George Watson Beach, Mrs. Dennis, Mrs. Phelps, Mrs. R. H. Chapman, the Misses Barbour, Miss Goodrich, Miss Hattie Barbour, Miss Helen E. Howard, Miss Elizabeth Hyde, Mrs. Grace Hall and the Messrs. Wilson, Davis, E. E. Howard, J. L. Howard, Jr., and A. W. Hyde of Hartford; Mr. Wheeler of Schenectady and Mr. Hudson of Syracuse.

Lieutenant Sterling was a member of the class of 1899 of Trinity College, and graduated from West Point in 1901. For some time he was stationed in the Philippines.

The Seattle (Wash.) Post-Intelligencer of August 23, said: "Miss Edith A. Sheldon, late of Hartford, Conn., and James W. Collins of this city, were married at the home of the bride's mother, Miss Leavitt of Hartford, at 230½ Twenty-third avenue, north, Wednesday evening, August 19. Miss Helen Collins was the maid of honor and Miss Ethel Collins were bridesmaids. Arthur Sheldon, the bride's brother, gave the bride away and S. F. Cooper was best man. The Rev. Thomas C. Wiswell was the officiating clergyman. Only the immediate friends of the families were present.

GRAVES—LEIGHTON—In Boston August 21, by Rev. Allen E. Cross, Miss Alma Leighton of New Haven to Arthur H. Graves of this city. Announcement has been made of the marriage in Boston last Monday of Arthur H. Graves of this city and Miss Alma Leighton of New Haven. Mr. Graves is a son of Mrs. Mary H. Graves of No. 5 Main street. His father was the late Joseph A. Graves, principal of the South School. Arthur H. Graves is an instructor in botany in the Yale Forest School and in the Sheffield Scientific School. For two years he has been teaching in the Yale Summer School of Forestry, which is situated on the estate of Gifford Pinchot at Milford, Pa. For two years Mr. Graves was an instructor in the private school kept by Miss Leighton at the corner of Whitney avenue and Grove street, New Haven. Mr. and Mrs. A REMARKABLE BERKSHIRE WOMAN

Mrs Sabra C. Aldrich, widow of Asa Aldrich of Clarksburg, was in Williams last week visiting friends. She drove from her home in Clarksburg, and spent a day with her granddaughter, Mrs William F. Goodell of the White Oaks, afterwards moving her automobile to Great-Ellis. Mrs. Aldrich is 88 years old, and is able to get about much better than some of lesser years. Her eyesight and hearing is as good as ever. She is grandmother, great-grandmother and great-great-grandmother, mother of triplets, which are said to be the oldest in the world living. They are now in their 85th year. She has four living children and four dead, and a score or more of grand and great-grand and great-great-grandchildren living.
Miss Arne Wilson Post, daughter of Coma, and Lieutenant Edmund Keary
Sterling, Third Cavalry, U. S. A., were married in the Church of Our Saviour at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Ernest de F. Mel of Trinity Church, Hartford, assisted by Rev. Wilberforce Welles, the resident rector.

It was a military wedding and the decorations were in the cavalry color, the masses of yellow flowers and flags in the church making a beautiful picture. Kingman's Orchestra of Pittsfield, Mass., furnished the music. As the bridal party was forming the bugle-call "Assembly" was sounded and the procession then entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's "Wedding March." The bride, leaning on the arm of her brother, was preceded by five ushers, all of them officers of the United States army, in full uniform, and two bridesmaids. The ushers were Lieutenants Wood, Cornly and Grant, Third Cavalry, Lieutenant Wesson, Eighth Cavalry, and Lieutenant Canfield, Artillery Corps. The bridesmaids were Miss Grace Hall and Miss Florence Barbour of Hartford. Miss Leavitt of Stamford was the maid of honor.

The bridesmaids' dresses were of white batiste trimmed with lace and with tassels of white chiffon. They wore yellow straw hats trimmed with white feathers and carried blue cornflowers. The maid of honor was similarly dressed, save that she was distinguished by a yellow sash and yellow feathers in her hat. She carried yellow flowers. The bride wore white pina cloth over white satin, trimmed with old point lace. Her ornaments were a diamond heart brooch, a gift of the groom, and a necklace with a pear pendant. Her veil was fastened with a pin of Baroque pearls and she carried white sweet peas. The groom, in full uniform and attended by his brother, was given away by her brother, Mr. Strong Post of Hartford. Attended by the maid of honor and the best man, the bride and groom then proceeded to the altar rail, where the marriage service was concluded. Immediately following the benediction came the bugle call, "Semper Fidelis," and while the bridal party was Arthur Hartmount Orchestra played "class of 1900, son of the Banner" and "A. Graves, principal of ceremony there." Intimate friends of the wedding party, Dr. Frank Hart, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Darling Parker of Hartford were guests at the wedding.

The house was decorated with red, white, and blue and the friends who had assembled from far and near made the occasion a joyous one. A toast was drunk from a beautiful silver loving cup, a gift to Lieutenant Sterling from the fraternity of Delta Psi, of which he is a member.

Last night a dance was given for the bridal party by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brownell Chapman of Hartford at the charming old house "Unity Lodge," which they have taken for the month. Mrs. Chapman is a sister of the bride. To-day at noon a breakfast was given by Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Darling Parker of Hartford at their summer home, "Bonny Brook," and to-night the wedding festivities ended merrily with a dance at one of the village halls.

Lieutenant Sterling was graduated from West Point in 1901 and has since seen service in the Philippines. Last Monday evening he gave a dinner to his officers. Lieutenant and Mrs. Sterling will take a driving trip through the Berkshires and at the expiration of the former's leave of absence will go to Fort Assiniboine, in southern Montana, the headquarters of the Third Cavalry.

Among the out-of-town guests at the wedding were: Mrs. Sterling, mother of the groom, and Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sterling, of Detroit, Miss Florence Barbour, Miss Grace Hall and Misses Barbara and Hattie Barbour of Hartford, Mrs. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. Chapman, Mr. and Mrs. Strong Post and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brownell Chapman of Hartford. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brownell Chapman of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Strong Post of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Darling Parker of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sterling, of Detroit, Miss Florence Barbour, Miss Grace Hall and Misses Barbara and Hattie Barbour of Hartford, Mrs. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. Strong Post and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brownell Chapman of Hartford. Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brownell Chapman of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Strong Post of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Darling Parker of Hartford, Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Sterling, of Detroit, Miss Florence Barbour, Miss Grace Hall and Misses Barbara and Hattie Barbour of Hartford, Mrs. Phelps, Mr. and Mrs. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. Strong Post and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Brownell Chapman of Hartford.
Rev. Dr. Chesebrough's Birthday.

To-day, August 22, 1903, Rev. Dr. Amos S. Chesebrough is 90 years of age and his many friends through the state will be sending him their cordial congratulations. His long life has been one of self-denial and of use to the present and future generations. He is at present advanced age but vigorous, keeps up his duties and conducts his "Courage and Perseverance" books. He is as active as ever. His six children are all living. May he have many happy years to come.

The New Hartford Tribune of this week tells the following interesting story of the extraction of a bullet from the shoulder of the editor of that paper.

CARRIED BULLET 41 YEARS.

CAPTAIN JONES OF NEW HARTFORD EXTRACTS IT WITH PAIR OF PINCHERS.

The New Hartford Tribune of this week tells the following interesting story of the extraction of a bullet from the shoulder of the editor of that paper.

SIR GILBERT CARTER WEDS.

Miss Gertrude Codman Parker, whose engagement to Sir Gilbert Thomas Carter, governor of the Bahamas, was announced yesterday, is a daughter of the late Francis S. Parker of Boston, who died in Bermuda last March. Mr. Parker was prominent in Boston financial and social affairs. He spent last winter with his family in Nassau, where they met Governor Carter. The wedding will take place in August. The Boston home of the family is at 601 Beacon street.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 28.—Sir Gilbert Thomas Carter, governor of the Bahamas, arrived in Boston to-night and on Tuesday afternoon will marry Miss Gertrude Codman Parker, daughter of the late Francis V. Parker of Beacon street.

Governor of the Bahamas Weds.

Boston, Mass., Aug. 25.—Sir Gilbert Thomas Carter, governor of the Bahamas, and Miss Gertrude Codman Parker, were married at the Church of the Advent to-day, the ceremony being performed by Bishop Robert Codman of the Episcopal diocese of Maine, a relative of the bride, and Rev. F. E. Bissell, the curate of the Church of the Advent. After the ceremony a breakfast was served at the home of Miss Parker.
The usual birthday greeting, "Many happy returns!" will hardly do in the case of a man who hears the clock strike ninety. Our wish for Dr. Chesebrough on this anniversary is that the "returns"—be they more or fewer—may be happy ones. Time has dealt very kindly with him thus far. He has seen younger men, strong men intellectually and physically, stricken down by paralysis or shriveled into second childhood. No such calamity has come nigh the dear old doctor. He shoulders his weight of years sturdily, his mind works full time, his eyes look out upon this interesting world as shrewdly as ever. We received a note from him the other day, and we heartily wish that some men of half his age wrote half as legibly.

Yet when the doctor was born James Madison was President of the United States. The doctor was just nineteen days old when Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry had that busy day on Lake Erie. He was a junior in college when William Lloyd Garrison brought out the first number of "The Liberator." The Yale that gave him his sheepskin was the Yale of Jeremiah Day. What changes he has lived to see there, and in the state, and in this family of states, and in the household economy of the human family. Think for a minute of the history that has been made under his eyes and printed upon his memory.

We are glad to have him still with us. He is one of Connecticut's exhibits. We hope he may live in health and happiness to see the making of more history.
To have lived forty score years and twelve does not often fall to the lot of the average man, but this can be said of Wilbraham's oldest citizen.

E. Wright at home. Mrs. J. M. Kellogg, niece of a large number of Willbraham's oldest citizens, was selected to christen the new cruiser Denver, now being constructed at the Cramp's shipyard in Philadelphia at a cost of $1,091,000.

The wedding of Miss Roberta Wright, daughter of Mayor R. R. Wright, Jr., of Denver, to John Reinier Pels of Denver, took place at 6:30 last evening in the Memorial Methodist Episcopal church at Wilbraham, in which the bride's father and mother were married 30 years ago. The wedding was of unusual interest, owing to the social prominence of the young people and to the fact that Mayor Wright is remembered by those who knew the most popular young man that ever left Wilbraham. It was celebrated in the presence of a large number of Wilbraham people and guests from Denver, Washington, D. C., New York, Boston, Wallingford, Ct., and this city. Over a thousand invitations had been issued in connection with the wedding and for several days guests have been gathering and preparations have been in progress for the wedding.

The church where the ceremony was performed was elaborately and artistically decorated with flowers and greenery by Atkin of this city. The pulpit platform was banked with ferns, in the center of which was an immense pink hydrangea, and there were a number of asparagus and golden-rod behind it. Over a foot high, of asparagus and golden-rod, the altar rail and cloth were entirely hidden with a bank of asparagus and golden-rod. Over all hung a bank of running pine and asparagus suspended from the pillars, which were hung with flowers and golden-rod, to the chandelier, from which hung an immense bunch of golden glow, under which the bridal party stood. Large bunches of golden glow that decorated the pew in the middle aisle, which were reserved for the family and guests.

The ushers were Ralph Clutton of Denver, nephew of the groom, Mardell Hubbard of Wallingford, Ct., Louis B. Gillet of New York, classmates of the bride, and Frederic Fuller of this city. The best man was Frederic Carroll of Boston. The bride was attended by her sister, Mrs. E. W. Wappler, as matron of honor, and four bridesmaids—Miss Frances De C. Eddy of New York, Miss Marjorie Perry of North Wilbraham, Miss Lilla G. State of Warren, classmates of the bride, and Miss Gertrude Fuller of this city. They wore pink mousseline de soie and pink tulle veils and carried shower bouquets of pink sweet peas. The matron of honor wore a gown of pink chiffon, edged with medallions of pearl, having silver threads and opalescent scales in the cuter accordion-plaited chiffon was in the train, and a shanty tulle veil covered her face, which was reviled during the ceremony. She wore a veil of white tulle fastened with a diamond tiara, and carried a shower bouquet of white sweet peas. The shower bouquets were especially elaborate and very beautiful.
A recital was given by the organist, W. Leland Runney of this city, while the guests were assembling, including these Marches: "Solennelle," by Mahler, encored; "Inn Corrige," by Holst; "Bassoon Fantasia," by DuBois; "Canzona Napoletana," by DuBois. The bridal party arrived at the church promptly at ten o'clock and the ceremony followed, with the music by the Elizabeth Knapp orchestra, and the processional music by the Elizabeth Knapp orchestra. The ceremony was held in the church parlors, the bride being given away by her father. The ceremony ended with the presentation of the wedding rings to the bride and groom, followed by the presentation of the wedding rings to the bride and groom. After the ceremony the bridal party took their places in a sedan chair, and the procession moved to the streets of "Lodengrin," wedding march, played by the organist. The ceremony was performed by Rev. W. W. Wilber, Rev. W. W. Wilber, principal of Wesleyan academy, and the full Episcopalian service was used. The bride was given away by her father. The ceremony led the way from the church on the arm of the groom, followed by the matron of honor, the bride's father, the bridesmaids, the groomsman, and other guests. They went immediately to the church parlor, where the reception was held. The parquets were covered with ironwork, gold and silver. After Mr. and Mrs. Pels received the congratulations of their friends, a wedding supper was served in the academy dining room by the hands of the city, while the guests were given a tour of the house. The tables were decorated with flowers, and the orchestra played under the direction of the organist. The evening was spent in a delightful musical program during the reception and supper.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Pels left for a wedding trip of some weeks. On their return they will be at home to their friends. Wednesdays in October, at their home, 843 Downing avenue, Denver, which was a gift from the bride's father. The young couple received a present of wedding gifts, which included an upper story at the home of the bride's grandfather, R. R. Wright, and a handsome 2000-dollar ring. The wedding presents were the following: Groom's gift to the bride, a large sapphire ring with 10 diamonds; bride's gift to the matron of honor, standard of 1000 dollars, and a silver case; bride's gift to the bridesmaids, turquoise pins in Russian style, two dragons of gold supporting the turquoise, and a gold ring from the mines of Mexico; Mr. Pels was engaged to the first prominent and the gold from Colorado mines; bride's gift to the groom, the bride's ring and ring bearer, gold rings, with their monograms; groom's gift to the best man and to the sisters, gold necklaces made in scarlet plums. The presents were made expressly for the occasion of Colorado gold.

The bride was graduated from Wesleyan academy in the class of 1891, and is a granddaughter of the late Dr. Edward Cooke, who was for many years principal of Wesleyan academy, and of Robert R. Wright, who is the oldest citizen of Wilbraham, being in his 93rd year. In June, 1902, the bride christened the cruise Denver at Philadelphia. After the christening she was presented with a duplicate bottle of champagne, encased in gold wire and tied with red, white, and blue ribbons in an elegant morocco case lined with silk plush, and locked, with her name, the date and place of the christening inscribed upon it, and received positive instructions not to open it until her wedding day. It was an interesting feature of the banquet when the cake was unlocked and the contents of the bottle poured into a glass goblet and passed for each guest to sip the prized wine. The part of the bottle which remained in Mrs. Pels's hand after the christening was preserved. The shape of the bottle, the date inscribed upon it, and this was sent as a gift to Mrs. Pels in Denver. The groom was presented with a distinguished form of the Nuptiale, "Vie Nuptiale," written by the organist. Mrs. Pels is prominent in Denver social circles, and her many friends wish them prosperity and happiness.

Among the guests from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Wetzel of New York, Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Fraser, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dyer, Mrs. Madeleine De Camp, Mrs. Grace Knight of Washington, D.C., Mrs. N. McClure of New York, and Mrs. H. E. Zeilman of Denver. The groom was presented with a distinguished form of the Nuptiale, "Vie Nuptiale," written by the organist. Mrs. Pels is prominent in Denver social circles, and her many friends wish them prosperity and happiness.

Reginald Washburn, treasurer and manager of the Worcester wireworks, and Miss Dorecas Lockwood of this city, daughter of State Treasurer Edward S. Bradford, were united in marriage at the Watch Hill, R. I., house of the bride, East Dunes, yesterday noon. Rev. Dr. Fisk, rector of St. Stephen's church of Providence, officiated, assisted by Rev. Henry Washburn, brother of the groom, and rector of St. Mark's church, Worcester. Elderly Lockwood of New York was best man. The ceremony was a quiet one, only relatives and immediate friends of the family being present, because of the bride's mother's health. After the ceremony an informal reception preceded the departure of the bridal party on a wedding trip. Miss Lockwood has been a resident of this city.

THE SONG OF THE PAVEMENT.

D. T. L. in the Chicago Inter Ocean.

Their toes, it was a sight to see,
And they took a little tar,
With various ingredients,
Imported from afar.

They bouncer'd it, it and it,
And when they went away.
They said they had a pavem't,
That would last for many a day.

But they came with picks and shovels,
To lay a water main.
And then they called the workmen
To put it back again.
To run a railway cable
They took it up some more.
And then they put it back again,
Just where it was before.

They took it up for conduits
And they bouncer'd it back again
A hard as any stone,
They took it up for wires
To feed the kettle light,
And then they put it back again
Oh, the pavement's full of furrows,
There are patches everywhere.
You'd like to ride upon it,
But it's colder than you dare.
It's a very handsome pavement,
A credit to the town,
They're always diggin' of it up
Or puttin' it down.

It's a very handsome pavement,
A credit to the town,
They're always diggin' of it up
Or puttin' it down.

It's a very handsome pavement,
A credit to the town,
They're always diggin' of it up
Or puttin' it down.
Mr. Homer Merriam.

A copy of the Pasadena (Cal.) Daily News, bearing date of August 28, contains a paragraph of much interest to SPRINGFIELD, Sept. 3.

Homer Merriam's Birthday Celebration.

Aaron Morgan of Har

Homer Merriam, born in this city in connection with the G. & C. Merriam publishing company, attained his 90th birthday yesterday. No extensive celebration was attempted, but there was a quiet family gathering and dinner at his home, 773 State street. For one of his years Mr. Merriam is remarkably well and active. He goes to his office regularly twice a day.

Homer Merriam, long well known in this city in connection with the G. & C. Merriam publishing company, attained his 90th birthday yesterday. No extensive celebration was attempted, but there was a quiet family gathering and dinner at his home, 773 State street. For one of his years Mr. Merriam is remarkably well and active. He goes to his office regularly twice a day.

Homer Merriam, long well known in this city in connection with the G. & C. Merriam publishing company, attained his 90th birthday yesterday. No extensive celebration was attempted, but there was a quiet family gathering and dinner at his home, 773 State street. For one of his years Mr. Merriam is remarkably well and active. He goes to his office regularly twice a day.

SEPTEMBER 25, 1904.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Merriam, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Merriam, leave this week to join their son, Arthur in California for the winter.

AUGUST 29, 1903.

A dispatch from Cooperstown, N. Y., dated Friday, says: "Fashionable folk who spend the summer at Lake Otsego and Richfield have now seen the four sons of Mrs. Henry C. Potter fete and danced into the dawn of their twenty-first birthday. The last of the four birthday entertainments was given to-night in the newly erected Colonial mansion of Mr. Stephen Carlton Clark, and it was in his honor that Bishop Potter and Mr. Potter issued cards for the large dinner party, followed by a reception and brilliant ball. The occasion was notable not only as a society event but from the fact that upon attaining his majority Mr. Clark becomes one of the wealthiest young men in the United States. By the will of his grand-father, Edward S. Clark, and the device made by his father, Alfred Corning Clark, he now comes into possession of about $10,000,000.

Miss Florence Frisbie, daughter of Hon. E. C. Frisbie of this city, will sail for Italy on the Hohenzollern on Saturday of next week, August 29. She will accompany the granddaughter of Hon. A. H. Byington of Norwalk and they will spend three months abroad under the care of Mr. Byington, who is the United States consul at Naples.

Miss Florence Frisbie, daughter of Hon. E. C. Frisbie of this city, will sail for Italy on the Hohenzollern on Saturday of next week, August 29. She will accompany the granddaughter of Hon. A. H. Byington of Norwalk and they will spend three months abroad under the care of Mr. Byington, who is the United States consul at Naples.

Miss Florence Frisbie, daughter of Hon. E. C. Frisbie of this city, will sail for Italy on the Hohenzollern on Saturday of next week, August 29. She will accompany the granddaughter of Hon. A. H. Byington of Norwalk and they will spend three months abroad under the care of Mr. Byington, who is the United States consul at Naples.

Homer Merriam, long well known in this city in connection with the G. & C. Merriam publishing company, attained his 90th birthday yesterday. No extensive celebration was attempted, but there was a quiet family gathering and dinner at his home, 773 State street. For one of his years Mr. Merriam is remarkably well and active. He goes to his office regularly twice a day.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Merriam of upper State street expect to start in a few weeks for California, where they will make their home with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur G. Merriam. Mr. Merriam is in good health, and his characteristics wit and sense of humor are as keen as ever. He says he is "going out there to grow up with the country."

Among the summer residents in Maine is Miss Rose Elizabeth Cleveland, one-time mistress of the White House. This woman, distinguished by her associations with her brother, ex-President Grover Cleveland, during the first year of his first term, and by her own literary fame, has chosen to spend her summers in Penobscot Bay.

A more secluded spot or a more picturesque would be hard to find at the shores of this old Pine Tree state. Together with another woman of note, Miss Ames, the daughter of ex-Governor Ames of Connecticut, she owns and lives in a pretty little cottage on what is called "Seven-Hundred-Acre Island." This is one of the smaller islands in Penobscot bay, Pliny Jewel's Eightieth Birthday.

Pliny Jewell celebrated his 80th birthday at his home, No. 210 Farmington avenue, Tuesday. He gave a dinner to all the members of the Jewell family residing in Hartford. A general good time was had and Mr. Jewell was the recipient of many congratulations.

CENTENARIAN'S BIRTHDAY.

John Dunton Given a Public Reception at Lyndoonville, September 27.

Lyndoonville, Vt., Sept. 27.—John Dunton, Lyndoonville's first centenarian, was given a public reception at Musco Hall to-day. A procession headed by the Lyndoonville military band, followed by school children and citizens, marched from Mr. Dunton's residence to the hall. Mr. Dunton and his two daughter were riding in a automobile and Judge T. Gleason was president of the day. After a sketch of Mr. Dunton's life, given by E. L. Wells, short addresses were read by several members of the Universalists; state convention now in session here adjourned for the occasion.

Robert Emerson Todd of Chicago, managing head of the Chicago Commons Settlement, and Miss Henrietta Ellen Stone, daughter of Mrs. Edward C. Stone of No. 49 Allen place, were married at the bride's home yesterday afternoon. The wedding ceremony was performed by Mr. Jewell at his home on 210 Farmington avenue, Tuesday. He gave a dinner to the latter composition written by Mr. Jewell. His voice is exceptionally well preserved. Yesterday Mr. Jewell received a letter from his friend, Ralph Burnham, who is recuperating at Asheville, N. C., wishing him well and enclosing an old Union of Chicago, words written by Mr. Jewell, are given by E. L. Wells, short addresses were read by several members of the Universalists; state convention now in session here adjourned for the occasion.

Edwin J. Smith, Jr., son of Sheriff Smith, and Miss Lula Tracy Corbin, daughter of Mrs. Annie E. Corbin, were married at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of the bride's mother, No. 61 Bellevue street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James P. Faucon, assistant rector of Christ Church.

Miss Nellie Tracy of Boston, a cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor and George Arthur Smith, brother of the groom, was the best man. Miss Corbin wore a dress of white Brussels net and carried white roses and Miss Tracy also wore white and carried flowers of the same kind. Walter F. Strong and Harry C. Smith acted as ushers.

The wedding ceremony took place at the home of Miss Lula Tracy Corbin, who was the recipient of many congratulations. The reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Smith, who lived in Washington. The reception was a great success, and the bride and groom were the center of attention.
A double wedding took place in the First Congregational church of Simsbury at 4 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. O. H. Bronson, pastor of the church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. J. B. McLean, a brother of ex-Governor George P. McLean. Ernest L. Simonds of No. 33 Ward street, this city, and Miss Katherine L. Clark and Henry F. Bishop, also of No. 33 Ward street, and Miss Nellie L. Clark were the contracting couples. The bridegrooms are in the employ of the Southern New England Telephone company, and Miss Simonds as a canvasser and Mr. Bishop as cashier. The brides are daughters of Mrs. James McCallum of Simsbury.

The church was elaborately decorated for the happy event. The prevailing tones in the color scheme were yellow and white, and very effective blending of the colors distinguished the decorations. The bridal procession formed in the vestibule of the church and entered as the strains of C. B. Holcomb of Tariffville, rendered the opening bars of the Mendelssohn Wedding March, Pearl W. Clark, brother of the two brides, Elmer A. Robinson of Addison, William W. Pierson of this city and George E. Patterson were the ushers, and Mr. Simonds proceeded down the aisle. The little flower girls, carrying dainty baskets of September flowers. These were Miss Hazel Case and Miss Maude McCollum (the latter a cousin of the bride's), both of Simsbury, as the floral attendants of Miss Katherine; and Miss Marjorie B. Wilson of Avon and Miss Harriet Shepherdson of Farmington, the little floral escort for Miss Nellie. They were in white organdy over yellow and their baskets were beautifully arranged with yellow and white blossoms.

After the flower girls came the maids of honor, Miss Eva B. Case of Simsbury for Miss Katherine, and Miss Lucy F. Bishop, a sister of the junior groom, for Miss Nellie. They were in yellow silk muslin, with white picture hats and carried yellow roses, with a setting of maidenhair fern. The brides entered next, gowned alike in white lawns and black picture hats. The ushers followed, carrying sprays of maidenhair fern. The ushers will be Philip Montgomery and Henry H. Pease.

The wedding will be distinctly a home affair, only relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties being present. A supper will follow the marriage ceremony.

The wedding gifts from friends are numerous, including mahogany dining-room set, set from friends in the Aetna Insurance company, by which the groom is employed. Mr. and Mrs. Stronach will be at home after September 16, at No. 67 North Main street, West Hartford.

Sisters Are the Brides at a Church

Wedding in Simsbury—Other Weddings.
Thayer-Brooks Wedding at Newport Next Week to be a Notable Event—Other Social Topics.

The wedding of Eugene V. R. Thayer, Jr., and Miss Gladys Baldwin Brooks, Jr., on Thursday of next week, at Trinity Church, will be one of the largest events that have taken place at Newport in some years as both the bride and groom belong to prominent families and are leaders in the younger set of Newport society. The groom gave the bride a magnificent diamond brooch, the only ornament which will be w.ritten at the wedding, and the bride received from the bride a gold cigarette case with his monogram studded with diamonds. Other gifts are:

Mr. H. Mortimer Brooks, the bride's brother, pearl collar.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. R. Thayer, the groom's parents, a large centerpiece of silver plate of old English design.

Mr. Eugene Higgins, uncle of the bride, diamond and emerald pendant.

Bouquet Scelliere, silver coffee pot. Commodore and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry, gold tea set.

Mr. James Stillman, large silver vase.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, large silver vase.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Vanderbilt, gold dressing case.

Miss May Van Aken, large silver dish.

Mrs. Paul Moline, silver water pitcher.

Mrs. Astor, silver clock.

Mrs. E. Rolls Morse, set of silver can- disticks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, Jr., silver coffee set.

Miss Fannie Iselin, silver vase.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, large emerald pin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Sears, of Boston linen set.

Mr. James Stillman, Jr., pearl pendant.

Miss Natica Rives, silver vase.

Miss Anita Sands, silver sugar bowl.

Miss Anna Thayer, feather fan, white.

Tuesday Mr. Thayer and his father, Mr. J. H. Thayer, were driven directly to the church where they took out a marriage license. Mr. Thayer gave his age as twenty-two, reserving all newspaper comment on the event, which was taking place at the residence of Miss E. W. Havemeyer.

The wedding march was played as the couple left the church and took up a carriage. The bridegroom was in white at the ceremony, the bride wore a long blue dress with a large lace hat and a white dress. The bridegroom was in a white suit with a black tie and a black hat. The bride carried a bouquet of red roses. Baroque pearl pins were worn by the bride and groom and their attendants. The wedding was performed by Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson left New Haven late afternoon for a wedding at Newport. After their return they will live at No. 106 Imlay street. Those present from Hartford were: Former Alderman Albert B. Colton, Mrs. Colton and Miss Margaret Colton, Mr. and Mrs. Cochran, Mrs. E. W. Beardsley and Mr. Beardsley, Mrs. S. M. Warren and Miss Warren, Mr. Chamber, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Bruce, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Smith, Miss Ethel Dickinson, Miss Charlotte Wille, Miss Roberts, Miss Scolfield and Miss Hills, New Haven people present were: Professor Frank Knight Sanders of Yale University and Mrs. Sanders, Professor Lester B. Brown, Mrs. James E. Stetson, Mrs. M. T. Beach and the Misses Beach, Mrs. Isabel Hodgdon, Miss Nettie Hodgdon, Misses Campbell and Mrs. Trowbridge, Dr. Charles J. Bartlett and Mrs. Bartlett, Miss Hotchkiss, Miss Kline, Miss Elizabeth Talcott, Mrs. Fabrice, Mrs. Palmer, Miss Porter, others in New Haven and New York.

The couple went to the hotel and their friends in New York and New Haven were much interested in the wedding, and the bride received from the bride a gold cigarette case with his monogram studded with diamonds. Other gifts are:

Mr. H. Mortimer Brooks, the bride's brother, pearl collar.

Mr. and Mrs. E. V. R. Thayer, the groom's parents, a large centerpiece of silver plate of old English design.

Mr. Eugene Higgins, uncle of the bride, diamond and emerald pendant.

Bouquet Scelliere, silver coffee pot. Commodore and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry, gold tea set.

Mr. James Stillman, large silver vase.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Van Rensselaer, large silver vase.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Vanderbilt, gold dressing case.

Miss May Van Aken, large silver dish.

Mrs. Paul Moline, silver water pitcher.

Mrs. Astor, silver clock.

Mrs. E. Rolls Morse, set of silver candlesticks.

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Havemeyer, Jr., silver coffee set.

Miss Fannie Iselin, silver vase.

Mr. and Mrs. Nathaniel Thayer, large emerald pin.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Sears, of Boston linen set.

Mr. James Stillman, Jr., pearl pendant.

Miss Natica Rives, silver vase.

Miss Anita Sands, silver sugar bowl.

Miss Anna Thayer, feather fan, white.

Tuesday Mr. Thayer and his father, Mr. J. H. Thayer, were driven directly to the church where they took out a marriage license. Mr. Thayer gave his age as twenty-two, reserving all newspaper comment on the event, which was taking place at the residence of Miss E. W. Havemeyer.
SHEFFIELD, FRIDAY, SEPT. 4, 1903.

PITTSFIELD CHURCH WEDDING.

Miss Isabel M. West Married to William B. Jackson of Madison, Wis.

The First Congregational church in Pittsfield was the scene of the first of the large fall weddings last evening, when Miss Isabel M. West and Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. West, and a number of years. Mr. Jackson is an electrical engineer, being a member of the firm of Jackson & Jackson of Madison, and for a time was employed by the Stanley electric manufacturing company of Pittsfield. The wedding was one of the important events of the season for Pittsfield. The decorations were largely of ferns and beech leaves, accentuated with queen's lace, and white hydrangeas banked the choir rail and pulpit; the same effect was carried out on a number of the posts supporting the gallery. At the close of the recital the 12 young women attendants, the Misses Elizabeth and Minnie Plumkett, Helen and Rosamund Hull, Ethel and Mary Kennedy, Louise Allen, Mary Hibbard, Miriam Trowbridge, Alice Wentworth and Archibald Sessions, who hold the marriage license in their hands, stood slowly from the northeast side of the pulpit. Among the云计算s, Charles F. loved and awaited Mrs. Archibald Sessions, the Misses Plumkett and Mrs. Molineux.

Son Born to Blanche Chesebrough.

Sioux Falls, S. D., Feb. 9.—A son has been born to Mrs. W. Scott, who, until her marriage a year and a half ago to the lawyer who helped her get her divorce, was the wife of Roland B. Molineux.

Mrs. Scott, whose maiden name was Blanche Chesebrough, has been a social favorite in Sioux Falls, where she has resided for about two years.

MARRIED SIXTEEN YEARS.

Bishop Huntington and Wife Observe the Anniversary at North Hadley.

Bishop F. D. Huntington and wife observed the 16th anniversary of their wedding at their summer home in North Hadley Tuesday by entertaining their five children and nine grandchildren. Bishop Huntington is 84 years old, and his wife is 82.

Bishop Huntington and Miss Hannah Dan Sage were married in Boston, September 1, 1883. Bishop Huntington has served the faith for five years rector of Emmanuel church, Boston, and for five years preacher at Harvard college. He has been bishop of the Central New York diocese since 1908. Five of the children of Bishop and Mrs. Huntington grew to maturity and are now living. The two sons, the Rev. Huntington of Hanover, N. H., and Rev. James Huntington, superior of the order of the Holy Cross, and the daughters, Harriet Sargent Huntington, who lives in public work, Mrs. Archibald L. Sessions of Northampton, and Mary Dwight Huntington, who lives with her parents. Rev. and Mrs. George P. Huntington have five sons and one daughter, and there are two sons and a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sessions.
MRS. SCOTT TO SING.

Molineux's Former Wife Has Had Several Large Money Offers.

[New York American.]

Fresh from South Dakota, where she obtained, about two years ago, a divorce from Roland B. Molineux, Mrs. Wallace D. Scott has come back to New York with her husband and six-month-old baby boy. She will not make her home here but will launch upon a career that will attract attention.

AUGUST 29, 1905.

Will Go on the Stage.

Mrs. Wallace D. Scott, formerly Mrs. Roland B. Molineux of New York, has returned, and is now living in Bristol. Mrs. Scott was the bride of Wallace D. Scott, formerly Mrs. E. H. Miller, formerly of Meriden but now living in Bristol. Mrs. Miller was a special student in Trinity College in 1897-1898, and published at the time, in collaboration with Daniel Hugh Verder of Vermont, now an Episcopal clergyman, a book of sonnets which was dedicated to Dr. Charles Frederick Johnson. He later studied law with Daniel Hugh Verder at the University of Chicago, and is now engaged in the practice of law in South Dakota courts.

Mr. Miller is the editor of the "Connecticut Magazine" and came to Hartford about a year ago. He is a grand son of the late Rev. Theas Miller, an early pioneer in Michigan and one of the first preachers to the Ottawa Indians, and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Miller, formerly of Meriden but now living in Bristol. Mr. Miller was a special student in Trinity College in 1897-1898, and published at the time, in collaboration with Daniel Hugh Verder of Vermont, now an Episcopal clergyman, a book of sonnets which was dedicated to Dr. Charles Frederick Johnson. He later studied law with Daniel Hugh Verder at the University of Chicago, and is now engaged in the practice of law in South Dakota courts.

Mr. and Mrs. Miller sail from Boston this morning for Port of Spain, Jamaica, as scene of the recent hurricanes, and while there they will gather material for several magazine articles.

PUTNAM COUPLE CELEBRATE.

Married Sixty Years--Accepts New Position--Personals.

Putnam, Sept. 8.

The sixtieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Armstrong was celebrated from 3 until 6 o'clock yesterday at their home on the corner of Church and Green streets. Fifty friends and relatives attended. Mrs. Armstrong has reached her eighty-second year and Mr. Armstrong has passed his eighty-eighth. Mrs. Armstrong has been a member of the Baptist Church since 1849 and Mr. Armstrong since 1866. The church extended congratulations and presented to the couple a well filled purse.

A Painful Accident.

Miss Millie Packard, sister of ex-Chief of Police Packard, of Mrs. George J. Lincoln and of Mrs. G. F. Hills, fell down an entire flight of stairs at Mrs. John E. Morris's house on Charter Oak place Monday evening and dislocated her right arm at the shoulder. Mrs. Rowley and Cook attended her and set the arm in its place. The patient is doing as well as possible under the circumstances.
Because she will not promise to obey the man to whom she is to be married next month, Miss Ethel Clement, daughter of P. W. Clement, the railroad magnate and hotel man of Rutland, Vt., will not have an Episcopal clergyman officiate at the ceremony, but will be married by a Congregational minister. Miss Clement is to be the bride of William H. Field, formerly a Boston newspaper man, but now of a New York magazine, and the ceremony will occur on September 8, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Clement, in Rutland. Miss Clement asked her pastor, the Rev. Joseph Reynolds of Trinity church, Rutland, to have the words "and obey" omitted from the ceremony. He said he had no authority to do so. Miss Clement then went to Bishop Hall, but he also refused. Miss Clement would not give in, however, and the Rev. Dr. George W. Phillips of the Congregational church of Rutland will perform the ceremony.

SEPTEMBER 8, 1903

The wedding of Miss Ethel Scovel Clement, daughter of the millionaire railroad magnate, Percival W. Clement of Rutland, Vt., and William H. Field of New York, a member of the editorial staff of the New York Journal and son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Field of Rutland, took place this afternoon at the home of the Clements, near Centre Rutland village. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. George W. Phillips, pastor of the Congregational Church of that place, the bride having refused to be married by her own rector. Rev. Joseph Reynolds, Episcopal, because of the presence of the word "obey" in the service.

Mr. and Mrs. John D. Parker of this city attended on Tuesday the wedding of Miss Ethel Scovel Clement, daughter of Percival W. Clement of Rutland,

The Republican.

SPRINGFIELD, FRIDAY, SEPT. 11, 1903.

Why Should Woman "Obey" More Than Man?

When Miss Ethel Clement of Rutland,—that charming Vermont town in the heart of the marble region,—objected to utter the word "obey" in the marriage service of the Protestant Episcopal church, and elected rather to be married by a Congregational minister, who was not compelled by any ritual to require it, she had no notion of waking a general dispute over the matter. But so great is the power of tradition, so pervading the superstition of the subjecttion of woman, that the incident has received much attention. We read the most scathing comments on the conduct of Miss Clement, who is certainly a woman of character and conscience, and also of cultivated intellect and social standing. Nevertheless, here is what a Boston newspaper, the New York Tribune, allows one of its juvenile editors to say:

She embarks upon her conjugal career with the buoyancy and light-heartedness of one not vowed to "mind" anybody. The number of these headstrong and insubordinate brides is happily never large enough to cause a social revolution, but about so many are sure to appear during each pairing season, and it is just possible that the records of most of them may show forth a sweet docility instead of that kicking in the harness which might not unreasonably be looked for.

The contrary is the fact. This woman starts honestly on her wife's duties. They must be the same for husband and wife, and not otherwise. The word and the idea "obey" as applied to the woman alone are wrong. They would be no better, but just as right, if it were the man who should say "obey." They belong to an age which passess as the higher conception of marriage prevails. Neither should obey, neither should command; the husband and wife are equal partners in the life of the family, and they meet on equal terms; they are to reason together, and in mutual love to determine the course of their life. The husband may be the stronger and the wiser,—the wife may be the stronger and the wisest,—and if the union be based on anything more permanent than mere attraction of sex or sordid business conditions, the essential qualities of the pair will find their own power, and be recognized, to the gradual arrival at a true co-working, such as fulfills the idea of marriage. A structure like that which we have quoted is not worthy of utterance in this day and this stage of perception of the equality of man and woman.

The legend of Eden, the doctrine of Paul, the tyrannic notions of Milton (which he so hatefully exemplified in his treatment of one o his wives),—these are of the past. Woman was never the inferior of man; indeed, it is well known that the earliest growths of civilization were from woman. In the ages of violence, of barbarism, of feudalism, she was crushed under the iron hand, and at the best was an exponent of "sweet, attractive grace." This is not so to-day. As a matter of fact, woman has ruled the household, and not infrequently the state, by indirection. She should not rule so, but frankly, by her brain and heart, which work together with man's brain and heart for the best results, and when this is the case, there is the honorable and high-motived family and the noble community. The community yet lacks this great element in its legislation and its political life, because woman is not yet come to her own station of equal rank. She should vote with man, as she labors with man; and so united, they would make a different and better world.

We find in the Windham County Reformer of Brattleboro an excellent declaration on this particular instance, which we shall quote as gospel truth:

Miss Ethel Clement of Rutland, who objects to the word "obey" in the marriage service, is probably a woman to whom a promise means something. She does not wish to chain her word by giving it unnecessarily or where she has no idea of keeping it. And she is quite right. In the olden day, a woman had been given educational privileges, and when custom kept her closely in the home, dependent upon the exertions of father, brother or husband there was some significance to the word "obey" as applied to her. In those times women obeyed their husbands, or were supposed to. If they had their own way through the unexplainable wiles of femininity, as old as the world. But now it is different. Woman is no longer dependent, subordinated, not his shadow and echo. Sometimes in the affairs of the family over which the husband presides, the wife has obviously better judgment and better skill in management, and the husband of to-day, if he recognizes this fact, is very glad to defer to his partner's ideas for the good of the firm. We are more sensible in these matters than we used to be. And in the present state of human development it is surely enough if one promises love and consideration in the marriage relations. If there were love and consideration on both sides, could there be any question of obedience between husband and wife?

No one has said it better than Tennyson in "The Princess,"—words often quoted, never staled, but open to the grandest interpretation that can be conceived of the perfect working together of the complements of the race of man, so evolved out of the divine spirit, and growing slowly, as all growth is, from age to age, until the fulfillment.

The prince says to the princess:

The woman's cause is man's; they rise or sink together. Dwarfed or godlike, bond or free. For she that out of Lethe scales with man The shining steeps of Nature, shares with him His nights, his days, moves with him to one goal. Stays all the fair young planet In her bands. If she be small, her friends will leave her space to burgeon out of all limit, Nor lose the wrestling thews that throw the world, Nor lose the childlike In the larger mind; But like in difference.

Yet in the long years later must they grow. The man be more of woman, she of man; He gain in sweetness and in moral might, Nor lose the wresting throws that throw the world;

She mental breadth, nor fall in childish care.

Not lose the childlike in the larger mind:

Till at the last she set herself to man Like some effect noble of the earth.

And so these twain, upon the skirts of Time, Sit side by side, full summed in all their powers. Dispensing harvest, sowing the To-be. Self-worked each, and working each, Distinct in individualities.

But like each other even as those who love.

Then reign the world's great bridas, chaste and calm.

The two into happy concord.

May these things be!

The word of the writer of the article on the young woman. He does so for the reason apparently that the word, as used in the marriage service, in his view, implies inferiority. For, speaking of what he calls "the lord of the man," and also of the teaching of St. Paul as relating to marriage, he says, "Woman was never the inferior of man."

Now, whether she is or not—the word "obey." As used in the marriage service, does not raise the question. The question, at best, is an idle one. As Dr. Lyman Abbott has pointed out in a recent article in the Atlantic Monthly, the word "obey" has no meaning. It is like asking, "which is larger—half an hour, or half a yard." The functions of the two sexes are so radically different that no comparison can properly be instituted, any more than between the eye and the ear. One eye may be superior to another eye, but the eye cannot be said to be superior to the ear, or the ear to the eye."

The word "obey" is in the marriage service primarily because the marriage service has its source in the teachings of the Bible. But in the last analysis, it is there, I take it, because it is in accord with "the nature of things."

A little consideration will show this, I think. If the social order is to be at its best, and yield the best results, there must be the home, the family. To this end, there must be the union for life, of one man and one woman. The family, as one of its aspects, is a governmental organization. In the family, as in every governmental organization, authority must be lodged somewhere. For matters are sure to arise about which there will be differing judgments and failure to harmonize them, the final decision must be made by somebody. By whom? Not necessarily and inevitably by the husband and father! The very conditions of the marriage relation put upon him this responsibility. Those conditions, both naturally and legally, obligate him to support his family. It becomes the natural head of the family government, and so the one in final authority, when for the purposes of family government it becomes necessary that such authority should be exercised.

As in every government, so in the family government there must be both authority and obedience. But these should not be in painful or even in formal contrast. And in true marriage they are not. For they are so blended that they are in affectionate adjustment. Each helps the other. Both are used in every true marriage brings the two into happy concord. The affectionate and manly husband does not lord it over his wife. Neither does the faithful and loving wife resent the recognition of her husband as the head of the family, and as invested with the authority which belongs to such headship. Such recognition on her part she realizes is essential to the wellbeing of the family and, therefore, an essential feature of the family unity. And so there is no servile subjection on her part and no forced obedience.

All this is not to say that a woman is ever joined to a man whose character and qualities do not make such recognition an anomaly. There are such marriages—perhaps many of them, in the aggregate. But foundation principles are essential to the wellbeing of every institution. Of the family institution, this of the headship and consequent authority of the husband and father is one.

Once this is understood, I do not see how any woman, who is willing to become a wife and a mother, can refuse to speak the word "obey" in the marriage service. For this word embodies, as I have shown, a principle which is at the very foundation of the marriage relation.

B. U. SHARMAN

1 Parley Vale, Jamaica Plain

To the Editor of the Transcript:

You recently published under the above caption an article from the Springfield Republican, on the word "obey," as used in the marriage service set forth by the Protestant Episcopal Church. The article was occasioned by the refusal of a young woman to use the word in connection with her marriage. The writer of the article criticizes the young woman. He does so for the reason apparently that the word, as used in the marriage service, in his view, implies inferiority. For, speaking of what he calls "the lord of the man," and also of the teaching of St. Paul as relating to marriage, he says, "Woman was never the inferior of man."

Now, whether she is or not—the word "obey." As used in the marriage service, does not raise the question. The question, at best, is an idle one. As Dr. Lyman Abbott has pointed out in a recent article in the Atlantic Monthly, the word "obey" has no meaning. It is like asking, "which is larger—half an hour, or half a yard." The functions of the two sexes are so radically different that no comparison can properly be instituted, any more than between the eye and the ear. One eye may be superior to another eye, but the eye cannot be said to be superior to the ear, or the ear to the eye."

The word "obey" is in the marriage service primarily because the marriage service has its source in the teachings of the Bible. But in the last analysis, it is there, I take it, because it is in accord with "the nature of things."

A little consideration will show this, I think. If the social order is to be at its best, and yield the best results, there must be the home, the family. To this end, there must be the union for life, of one man and one woman. The family, as one of its aspects, is a governmental organization. In the family, as in every governmental organization, authority must be lodged somewhere. For matters are sure to arise about which there will be differing judgments and failure to harmonize them, the final decision must be made by somebody. By whom? Not necessarily and inevitably by the husband and father! The very conditions of the marriage relation put upon him this responsibility. Those conditions, both naturally and legally, obligate him to support his family. It becomes the natural head of the family government, and so the one in final authority, when for the purposes of family government it becomes necessary that such authority should be exercised.

As in every government, so in the family government there must be both authority and obedience. But these should not be in painful or even in formal contrast. And in true marriage they are not. For they are so blended that they are in affectionate adjustment. Each helps the other. Both are used in every true marriage brings the two into happy concord. The affectionate and manly husband does not lord it over his wife. Neither does the faithful and loving wife resent the recognition of her husband as the head of the family, and as invested with the authority which belongs to such headship. Such recognition on her part she realizes is essential to the wellbeing of the family and, therefore, an essential feature of the family unity. And so there is no servile subjection on her part and no forced obedience.

All this is not to say that a woman is ever joined to a man whose character and qualities do not make such recognition an anomaly. There are such marriages—perhaps many of them, in the aggregate. But foundation principles are essential to the wellbeing of every institution. Of the family institution, this of the headship and consequent authority of the husband and father is one.

Once this is understood, I do not see how any woman, who is willing to become a wife and a mother, can refuse to speak the word "obey" in the marriage service. For this word embodies, as I have shown, a principle which is at the very foundation of the marriage relation.

B. U. SHARMAN

1 Parley Vale, Jamaica Plain
Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Gates of Simsbury Celebrate.

Simsbury, Sept. 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Gates of this town celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage yesterday, receiving their friends from 2 to 5 o'clock. Children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were present and many townpeople called to pay their respects to the bride and groom of 1853, who are in vigorous health and were able to give a cordial greeting to all. Mr. and Mrs. Gates received many appropriate gifts, as evidences of the good will of their friends. A cake with "1853" and "1903" on it was served. The young couple will take their wedding journey and on their return will live in the fine house at the head of Bellevue avenue which was built by Judge Newell a few years since. It is a present from Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sessions to the groom. The Stewart home was beautifully decorated for the wedding in green, white and pink. The bride was gowned in white Lansdowne, trimmed with Cluny lace, chiffon and pearls, and she carried lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a lemon colored Lansdowne, with chiffon and pearl trimming. The gift of the groom to the bride was a beautiful diamond and pearl pendant and to his best man a stickpin and the gift of the bride to her maid of honor was a beautiful ring.

The wedding of William A. Willard, teller of the Mechanics Savings Bank, and Mrs. Ellen R. Abbe, formerly of Hartford but recently of New York city, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the house of Mr. and Mrs. John McClary, No. 58 Highland street. Guests from New York, Boston and Westerly, R. I., were present. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and potted plants. Mr. and Mrs. McClary were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hunttinger, Miss Guernsey, daughter of Dr. Guernsey, ex-president of the Hahnemann Hospital, New York, Miss Nelle Silver of Boston and David Calhoun of this city. The bride's dress was of lavender silk, trimmed with lace and the wedding gifts were numerous and appropriate. No cards had been sent out and the guests were limited to relatives and a few intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Willard will be at home after October 1 at No. 13 Clinton street.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Bristol, Sept. 9.

Mary Esther, daughter of ex-Warden Lemuel L. Stewart, and Joseph Brown Sessions, son of William E. Sessions, were married this afternoon at the bride's home. The couple entered the front parlor to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, rendered by the Misses Lilian and Florence Good-enough. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles H. Buck, a former pastor, assisted by Rev. Arthur H. Good-enough, the present pastor of the Prospect Street Methodist Church, Mrs. Grace L. Wilcox was maid of honor and the best man was W. Kenneth Sessions, a brother of the groom. After the ceremony, a reception was held and refreshments were served. The young couple will take a wedding journey and on their return will live in the fine house at the head of Bellevue avenue which was built by Judge Newell a few years since. It is a present from Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sessions to the groom. The Stewart home was beautifully decorated for the wedding in green, white and pink. The bride was gowned in white Lansdowne, trimmed with Cluny lace, chiffon and pearls, and she carried lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a lemon colored Lansdowne, with chiffon and pearl trimming. The gift of the groom to the bride was a beautiful diamond and pearl pendant and to his best man a stickpin and the gift of the bride to her maid of honor was a beautiful ring.

The wedding of William A. Willard, teller of the Mechanics Savings Bank, and Mrs. Ellen R. Abbe, formerly of Hartford but recently of New York city, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the house of Mr. and Mrs. John McClary, No. 58 Highland street. Guests from New York, Boston and Westerly, R. I., were present. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and potted plants. Mr. and Mrs. McClary were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hunttinger, Miss Guernsey, daughter of Dr. Guernsey, ex-president of the Hahnemann Hospital, New York, Miss Nelle Silver of Boston and David Calhoun of this city. The bride's dress was of lavender silk, trimmed with lace and the wedding gifts were numerous and appropriate. No cards had been sent out and the guests were limited to relatives and a few intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Willard will be at home after October 1 at No. 13 Clinton street.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

MR. AND MRS. DWIGHT GATES OF SIMSBURY CELEBRATE.

Simsbury, Sept. 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Gates of this town celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage yesterday, receiving their friends in the Union District to-day, receiving their friends from 2 to 5 o'clock. Children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were present and many townpeople called to pay their respects to the bride and groom of 1853, who are in vigorous health and were able to give a cordial greeting to all. Mr. and Mrs. Gates received many appropriate gifts, as evidences of the good will of their friends. A cake with "1853" and "1903" on it was served. The young couple will take their wedding journey and on their return will live in the fine house at the head of Bellevue avenue which was built by Judge Newell a few years since. It is a present from Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sessions to the groom. The Stewart home was beautifully decorated for the wedding in green, white and pink. The bride was gowned in white Lansdowne, trimmed with Cluny lace, chiffon and pearls, and she carried lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a lemon colored Lansdowne, with chiffon and pearl trimming. The gift of the groom to the bride was a beautiful diamond and pearl pendant and to his best man a stickpin and the gift of the bride to her maid of honor was a beautiful ring.

The wedding of William A. Willard, teller of the Mechanics Savings Bank, and Mrs. Ellen R. Abbe, formerly of Hartford but recently of New York city, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the house of Mr. and Mrs. John McClary, No. 58 Highland street. Guests from New York, Boston and Westerly, R. I., were present. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and potted plants. Mr. and Mrs. McClary were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hunttinger, Miss Guernsey, daughter of Dr. Guernsey, ex-president of the Hahnemann Hospital, New York, Miss Nelle Silver of Boston and David Calhoun of this city. The bride's dress was of lavender silk, trimmed with lace and the wedding gifts were numerous and appropriate. No cards had been sent out and the guests were limited to relatives and a few intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Willard will be at home after October 1 at No. 13 Clinton street.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

MR. AND MRS. DWIGHT GATES OF SIMSBURY CELEBRATE.

Simsbury, Sept. 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Gates of this town celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage yesterday, receiving their friends in the Union District to-day, receiving their friends from 2 to 5 o'clock. Children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were present and many townpeople called to pay their respects to the bride and groom of 1853, who are in vigorous health and were able to give a cordial greeting to all. Mr. and Mrs. Gates received many appropriate gifts, as evidences of the good will of their friends. A cake with "1853" and "1903" on it was served. The young couple will take their wedding journey and on their return will live in the fine house at the head of Bellevue avenue which was built by Judge Newell a few years since. It is a present from Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sessions to the groom. The Stewart home was beautifully decorated for the wedding in green, white and pink. The bride was gowned in white Lansdowne, trimmed with Cluny lace, chiffon and pearls, and she carried lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a lemon colored Lansdowne, with chiffon and pearl trimming. The gift of the groom to the bride was a beautiful diamond and pearl pendant and to his best man a stickpin and the gift of the bride to her maid of honor was a beautiful ring.

The wedding of William A. Willard, teller of the Mechanics Savings Bank, and Mrs. Ellen R. Abbe, formerly of Hartford but recently of New York city, took place yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the house of Mr. and Mrs. John McClary, No. 58 Highland street. Guests from New York, Boston and Westerly, R. I., were present. The house was decorated with palms, ferns and potted plants. Mr. and Mrs. McClary were assisted in receiving by Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Hunttinger, Miss Guernsey, daughter of Dr. Guernsey, ex-president of the Hahnemann Hospital, New York, Miss Nelle Silver of Boston and David Calhoun of this city. The bride's dress was of lavender silk, trimmed with lace and the wedding gifts were numerous and appropriate. No cards had been sent out and the guests were limited to relatives and a few intimate friends. Mr. and Mrs. Willard will be at home after October 1 at No. 13 Clinton street.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

MR. AND MRS. DWIGHT GATES OF SIMSBURY CELEBRATE.

Simsbury, Sept. 11.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Gates of this town celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage yesterday, receiving their friends in the Union District to-day, receiving their friends from 2 to 5 o'clock. Children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren were present and many townpeople called to pay their respects to the bride and groom of 1853, who are in vigorous health and were able to give a cordial greeting to all. Mr. and Mrs. Gates received many appropriate gifts, as evidences of the good will of their friends. A cake with "1853" and "1903" on it was served. The young couple will take their wedding journey and on their return will live in the fine house at the head of Bellevue avenue which was built by Judge Newell a few years since. It is a present from Mr. and Mrs. William E. Sessions to the groom. The Stewart home was beautifully decorated for the wedding in green, white and pink. The bride was gowned in white Lansdowne, trimmed with Cluny lace, chiffon and pearls, and she carried lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore a lemon colored Lansdowne, with chiffon and pearl trimming. The gift of the groom to the bride was a beautiful diamond and pearl pendant and to his best man a stickpin and the gift of the bride to her maid of honor was a beautiful ring.
A daughter, Constance Burr Pease, was born to Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Pease yesterday.

AUGUST 12, 1908.
The marriage of Miss Adelene Pye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Fawcett Pye, to J. Wesley Rommel of this city, took place in the First Church of Christ (Center church), to-day, at 12:30, before a large number of guests, including many from out of town. More than 700 invitations were issued, and the greater number of the recipients were present. Inside the church there was an absence of decorations with the exception of a huge shower bouquet of American Beauty roses, placed on the right of the altar at the side of the baptismal font. The Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. The ceremony was distinctive in numerous ways. Mr. Potter was met at the entrance and conducted to the altar by six ushers, who immediately returned for the bride and bridesmaid. The ushers were J. William Hampden Pye of St. Louis, Joseph Fawcett Pye, Jr., and Charles Donly Pye of Boston, Mass., brothers of the bride; Dr. C. Hurley Wells and John Decker, Jr., of this city. As the guests were arriving Professor Nathan H. Allen, organist of the church, rendered the overture, “Maeennielo,” closely followed by selections from Mascagni’s “William Ratcliff” and Chanson’s “Bachmann.” As the clergyman was escorted to the altar Miss Emma Buch sang a selection from “Sommambula” by Bellini.

While the ushers preceded the bridal party down the aisle the audience stood and Miss Buch sang the song, “The King,” by Schumann. Miss Pye was unattended. Her gown was of white silk serge, handsomely trimmed with hand-made lace of intricate pattern, and her only ornament was one single American Beauty rose, which she carried in her hand. Mr. Potter, by request, dispensed with the Episcopal form of service, usually employed, and conducted the more simple and brief form of ceremony used in his church. As the bridal party left the church Professor Allen rendered Mendelssohn’s “Wedding March” on the organ. Owing to the illness of the bride’s father there was no reception following.

Included among the out of town guests present were Charles A. M. Fawcett of New York, Allen Almont R. Pye and Mrs. Pye of Pittsfield, Miss Elizabeth Nickerson of Boston and W. Witcher Keen of Danville, Va. Mr. and Mrs. Rommel received a handsome collection of valuable gifts.

The marriage of Miss Katharine Cleveland Perry and Harold Wilbur Hough of the Aetna Life Insurance company took place this afternoon at 12:30, at the home of the bride’s aunt, Miss Esther C. Perry, No. 185 Beacon street. The occasion was a quiet one, only relatives and intimate friends of the contracting parties being present. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Rockwell Harmon Potter, pastor of the First Church of Christ (Center church). The home of the bride was prettily decorated, the walls being handsomely covered with red and green being the prevailing colors. Miss Perry wore a travelling gown of tan broadcloth, with a hat to match, and carried a shower bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by Miss Florence B. Hough, a sister of the bride, and Miss Hough carried yellow roses. Wilbert Perry, cousin of the bride, was best man and the ushers were Wilbert V. Perry, a brother of the bride, and C. Barry Moad. The wedding march from “Lohengrin” was played by Edwin Mitchell at the beginning of the ceremony. After the wedding a reception was held. Mr. and Mrs. Hough left for a two weeks’ trip and on their return will be at home. Fridays, after December 1, at Lenox Court.
HAS LIVED A HUNDRED YEARS.

Levi Streeter of Hinsdale, N. H., Celebrates Anniversay Has an Even 100 Descendants.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1903.

Miss Pauline Elizabeth Smith of Girard avenue and Rev. Frederick Phillips Swezey, rector of Trinity Church, Collinville, were married at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Trinity Church, this city, Rev. E. de F. Miel, rector of the church, officiated. As the party entered the church the new organ, for the first time, pealed forth the strains of the “Lohengrin” wedding music. The bride wore a traveling costume of blue material and carried a prayerbook. She was given away by her brother, Andrew T. Smith. The groom was attended by his brother, Irving Swezey, as best man. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Swezey will be at home at the rectory at Collinville.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1903

Miss Pauline Elizabeth Smith of Girard avenue and Rev. Frederick Phillips Swezey, rector of Trinity Church, Collinville, were married at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Trinity Church, this city, Rev. E. de F. Miel, rector of the church, officiated. As the party entered the church the new organ, for the first time, pealed forth the strains of the “Lohengrin” wedding music. The bride wore a traveling costume of blue material and carried a prayerbook. She was given away by her brother, Andrew T. Smith. The groom was attended by his brother, Irving Swezey, as best man. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Swezey will be at home at the rectory at Collinville.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1903

Miss Pauline Elizabeth Smith of Girard avenue and Rev. Frederick Phillips Swezey, rector of Trinity Church, Collinville, were married at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Trinity Church, this city, Rev. E. de F. Miel, rector of the church, officiated. As the party entered the church the new organ, for the first time, pealed forth the strains of the “Lohengrin” wedding music. The bride wore a traveling costume of blue material and carried a prayerbook. She was given away by her brother, Andrew T. Smith. The groom was attended by his brother, Irving Swezey, as best man. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Swezey will be at home at the rectory at Collinville.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1903

Miss Pauline Elizabeth Smith of Girard avenue and Rev. Frederick Phillips Swezey, rector of Trinity Church, Collinville, were married at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Trinity Church, this city, Rev. E. de F. Miel, rector of the church, officiated. As the party entered the church the new organ, for the first time, pealed forth the strains of the “Lohengrin” wedding music. The bride wore a traveling costume of blue material and carried a prayerbook. She was given away by her brother, Andrew T. Smith. The groom was attended by his brother, Irving Swezey, as best man. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Swezey will be at home at the rectory at Collinville.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1903

Miss Pauline Elizabeth Smith of Girard avenue and Rev. Frederick Phillips Swezey, rector of Trinity Church, Collinville, were married at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Trinity Church, this city, Rev. E. de F. Miel, rector of the church, officiated. As the party entered the church the new organ, for the first time, pealed forth the strains of the “Lohengrin” wedding music. The bride wore a traveling costume of blue material and carried a prayerbook. She was given away by her brother, Andrew T. Smith. The groom was attended by his brother, Irving Swezey, as best man. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Swezey will be at home at the rectory at Collinville.

SEPTEMBER 23, 1903

Miss Pauline Elizabeth Smith of Girard avenue and Rev. Frederick Phillips Swezey, rector of Trinity Church, Collinville, were married at 10 o'clock yesterday morning at Trinity Church, this city, Rev. E. de F. Miel, rector of the church, officiated. As the party entered the church the new organ, for the first time, pealed forth the strains of the “Lohengrin” wedding music. The bride wore a traveling costume of blue material and carried a prayerbook. She was given away by her brother, Andrew T. Smith. The groom was attended by his brother, Irving Swezey, as best man. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Swezey will be at home at the rectory at Collinville.
Marriage of Norman W. Warren and Miss Abigail M. Merwin.
(Special to The Courant.)
Kensington, Sept. 17.

Miss Abigail M. Merwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Merwin, and Norman W. Warren, both of Kensington, were married at 6 o'clock this evening at the Congregational Church. Mrs. S. M. Cowles furnished music for the occasion, rendering these selections: Wedding music from Sylvia, by Delibes; "Brantsgesange," by Jenson; "Beauty's Eyes," by Tosti; "Entr'acte Gavotta de Mignon, by Thomas; "Bridal Chorus" from "The Rose Maiden," and "March to the Processional and recessional" the wedding march by Mendelssohn. I. Porter, jr., had charge of the decorations, and made the old church look like a temple for the occasion bybanking the pulpit, platform and whole front with evergreens, brightened by hydrangeas and bunching the same material on the ends of the seats. The pillars were hung with greenery and clematis and a large wedding bell of evergreen was suspended from the chandelier.

The ushers were R. Clifford Merwin of New Britain, Dr. William D. White of New York city, Donald Derrickson of Washington, D. C. and Irving Smith of Meriden. The bride's dress was of white satin, vailing over white taffeta, with white applique trimming and tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet. The bridesmaid was Miss Edith Ryman of Wilkesbarre, Pa., and her dress pink, flowered net over white taffeta. She carried pink Maid of Orleans roses. The best man was Howard Bissell of Hartford. The service was performed by Rev. A. Ferdinand Travis, pastor of the church.

After the service the bridal party was driven to the home of the bride's parents, where a reception was held. The house decorations were autumn leaves and flowers. The Misses Ed Wilkesbarre, J. Charles Newton Morris of Bridgeport, Merwin of Wilkesbarre, and Miss Josephine Burlingame of Woodbury, Conn., and Mrs. Amesbury, Mass. Mr. Morris is a son of Collins of the late Rev. M. N. Morris of West. Upton, the Hartford, and is an alumnus of Yale and Richard I. Harriet Merwin University and Berkeley Divinity School. He was for some time assistant manager of Collins. He was for some time assistant to St. Luke's in Brooklyn, N. Y., and has for some months been supply pastor of Plainville. After a week attending the pulpit of Christ Church, Judge and Mrs. Roswell Atkins of Bridgeport.

GOLDEN WEDDING.

Judge and Mrs. Roswell Atkins to Bristol Celebrate Anniversary.
(Special to The Courant.)
Bristol, Sept. 25.

Judge and Mrs. Roswell Atkins today celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage and received at their home on West street a large number of their many friends in the town. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion, but the affair was of an informal nature. The guests who had received some fine presents, some of them coming from the West. Judge and Mrs. Atkins were married in Bristol by Rev. Mr. Fitch, then pastor of Trinity Church, and have lived here since the exception of two years that they were in Southington.

Judge Atkins was born in Bristol, September 24, 1854, the son of Lloyd and Charity (Crampton) Atkins. When 18 years of age he went to the Connecticut Literary Institute at Suffield, where he took the course in mathematics and kindred studies. Devoted to mechanics he commenced soon after leaving the school to the trade of cutting table cutlery, but soon gave that up as the industry waned. Then he commenced to learn the trade of making clocks. In the spring of 1846 he entered the works of L. Atkins & Co., manufacturers of saws and clocks, and was with them for many years. With the exception of the two years in Southington, Judge Atkins was with them until 1881. For a long period he had charge of the clock movement department. Leaving the Atkins company in 1881 he entered into partnership with the late John Winslow and associates, and the firm lasted three years, when Judge Atkins took up surveying. Since that time he has been a well known civil engineer and is the best informed man in the ancient history of the place. Judge Atkins was actively connected with the fire department from 1862 to 1893, when he resigned. He was a fire commissioner. He united with the Baptist Church in October, 1841. He was master of the Frankfort Lodge Masons over thirty years ago. He is a member of the Connecticut Historical Society, the Connecticut Masonic Association, the Connecticut Historical Association; treasurer and clerk for many years of School District No. 3; clerk of the West Cemetery Association, and has been town treasurer. In 1892 Judge Atkins was elected judge of probate and held the office two years. He has not held political office since.

Mrs. Atkins was born in Duncansville, Pa., February 26, 1835, daughter of Asael and Julia Bushnell Barnum. She remained there until she was 18 years old, when her family removed to New York state. Later she went to Watertown, where she lived until her marriage. Two children have been born to the couple, Dr. Lloyd Roswell Atkins, born in 1866, graduated from the Connecticut Literary Institute and later the Hahnemann College and Hospital at Chicago, and was appointed house physician at the Connecticut Homeopathic Hospital, Brooklyn. He has been in general practice for some time. Amelia Atkins was born in 1857, is a graduate of Michigan University and the medical department of the same university and has practiced at Westfield, Mass. Later she married Dr. Nathaniel C. Whitfield of Rapid City, Mich., and she now lives at Hot Springs, South Dakota. She is an author and has published several books.

The Hartford Times.

SEPTEMBER 24, 1903.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1903.

John L. Denison of No. 22 Huntington street celebrated the 77th anniversary of his birth Saturday. Many friends called during the day and evening. His sister, Mrs. Benjamin Burrows of Mystic, was present, and will spend a few weeks with her brother.